But to the victors go the spoils and the rampaging Diesels, off-color, swept through to their sixth straight victory in the Senior "B" loop. We understand there is something brewing down Kingston way, and from what our operator tells us it is not funny. Seems as though the Kingston Aces, hopelessly out of the race, are about to dissolve and some of their players are turning over to other teams still in the running. So what! What's all the dither about? Let 'em do it. It's the old, old story of the teams down that way doing their damndest to eke out a win come hell or high water. In our opinion, a Belleville team for once can take the best they've got. Statistics prove it. Maybe playoffs won't.

Bill Hastie, star of the Gananoque team and who always was, and still is, a square shooter told us last night that the Gan. team will definitely go on into the Intermediate "A" playdowns unless they finish atop of the Senior "B" loop. This, said Bill, was decided at a meeting of the sub-committee of the OHA a short time ago. Originally, according to convener and since OHA executive member Lorne Cook, the two Intermediate "A" entries, Gananoque and Queens, would battle it out for Intermediate honors providing one or the other did not end up in group playoffs. That is if either team finished in the top four position they would be regarded as Senior "B" material and as such go on down.

But now, Bill informs us, the Gan. team will go into Intermediate "A" playdowns, presuming of course, they nudge the Queen's entry for the top slot in their respective positions in the group and do not win the Senior "B" group title.

In any event the Diesels' management claims that they are not satisfied with what is going on down Kingston way.; It seems the Aces, etc., are folding up and, as was said before, some of their players are being drafted to strengthen other Kingston teams. Ho hum . . . 'twas always thus.

Just what is going on? Is it sour grapes? The CNR Diesels, perhaps one of the best senior teams to come out of this village, have swept aside everything Kingston has to offer. After all, six straight victories would substantiate that statement. As one Kingston manager remarked here the other night, "Okay chum, you're not at full strength. We'll beat you tonight, tomorrow night, or even on Sunday when you're at full strength. Wanna bet?"

Reaching in the family jeans we dug out the week's salary and decided to take the bet. So he covered the two bucks — and we went home with four. The score? 10-1. We should have bet him two bits a hole. But he's not a golfer. Our Diesels made so many holes in one night that we had visions of buying an adding machine.

But a word of warning. The Diesels may win the group championship. That is an honor in itself. But the pay-off comes in the playoffs. The teams that Diesels beat by ten figures may be horses of a different color when it comes to the point when the playoff chips are down. Many a lower team has risen to the heights when the final series are played. The teams that have taken the rap, may take the playoff wrap. Don't forget that.

After all, the main honor and glory won in schedule combat victories lies in the ultimate goal, a spot in the play-off sun and a chance to bring provincial titular honors here. Any team is glorious in defeat as it is exultant in victory. Diesels have not yet met defeat. We sincerely hope that this fact won't result in inflated craniums. Many a team has gone down to disaster through that reason. We think from past performances that we have a good Senior "B" team here. Someone said last night, we think it was a Gan. player, "that the Diesels couldn't get beyond Shannonville." Okay, you laugh, too. He probably meant in a search for a bottle of suds.

Power Boats To Race in City On July 13th

Toronto, Feb. 8 — (CP)—Power boating has claimed a spot in the field of Canadian sport.

The Ontario and Quebec region of the American Power Boat Association met during the weekend and formed the Boating Union of Canada, designed to take over the Canadian director of speed boat racing.

The union, which will affiliate with the A. P. B. A., will ultimately break power boating into three divisions — yachting, racing and trade. Formerly, western Canada operated under United States regional body while Ontario and Quebec was a separate region of the A. P. B. A.

The weekend meeting also elected the union's first officers. They include: Reg. Sparks, Gravenhurst, Ont., Commodore; Al Lamport, Toronto, Vice-Commodore; Jack Langmuir, Brockville, Treasurer; Bob Shelling, Fort Erie, Ont., director of outboard racing.

The following racing dates were set for 1949:

Cornwall, July 1; Windsor, July 9; Belleville, July 13; Brockville, July 16; Valleyfield, Que., July 23-24; Huntsville, July 27; Gravenhurt, July 28; Hamilton, July 30; Picton, (inboards), Aug. 1; Rideau Ferry, Ont., (outboards), Aug. 6;; Gananoque, Sept. 3 and 5; Toronto Canadian National Exhibition, Sept. 7-10.

Halifax, Feb. 8 — (CP)—They are going to build a new school at Weymouth Falls, N. S., and if the kids get into a few fistic scraps perhaps the reason will be on the building's front door.

The school is to be a memorial to Sam Langford, "the Boston tar baby," a native of Weymouth Falls, described by Alex (Halifax Chronicle - Herald) Nickerson as "one of the greatest heavyweights of all time."

Langford retired 20 years ago and has been totally blind for several years.

When Langford retired, writes Nick, "he left behind him a reputation greater even than that of the man who so consistently refused to fight him for the championship — Jack Johnson."

Writes Nick:

"Sam Langford was born in Weymouth Falls, but he got little education there for the school facilities were meagre. What could be more fitting than a school built to give the children of Weymouth Falls a better education than he was able to get."

Born March 4, 1886, Langford started boxing when he was 16.

Loses Decision

In 1906 a Canadian, Tommy Burns, was heavyweight champion but Jack Johnson was recognized as uncrowned title-holder.

Unable to get a match with Burns, Johnson consented to meet Langford.

Says Nick: "It was one of the great fights of all time. To the finish neither fighter would give an inch. At the end of 15 rounds Johnson won what in those days was known as a 'newspaper decision.' "

Three Netminders Have Chance To Win Vezina Trophy

Montreal, Feb. 8 — (CP) — While Chicago's punch duo of Doug Bentley and Roy Conacher continue to make a runaway of the National Hockey League scoring race, the scrap for the Vezina Trophy has developed into a wide open affair with three netminders having an even chance to capture the cup and $1,000 that goes with it.

Official statistics released today show Bentley and Conacher with 51 and 49 points respectively. In third spot with 40 is Detroit's Sid Abel, while Jim Conacher of Chicago and Billy Reay of Montreal are tied for fourth with 37 each.

Goalie Chuck Rayner, who has been hot as a firecracker in New York's recent games, leads the way in the battle for the Vezina, which goes to the goalkeeper who has played the most games for the team with least goals scored against it. But by virtue of their teams having played more games than Rayner, both Bill Durnan of Montreal and Detroit's Harry Lumley are in just as good a spot as the Ranger cage custodian.

Canadiens have had 108 goals scored against them in 44 games and Detroit 109 in 45 games. Depending on which way you look at it, any one of the three goalies figures to have the best chance. But because Detroit has played one more game than Canadiens, and three more than Rangers, Lumley is top man on a percentage basis.

Lumley's goals against average is 2.42, Durnan's 2.45 and Rayner's 2.52. Of the 105 goals scored against New York, four were against Emile (The Cat) Francis who filled in for Rayner in two fixtures.

Getting back to the marksmen, Abel is tops in goals with 20 while Doug Bentley heads the assists column with 32.

Wild Bill Ezinicki of Toronto upped his penalty time by 13 minutes during the week and still leads with 116. Canadiens are the most penalized team with 554 minutes, Rangers the least with 280.

$40,000 Jackpot For Loop Teams To Shoot At

Minneapolis, Feb. 8. (AP)—Directors of the United States Hockey League today set up a $40,000 jackpot for the annual playoff series, to start March 22. Season play ends March 20.

Under revised regulations, the winners in both Northern and Southern Divisions will collect $3,500 apiece and draw byes in the start of post-season play. The second and third place clubs will start the series, with the winners of two out of three contests getting $3,000 and the losers $2,500 in each division.

A second best-of-three series in each division will throw the Northern and Southern seasonal winners against the two teams surviving the first-round playoff, with prizes again $3,000-$2,500.

The finale will find the survivors from the two divisional playoffs contesting in a best-of-seven series, the winner to get $8,000 and the second team $5,000.

In approving the plan, directors pointed out that a first-place team going through to the finale without defeat would collect a total of $12,500, or some $800 a player.

First games in the playoffs are slated for the rinks of third-place teams, with second and third contests, if necessary, being played in home cities of the second-placers.

Ezzard Charles Took J. Haynes In Eight Rounds

Philadelphia, Feb. 8 — (AP) — Ezzard Charles looked forward today to a possible June title match with Joe Louis, and back to a close shave against 214-pound Johnny Haynes of New York.

Charles, 179-pound Cincinnatian, had one of the narrowest escapes of his ring career Monday night in beating Haynes via a knockout at 2:38 of the eight furious round in their scheduled 10-rounder.

Charles converted his speed and bounce into victory with a right uppercut that knocked Haynes flat on his back. Haynes got to one knee at eight but stayed there as he was counted out.

A minute before, Haynes had been bombarding Charles across the ring with a series of slashing rights to the head. It appeared that Charles was on the way to defeat.

But Charles had too much ring knew - how for that and marshalled his strength for the one blow that won the fight.

Renewed Interest In Figure Skating Shown in Capital

Ottawa, Feb. 8 (CP)—Renewed interest in figure skating is being shown in the capital as entries pile in for the Canadian figure skating championships Feb. 18-19 when a successor to Barbara Ann Scott will be crowned.

Charles H. Cumming, Secretary of the Canadian Figure Skating Association, Monday reported the biggest entry in the 38-year history of the championships. A record total of 19 girls are entered for the junior ladies event.

The junior men's event has nine entries and there are 11 contenders for the senior women's title, as well as five for the senior men. There are three entries for senior pairs.

Some of the leading contenders for the title which Miss Scott abandoned to turn professional are Jeanne Matthews, 19, of Vancouver; Suzanne Morrow, 18, of Toronto and Marlene Smith, 17, of Niagara Falls, Ont.

Miss Matthews who started skating seven years ago on rented blades, is the western Canada champion and finished second best to Barbara Ann in the Canadian championships at Calgary last year.

Blonde Miss Smith will skate as a Toronto Skating Club entry. She placed third in the senior championships last year and annexed the junior title at the same time.

Considerable interest is attached to Suzanne Morrow's chances. This blonde Canadian skater concentrated on pairs until her partner, Wally Diestelmeyer of Kitchener, turned pro. Since then she has decided to concentrate on singles only, and for the last three months has been cutting figures around Lake Placid, N.Y., in preparation for the championships at the Minto Club here next week.

Brandon Junior Squad Assured Of Playoff Spot

Winnipeg, Feb. 8 (CP)—With Brandon Wheat Kings and Winnipeg Canadiens already assured of playoff berths in the Manitoba Junior Hockey League, the battle for the third and final spot holds the spotlight. The outcome may be in doubt right down to the final league game.

Winnipeg Monarches, defending Manitoba champions and currently in third place, are three points ahead of Winnipeg Black Hawks. And with each club having two games left to play, the situation now is that a Monarch victory or a Hawk defeat would put the regal crew "in."

Aside from the close battle between the third and fourth-place clubs, the only other highlights of play during the last two weeks were Brandon's two straight defeats after winning 20 consecutive league contests.

The Lakehead junior circuit, with its four teams—two from Port Arthur and two from Fort William—has developed into a two-team battle. The defending Canadian champions, Port Arthur Bruins, have begun to hit their stride and are threatening to pull away from the flock.

The second place Fort William Canadiens, down four points, are the only club within easy striking distance of the Bruins. Port Arthur juniors are in third spot, four points behind Canadiens, with the hapless Fort William Rangers two points back in fourth position.

On the three-team Manitoba-Thunder Bay senior loop, Port Arthur Bearcats also are threatening to run away with first place. The Cats have a comfortable six-point margin over Winnipeg Nationals. Kenora Thistles are far back.

However, the outcome of the league has no bearing on Allan Cup play as the teams revert back to their respective branches for the playoffs. Port Arthur and Kenora will play off for the Lakehead title, with the winner meeting Fort Frances Canadians for the Thunder Bay championship. The Bay titleholders take on Winnipeg in inter-provincial play.

HYDRO POLICY

He was chosen as leader and premier in succession to George Drew who moved up to the national leadership of the Progressive Conservative party. But Premier Kennedy has stated his leadership will be only temporary and that he will not be a candidate when Ontario Progressive Conservatives hold their leadership convention April 25-27.

Caucus Called

Premier Kennedy heads 52 Progressive Conservatives in the 90-member House, 14 less than in the last legislature. He has called a caucus for tomorrow in preparation for the opening.

The C.C.F., with 22 members compared to eight in the last House, takes over from the Liberals as the official opposition. E. B. Jolliffe, the party's Ontario leader, returns to the House after his defeat in the 1945 election. He has called a caucus for today to discuss C.C.F. policy.

The Liberals, who also plan a pre-season caucus to map strategy muster 14 members under Farquhar Oliver, provincial leader. One of the 14 is a Liberal-Labor member, J. M. Newman, Rainy River. The Liberals held 11 seats in the last legislature.

Without an Office

The two Labor-Progessive members—A. A. MacLeod (Toronto-Bellwoods) and J. B. Salsberg (Toronto-St. Andrew)—have been separated in the legislature seating plan from the C.C.F. forces —by a specially-constructed aisle. They are without an office. Their quarters have been taken over by the expanding province of Ontario Savings Office and officials are scouring the legislature building for suitable accommodation for them.

One vacancy completes the roster. This was caused by the death Oct. 6 of John Carrere, Progressive Conservative member for Cochrane South. A by-election is expected in the spring.

Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson will open the session Thursday. His honor guard is drawn from the 48th Highlanders of Canada. The 29th Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, will fire a 15-gun salute. After comparatively informal opening ceremonies, and the reading of the Speech from the Throne, the first session of the 23rd legislature will buckle down to business.

AFTER CHAMPIONSHIP — Blonde Suzanne (Susie) Morrow, 18-year-old Toronto figure skater, shown practising at Lake Placid, N.Y., is tipped as a threat for the Canadian singles senior championship to be held in Ottawa Feb. 18-19. Miss Morrow teamed with Wally Distelmeyer of Kitchener, Ont., now a professional, to gain third place in the pairs in the Olympic and world championships in Switzerland last February.—(CP Photo).

The Kibitzer

Slam bidding can not be made as sure as death and taxes. This is no reason why you should neglect to use the safest now available. It is none other than The Kibitzer convention.

Blackwood is a set of changes in The Kibitzer replies. In some respects they are similar. In others the difference is important. Comparison should determine which is best.

The Blackwood bids four no-trump to ask partner how many aces he has. All bids of five in reply tell the number of aces. Nothing in these replies of five tell about kings.

Then a bid of five no-trump asks partner how many kings he has. Thus, to learn about kings they must be in a bid of six. Even if it is finally decided they should have stopped at five.

The Kibitzer four no-trump asks partner how many aces and kings he has. With one ace, partner tells also how many kings he has with a bid of five. So, kings are revealed before reaching six.

Study this pair of partnership hands:

SOUTH
♠A J 10 5
♥K Q J 10 7
♦A K

♥9 8 6 4 3
♦J
♣A K J 8

With a Blackwood pair, south finally gets around to bidding four no-trump. North replies five diamonds to show one ace. South then bids five no-trump to ask partner how many kings he holds.

The reply from north is six diamonds. This is convention answer for showing one king. By this time it is necessary to bid small slam in hearts. And the bid of six will not make.

Using The Kibitzer to four no-trump north replies five hearts to show one ace and one king. Lacking two kings, south learns there is no slam and can end the contract at five hearts.

Too often safety depends on learning of kings in time to stop at five, if necessary. The Kibitzer and not Blackwood can do this. Or I'm a monkey's uncle. And don't say I look it.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 8 — (AP) — Sometimes I think this is getting to be a European travel column. Take a look at today's items:

Robert Cummings will leave in May for at least eight months in Europe. He will perform in "Password to Love" in France, and may do a picture in Italy and another in Sweden.

Al Jolson shoves off for a European trip with his wife after his last broadcast in June. It will be mostly pleasure, but he'll make some charity appearances.

Dorothy Lamour plays the Palladium in London starting Aug. 15. Afterwards, she'll tour the Continent. Cornel Wilde leaves next week for a picture in Switzerland, and Ray Milland is planning an overseas trip for his whole family.

Tyrone Power will stay abroad to make "The Black Rose." And Vic Mature is reading the script of "Paradise Lost, 1949," which is planned for shooting in Italy.

Slim Pickings

Meanwhile, the cry arises, why don't the studios keep their stars home and put them to work? Today there are 18 pictures shooting in Hollywood. That's pretty slim pickings, compared with 33 a year ago.

One ray of light in the situation comes from Laraine Day. She's interested in the film version of "The Middle Window," but she doesn't like the idea of going abroad to make it.

"I feel it is unfair to the workers in the industry," she says. "Things are bad enough for them, without making pictures out of the country. It's the technical workers who made the industry, and they're the ones who are caught in the squeeze. Stars can get caught, too."

Reducing Formula

Red Skelton dropped more than 20 pounds and looks better than he has in years. His reducing formula: stop worrying.

Donald O'Connor will be a busy lad between now and June. He's finishing up "Yes, Sir, That's My Baby," and will do "Curtain Call at Cactus Creek" and "Son of Robin Hood" in quick succession. Each picture requires two weeks of dance rehearsals.

"SIZZLE" KING ON CANADIAN CAVALCADE

ELMER WHEELER, expert on selling with words, and the man who put the "sizzle" in steak, will be interviewed.

LUNENBURG HERO Capt. Orlando Lace, who saved 7-man crew by swimming ashore with line, will be interviewed from Halifax.

BERNARD JOHNSON, Hamilton baritone, will singe "Surrey with the Fringe on Top" and "That Great Come and Get it Day."

MART KENNEY and the orchestra present "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and a Cole Porter medley of "You Do Something to Me", "Don't Fence Me In" and "I've Got You Under My Skin."

Coroner's Jury Cannot Determine Cause of Crash

Toronto, Feb. 8 — (CP)—After nearly three hours of testimony from 18 witnesses, a coroner's jury Monday was unable to determine the cause of the streetcar - motorbus collision which took seven lives and injured 47 others Nov. 6.

The accident occurred when a suburban streetcar collided head-on with a special bus carrying a load of passengers to Hamilton after a regimental dance at a night club on Toronto's western outskirts.

The five-man coroner's jury exonerated Frank Lowe, driver of the bus and one of those who died in the crash. Police testimony however was that there was no doubt the bus was far from its own side of the road. At the point of impact the bus was 18 feet off its proper course.

Chief Coroner Smirle Lawson said: "The only explanation I can think of is that his (Rowe's) attention must have been diverted elsewhere. Some one might have been talking to him."

Rowe's widow was in the courtroom while several witnesses testified to his good record and commended his conduct.

One of the injured passengers, Bernice Conrad, said that the brakes were not applied on the bus. She knew that because "they are air compressor brakes and make quite a noise." Other testimony was that the streetcar operator had time to lock his brakes, sound his warning bell and open both exits before the crash.

The verdict said "We believe the accident was purely accidental with possible contributory factors being the wet condition of the highway, a rainy night and a curve on the highway."

AT THE BELLE — Burt Lancaster and Barbara Stanwyck have starring roles in Paramount's film version of the radio thriller, "Sorry, Wrong Number," featuring Ann Richards and Wendell Corey, continuing at the Belle Theate tonight and Wednesday.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was running home partly out of breth, and I heard somebody running back of me, saying, High, Benny.

Being Puds Simkins, and I said, High.

Are you running for the same reason I am? he said, and I said, I'm running on account of being late for supper.

That's the reason all rite, Puds said.

And we kept on running and talking, me saying, If we both belonged to the same family, we could go in blaming it on each other, but the trubble is, we each only got ourself to blame.

Yeh, that's the trubble, Puds said. Good nite, all my excuses are so worn out they've probably got moth holes in them, he said, and I said, Mine are so old they've got crutches and whiskers.

Well hay, I've got a idea, Puds said. We'll just tell the truth. We'll both say we met each other on the way home, and we'll each say the other one waisted a lot of time bragging about how bum his excuses were, and the next thing we knew we were late, he said, and I said, Oh boy, sure, and we can even call each other up on the telefone to prove it is case of an argument.

Sure, I'll be your witniss if you'll be mine, Puds said.

And he went in his house and I went in mine, and the more I thawt of Puds, idea for a excuse the bummer it seemed, so I just sat down without any excuse, and pop and ma were so intristed in their own conversation they didn't even have time to ask me for one.

Making me feel lucky and proving it's a good thing that other people dont always think you're as important as you seem to yourself.

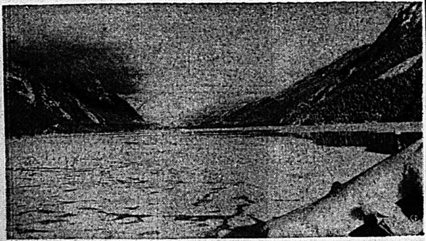
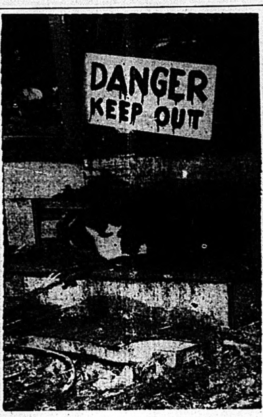
ALL QUIET ON THE AVON—This snow-shrouded cannon is no defence weapon although it is mounted to guard stone ramparts. It is one of the ancient guns from the Crimean war around which generations of Stratford, Ont., children have played. Its harmless muzzle points to the Avon River, beauty centre of the city.—(CP Photo).

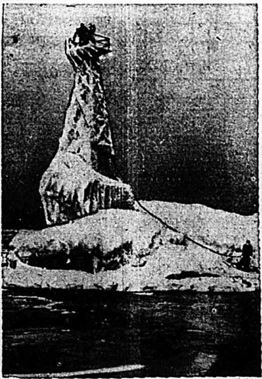


WHERE SNOW IS DEEP — An exceptionally heavy fall of snow on the west coast isolated many areas and made transportation difficult to most centres. Snow 23 feet deep fell at the mining centre of Stewart at the head of Portland Canal in northern British Columbia. This photo shows snow accumulated on the roof of a church at Stewart.—(CP Pohto).

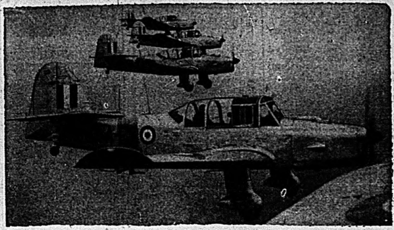
PRIME MINISTER, WIFE IN WELLAND, ONT.—Huge crowds greeted Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and Mrs. St. Laurent as they leave Sacred Heart Church in Welland, Ont., following Sunday morning Mass. It was the third time a prime minister paid a visit to Welland. The other two premier visitors, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, 1898, and Sir John A. Macdonald, 1888. —(CPC).



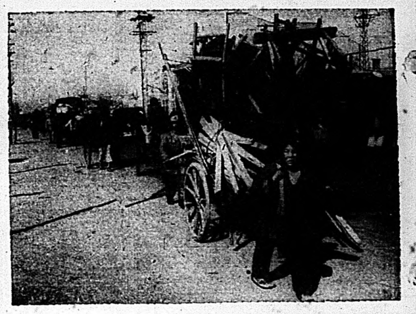
Her home a shambles, Blackie refuses to move from the fire-gutted building at Weston formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Van Raalt. One of the tenants, Mrs. Harry Butler, died Saturday from injuries received when she dashed back inside to retrieve a purse. The Van Raalts escaped unharmed. The frame house was a total loss. Fire started in the kitchen.—(Globe and Mail).



U.S. Coast Guardsmen hack through a thick wall of ice obscuring a navigation light at entrance of Muskegon, Michigan, harbour. Tons of ice piled on the 33-foot tower.

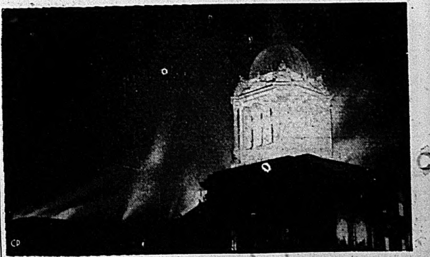


INSTRUCTIONAL FLIGHT TRAINING FOR AIR CADETS—The Royal Canadian Air Force is not alone in its drive for recruits. Britain's Royal Air Force is training new entrants who must first of all be acquainted with the basic trainer, which instructs them in the technique of taking off, actual flying and landing efficiently. A formation of basic trainer aircraft manned by R.A.F. cadets during instructional flight training is shown above.—(CPC).



Caught between the Nationalist armies pouring into the city for a last ditch defence and the rapidly advancing communist forces, the citizens of Nanking (above) are creating scenes of indescribable confusion as they attempt to leave the city and carry their household belongings out of the reach of possible shell damage.—(CPC).

A collector of clocks since childhood, Elmore Henning of Milverton now has 50, all in working condition, on walls of his home. Some of the timepieces date back more than 100 years. Mr. Henning is shown at a lathe he uses to repair his collection—(C.P.)



WINTER ILLUSION—Fire engines, police cars and reporters raced to Manitoba's legislative building in Winnipeg when passers-by thought they saw smoke and flames billowing from the roof. Arrival of the firemen revealed the fire effect was caused by steam illuminated by floodlights which light the dome of the building.—(CP Photo).

Whisper In The Night

BY MARIE BLIZARD

"Yes, I think it'll be rather jolly. You might wear something over your bathing togs. I know an attractive little spot we could bicycle to. We might cook our supper on the beach. I've been rather looking forward to it."

Rosalie wanted to say he'd taken his time about it. She said, "I'm not sure, Cecil, but I think I could do that. Plans seem rather rushed here. I've been here only a day and already I've engagements for tea and tonight I'm going to Hamilton to a dance. Most everyone seems to be going. Are you?"

What a foolish girl she was to rush at him that way. As if she were saying that she expected, having told her he wanted her to come to Somerset, that he would want to be her beau. She wished, even as she were saying it, that she had not said it.

"I don't know, Rosalie. If Angela doesn't . . . you see, my time isn't my own. I'm attached to the Rutherford household in a manner of speaking. I'm here to tutor young charles. But I'll try to get over and have a dance with you."

"Don't bother . . . call me at lunch. I'll know then if I can picnic with you. Have a good game."

She turned away abruptly and struck out for the raft. If she had seen the expression on his face, she would have returned and said, "I'm sorry, Cecil."

Grey blue veils of smoke hovered lowly over the closely placed tables crowded about the dance floor at the Queen Hotel. A line of stage filled most of the floor making dancing difficult. The music drowned all efforts at sustained conversation, but for all the noise and all the smoke it was the gayest scene Rosalie Bates had ever enjoyed.

Georgie Frame's round eyes beamed at her from under a perspiring brow. "Listen, gal, I'm a patient man. I've been trying to talk to you all evening. And what happens? We get up to dance take two steps, and one of these rah-rah boys yanks you out of my arms. This is positively the last time I ever go out with a beauty."

Rosalie rewarded him with her sweetest smile and made a move as if to get up.

He sighed. "Sit down, Rosalie. I suppose you are fed up with compliments. Let's start over again. Tell me all about yourself."

"Don't you know that you are stealing my lines?"

"That's easy. Names is George Hancock Frame. Residence, 788 Ponce de Leon avenue, Atlanta. Business, bonds. Talents, good listener. Age, twenty-six and unmarried. Now tell me about Rosalie Bates. Ever been married?"

"Four times and always widowed."

"Story-teller! "Engaged?"

"Always."

"Business girl?"

"Yes. I'm an international spy."

Rosalie forgot her banter with Frame. She saw Cecil Ramsley. He was not alone. Preceding him and obviously in his party was a lovely, slim blonde girl, a man about thirty, and a slim, sleek oldish woman. Through the veils of smoke, Rosalie could see the petulance on the girl's face as she sought a table. She could also see that Cecil's glance swept the room inquiringly, and a warm feeling of satisfaction came over her.

Rosalie said, at once, "Let's dance, Georgie. I particularly like this piece."

It was not easy to appear absorbed in the dance when Georgie's round figure made grace difficult, but Rosalie was determined to be a picture of a girl having a wonderful time whose last thought would be that she was expecting another man to turn up to look for her. They were jostled about the floor three times before Rosalie saw Cecil dancing with the blonde girl, his eyes still searching the room.

She said to George, "There's a friend of mine," and called out, "Hello, there!"

Cecil called back, "Hi!" and swung his partner to where had stopped. He said, "Angela, this is Rosalie. Miss Bates, Miss Rutherford."

Rosalie introduced George. The blonde girl merely inclined her head to acknowledge the introduction.

The music started again. "May I?" George asked the blonde girl.

"We don't want to dance, Rosalie." Cecil's hand on Rosalie's arm was urging her away from the dance floor toward the open porch. "The air's beastly in here. Besides I want to talk to you."

"But won't the others think..."

"Never worry about the others. Angela's got Tubby, and Mrs. Rutherford can jolly well entertain herself as long as she has your rotund friend."

"He is rotund, but he is very nice," Rosalie answered primly. Then she forgot to be prim, or to wonder who the Rutherfords were. The beauty of the night enveloped her. Back of them the music was muted by distance and everything around them was soft — the lights of the boats in the harbor, the voices, the laughter.

Cecil tucked his arm in hers. "Why were you angry with me this afternoon?"

Rosalie looked up at the stars. "It's hard to remember now, Cecil. There must be something about Bermuda that's spiritual One can't feel anything but soft and pleasant and happy in the midst of such beauty."

"You are evading me, aren't you?"

"Yes . . in a way, Cecil. It's because I'm ashamed of myself. I was feeling . . . well, neglected. You see you did say that you . . . you needed me in Somerset. That's why I went over. Then you . . . you didn't even come to see me until yesterday."

Welfare of Man Top Priority In Free Nations

—Rt. Hon. W. L. M. King

Ottawa, Feb. 8 — (CP) — Former Prime Minister Mackenzie King predicted Monday that from now on the welfare of man will get top priority in the free parliaments of the world.

"There has been much talk in the past of the importance of natural resources and their conservation," he writes in a feature article in the 25th anniversary edition of Canadian Welfare.

"Only recently has it come to be realized that of all resources, human resources are most important."

Writing his first magazine article since he resigned the prime mnistership last November, the 74-year-old Commons member for Glengarry, tells of a "new social order."

"The new social order seeks to recognize industry as a public service rather than as a private business, and to stress community well-being rather than individual self-interest.

Emphasis on Welfare

"In the modern state, and especially in free parliaments and other democratic assemblies, the emphasis from now on is certain to be placed more and more upon matters which affect human well-being."

Turning back the pages of history, the staunch Liberal who held the prime ministership for 21 years — a Commonwealth record — notes that "since the first issue of Canadian Welfare appeared 25 years ago, there have been sweeping changes in conditions throughout the world."

There was a growing feeling, he says, "that the state, which made possible the growth and expansion of industry, had a responsibility for helping to meet the social and human problems to which it had given rise."

Now, scientific developments, "in particular the release of atomic energy have placed at the disposition of man a means of great human betterment."

"Discoveries of Destruction"

But Mr. King warns too that "many of these discoveries may equally be a means of human destruction."

"Yet, the world is wholly in the dark as to which of the conflicting forces now at work is to prevail."

"There is but one sure way of making the right prevail," Mr. King says. "The state must recognize it also has a part to play. A part in furthering social justice much more definite than it has taken in the past."

SAM CARR, WIFE WILL BE DEPORTED FROM U.S.

Keays Tells Inquiry Officer Submitted False Report

Provincial Constable J. E. Keays today accused a fellow officer of submitting a false accident report which resulted in the dismissal of drunk driving charge.

He made the accusation against Constable G. R. Purdy in testimony before a Royal Commission investigating Keays' allegations of maladministration of justice.

Keays charged Purdy made the false report at the request of Cpl. Sam Ervine, one of seven Provincial officers named in Keays' allegations.

Keays, 12 years on the Provincial Police force, said Ervine boasted that he had influential friends among high-ranking officers.

Third Day of Hearing

Keays for the third consecutive day today levelled charges at B. C. Donnan, Crown Attorney and seven Provincial Police officers as the Royal Commission hearing being held before Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay, was transferred to the Hastings County Court rooms.

In his charges, Keays named Crown Attorney Donnan, Ervine, Commissioner Stringer, Inspector Page, and four other police officers: Inspector T. W. Cousans, Sergeant J. A. Stringer, and Constables G. R. Purdy and J. B. Driscoll.

For the past two days the investigation into charges of perjury, interference and maladministration of justice directed by the constable have been heard in Shire Hall waiting for the spring assizes to be concluded in the main court room.

Monday Keays read a lengthy 17-page report which he made last Oct. 30 to Provincial Police Commissioner W. H. Stringer when he asked for his resignation.

Listed Charges

In it he levelled charges of obstruction against B. C. Donnan, crown attorney, and of false statements and failure to carry out duties on the part of seven provincial police officers.

Named were Provincial Police Commissioner W. H. Stringer, Inspector Cousans of Perth, Inspector W. A. Page, Belleville, Sgt. J. A. Stringer, Ottawa, Cpl. Sam Ervine and Constables G. Purdy and J. B. Driscoll, all of Belleville. Also named was Miss Dorothy Dowdell, police stenographer.

Monday Keays charged Sgt. Stringer with giving a false report in connection with the shooting of John Miki.

Sgt. Stringer reported, Keays said, that Miki had been killed in a gun fight in which several shots were fired. Keays said only one shot had been fired.

Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan was charged with implication in a fraud with E. M. Carefoot and of obstructing Keays in his investigation of Mr. Carefoot, and also of threats should he implicate Mr. Donnan in the Carefoot matter.

Wednesday morning Keays reviewed evidence given against Sgt. Stringer and B. C. Donnan and then continued evidence against Cpl. Ervine whom he had charged with perjury and with interference in police investigations.

With reference to interference by B. C. Donnan and Cpl. Ervine, Keays told of a fatality resulting from a traffic accident. The accused had a sample of blood taken by doctors. Evidence as to this blood sample was never produced in court.

Was Intoxicated

During the trial of Ralph Turner, Coe Hill, charged with a moral offence, Keays said Crown Attorney Donnan appeared at the trial in an intoxicated condition. Several youthful Crown witnesses were at mercy of defence counsel during cross examination while Mr. Donnan went into the hall to have libations.

Keays also referred to a flying accident occurring in Thurlow township on June 29, 1947, in which David Stuart had been fatally injured. The Department had requested an inquest looking into the death but Mr. Donnan had advised "Let the Department look after it."

In May, 1947, in the matter of arson charges against Fred Martin, Keays charged that again Mr. Donnan interferred in the investigation.

Martin had been sent to an institution and several months later had been released. Grounds were sufficient in the Martin case for a charge of attempted murder as three lives had been endangered as result of the fire, Keays said.

Again in the case of the death of Miss Jean Badgely at Frankford in Nov. 1947 Keays charged interference on the part of Mr. Donnan.

He had obtained different statements from the boy friend of the girl that he had not touched the gun found by the girl's side. A thumb print of the man had been found on the gun, but this fact was not brought out at the inquest.

"When I was questioning this man Mr. Donnan called me and asked what I was doing questioning this man as he comes from a good family."

"Only Doing His Duty"

"I replied that the girl also came from a good family; that I was only doing my duty."

At the request of Mr. Donnan investigation of the matter was turned over to the Criminal Investigation Department.

At the inquest Mr. Donnan had told Keays to "forget the thumb print on the gun." On the stand at the inquest the boyfriend of the dead girl ha admitted he "might" have touched the gun.

(Verdict of the coroner's jury was that Miss Badgley had come to death at her own hand.)

Keays told of the lack of courtesy and efficiency which was evident at the Belleville district police headquarters following the return of Constable Ervine from army duty.

Tells of Behavior

Commenting on behavior unbecoming to a police officer Keays told of Cpl. Ervine returning drunk to provincial police headquarters following a regatta in July, 1947.

"Later in talking with Cpl. Ervine I learned the reason for the dissention in the force," went on Keays. "Cpl. Ervine said that Keays was a good cop but did not know how to play with the right guys."

"You might be the best cop but I am the best man in Highway Department work in Ontario," Cpl. Ervine was quoted as saying.

Here Constable Keays returned to the charges of perjury against Cpl. Ervine in connection with the Leroy Woods traffic accident on November 4th, 1947.

Constable Purdy had assisted him in making the investigation into the accident and he instructed this officer to prefer charges of drunk driving and of dangerous driving against Woods.

Keays asked for Constable Purdy's report of Nov. 12 and Nov. 18, on the accident. The report of Nov. 18 was produced by the Commission counsel and also an uncompleted and unsigned report of Nov. 12.

He said that Col. Roscoe Vanderwater of Sidney Township, had made representation on behalf of Woods, who he understood, to have some kind of a municipal position.

Keays said Mr. Donnan had said the drunk driving charge would be dropped if Woods would plead guilty to the dangerous driving charge.

Statement of Accident

Keays said that in a statement given to police, Woods stated the accident occurred when he lost control of his car after being blinded by lights of an oncoming car. The car had swerved into the east guard rail. Woods had admitted having two pints of beer.

The constable said the Woods' car had been damaged about the left front fender but Constable Purdy's uncompleted report indicated the damage had been to the radiator and right front and rear fenders also the driver had been intoxicated. The car had been shoved to a nearby driveway after the accident, he said.

On November 18, Keays said he asked Purdy for his report on the Woods' case. Purdy started to prevaricate and started to cry, he said.

"I feel like a heel," Constable Purdy is quoted as saying. "I went to Sam (Cpl. Ervine) and Sam told me that I had no evidence to substantiate a charge of dangerous driving against Woods. The car was found in a driveway, therefore the driver could not be charged with dangerous driving."

"I was amazed that an officer with six months experience should start quoting law," said Keays. "I told Constable Purdy that his duty was to bring the accused before the bar."

"I told Constable Purdy that as result of his actions my status as police officer was jeopardized and that I was liable to civil action."

Keays said he had demanded Constable Purdy's report from the police stenographer and it had been produced from the mail.

No Charge Laid

In Constable Purdy's report of Nov. 18th., taken from the mails, it was indicated by the officer that the condition of the driver, LeRoy Woods, had been "normal," that the damage to car was $50 instead of $75 as indicated in previous uncompleted report. The report indicated no charge had been preferred against the driver.

Keays testified that between November 12th and November 18th Constable Purdy had not investigated the accident further.

In Constable Purdy's first report he had indicated "that in view of the driver's condition he had lost control of his car." In the final report no mention was made of the driver's condition.

Keays said when he learned that charges against Woods had been dropped he went to Crown Attorney Donnan and had demanded to know why. He said he reminded Mr. Donnan that the accused was on bail and that he (Keays) was liable to civil action.

"Mr. Donnan replied that he had forgotten the accused was on bail," said Keays.

Keays said he demanded that at least one charge against Woods be proceeded with.

Inability of the Royal Commission counsel, Mr. C. P. Hope, to produce a certain report from the files of the Ontario Provincial Police held up presentation of evidence here Tuesday as the Commission inquiry into charges by Constable J. E. Keays against Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan and seven provincial police officers, concluded its second-day session.

Several times during the day Constable Keays, who has been on the stand continually since Monday morning, asked that police reports be produced as evidence. In more than one instance Mr. Hope stated that the required report could not be found despite the fact a search had been made.

An incident parallel to the above saw the conclusion of Tuesday afternoon's session when Constable Keays asked for a traffic report which he said had been made out by Constable G. Purdy on November 12, 1947.

U.S. People 'Sickened and Horrified' By Mindszenty Case Says Acheson

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson declared today that the people of the United States are "sickened and horrified" by the Mindszenty case in Hungary.

Acheson disclosed that the western powers may place charges against Hungary before the United Nations on the ground that Hungary has consistently violated its peace treaty requirements for human rights.

At a press conference the secretary of state linked the trial and conviction of the Roman Catholic prelate, Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, with the earlier "persecution" of Lutheran Bishop Lajos Ordass and declared:

"The Soviet-controlled Hungarian authorities seek to discredit and coerce religious leadership in Hungary in order to remove this source of moral resistance to Communism."

Acheson called the arrest, trial and life sentence of the cardinal a "conscienceless attack upon religious and personal freedom."

Acheson declared that the Hungarian government "must bear full responsibility for its action."

This emphatic declaration caused reporters later to ask him what were the prospects of an appeal by the United States and other nations to the United Nations.

The Hungarian government is committed by its peace treaty with the allied powers to respect and promote human rights. Acheson replying to the inquiry said an appeal to the United Nations is one of the possibilities, along with others now under consideration.

Pope Bitterly Condemns Arrest of Cardinal, Will Hold Secret Consistory

Vatican City, Feb. 9 (AP)—Pope Pius has protested solemnly against "the grave offense inflicted upon the whole church" by Hungary's arrest of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, the Vatican announced today. He summoned the Sacred College of Cardinals to a "secret and extraordinary consistory" next Monday.

The Pontiff is expected to address the college on the trial of the Cardinal, sentenced yesterday by Hungary to life imprisonment.

The letter describing the arrest as a grave offense against the church was dated Jan. 2, eight days after the arrest. It is the first utterance of the Pontiff on the treatment of the Cardinal to be made public. It was sent to the bench of Hungarian Bishops at about the time the Vatican announced excommunication of all Roman Catholics in Hungary having anything to with the Cardinal's arrest.

The letter exhorted Hungarian Roman Catholics to have courage.

Informed Vatican sources said it was "virtually certain the Holy Father will speak on the trial of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty" at Monday's consistory.

The Pope's letter to the Hungarian Bishops had said: "The news that our beloved son, Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty...with rash daring has been arrested and removed from his See, has stricken us with profound grief, because we see in this...a serious offence against the sacred respect due to religion and human dignity.

"Therefore conscience and duty impel us to express publicly sorrow and lament at what has been perpetrated against the rights of the church...and to protest solemnly against the grave offence inflicted upon the whole church."

Vatican sources said yesterday the Pope would use the first occasion he could to make a "declaration in the hardest and most definitive terms" in connection with the trial.

The hour at which the consistory will be held and other details were not immediately announced.

The secret consistory is so called because no one except the Pontiff and Cardinals are present at its deliberations.

Such consistories frequently are opened with an address or allocation in which the Pope often reviews the condition of the church in general or in some particular country, pointing out what deserves praise or condemnation.

Such allocutions are given to the public afterward in order that the world may know the Pope's thoughts on these matters.

Proposals Made by Canada Not Ungenerous--Lord Jowett

London, Feb. 9 (Reuters) — Canada's proposals for the incorporation of Newfoundland today were described by Britain's Lord Chancellor, Viscount Jowitt, as "by no means ungenerous."

"It is certainly a fact that for many years to come this will undoubtedly be a very heavy burden on the people of Canada," he said.

The Lord Chancellor was replying to a debate in the House of Lords in which Lord Semphill, Conservative, said there was a widely-held feeling in Newfoundland that she was being "sold by the British government to Canada."

Britain And Newfoundland

"We in this country have not sought to make a penny piece out of it," said Viscount Jowitt, "and Canada is paying a very heavy price for a chance of getting Newfoundland going again."

He would not apportion the blame between the parties, he said, but he thought Britain had "Shamefully neglected her duties in Newfoundland."

There is hardly a road on the island, practically no education and such things as drainage systems are non-existent.

"It is a very great pity," he said, "that in the old days when we had rather more money than we have now, we did not spend some of it to develop Newfoundland.

All the people with whom he discussed the matter believed that this proposal for a union with Canada was the best and the people of Canada appeared willing to take on "this onerous responsibility."

"I submit that this is the right course we are taking. I hope the opportunity which is now given may not be lost."

Lord Semphill said he was not at all satisfied. He proposed at the earliest moment to introduce a bill to be termed the Newfoundland Liberation Bill.

In opening the debate, Lord Semphill, who worked in Newfoundland for some years, maintained that the Commission of Government had exceeded its constitutional powers in "weighing the scales in favor of federation with Canada".

The Commission of Government, in his view, was appointed to handle day-to-day affairs of the island during an extremely difficult period, but "not to make away with Newfoundland's sovereignty".

Lord Semphill's View

"If we had followed the regular constitutional practice established through centuries of experience, the name of England would stand today as high as it did when Humphrey Gilbert raised the flag in 1583.

"I believe the Government should restore the established government of Newfoundland."

Lord Rennell, Liberal, thought that Newfoundland could no more be self-supporting than any of the individual Canadian provinces.

He submitted that Union with Canada was the right and only practicable answer.

Young Woman Thinks She 'Lost Memory'

Kingston, Feb. 9 — (CP) — A young woman who "thinks" she lives "in Thornhill near Toronto" but can't remember her name appeared in city court today on a vagrancy charge. She was remanded one week for investigation.

"I think I've lost my memory," she said.

Inspector Andrew Ready told the court a pawn ticket she was carrying had the name Mrs. D. Madson on it.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Feb. 9 (CP)—Synopsis—The mild air which covered most of the province Tuesday evening is rapidly being displaced this morning by colder air moving —in from the northwest. Temperatures dropped slowly this morning, then leveling off about noon. The disturbance which crossed southern B.C. Tuesday morning is now over the Dakotas and by Thursday morning will be near Lake Michigan. Temperatures will moderate Thursday in the southerly flow which will develop ahead of this centre. Indications are that the warm air will be more moist than it was under similar circumstances Tuesday so that some rain may be in store for southern regions Thursday. Another storm is approaching the B.C. coast this morning.

HOUSE APPROVES NEWFOUNDLAND'S ENTRY INTO UNION

New Page in Canadian History is Written

Ottawa, Feb. 9 (CP)—A bright new page in Canadian history was written yesterday into the parliamentary record.

It set down Feb. 8, 1949, as the day on which the Canadian House of Commons gave its approval in principle to the entry of Newfoundland into the Canadian community.

The historic act came quietly and almost mater-of-factly, as a half-filled chamber gave second reading—parliamentary device to indicate approval in principle — to the main bill to weld union of the two countries and fulfill the dream of Canada's visionary fathers of confederation.

In the terse, official language of Hansard, official report of debates, it read this way:

"Motion agreed to, on division, bill read the second time and the house went into committee thereon..."

It took just that much to make a new and greater nation.

True, there are other steps to follow, wrapped in cumbersome, legal trappings. Study of union terms, already started, must be completed, the Senate must take

Professor Urges More Emphasis On Writing

Ottawa, Feb. 9 (CP)— Dr. W. E. McNeill, Vice-Principal of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., last night lashed out at modern colleges, which he said are not fulfilling their responsibility to "keep our language noble."

In an address to the Ottawa branch of the Queen's Alumni Association, Dr. McNeill said "there has never been a time when there has been so much abuse of the king's language.

"Colleges give lip service to the king's english as something they must teach every student but, in reality, they give it hardly any teaching at all," he said. "An English course teaches history, dates, names of booys; the teaching of writing is only incidental."

He said Queen's University, with 2,900 students, had only one English course which all students were required to take. Eleven courses were offered, only one of them composition, and that was studied by the comparatively few students who came to university without senior matriculation.

"University curricula must place more emphasis on writing," he concluded.

5,000 Passengers Stranded as New Storm Hits Three Western States

Chicago, Feb. 9— (AP)—Westerly winds of 40 miles an hour swirled heavy piles of snow into newly-cleared highways and rail lines in the storm-stricken western states today.

Further damages to property and increased losses of livestock appeared certain from the latest storms which have battered the western plains and Rocky Mountain region for nearly six weeks. At least five persons lost their lives in the new storms in the Wyoming-Utah-Idaho area.

Nearly 40 passenger and mail trains are stalled in huge snow drifts in Wyoming, Utah and Idaho. More than 3,000 passengers were stranded. There were 37 passenger trains stalled between Omaha and Denver.

The winds blew across the snow - carpeted areas of Wyoming, Idaho and parts of Utah and moved eastward into Nebraska, Montana and the Dakotas today.

Most of the blizzard-swept disaster area got one break in the weather — temperatures were not severe. But a below-zero belt covered most sections of the North Central States.

In Wyoming, drifting snow reblocked more than 2,300 miles of roads which had been opened by army crews. Airplines flew supplies of milk and bakery goods to meet emergency needs of stranded rail passengers. Livestock losses in Wyoming at present range from 10,000 to 20,000 cattle and from 30,000 to 50,000 sheep.

The strong winds which hit west central and northern Utah blocked roads with new drifts. Many schools were closed. However, hay-lift flights were made to get feed supplies to herds. Ranchers, road crews and aviators joined to prevent further loss to Utah's $40,000,000 livestock industry.

The Idaho legislature approved a $200,000 emergency storm relief bill as crews battled to clear snow clogged highways.

Generally fair weather prevailed over most of the rest of the United States.

Transfer Details Being Worked Out With Canadians

Carr is Alleged Key Figure In Wartime Espionage Work

Washington, Feb. 9 (CP)—The Justice Department announced today the United States will deport Mr. and Mrs. Sam Carr to Canada.

The deportation order was signed shortly after noon, EST, by Watson B. Miller, Commissioner of Immigration.

Carr, alleged to have been a key figure in a Soviet wartime espionage network in Canada, was arrested in New York by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Jan. 28.

Details of the transfer of the Carrs to Canada now are being worked out with Canadian authorities.

Mrs. Carr was arrested twenty four hours after Carr was picked up.

Appeared for Questioning

Last week they were brought before a Federal Grand Jury in New York, which has been inquiring into subversive activities in the United States. The purpose of the questioning presumably was to determine what connection there was between the espionage ring in Canada and espionage activities in the United States.

The deportation orders were based on findings that the Carrs entered this country illegally after Carr dropped out of sight March, 1946. The Canadian government at that time was seeking him on charges of violation the Dominion's official Secrets Act.

The Carrs were found by the F. B. I. in a midtown Manhattan basement apartment.

They were taken to Ellis Island, immigration detention centre, and given a hearing before an immigration service examiner, whose recommendations were sent to Washington.

A Royal Commission which investigated alleged Russian espionage activities in Canada shortly after the end of the war accused Carr of recruiting Soviet agents. It also charged he transmitted secret and confidential information for the use of the Moscow government.

$200,000 Fire At Farnham, Que.

Farnham, Que., Feb. 9 — (CP) — Damage was unofficially estimated at $200,000 in a fire which destroyed the three-storey Canadian Pacific Railway station building in this eastern township early today. No one was injured.

The blaze which broke out at 3 a. m. was believed to have started on the second floor. Volunteers were called from nearby Cowansville and St. Jean to help the four Farnham firemen.

UNIONISTS FIGHT ELECTION SOLELY ON PARTITION

Prime Minister Sir Basil Brooke Expects to Win Easily

Belfast, Feb. 9. (CP)—Prime Minister Sir Basil Brooke's Unionist Government is fighting for re-election on a single issue—and it is as wide as a Union Jack.

Sir Basil has called for what his opponents say is "an enforced plebiscite" tomorrow on the question of whether Northern Ireland will continue as part of the United Kingdom or throw in its lot with the Eireann Republic to the south.

Nationalist and Labor candidates are opposing the Unionists.

The Government has chosen its moment for an election well. Northern Ireland, in the face of the recent passage of the Republic of Ireland Act by Eire, probably will poll an unusually heavy vote.

And both sides expect that vote to be overwhelmingly Unionist.

Twenty of Ulsters' 52 parliamentary seats have already gone unopposed, 16 of them to Sir Basil's supporters. The other 32 seats will be contested by 63 candidates.

Of these, 33 support the Prime Minister, whose government held 35 seats in Stormont House at dissolution last month. Most observers expect him to hold a similar majority when the polls close Thursday.

The fight with the Nationalists is clear-cut. They are financed and guided for the most part from Dublin and want a United Ireland. In their view, the partition of 1921 was a crime against the Irish sovereignty.

Taste for Ginger Ale Undoing Of Nine Juveniles

"Gee whiz, mister, there must have been nearly fifty of us in it," said a scared youngster, tears glinting his eyes.

He was talking to Police Inspector Hayes who was investigating a break-in in the Wallbridge warehouse on Pinnacle Street from which cases of ginger ale mysteriously disappeared over a period of four or five weeks.

Seven cases are said to have gone the way of boyish throats and as a result nine minors ranging from 9 to 13 years of age will appear in juvenile court in the near future.

The boys effected entrance to the warehouse by prying off a board from the side of the building.

It is quite likely that additional members of the youthful gang will be apprehended shortly.

Department Will Probe Sale Of School for $1

Toronto, Feb. 9 — (CP) — Education Minister Porter said today that a "high official" of his department will leave tonight for Crystal Falls, Ont., to investigate the reported sale of a public school building for $1.

Reports from the village 32 miles northwest of North Bay Monday said the building had been sold to supporters of a Roman Catholic separate school.

Mr. Porter said "It is a matter which concerns two local boards but we will have to investigate to see if any of our inspectors had any dealings in the matter."

Some 30 Crystal Falls public school supporters decided at a meeting Sunday to hire a lawyer to investigate their case after they were told that the tiny red-brick school, built 26 years ago for $12,000, had been sold for $1

J. W. Trusler, North Bay public school inspector, reported the transaction as it was explained to him by William Peterson, former chairman of the public school board.

Mr. Trusler said Mr. Peterson, along with the other members of the three-man board, resigned Jan. 9 — the day the transaction was placed on the school minute books. Peterson and one of the two others were reported to have joined the Separate School board.

The 21 school children of the community of some 150 persons were continuing their classes under the same school master as previous to the sale.

South Africa Subject of Talk To Kiwanians

"Africa is a land of contrasts but a most interesting country," said Dr. G. G. Ullyett, entomologist, speaking to members of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon held at the Kiwanis Centre on Tuesday. Dr. Ullyett spent 20 years in South Africa before coming to this country. He was born in England. Lorne McDougall introduced the guest speaker with appreciation expressed by Doug. Bradshaw.

Mark Vanner, secretary of the club, introduced Lieutenant-Colonel Milton Davison to the club as a new member and past Lieut.-Governor Cliff Baragar initiated the speaker. Milt was born in Westmount, Quebec, but came to Belleville when one year of age and has been a continuous resident since that time. He served overseas with the rank of major and upon his return home became O.C. of the Tank Regiment with the rank of lieut.-col. At present he is clerk of the Division Court. In initiating Mr. Davison, Cliff Baragar remarked that his father had initiated him into Kiwanis and he had never regretted the step taken.

A Beautiful City

In describing Africa, Dr. Ullyett claimed Cape Town to be a beautiful city with the biggest harbor and graving dock in the world, while vineyards abounded much like in the Niagara district. Proceeding north, the land was semi-arid but a brush that grows on this land is excellent food for sheep and in the district is the greatest sheep ranches in the world, over 50 million being raised in the area. "Up country over the tableland one comes to the Orange Free State, a country much like Western Canada and then into Transvaal, which is the richest province in South Africa," said the speaker. Mining is the principal occupation with gold being the predominant mineral. Again further to the north grows the semi-tropical fruit.

Greatest Development

The speaker claimed that the greatest development of the country has come since the war. "It was necessary during the war to manufacture machine tools of all kinds and these have been used in the development of heavy industry and the expansion has been really remarkable," said Dr. Ullyett.

Electric power supply has also made rapid progress in the country and electricity is used for almost everything, even on the railways. The power is supplied by private companies. Dr. Ullyett explained that the white population in Africa live as modernly as do the people of this country. "It is a nice life with a beautiful climate and plenty of servants," said the speaker.

Natives Described

Speaking of the natives he showed that they varied in different parts. "They are a cheery sort, slightly lazy, amiable but must be treated as children of about nine years of age. They will accept punishment if they know they have done wrong but will cause plenty of trouble if they think they have been unjustly dealt with. The natives are very musical and will work very hard if music is obtainable. They occasionally get out of hand among themselves but in that case the whites allow them plenty of latitude," said the speaker.

He claimed the natives were stock raisers but generally refused to sell their cattle. "These," he said, "were used for trading purposes and also used to buy wives, when one was needed." He explained that the principal food is corn meal with very little meat. At the end of the address a number of questions were asked by the members.

C.I. Principal Explains Why Work Was Done

Owen Sound, Feb. 9 (CP) — Trustee Charles Johnston charged Tuesday night that "political propaganda" is being prepared and published in the collegiate-vocational institute here. He was answered by the school's principal.

Mr. Johnston showed Board of Education members copies of a circular printed on the school's duplicating machine for distribution to the members of the Gray North C.C.F. riding association.

Principal W. M. Prudham told the Board that such outside work is done when there is no similar work to be done for the school. It is considered good practice for the students and the school is paid for it. Other political parties also could have such work done.

The Board left over until next meeting discussion of a proposal to ban such work.

Russia Attacks Western Security Pacts in Council

Lake Success, N.Y., Feb. 9 — (CP)—The east-west disagreement on the question of arms reduction and prohibition of the atomic bomb was pointed up again yesterday when Russia attacked western security pacts in a long, bitter statement.

In the first February meeting of the Security Council, Jakob Malik, Soviet delegate to the United Nations, made a renewed demand for arms reduction and prohibition of the atomic bomb. The statement called for the outlawing of the bomb and a one-third cut by the five big powers in their armaments.

The attitude of Britain and the United States has been that the best security for peace is to build up a force which would be able to overwhelm any aggressor.

Malik's statement condemned the regional pacts such as western union and the proposed North Atlantic alliance.

The resolution also demanded that the United States supply by March 31 complete information about the atomic bomb.

The council meeting was adjoruned till Thursday to give the members time to study the resolution.

Operating ratio in the percentage relationship of operating expenses to gross revenues.

Testifying for the C. P. R. in the freight - rate inquiry, A Northey Jones, New York investment banker, said the Canadian Pacific's ratio had increased from 88.4 to 92 per cent in the three years to the end of 1548.

At the same time, the ratio of class 1 U. S. roads had dropped from 92.2 to 84.7 per cent.

The improvement in the U. S. carriers' position, Mr. Jones said, was due to freight-rate increases granted them.

Children's Group Struck by Truck, One is Killed

Kitchener, Feb. 9 (CP). — One child was killed and four injured, two seriously, when a transport truck struck a group of school children today at nearby Breslau.

The children were on their way home at the noon recess.

Killed was five-year-old Douglas Davidson, whose father, Mr. William Davidson, lives in Toronto.

Two children were brought to hospital in Kitchener. Donald Hopf, 14, received a dislocated hip. Goldie Whitmore, 12, suffered concussion and undetermined back injuries.

Bobbie Shields and Carmen McNanney received minor leg injuries and went to their homes in Breslau, four miles east of Kitchener.

The school was closed this afternoon because of the accident.

The Davidson boy and his nine-year-old brother have been living with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Knack of Breslau. Their father, a salesman, lives in Toronto. Their mother is dead.

Goes Out of Control

The truck was driven by Ross Kitcher of New Toronto. Provincial Police said it went out of control after clipping the rear of a car driven by Charles Sellers, principal of the school.

The school is at the top of a hill and onlookers said the Sellers car was going down the hill and slowed down to make the turn into Breslau when struck by the truck. The truck driver attempted to swing his vehicle on the downgrade on the sideroad to the village but his truck hit the group of children.

Provincial Constable Leonard Meyer, in charge of the investigation, said Kitcher told him the principal's car swung to the left as if to make a left-hand turn, then back to the right again.

The new company was incorporated on Feb. 1st., because of the large contracts involved and it was felt that business expansion could not be carried out under one management. The new president, Edward A. Young, is also general manager of the National Engineering Company and the two companies will participate in industrial engineering contracts and co-operation in appraisals.

Strike Committee Chairman Fined For Obstructing

Paris, Ont., Feb. 9 (CP)—Gordon Bonney, 29-year-old strike committee chairman of the United Textile Workers of America (A. F. L.) today was fined $30 and costs or 20 days in jail on a charge of obstructing.

Bonney pleaded innocent to obstructing Inspector F. B. Creasy of the provincial police during a picket line incident last Friday at the Penman's Limited plant here.

In another case, Joseph Porter pleaded innocent to a charge of intimidation with violence. Defence counsel Norman Borins asked for dismissal of the charge because of insufficient evidence. Magistrate R. J. Gillen reserved decision until next Tuesday.

A charge of obstructing against Wilbert Hilborn, 16, was dismissed. The first accused member of the picket line to plead guilty to any charge, Margaret Higgins, 18, was ordered to pay costs of $19.50 on a charge of intimidation.

In Bonney's case, Inspector Creasy testified there were about 75 to 100 pickets outside the plant's gate and Bonney grabbed his jacket as he and other officers were holding back the picket line to permit workers to enter the gate.

Questioned by Mr. Borins about picket lines being broken to allow cars to pass, the inspector said the cars were on a public street and workers had a right to enter without being obstructed by pickets.

Movie Stars Admired

The change from the days when players strolled from place to place is not more clearly shown anywhere than in the report of the incomes of those who today make the fare which millions dine upon for entertainment, the movie players. Humphrey Bogart earned $467,361 out of the screen in one year, Deanna Durbin collected $323,477 for her work, Dennis Morgan of the appealing voice received not less than $325,892 and Robert Montgomery took in a quarter of a million dollars.

Once upon a time in the late Middle Ages, players were looked upon as of low estate, but no more is it so. They have been honored in the modern world and while the above figures tell the story before the deduction of taxes, they leave a good margin for the celluloid player.

Everyone is an admirer of the movies and what they bring and there is no feeling against the stars for what they pull down.

Speaking of this point of earnings the New York Times declares that "no one whose heart is not as bitter as gall can hate a motion picture star. The reward these personages and others in the amusement world receive are tributes of admiration and affection. These rich are rich because a great public wants them to be. One doesn't know how this fits into the Marxian dogma but such is the case. The erstwhile strolling player, once penalized by the law, barked at by irreverent dogs, often stranded, ragged and hungry — this individual has gone up on clouds of glory and become a new asistrocacy."

The stage player once was looked upon as a stroller and yet it was on him the great drama rested and the people were not only pleased but educated to the fulness of life.

A Share in Making Hollywood

Canada may take some credit for having had something to do with the genesis of the motion picture art and modern Hollywood, film capital of the world. Thomas Alva Edison was as everyone knows or should know, once a telegraph operator in Canada. At the age of 17 he was a night operator at the Grand Trunk Railway station at Stratford, Ontario. That was in 1864. Instead of going to bed in the daytime, he spent hours in study and research, and devised a gadget to make up for lost sleep. That was to let him sleep while appearing to be on the job. One of his duties was to report by Morse code every 30 minutes to the train dispatcher at a nearby station. His device, connected with the office clock, would accomplish this for him while he took a catnap. He was discovered and went looking for another job.

Yet that invention led the way to developments which even an Edison could hardly have foreseen in any clearness. It became a full-fledged automatic telegraph system under his attention. Then he succeeded in improving the automatic telegraph by impounding sound for future release at will — that meant the phonograph. A few years later in 1889 he invented the motion picture camera which he thought would be only an extension of his work on the phonograph. He became the creator of the motion picture because he "wanted to do for the eye what the phonograph had done for the ear." So the three greatest inventions of this wizard came about — the automatic telegraph, the phonograph and the movie. Hollywood after that was fairly easy.

One of these would have been enough to satisfy some men and most men have invented nothing. But Edison was the leader of all. His genius was that of the most fertile mind in invention and in the application of principles to mechanisms which have greatly added to the joys of life.

His story is a long one of triumphs — in these three great inventions and in others. He was granted nearly 1,100 patents. Their staggering total is enough to make men and women and even the young ponder how much less attractive life would have been in the past seventy-five years for many millions if it had not been for Thomas A. Edison. For the good men do goes on expanding and expanding. His endowments have endowed the world with new riches.

The moral virtues, without religion, are but cold, lifeless and insipid; it is only religion which opens the mind to great conceptions, fills it with the most sublime ideas, and warms the soul with more than sensual pleasures.—Addison.

Nothing but the right can ever be expedient, since that can never be expediency which would sacrifice a greater good to a less. — Whately.

REQUEST

Never mind piling up stone

Over me when my soul
has flown;
If there be one who'd remembrance show,
Let the thought to the living go.

When in the ground the flesh is laid,
Mortals have passed beyond
friendship's aid,
But the living who stay after
I must go
Will need the friends that I needed so.

Smooth the path for the living who Will happier be for the deeds
you do,
And brighten their days with some gift, which I
Had failed to make ere I said

The first of the home and home hockey games between the Belleville team and the Frontenac team of Kingston was played here last night before a large and enthusiastic audience. It was a fast and interesting game and the final score was 5 to 3 in favor of Belleville. Each member of the Belleville team played well. Pat Boland, Belleville's goal keeper, stopped some hot shots; he is certainly the right man in the right place. To Arnott the clever centre player for Belleville, is due the credit for securing the majority of goals, but he was ably assisted by the other members of the team, who passed the puck unselfishly. The following composed the teams: Belleville — Boland, Brouse, Sutherland, Arnott, Box and Green. Kingston, Walsh, Hagerman, Casterton, R. Milan, M. Milan and Derry. Substitutes for Belleville were Whalen and Cory and for Kingston Smith and Brown. Referee: Lawson Whitehead.

MARRIED, OR SORT O' MARRIED

The word "marriage" goes back across the centuries to a Sanskrit word meaning "youth" or "lover." In the childhood of the race, people thought of marriage as something connected only with the morning hours of life's day. Now we know that if the marriage state deepens and matures as it should, it becomes more significant with the passing years.

A recent writer has remarked that two people are not married in the ceremony of an hour; they only begin to be married at that time. The marriage grows and develops with the years as the contracting parties grow and develop. Many people are saying today that marriage as an institution is failing. Marriage is not failing, but many people who enter marriage fail to live up to its requirements. Many young people believe that when they leave the altar, happiness will be guaranteed them for the rest of their lives. The truth is that they will get just as much happiness out of marriage as they create, and they create this happiness by making substantial capital investments in the form of sacrifice, selfishness, thoughtfulness, tenderness, and faith.

With the taking of the vows, people begin to be married; they will be truly married when they learn how to make their lives one.

Will Follow His Wife And Eight Stepchildren

Melbourne, Feb. 9 — (AP) — John O'Keefe said today he will follow his Indonesian wife and eight stepchildren out of Australia.

Mrs. Annie O'Keefe and the eight children of her first husband, an Ambonese, have been ordered to leave Australia by Feb. 28. She and the children are classified as Asiatics, who normally are excluded from Australia. They were allowed to enter the country temporarily in 1942 as war refugees.

Mackenzie's Column: Western Powers Winning Cold War In European Area

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The United States Congress was informed in effect yesterday that the western democracies not only are holding their own against communist aggression in Europe but are winning the cold war in that theatre.

This encouraging statement was laid before a joint meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee. The bearers of good news were State Secretary Acheson and the economic co-operation administrator, Paul G. Hoffman, who appeared as witnesses.

Looking back, it really is astonishing that such a report should be possible. The success of the democracies is pegged to the Marshall plan and this didn't start to function until April of last year. It's remarkable that the tide of battle should have been turned in such a short time.

Still, that's the way wars go at times, be they hot or cold. A lot of us old-timers won't forget those April days in the last year of the First World War when the Germans all but won the conflict hands down in a great offensive. Yet a little later the Kaiser's men were beaten.

Strides Forward

Acheson yesterday told Congress that because of the Marshall plan "the free community of Europe has not only held its own, but it has during this period made great strides forward." Appealing for a continuation of the Marshall plan, Acheson declared:

"Every sound precept calls upon us to press that success. The worst of all courses would be to relax our efforts and allow the momentum of achievement to diminish."

Hoffman put his appeal on the basis of offering a European recoveryin "bargain."

What is asked for is a 15-month extension of the Marshall plan, at a cost of $5,580,000,000. Advocates of this plan point out that in providing security against communist aggression it will at the same time be safeguarding the Marshall plan and the big American investment in it.

Prime Minister Tells Opposition He Will Decide

Ottawa, Feb. 9 — (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent bluntly told Progressive Conservative members of the Commons Tuesday night that he decides when his party should hold a caucus.

He made the statement in a brief, heated verbal exchange while the House was discussing appointments to the Senate and Senate reform.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and Hon. Earl Rowe (PC — Dufferin - Simcoe) were involved in the exchange.

Mr. St. Laurent said he knew of no conditions being imposed on appointees to the Senate.

"You should have had a caucus before you took office," interjected Mr. Rowe.

Mr. St. Laurent: "When my honorable friend sits in my place he may tell the House how things should be done, but in the meantime I am deciding that."

Mr. Rowe: "I hope that I know more of what my predecessor did than my honorable friend."

Mr. Drew: "In view of the caustic nature of some of the remarks of the prime minister may I say that he is not going to decide; this House is going to decide."

Mr. St. Laurent: "This House has never in the past and I hope it will never in the future decide, when, where and why party caucuses should be held."

Mr. Drew: "I am not talking about party caucuses."

Mr. St. Laurent: "That is the matter the honorable member (Mr. Rowe) was referring to."

Mr. Rowe: "You may not need any more caucuses; one or two more will be about all you will need."

The Packsack of Gregory Clark

It is always with a flush of indignation and pity that we look upon a picture of Chinese or other Asiatic women pulling a plough. If we examine their plough closely enough, we will see that it is not a deepsharing implement, but merely a snaggle-nosed tool that barely skims the top inch of the soil.

That ancient Asiatic plough is at this very moment the subject of widespread argument in high agricultural circles not only in America but in Britain and Europe. Maybe the Asiatics have been right all along. Maybe a plough that women can pull is the proper implement for the most efficient cultivation of the earth.

For according to Edward Faulkner, author of "Ploughman's Folly," and "Ploughing in Prejudices," the massive iron plough that requires a team of heavy horses to pull and which, in gangs, has in recent years been rigged up behind tractors, has not only been responsible in a large degree for the erosion and destruction of the top soil in many parts of the world but has, at the same time, frustrated the best intentions of the farmer. If farmers could restrict their cultivation to the top inch of soil, instead of gouging deep into the bowels of the earth with a plough-share, their results, according to these radicals, would be greater and more sustained.

With shallow cultivators and disc harrows, English experimenters are working the plant remains of previous crops together with fertilizer into the top inch of their soil. They employ, of course, powerful tractors for the job: but doubtless some enterprising Chinese editor has already got pictures to publish in China, with some such caption as: "Now, what have we been telling them for centuries?"

Or: "Look at the engines the Occidentals need to do a woman's job!"

A TOUCH OF CHRONIC ANOXIA

Anoxia is deprivation, absence or lack of sufficient oxygen. Asphyxia, the old timers called it.

Anoxia accounts for all the symptoms, all the ill effects and all the damage done by carbon monoxide, whether just a touch of it or fatal gassing.

Carbon monoxide is not in itself poisonous in any way. It merely has an affinity for and combines with the hemoglobin (iron-bearing coloring matter) in the blood. The function of the hemoglobin is to carry oxygen from lungs to the cells and tissues of the body and carry carbon dioxide (carbonic acid gas) from the cells and tissues back to the lungs to be blown off. Carbon monoxide crowds out oxygen and when the oxygen supply is entirely shut off for a few seconds or partly shut off for a few minutes, death or severe and maybe permanent injury of vital organs and tissues occurs.

If the exposure is only casual, occasional or to atmosphere polluted with less than 1 part of C O to 1000 parts of air, no acute of alarming symptoms are likely to occur. Instead the individual develops chronic anoxia.

Chronic carbon monoxide anoxia usually manifests itself as headache, languor and debility, together with a peculiar pallor which is too often ascribed to "anemia." If a red blood cell count is made, however, the number of red is usually found around or above 5,000,000 per cubic millimeter of blood (that is, normal or above the average number in the blood of a healthy person). This high red corpuscle strength of the blood of a person whose pallor suggests anemia is almost a positive indication of chronic carbon monoxide anoxia.

How do people get chronic C O anoxia?

By working as traffic police in canyons surrounded by high buildings. By —working as mechanics in garages where engines pour their exhaust gas into the air and the ventilation is inadequate. By living in house or apartment where there is a clogged chimney or leaky stove pipe or a gas heater in a fireplace that is not a fireplace—has no chimney. By using leaky artificial gas appliances. Artificial gas contains a large amount of C O; natural gas contains none.) By permitting the gas burner of water heater to get sooted. By keeping the damper too tightly closed on coal stove or furnace. By permitting the iron body or cover of stove to become red hot —re hot iron is pourous to C O. Finally, some persons get chronic C O anoxia by smoking excessively.

Chemical tests by various investigators have demonstrated a significant amount of carbon monoxide gas in cigarette smoke.

And what is the remedy or cure for it?

I'm sorry I know of none. Quit inhaling C O and spend as much time as possible working or playing out of doors. That's the best advice I can give for chronic carbon monoxide anoxia.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Ambulant Treatment

To express my thanks for referring me to Dr ——— whose treatment of my condition was painless and completely effective —other doctors had insisted I had to enter the hospital and be operated upon. Now I am a great booster for the ambulant treatment of piles. (Mrs. K. B.)

Answer— Ambulant treatment is the modern way. The atrocity known as clamp and cautery operation is the nineteenth century way. That so many so-called surgeons still inflict the atrocity on unsophisticated patients is a sad, commentary on American medicine. The pamphlet giving information on the subject is available to any reader who sends stamped self addressed envelope and asks for it by name—It is Stupid to Suffer from Piles.

Sour Milk

For your information I am sending you a reprint of an article about the wonderful results of yogurt. (P. F. W.)

Answer—I'm sorry but I can't agree. Yogurt is a fine healthful food or drink if you like it. So is Acidophilus —milk. So is Bulgarian soured milk. So is buttermilk. So is plain sour milk. Aside from individual taste or preference, there is no difference between them, in my opinion.

Hope for a Dry Spring

Our six-year-old seems quite healthy in every way but one—he wets the bed. He seems sincerely sorry. (Mrs. A. R. G.)

Answer—If he keeps trying, with encouragement and never censure from parents, he'll get over the habit by spring. Send stamped self-addressed envelope for instructions—The Habit of Bed-Wetting.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

INTELLIGENCE UNLIMITED

A reader of these Talks once wrote to me that his intelligence was limited, therefore his chances were very slim. I replied that the intelligence of none of us is limited. This statement stirred him, and he began to take hope. Later he wrote that he had reorganized his life and ever since had progressed.

How dull life would be — indeed how useless, were it not for the fact that we can daily grow in intelligence and increased knowledge. This is what gives to us enjoyment and incentive. We have our friends, our books, our schools, and all nature about us, so that we may increasingly learn, grow more watchful and interested, thus entering a more useful and happy experience each day of our lives.

That indeed is a dark day into which no new light of knowledge enters. How many a time some friend has related something to us of which we have never known, or has suggested the reading of a book that has brought new intelligence to us, and happily so. I never read an inspiring book without wanting to share that pleasure with some one else. I am always grateful, as well, when someone suggests such a book for me to read.

You may recall that statement of Goldsmith's, given in his poem "The Deserted Village," where he spoke of the village schoolmaster in this manner:

> "And still they gazed, and > still the wonder grew
> That one small head could > carry all he knew."

I have met people like that schoolmaster. One man especially who amazed me. I could hardly talk but a few minutes with him before some thought would bring to his mind a poem and he would quote from memory in the exact words. I have often wondered if my friend John Kieran wasn't related to that schoolmaster about whom Goldsmith told!

Intelligence is sky high and world wide. There is no limit to it. And it is no respecter of persons. Every day you can learn something new, thus adding something new to your intellectual stature.

Well known in local soccer circles, Parker collapsed after taking a turn on the defence and was dead when doctors arrived. Surviving are his widow and a son.

WOMAN DRIVER FINED $200 ON DRIVING COUNT

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

MAGIC MITTENS PAY DIVIDENDS

Around 1870, a storekeeper named H. W. Johns obtained a crude pair of mittens woven from asbestos. Donning them, he would reaching inside his store's pot-bellied stove and scoop out a double handful of red-hot coals, then pass among his astonished, potential buyers. This bit of showmanship, demonstrating the fireproof and insulating qualities of asbestos, was the nucleus of the present company that bears his name — Johns-Manville.

Today, J-M makes an insulation that will solve every heat or cold problem, anywhere from 400 degrees below zero to 3000 degrees above. And back of this ability to meet every insulation need is Johns-Manville's 90 years of experience in every conceivable type of insulation work.

Giant British Plane Will Feature Lounges, Movies, Bar

London, Feb. 9 (Reuters)—Britain's flying hotel, the 130-ton Brabazon I, is due to undergo its first air tests within the next few months to decide whether it is the answer to future air travel or a £12,000,000 white elephant with wings.

One of the most controversial projects of its day, the Brabazon I, designed to carry 100 passengers non-stop between London and New York in seven hours, was conceived in 1944. But it has only just reached the testing stage after repeated delays and may not be operating commercially before 1953.

Largest in Britain

For the last few years, scores of engineers, designers, electricians, and other air construction experts have been giving their time and skill to the Brabazon prototype, the largest aircraft ever built in Britain.

The dimensions of the Brabazon dwarf all other airliners now in use. Its passenger accommodation lifts air travel out of the plain seat stage into an era of boodrooms, cocktail bars and theatres.

With an over-all length of 177 feet, a wing-span of 230 feet and a tail fin 50 feet high, the Brabazon has eight engines, capable of developing 20,000 horse power.

The engines are coupled in four pairs driving four propeller shafts. The aircraft has 26 fuel tanks and 150 miles of wiring in its construction.

It takes a crew of 12 to fly it.

100 Passengers

With room for 100 passengers on seven-mile high flights across the Atlantic, the Brabazon has been designed to carry up to 200 persons on shorter journeys.

Passenger accommodation includes three separate lounges each with 30 or more seats. Movies in one of the lounges and a cocktail bar are included.

Meals will be served in flight in a dining room fitted with separate tables. A handsome staircase leads to a top deck with sleeping accommodation in bunks converted from seats.

All this, including the work on the airliner, a second prototype under way, six years of research 17,000 drawings, a specially-built hangar and a new two-mile runway, has so far cost the British taxpayer nearly £12,000,000. Half of that sum went into the hangar and the runway.

MADOC

Mrs. Jane Bailey Given Party On 97th Birthday

Madoc W. M. S. was the sponsor of a delightful get-to-gether on Thursday last, when they met at the home of Mr. Gibson Bailey, to honor his mother, Mrs. Jane Bailey, on the occasion of her 97th birthday. About forty guests were present.

During the afternoon, a happy time was spent talking about the "Good old days," and reminiscing about the 'Days that are no more'. Mr. Muckle sang the well-known and well-beloved hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross", while Mrs. Bailey was the recipient of many birthday greetings.

Mrs. Bailey is quite active for all of her 97 years, going about the house, and up and down stairs without assistance. She is the mother of eight living children: Gibson, at Cooper; Herbert of Madoc; Thomas and Stanley of McLeod, Alberta; Fred of Oakville, Manitoba; Charlie, of Roslin, and two daughters, Mrs. Murray Rollins, Manitoba, and Mrs. Fred Rollins of Queensboro. She has one brother living, Mr. John Gibson, of Belleville, who was present for the happy occasion.

Mrs. Bailey is a life member of the Madoc W. M. S. who so signally honored her natal day.

STIRLING

Young Married Couples Stage Three-Act Play

Stirling — St. Paul's Young Marrieds sponsored a three act play in Stirling Community Hall on Monday and Tuesday evenings with over 400 in attendance on Monday evening.

The play was a modern melodrama with the scene in the lobby of the Rushville Hotel in a small country town. The first act took place in late afternoon with the second act at eight o'clock the following evening, and the third act was in two scenes, the first at ten o'clock the following morning and the closing scene at eleven o'clock at night.

Joe Stanford, a young writer of plays, who has a delightful sense of humor, finds himself in Rushville in search of a rest and a plot for his new play.

In a little hotel run by Betty Braxton he finds all the ingredients: the mortgage hanging over the hotel, the mystery of why the meanest man in town is anxious to own the place, the ghost who screams and walks in the night, the escaped jewel thief, the trailing detective and the town "consta-bule." Joe suddenly discovers that the play is writing itself, except that the heroine will not consider the hero seriously.

Sarah, Betty's spinster aunt, has been courted for years by the town constable, Sly Perkins, who is also the Justice of the Peace, the fire department, the entire police force and the school board.

These two, ably assisted by Bud Williams, a young auto mechanic, offer much hilarity in their search for the ghost who haunts the place searching for hidden jewels.

The play ends very happily for everyone and was greatly enjoyed by the large audience.

The cast is as follows:

Joe Stanford — A breezy young playwright — Douglas Leury.

Sly Perkins — The village constable — Sid Demorest.

Bud Williams — The village mechanic — Grant Stapley.

Morton Kendall — The village miser — Harold Wells.

L. B. Loydd — The mysterious guest — William Wilkins.

Betty Braxton — The young owner of the hotel — Mrs. Grant Stapley.

Sarah Higgens — The spinster maid of all work — Mrs. Harold West.

Miss Gates — Another mysterious guest — Mrs. Bob Leury.

Jane Hastings — The village teacher's daughter.

Anne Aldrich — The village school teacher.

The director of the play was Mrs. William Wilkins with Mrs. Walter Elliott and Mrs. William Cornett acting as prompters.

Rev. R. W. Barker, pastor of St. Paul's, was master of ceremonies and extended thanks to the cast, the artists and all who attended.

Between acts Miss E. Sills of Trenton sang two vocal solos and Mr. X. P. Mayhew contributed two solos with guitar accompaniment.

Before the play began Miss M. McKee delighted with several piano selections.

The play will be presented again on Tuesday evening in Stirling theatre and the cast is booked for ten other engagements.

Children of Mary Hold Meeting

About 35 members of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary of St. Michael's parish met on Monday evening for their regular monthly meeting.

Miss Mary Dunlop, president, presided.

After the reciting of the office and the reading of the minutes, the Right Reverend Monsignor Nicholson spoke on the latest communistic outrage in the so-called trial of the Cardinal of Hungary.

With the reading of the various reports of each committee and the final arrangements made for the Valentine Formal to be held on Feb. 14 at Club Commodore, the Sodalists retired to the assembly room for refreshments.

A very enjoyable skit, "In the Operating Room", was capably enacted by Pat O'Grady, Shirley Evans, Barbara Mascaro, Kathleen Morrell, Catharine Meagher and Kathryne Barrett.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Letters and Answers

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been working with a boy for four years and am very much in love with him. I am 20 and he is the same age.

A year and a half ago we were going out and having a good time, but about a year ago he met another girl and has been going steady with her. When you ask him how his girl is, though, his answer is "She isn't my girl". At work he talks and laughs with me, but when I meet him at a party or a dance, he doesn't even look at me.

I don't know what to do, as I cannot care for any other boy. I live with my aunt and she has taken me to all kinds of doctors because I can't eat or sleep. If she only knew the only thing that is wrong with me is that I am lovesick. I never told anybody about my love affair.

Do you think I should try and forget this boy or just keep waiting?

'Heart-broken Bess'

Dear 'Bess':

There is only one doctor who can cure the disease called lovesickness, and that is a person's own self. You are the one who will have to take yourself in hand and make up your mind to be your age, instead of acting like a 15 or 16-year old high school girl.

I don't mean to say that it isn't a very difficult thing for any girl to bear when the man on whom she has set her heart falls for somebody else. But no girl with any strength of character allows herself to give in to her disappointment so much that she makes herself sick. Instead, she remembers that this is the sort of thing that happens at least once to almost every girl, and that if she will put on a brave face, and do her best to interest herself in other people and other things, time will heal her wound and she will be able to enjoy life again. This is what you ought to do, and I promise you it will work if you will give it half a chance.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have a son who is 26, and has not been living with his wife for over a year. He is living with me now.

He does not like to work, says he is ill, but he goes out in the afternoon and does not come home till early morning. I cannot support him, but I do not want to put him out of the house. What do you think I should do with him?

"Mrs. C. B."

Dear "Mrs. C. B.":

I think you are a very foolish woman if you keep on permitting your son to impose on you the way he is doing. If he were really ill, of course he would not be able to stay out all night. You don't say why he is not living with his wife and had to come home to you but I strongly suspect that it is because he is so lazy he doesn't work and properly support her. You say you don't want to put him out of the house, but I am very much afraid that as long as you let him stay, he is going to keep right on behaving as he is doing now. Unless he is actually forced to work to support himself, I think he will go right on letting you take the responsibility for him. I believe it would be much better if you were to tell him that he would have to get out unless he is willing to get a job and earn some money. But if you don't do that, at least don't give him any money to go out and throw away on these nightly excursions.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Etiquette in the Headlines

There's bad news today for the bus seat-hog who, with unflinching selfishness, smugly occupies more space in the seat than is his or her due, refusing to move over so that the other passenger in the seat will be more comfortable. Well. . . so now a new type of bus has been designed and is being tested these days in New York. The staggered arrangement if the seats means that each seat is a separate unit . . . and the seat-hog will just have to occupy only one seat!

To Tell Faraway Friends About Father's 80th Birthday

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My father-in-law will be eighty years old soon, and on his birthday I want to have an Open House party for him at my home (he lives alone). I shall invite our friends who live around here verbally or by telephone. However, I want to send cards to friends who live at a distance. My problem is just what should I write on the cards. What do you suggest?

F. N.

That's a fine idea you have! For every relative and friend of your father-in-law will want to have a part, even a thought-part or a card-part, in celebrating this so-important birthday. I'd urge you to hint for a birthday-card "shower" . .why not? On plain white cards you might write (featuring the dates at the top might be a good idea!):

1869—1949 .... ..

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Allen,

Bob and I thought you'd like to recall that March 20 is his father's eightieth birthday . . . he has always been so devoted to you two dear friends. We are giving an Open House party here to celebrate this important day, and as we sing "Happy Birthday" to him we'll be including the good wishes of his faraway friends too. Perhaps you'd like to send him a birthday card here. . .so he can read it aloud at the party!

Affectionate greetings to you both from all of us.

Cordially,

Frances Smith Nolan

(Add your formal name in parentheses in cases where you think this information will be necessary for the addressing of the birthday card.)

Greeting Card Signature

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a World War II widow, and have a small daughter. Next May I am going to re-marry, but my daughter will retain her present name, will not be adopted by my husband-to-be. I am wondering how, when we send our greeting cards, my daughter's name will be included with ours, in the signature.

F. W.

If you are sending the greeting-cards to relatives and friends who know about your marriage, you might include your daughter's name without her last name . . Anthony and Frances and Dorothey. But if there is any possibility of confusion or indefiniteness . . . and there very well might be, in any number of cases when you are sending cards to those you don't know particularly well . . . you should make the names clear by signing the cards: Anthony and Frances Robinson and greetings too from

Be Sensible in Buying Shoes

Perfect for resort wear are these sandals of brown and white kid with a medium heel

By HELEN FOLLETT

SKIRTS long or skirts short, it does not matter, the feet must be comfortably and beautifully shod. Even the teen-agers have decided that it is best to have lady-like hoofs instead of slouchily dressed ones. They select casings that are neat and classic in feeling, dispel the notion that every high school girl is a tomboy, doesn't care how she looks. Let us rejoice that the looney period of blue jeans and shirttails waving in the breeze has evaporated.

Very appropriate for this season of the year is the model with the extension leather sole; it has a nice tailored look. It keeps your feet warm, comfortable and your will be less likely to get a red nose, that which there is nothing more terrible in the way of beauty griefs. Dressy shoes have lean, slender lines that have no relationship to the old-fashioned pointed toe mode. There is extra room at the ball of the foot to allow for the extra tapering at the toes.

When you go shoe-shopping, keep an eye out for comfort in walking as well as looks. You can find ease and style both if you will seek that neccesary combination. Let us hope you resist heels that measure three and one-half inches. Economize on inches and you'll be better off. Extremely high heels can bring trouble if you wear them all the time.

Too much of a lift at the rear of your foot will throw the body out of balance, especially if the heels cause the foot to slant down at an angle of thirty degrees or more. This angular position brings strain on the metatarsal bones, crowding them even lower. Toes are forced into a huddle, carry most of the body weight which is unfair business if you ask teacher ,or if you don't.

When walking, keep the head balanced, chest lifted, abdominal muscles in a state of mild contraction. Let the arms swing easily and lap up plenty of fresh air; there won't be such a drain on the rouge compact.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Permanent Waves

You have to be an old timer to appreciate the blessings of the permanent wave. In the so-called good old days, keeping the hair "frizzed"—that's the word they used—was part of the day's business. Women wrestled with smoking curling irons, burnt their hair and their fingers. Small strands were wound around the iron, producing what was called the round wave. It took all of half an hour to accomplish this task, to form a bounced-out pompadour that covered a fringe of factory hair.

The wave was affected by the weather; a sudden shower and it disappeared, leaving one looking pretty shaggy. One would be a curly girl one minute, and have a mass of hirsute shreds the next.

When the permanent first appeared, those women who subjected their heads to the steaming tea kettles were considered crazy. The results were not edifying; the hair took on the appearance of a floor mop. Something had to be done about that, so the finger wave was called into action. It had been used for centures on false hair, forming pretty undulations, perfect counterparts of the natural wave.

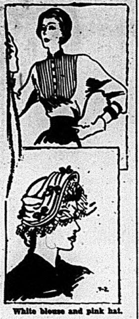
Marvelous improvements in methods were made. Now you have the machine wave, the machineless and the cold wave. There is no more discomfort, and the time necessary for treatment has been cut down. A capable operator can wave any head of hair except thatches that have been subjected to certain dyes. Mild bleaches do not make waving impossible.

A strong, enduring undulation is the result of the operator's training and technique. If she is experienced, conscientious, and is not rushed for time, the results will be satisfactory.

Should it happen? that your wave goes limp in short order, it may be your own fault. The slightest deposit of soap scum, left after the shampoo, will coat the silky shafts and deprive them of the coil quality that produces waves and ringlets. Before beating it back to the beauty shop to complain, give yourself a rousing shampoo—three soapings, as many rinsings with a bath spray and a strong current of water.

When the hair is short, thin and slinky the pin curl may not be as strong as that which is attained by the use of metal curlers. Use fairly large ones in front and on the back of the head, smaller ones at the sides where the hair is thinnest. Sweep the comb through your tresses after the hair is dry and your head will be a mass of soft ringlets.

Wardrobe Sunshine



White blouse and pink hat.

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

WHITE BLOUSES and handsome hats are here to give a lively lift to winter-weary wardrobes. The blouse, shown here, is of crisp white linen with navy crepe collar and cuffs that are detachable. Navy buttons are on the tucked bosom. Pink felt is used for the draped bonnet worn way back to expose an unlined brow. It is trimmed with clusters of little navy felt bows, and the pink veil is dotted navy chenille.

Fashion Flashes

TOO GOOD to keep for Winter wear only are those hats of beautiful velours, so soft and rich looking. For early Spring there are lovely pastel velours and some deep mustard and golden yellows, some just with veiling, others with matching flowers.

REPEAT engagement for those lovely surahs, those rich tie silks, done in stripes or in neat, geometric patterns. Suits of woven rayon tie silk in gray, in wine, in navy—with tiny woven dot or flower petal designs, and cut on tailored lines—make for happy wearing.

IT'S NICE to stay at home and be all dressed up in a handsome robe. Imported French sheer wool, in cream with a Paisley design, makes a handsome tailored robe with shawl collar, cuffs and sash of champaigne-colored satin.

COMING IN for early Spring wear is the softly tailored fur jacket, nice with separate skirts and blouses and with slim frocks. A 29-inch long jacket of black kid caracul has a cutaway front and is sharply nipped in at the waist with double buttons in front and at the half belt which buttons at each side in back. Full, easy sleeves have pointed, turn-back cuffs.

THAT TRIED-AND-TRUE companion, the trench coat, is back for Spring, and all prettied up, too. Palest sea-foam green fleecy woollen makes a beauty that has deep-cut, raglan-shouldered sleeves and slanted patch pockets with shirred tops. A line of self buttons up the back vent and a self belt pulled through large matching leather tabs are other details.

EVERY COLLECTION of good handbags, even those in the higher volume brackets, includes large bags of calf lined in contrasting suede, while large suede bags have capeskin linings in bright, contrasting shades.

HOUSE APPROVES

action, addresses must be sent to the King and the United Kingdom parliament must pass complementary bills. Newfoundland, too, will do its share.

Enters on March 31st

But all of these stem naturally and automatically from yesterday's action.

For Canada, the act now is completed and the way cleared for Newfoundland to take, on March 31, the confederation niche that has awaited her more than 80 years.

The confederation came at precisely 4:58 o'clock in the afternoon as a small bubble of debate on the issue subsided and the deputy clerk solemnly called second reading.

There was one lone protest. J. I. Hamel, member of the two-man Nationalistic Bloc Populaire party who represents the Quebec riding of St. Maurice-LaFleche, shouted "on division," indicating a measure of disapproval.

Then the Chamber went into committe, the informal stage which permits quick question-and-answer debate, to study the 50 complex clauses which make up the terms of union.

There, Prime Minister St. Laurent, one of the principals in the drafting of the terms, provided a string of newsworthy answers as opposition members sought to determine the benefits, or otherwise that might fall to the peoples of Newfoundland and Canada.

May Alter Leases

He told the Chamber the Canadian government is attempting to have some alterations made in the 99-year leases which the United States government holds on three defence bases in Newfoundland. The negotiations already are under way and he plans to discuss the problem with President Truman when he visits Washington this weekend.

An effort is being made to bring the leases into line with the principles of the joint Canada - U. S. defence statement of Feb. 12, 1947. That document provided for the continuation of joint defensive co-operation in peacetime.

He said the six Newfoundland senatorships will be divided equally among the new province's three main religious denominations — two Anglicans, two Roman Catholics and two United Church men. He did not indicate how much time would elapse before the new senators are appointed.

He added there was a question whether the seven Newfoundland members of parliament could be elected in time to sit in this parliament. It would be "unfortunate" if they were elected and then with a general election called, had to go through another campaign and be elected again before coming to Ottawa.

But he could not, he told the Chamber with a smile, say when that general election would be called.

Two Provisions Not Liked

George Drew, Progressive conservative leader, said there were two provisions in the union terms which he did not like, and he suggested the government meet again with the Newfoundland representatives and give the points reconsideration.

He did not like the section allowing Newfoundland to manufacture and sell margarine but prohibiting it from shipping the butter substitute to the other provinces. This meant there would be a restriction on inter-provincial trade, something which the Confederation Fathers had sought to avoid.

Nor did he care for a provision which he said would prevent Newfoundland from obtaining adjustment of the financial arrangements being given her. This discriminated against the new province.

Mr. St. Laurent said the section dealing with margarine was a safeguard for Newfoundland in case the Privy Council reversed the Supreme Court decision freeing margarine in Canada. Newfoundland had little dairy industry and needed margarine.

As for the financial terms, Newfoundland would have two options after union. It could enter a taxation agreement until 1952 on the same terms as existing agreements with other provinces — all except Ontario and Quebec — or enter an agreement from the time of union until 1957.

No Wish to Influence

John Diefenbaker (PC — Lake Centre) wondered why responsible government had not been restored to Newfoundland before the Confederation question was discussed and asked about protests received from Newfoundlanders who did not want union.

The prime minister said Canada had scrupulously avoided doing anything which might be interpreted as an effort to influence Newfoundlanders in their decision. It did not consider it "proper" to question the manner in which Newfoundland and Britain went about choosing the island's form of government.

"We felt the Newfoundland people, proud of their destiny, would resent any Canadian action which could be construed as expressing an opinion on what they should do," he told Mr. Diefenbaker.

Protests had been received, but the government had said from the outset that it would not act on anything which did not come from the constitutional authority in Newfoundland.

John R. MacNicol (PC—Toronto Davenport) urged the government to undertake a series of public works in the new province, including the building of a trans-island highway, widening of the Newfoundland railway gauge and the provision of new ferries to operate between the island and the mainland.

UNIONISTS FIGHT

Struggle More Obscure

The struggle between unionism and labor is more obscure. Some labor men, accepting partition, have worked within its framework for the advancement of working-class welfare in Northern Ireland. Others have supported the workers while always opposing the British tie.

Astute timing and direction of the election fight by the government now appears to have split the labor vote. What might have been a modified class struggle has become a purely national argument.

Through the whole pattern of this national struggle runs a strain of sectarianism. Government supporters inveigh against the Roman Catholic majority in Eire and its offshoot minority in the north. The acrimony is hurled back by Ulster Roman Catholics.

Each side accuses the other of discrimination in employment. In addition, northern unionists attack "the Gaelic republic" to the south as one that would victimize protestants if ever it held sway over all Ireland.

"Irish confetti," said to include oranges with rusty razor blades jutting from the peel, was hurled last week at Labor candidate Jack Beattie in the Key Pottinger constituency of east-side Belfast.

Only one side expects to win. The Unionists, decked with Union Jacks and closing their street meeting with "God Save the King," confidently expect a bigger popular vote than the 184,205 they polled in 1945. The opposition gloomily admits it cannot return a majority to Stormont.

POLICE REPORTS

Said No Report Completed

When a search failed to reveal the report Constable Purdy was questioned and this officer said no report had been completed. He admitted there had been a partial report made out but that it had not been placed in the files.

Constable Keays asked for the report in connection with substantiation of charges against Corporal Ervine who be said had deliberately committed perjury in giving evidence regarding a traffic accident and who had caused Constable Purdy he said to make out a false report.

The charges against Corporal Ervine were made in connection with "interference" to a point where he had Mr. Donnan issue instructions that two criminal charges be withdrawn against one LeRoy Woods, of Sidney Township, who as result of an accident had been charged with drunk and dangerous driving.

Reported to Commissioner

In his report to Provincial Police Commissioner W. H. Stringer last Oct. 30, Constable Keays had referred to Corporal Ervine as "an officer stationed at Belleville for more than 15 years — who is nothing more than a rubber stamp with no record whatever to offer as a police officer."

Keays told of investigating the accident in which LeRoy Woods had been involved, stating the mishap had occurred three miles north of Belleville on Highway 14 on the evening of Nov. 4th., 1947. Constable Purdy had accompanied him on the investigation where it was found, he stated, that Woods was intoxicated. "The car driven by Woods had crashed into the guard rail posts," he said.

The witness said Woods had been arrested and he had instructed Constable Purdy to charge him with being drunk and with dangerous driving. The accused had been released on $200 bail and was remanded for two weeks.

On November 8th., Keays said he had visited Crown Attorney Donnan in his office where he had been introduced to Col. R. Vanderwater, Sidney Township, who had made representations on behalf of Woods. Keays said Mr. Donnan stated that if Woods would plead guilty to the charge of dangerous driving the drunk charge would be dismissed.

Asked for Report

It was here that Constable Keays asked for Constable Purdy's report of the Woods' accident which he said the Constable had made out on November 12th. When Constable Purdy said there had been no report, Keays showed surprise but said "Very well, I accept his answer."

Earlier in the afternoon while still presenting evidence on his charges of obstruction and interference on the part of Crown Attorney Donnan, the Constable had sought to prove that Mr. Donnan had been implicated with E. M. Carefoot, disqualified medical practitioner, who, he said, had obtained thousands of dollars from the public through sale of allegedly worthless mineral water and use of electrical machines as a professed cure for cancer.

Claimed He Owned Shares

"Mr. Donnan," he said "had owned a 'sizable' block of shares in the Belleville Aqua Vitae Water Company, Ltd., owned by Mr. Carefoot, and had suppressed evidence in the trial against Mr. Carefoot on which he was charged with false pretences." Mr. Carefoot was acquitted on the charge.

The constable sought to prove that Mr. Donnan was aware that aqua vitae water from wells at Foxboro had been analysed as plain ordinary water, and also that it had been advertised in an "exaggerated and misleading manner."

However, in a communication from Mr. Donnan to a Dominion analyst, Keays said Mr. Donnan stated as far as he knew there had been no advertising as to the mineral value of the water. If there had been, it was without his knowledge. Mr. Donnan in his letter said he was not a director of the company but was interested as the firm's solicitor, and as owner of a block of shares.

Endeavoring to disprove the above statement by Mr. Donnan that he was unaware of advertising claiming exaggerated value of the water, Keays introduced a photostat copy of a Toronto newspaper which in a newspage story reported Mr. Carefoot as claiming great benefits from the water as a cure for many diseases.

Says He Was Threatened

When the Carefoot case had come up for investigation Keays said Mr. Donnan threatened him if he should give any evidence which would implicate him with the accused he might be charged with accessory to the fact. Mr. Donnan later had threatened "he would get me if it was the last thing he ever did."

Mr. Donnan had acted as solicitor for Mr. Carefoot in civil matters and refused to prosecute the Carefoot case and the matter was turned over to Assistant Crown Attorney Gordon Robertson. Later certain documents in connection with the case had disappeared from Mr. Robertson's file and from that time on, Keays said, "he had been instructed to forward all correspondence direct to the Attorney General's Department."

Keays spoke of the Carefoot trial and of being cross-examined by Arthur Slaght, K.C., Toronto defence counsel, regarding investigation of the case. "I answered that I did start to investigate in 1945 but had been instructed by Mr. Donnan to discontinue."

He said that despite the publicity which had been given in the press regarding his being instructed to discontinue the Carefoot investigation he had not been asked to submit a report on the matter.

Produced Paper With Ad

Keays produced bound volume of the Ontario Intelligencer in which appeared an advertisement during Feb. 1937 with reference to aqua vitae water from mineral springs at Foxboro. The advertisement urged readers to secure their copy of a pamphlet or folder extolling the medicinal qualities of the water. The evidence was noted but the newspaper file was not admitted as evidence, it being termed as being "too bulky."

On several occasions during the Carefoot investigation Assistant Crown Attorney Robertson had warned Keays, "you better watch yourself, Ernie, Mr. Donnan promised to get you," Keays stated.

"I asked Mr. Robertson what he meant," said Keays. "I told him I wasn't afraid of Mr. Donnan. Once the accused is before the bar, I didn't care if he got the Victoria Cross."

Thus far the Royal Commission hearing has been held at the Shire Hall but it was undecided whether Wednesday's session would be held there or in the county court room. Commissioner J. Keiller Mackay announced the hearing would convene at Shire Hall Wednesday at which time it would be known whether the court room would be available.

Expect to Protect Sovereignty Of the Dominion

Ottawa, Feb. 9 (CP) — The government is expecting to protect Canada's sovereignty when union with Newfoundland brings three United States military bases within Canadian territory, Prime Minister St. Laurent indicated Tuesday.

He told the Commons negotiations now are going on with Washington "looking to variation" in the 99-year leases held by the U.S. "to bring them into accord with the joint declaration on defence co-operation" enunciated by the two countries two years ago.

Mr. St. Laurent also will discuss the matter with President Truman when he visits Washington this weekend.

The declaration provides that "all co-operative arrangements will be without impairment of the control of either country over all activities in its territory."

This might mean one of several things for the bases which the U.S. took over in the bases-for-destroyers swap in 1941, spent a reported $500,000,000 to build up and now mans with relatively small numbers of men.

Canada may ask that at least nominal control of them be handed over to her forces, or she may only ask for a voice in their command. The fact that they cost the U.S. so much is said in informed circles to make it unlikely that Canada will attempt to buy and operate them independently. Further the U.S. is believed to attach considerable importance to them and to have no desire to give them up.

Here's a Story of

"Big Business"

Any story of Canada's largest life assurance company — the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada — is a story of "big business" because more than one and a half million people the world over are safeguarded by the protection and security of Sun Life policies.

The ever-growing goodwill which is enjoyed by the Sun Life of Canada is due to the diversity and liberality of the Company's life assurance policies, to the character of its representatives, and to the promptness and efficiency of its service to policyholders, throughout its entire 78 years' history.

Last year alone, payments amounting to more than $100,000,000 were made to Sun Life policyholders and beneficiaries.

THE SUN LIFE STORY of 1948 is made up of many thousands of individual records, each a simple human document, yet of vital importance to those concerned:

The Story of Mrs. M.B.H.

. . . is a tragic one. She lost her husband in an automobile accident and was left alone with three young children to care for. But to her husband, responsibility reached beyond death, and his Sun Life Family Income policy provides for the family until the youngsters are grown up, and then gives to the widow a regular income for life.

C.J.S. Was a Good Salesman

. . . who all his life looked ahead. Thirty years ago he paid his first premium on a Sun Life Retirement policy. Last October he made his final business trip and now, at 65, he enjoys the leisure that his foresight made possible.

T.L.M. Bought a Business

. . . and is now his own master. He planned this when, on graduating from college, he took out a Sun Life Endowment for assurance protection as well as systematic and easy saving. The Endowment matured recently, providing the means which enabled him to take advantage of a great opportunity.

No Need of Charity

In the small industrial plant owned by D.B.L., 100 employees never have to pass the hat when a bench pal dies. Like hundreds of thousands of workers in other industrial and business organizations large and small, they are protected by Sun Life Group Assurance, an effective instrument for good employee-employer relations.

Yes, there are thousands of such cases in the Sun Life story of 1948 — a story of service to the public, repeated year in, year out.

From the 1948 Annual Report

Benefits paid to policyholders and beneficiaries during 1948:
$105,946,613

Total Benefits paid since the first Sun Life policy was issued in 1871:
$2,126,737,233

New Assurances issued during the year:
$374,852,547

Assurances in force:
$4,088,234,182

$2,100 Minimum For Ministers United Church Aim

Toronto, Feb. 9 (CP)—United Church of Canada outlined details of a drive to establish a minimum salary to its ministers of $2,100 in 1949.

Goal of the drive will be a $2,200 miniuum in 1950 and 2,400 in 1951.

A church statement, noting that a "salary of $2,200 today has no more purchasing power than had $1,400 in 1939," said its purpose is to make church members realize "that they must do better and go farther" in sharing their living standards with the ministers.

Minimum salary goal for 1950 was $2,200 and for 1951, $2,400.

German Woman Faces Spy Trial

Heidelberg, Germany, Feb. 8 — (AP) — A German woman accused of spying for Czechoslovakia will be tried Feb. 14 in the first spy trial by Americans in Germany since the war, it was announced today.

United States Army headquarters said the woman is Elfriede Zirlik, 33, a Sudeten German who lived in Czechoslovakia before the war.

She is the first to be tried of 20 persons arrested Nov. 2 — as members of a Czechoslovak spy ring.

Eight others are to be charged formally today. The dates of their trials have not been set. They will be tried by a military commission of 10 United States Army officers and two American civilians authorized to assess the death penalty.

The Zirlik woman is said to have used "Lillian" as a cover name in reporting political and military information to Czechoslovak officials. Her trial will be open to the public at a place not yet announced. Some of the defendants may be tried in secret, however, to protect some of the information expected to be brought out.

Conservationist Praises Jack Miner's Philosophy

Kingsville (Special) — General Elliott C. Dill of New York City who is not only known as a general but as a great conservationist of this generation speaking of the late Jack Miner recently said "What Jack Miner advocated in the interest of conservation is more and more becoming the accepted formula for leaders in the work of restoration."

Jack Miner always felt that if the deer, caribou, moose and other animals valuable to man for food were to survive and increase that man should control the wolves and other predators. Recently the U. S. Government realized how true Jack Miner's statement was and has inaugurated a predator control program which is going on at the present time to reduce the timber wolf in Alaska to save the herd of caribou.

New York State has been compelled to do likewise and take Jack Miner's advice in the state of New York and has asked the co-operation of the Fish and Wild Life Service at Washington to help reduce the timber wolf and the bob cat which are annihilating deer in that state.

Jack Miner's philosophy was "if there are one thousand deer in a country and one thousand timber wolves and man shoots five hundred deer for food then man should shoot the same percentage of wolves to keep nature in balance."

'Invisible Man' Believed by Many 'Hanging Judge'

Steeple Aston, Wiltshire, England, Feb. 9 (CP)—An invisible man who throws a shadow is causing consternation in this tiny country village.

Many believe it is the ghost of Judge Jeffries, who once held his "hanging court" in what now is the village store.

Edwin Tugwood, who runs the store, says he has seen the shadow and heard the steps of the spectre.

"My wife and I sleep in the old courtroom where the judge sentenced highwaymen to be hung," Tugwood said. "Frequently he climbs the stairs, walks along the passage, lifts the heavy iron latch of the door.

"Then we see the shadow walk across the room to an old cupboard with pigeon holes in it."

Two other villagers claim to have seen the shadow ghost.

CHRISTIAN'S ARE SELLING OUT
In Appreciation of the Wonderful Business
We Have Enjoyed During the Past Years,
We are Offering A Tremendous

STOREWIDE SALE

From Saturday's Issue of The Ontario Intelligencer.

An announcement to the effect that the Christian's Electric and Hardware business, which is a long-established business in the city, is being offered for sale as a going concern

In speaking to Mr. Christian, the proprietor, it was learned that his company has acquired a large wholesale operation which will require an ever increasing portion of his time and he feels it would be unfair to the clientelle which has been so loyal to the local establishment throughout the years with its patronage, to attempt to carry on this business by remote control.

Mr. Christian, in referring to the decision to sell the business, paid tribute to the local staff who have been associated with the store for many years.

"I regret the fact that I find it necessary to make this decision," he said, "when I review the fine business that we have done which would run into several million dollars, however, I am confident that the people of Belleville will be better served by local management than would be possible if I was to continue to attempt to operate the other division of our business along with this present store."

"We have engaged Seale and Deering, 26 College Street, Toronto to attend to the dttails of the sale, and I sincerely hope that if these are those in this district who are interested in a successful and highly profitable merchandising outlet, that they will make this known immediately to Mr. Seale, who, I can assure them, will give a preference to those from the district who will be interested in this purchase."

Acheson Denies Atlantic Pact An "Aggressive Move"

Plane To Carry Medical Supplies To Eight Eskimos

Mysterious Malady Strikes Group in Arctic Circle

Edmonton, Feb. 9 (CP) — A mercy plane was scheduled to leave Edmonton tonight or early tomorrow carrying medical supplies to treat eight Eskimos suffering from a mysterious malady.

A third R.C.A.F. Dakota was ordered into service after receiving news yesterday that a trapper at an isolated Arctic post requested medical supplies and bandages.

The air force announced today that wireless communication was established with the trapper, a "Mr. Lyle," who reported seven Eskimos are ill at Cresswell Bay and another at a camp about 47 miles south of Cresswell Bay.

Cresswell Bay is inside the Arctic Circle on Somerset island and about 1,740 airmiles northeast of Edmonton.

Two air force Dakota planes have been in the Arctic for a week investigating reports nine of the 17 Eskimos at Cresswell Bay had been killed by the mysterious disease.

Mr. Lyle told the air force that L. A. Learmonth, a trapper at Fort Ross south of Cresswell Bay, has started on a 200-mile trek northeast to Arctic Bay for aid for the Eskimos.

The air force search and rescue branch will not attempt another flight from Cambridge Bay, about 1,440 miles northwest of Edmonton, to Cresswell Bay until next Monday.

UNLIKELY LIFE SENTENCE WILL BE INCREASED

No Indication When the Appeals Court Will be Held

Budapest, Feb. 9 (AP)—The comment of a spokesman for the Hungarian foreign office made it seem unlikely today that the life sentence of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty will be increased to death by the appeals court.

The Cardinal was found guilty by the "people's court" yesterday of treason, plotting to overthrow the Communist government and speculating in dollars on the black market. His six co-defendants also were found guilty and all but one appealed. There was no indication when the appeals court will act.

The foreign-office spokesman said last night that on the treason charge the death penalty is pronounced under Hungarian law only in wartime.

The spokesman said the Cardinal escaped the death sentence only because he had four extentuating circumstances in his favor against three aggravating circumstances. If a defendant's extentuating circumstances outnumber the aggravating factors the lowest sentence in each category is provided by Hungarian law.

Presiding Judge Vilmos Olthys, in pronouncing sentence yesterday, said alleviating circumstances in favor of the Cardinal were his confession and expressions of regret at his actions, the fact that he lived remote from the world's practical affairs, and that he was misled by the United States minister, Selden Chapin, into believing the United States "would start a war and this war would help him attain his aims."

(Chapin yesterday branded this statement as "nonsense.")

Factors against him, the court said, were his high station in the church, his high degree of education and the accumulation of his crimes.

Despite the spokesman's statement, however, the appeals court last December affirmed a death sentence pronounced on Victor Csornoky, son-in-law of Zoltan Tildy, then President of Hungary, on charges of treason, crimes against the people, and black-market currency dealings. Csornoky was hanged Dec. 7.

In his press conference last night, the spokesman again made bitter attacks against British and American public figures, Chapin in Particular.

The spokesman singled out foreign secretary Bevin of Britain and Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, charging they had made statements calculated to influence the court's decision.

Municipalities Not Interested

Thorold, Feb. 9 (CP)— Three municipalities have gone on record as "not interested" in the joint sewage disposal scheme proposed by St. Catharines and have deferred any action until a fact-finding committee reports.

Thorold, Thorold Township and Merritton councils Tuesday night decided to discuss building a disposal plant to serve the three municipalities. Mayor Leslie Skipper of Merritton said the original proposal by St. Catharines, involving a disposal plant at Port Weller to serve the area, was too costly and charged that costs had not been apportioned fairly.

All A.F.L. Unions In Canada Asked To Take Action

Miami, Fla., Feb. 9 (AP).—The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor concluded its winter meeting yesterday with a statement calling on all A.F.L. unions in Canada to take "vigorous action" immediately to weed communists out of Canadian labor unions.

The statement followed a reported fight betwen rival factions in the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress. It had been alleged that Percy Bengough, T.L.C. president, had declined to take a militant stand to oust Red sympathizers from the A.F.L. unions grouped with the T.L.C., as asked by Frank Hall, a T.L.C. vice-president and head of the A.F.L. Railway Clerks Brotherhood in Canada

The A.F.L. council here heard both Bengough and Hall in a closed session yesterday before issuing the statement.

"The evidence presented in this dispute," the statement said, "discloses a shocking picture of the influences wielded by communists in Canada in the affairs of the Trades and Labor congress."

Bengough, in a telephone interview last night, said he disagreed with the A.F.L. executive council.

"We are strongly of the opinian," he said, "that such conclusions were arrived at without sufficient consideration and without devoting the necessary time and consultation with executive members of the T.L.C. who were available in Miami."

Hall said the A.F.L. statement was a declaration that the T.L.C. must get rid of communists "or else". He said his group was pleased with the results of the meeting.

Finds Bullet Wounds Were 'Self-Inflicted'

Ancaster, Ont., Feb. 9 (CP)—A coroner's jury today decided Harry R. Bennett, 68, chief constable of Ancaster, died Feb. 1 from "self-inflicted bullet wounds, intentionally or otherwise."

Bennett was found dead by his wife in the front room of his house, a blood-stained tunic in a second room and his revolver in a third room.

SCANDINAVIAN PLANE WRECKAGE FOUND OFF COAST

Spotted Just North Of Patch of Oily Water

Copenhagen, Feb. 9 (CP)—The wreck of a Scandinavian airliner missing since yesterday while flying to Copenhagen from Madrid with 28 aboard was reported today to have been sighted off the Swedish coast.

Scandinavian Airlines, owners of the plane, said aircraft had spotted it in the sound between Denmark and Sweden and a few miles north of Malmoe. It lay just north of an oil patch located earlier.

There was no indication that any of the 28 aboard had survived.

Authorities were confident the spot was where the plane crashed after fishermen picked up a seat from the plane's passenger cabin and a grey overcoat floating on the oily water.

The airliner, a British-made Viking, was flying from Madrid to Copenhagen with 23 Spanish passengers and five crew members when it radioed it would attempt an instrument landing at Kastrup airport here because of fog. The last message was received at 2:50 p.m. yesterday.

The passengers were coming to attend Copenhagen's industrial fair.

Parents Convicted Under Juvenile Delinquents' Act

Preston, Ont., Feb. 9 (CP) — Parents of a 15-year-old boy, found guilty of theft, have been convicted under the Juvenile Delinquent's Act.

The father was sentenced to two months and the mother remanded two weeks for sentence because they did not "remove conditions which render or are likely to render a child a juvenile delinquent."

The parents pleaded innocent and said they had no knowledge of their son stealing mechanical equipment or keeping it around the farm home.

Police discovered a cache of loot valued at hundreds of dollars and numbering more than 100 articles in the home and the adjoining barn. The boy has been sentenced to an indeterminate period in the Bowmanville training school for boys.

China War May be Quiet For Months is Report

By HAROLD K. MILKS

Nanking, Feb. 9. (AP)—The Chinese war may stay quiet for months.

Just why the cessation of hostilities is continuing can be answered only by the Communists in power north of the Yangtze River.

Few observers here expect acting president, Li Tsung-Jen to arrange a national peace. Neither do they expect an attempt by the Communist to cross the Yangtze and drive southward by military force alone.

Admittedly the Reds have defeated Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist armies in the military phase of the war.

There is practically no organizen resistance to the Communists north of the Yangtze, and little south of the river.

Communist leader Mao Tze-Tung and his subordinates give every indication they are content to rest on their laurels for the time being.

How long Li can hang on in Nanking without opening official and formal peace talks is a question of growing speculation. Li's official five-man peace delegation, appointed two days after he took over the duties of president, is still scattered.

The Shanghai delegation was scheduled to leave today but was cancelled by Li for an unexplained reason.

In Shanghai there is a belief the Communists are not yet ready to talk peace. Many believe the Red boss of Peiping, Yen Chien-Ying, has not been empowered to talk terms with anybody. Certainly his treatment of the local Nanking peace delegation now in Peiping does not contradict this theory. The Nanking delegation is being treated informally as visitors.

Norway Rejects 10-Year Pact With Sweden

Stockholm, Feb. 9. (AP)—Sweden said today Norway had rejected a 10-year military pact with Sweden because it would have kept her from joining a stronger group such as the proposed North Atlantic Alliance.

A joint declaration on Swedish foreign policy by Premier Tage Erlander and Foreign Minister M. Osten Unden expressed regret that Norway turned down the Swedish offer.

The declaration, read to both Houses of Parliament, today restate Sweden's decision to keep out of the cold war, as well as the North Atlantic pact.

The Swedish leaders said Sweden had taken a big step away from her traditional policy of neutrality in offering a full military alliance to Norway and Denmark, her Scandinavian neighbors.

They said Norwegian acceptance would have made the three countries one unit, without ties

A draft treaty drawn up by Sweden would have obliged the other two to render immediate military aid if one of the three should ge attacked. None of the countries would, however, have had the right to enter a military alliance with a third power.

The draft would have declared the intention of the three countries to keep out of war unless they are drawn into it by an armed attack, or by a United Nations declaration of sanctions against an aggressor. A joint defence council of the three would have been set up and close collaboration in foreign policy established.

Steel Users May Be Stuck With High-Priced Steel

New York, Feb. 9 — (AP) — Some steel users will be stuck with contracts for high-priced steel if supplies become as easy as expected by the middle of the year, The Iron Age, metalworking trade weekly, said today.

The publication said this would affect customers with iron-clad conversion contracts, which call for buying high-priced ingots at one place and having them converted into finished products at another plant.

Reporting many users are price conscious for the first time since the end of the war, The Iron Age said it "looks like the auto companies and the oil people have quite a few contracts for steel at higher prices which will turn into white elephants before the year is out."

Sharp declines in scrap prices at Chicago, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia were credited with causing a $2.84 drop in The Iron Age steel-scrap composite to '37.58 a gross ton. This is its lowest level since the summer of 1947.

The ingot rate was placed at 100.5 per cent of capacity, down half a point from the preceding week.

UNION DIRECTOR HELD AT PARIS, CARRIED TO CAR

Company Will Not Negotiate During Strike

Paris, Ont., Feb. 9 — (CP) — Arrest of Val Bjarnson, Ontario director of the United Textile Workers of America (A.F.L.) and a firm stand by Penman's Limited against negotiation while a strike is in progress were main developments today in the textile plant walkout.

Bjarnson's arrest on a charge of intimidation followed a picket line scuffle outside the company's No. 3 mill today.

The company released a telegram sent to Labor Minister Daley who last night said he was prepared to help negotiate the wages strike that started Jan. 18.

"Only a small percentage of Penman's employees on strike," the telegram said "Company operating all departments satisfactorily. Have previously outlined unequivocally company's position with regard to meeting union representatives. Unwarranted behavior of union since strike no inducement to modify position."

The company had stated previously it would not negotiate for a settlement while the strike was in progress. The telegram suggested a personal discussion with the minister early next week.

Remanded to Feb. 15

Bjarnson appeared before Magistrate R. J. Gillen and was remanded on bail of $1,000 to Feb. 15 for hearing. It was reported the scuffle occurred over Evans, Bjarnson accosting him as he walked to the plant and attempting to persuade him to join the picket line.

As Evans attempted to walk around Bjarnson, the latter was said to have stepped in front of him. Corporal Jack Whittey of the provincial police and two constables came to Evans' assistance. A pushing contest began between police and the union leader which ended with police carrying him, struggling and protesting, into a squad car.

Will be Present

Later in court defence counsel Norman Robins asked why Evans wasn't present. Crown Attorney C. C. Slemin said he would have Evans in court on Feb. 15.

Mr. Robins said earlier that three 15-year-old boys were fired by the company because they joined the strike. However, the company claimed in a letter to Chief of Police Tom Bean that the three "voluntarily left work."

The three had held work permits and returned them to the chief.

Company officials, however, said they would not meet the union for negotiations while the strike continues.

Mr. Daley, in his message last night to company and union, said his intervention followed a request from the town council, other civic bodies and citizens of this community near Brantford.

Fighting at various times on the picket line has resulted in injury to at least five persons and in the arrest of 23 strikers on charges of intimidation, obstructing police and disorderly conduct.

Two of the 23 arrested, William Stewart, 29, and Mrs. Helen Muller, 32, both union organizers, were convicted yesterday on charges of intimidation with violence and of disorderly conduct. Stewart was fined a total of $60 and Mrs. Muller $30 and costs or 20 days.

Charges were dismissed against three pickets. Arthur Pike, son-in-law of Mayor William England, was accused of obstructing a police officer. Creeden and Williamson faced intimidation charges.

The hearing of charges against the 18 other persons arrested was scheduled to proceed today at Brantford.

FORM 'SLAVIC STUDIES' DEPARTMENT

Montreal, Feb. 9 — (CP) —The University of Montreal announced Tuesday the formation of a department of Slavic studies. "The department will be the largest of its kind in North America," said Canon Arthur Sidoleau, Dean of the Faculty of Letters.

State Secretary Challenges Charge Made By Russia

Denmark Intends to Look Into Terms for Joining Pact

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States today vigorously challenged Russia's charge that the proposed North Atlantic defence alliance is an "aggressive" move by the western powers.

Acheson told a press conference the purpose of the pact now being drafted is exactly the opposite.

The Russian government in a note to Norway had condemned the North Atlantic alliance and asserted it "serves the aggressive policy of certain powers."

The Soviet representative to the United Nations repeated this accusation yesterday in New York.

Answering questions, Acheson said the alliance is fully in keeping with the United Nations because it comes directly out of article 51 of the U.N. charter. This provides, he recalled, for individual and collective regional arrangements to help keep the peace.

Discuss All Aspects

Acheson said he was discussing all aspects of the situation with Norway's visiting foreign minister, Halvard Lange.

"The talks cover," he said, "the United States attitude toward a suggested Scandinavian pact based on neutrality."

Acheson expressed doubt whether the writing of North Atlantic alliance can be concluded by Friday so that the Norwegian foreign minister would have full information on it before returning to Oslo this weekend.

Meanwhile, diplomatic officials reported that Denmark intends to follow Norway in looking into terms for joining the alliance.

It would mark the first time the any official interest in the possibility of linking its defences with the American-sponsored security pact.

In the past, the Danish government has supported Sweden's idea that the three Scandinavian countries—Sweden, Norway and Denmark—should form an alliance of their own based on neutrality.

Acheson and his top assistants in the State Department currently are busy assembling facts requested by Norway's visiting foreign ministers. The Norwegian foreign minister, Halvard M. Lange, is continuing here this detailed examination of the Atlantic Security Alliance.

Wants to Explain Attitude

As far as is known, however, the Swedish diplomat, Eric Boheman, merely wants to explain his country's attitude and not to inquire into the pact.

Acheson summoned the Ambassadors of the sponsor countries of the alliance to the State Department yesterday to a 2 1-2-hour meeting.

Norway's inquiries are believed to have figured in their conversations. Some foreign diplomatic officials indicated the main subject discussed was the question of when to make public the main points of the North Atlantic alliance.

Norway's desire for assurances of protection even while it is considering the North Atlantic alliance also was believed a topic for discussion.

The Norwegian government, under pressure from Russia to stay out of the North Atlantic alliance, is reported anxious to get promises from the State Department that the United States will stand behind the Norwegians even before Norway signs the pact as an official member.

RUSSIA GIVEN CHANCE TO MATCH WORDS OF PEACE

Big-Four Parley on Austria Opens in London in Closed Session

London, Feb. 9 (AP)— Russia renewed support of Yugoslavia's territorial claims on Austria today, United States sources reported, despite her quarrel with Yugoslav Premier Tito.

Russia restated her view soon after the big four foreign ministers' deputies convened for a third big try at writing the long-delayed Austrian peace treaty.

The conference had been hailed by western diplomats as a place for Russia to match her recent peace talk with hard action in settling Europe's problems.

Meeting in London's historic Lancaster House under the chairmanship of Samuel Reber of the United States, the deputies took no decision on the Russian suggestion and adjourned until tomorrow.

An official American observer said he would not discount the possibility that Russia might change her stand later. None of the deputies expected concessions at the very outset of the meeting.

No Useful Purpose Served

A British observer said only that Russia wanted to hear the Yugoslav claims once again. Both the American and the British sources said the west took the view that no useful purpose could be served by a Yugoslav restatement. Western opposition to the Yugoslav claims continues unchanged.

The British and American sources said the Soviet deputy, Georgi N. Zarubin, began by blaming the west for the previous breakdown of the talks on Austria last spring and said Russia had made concessions looking toward an agreement. Russia had scaled down her demand for $200,000,000 worth of German-owned assets to $150,000,000 and cut slightly her claims on Austrian oil wells.

However, the American source said the general atmosphere of this conference was more cordial than that of the last.

Deputies of the foreign ministers of Russia, the United States, Britain and France held a closed session for a third try at drafting a treaty of Austrian peace and independence.

The prime question was whether Russia would continue to back Yugoslavia's demand for $150,000,000 in reparations and some 800 square miles of Austrian territory.

Russia's insistence that Premier Tito's government get its demands helped deadlock the last conference, which broke up May 6, 1948, after 110 sessions. A month later Russia and the Communist International Information Bureau broke with Tito.

The Austrian treaty talks represent the first big-four meeting since Russia and her Communist followers in Europe began what has been termed a peace offensive.

Western spokesmen said that "deeds, not words" were needed to solve east-west difficulties. They pointed to Berlin and Austria as two places where Russian actions to bring about a settlement with the west would speak volumes.

It seemed that if anyone is to give way on the Yugoslav claims, it would have to be Russia.

An American source said "we can't give way on the frontier question." He added that the United States will oppose any reparations settlement that could possibly lead to a Communist economic squeeze in an effort to take over Austria.

Progress Made in Study of Common Colds

(Written by Terver Williams for the United Kingdom Information Office)

It is sometimes said, rather bitterly, that with careful medical treatment one can be cured of a cold in a week, whereas if nature is left to take its course it disappears in seven days. Unhappily this is virtually true and until recently the cold has remained almost unchallenged as the world's commonest ailment and one which every year causes tens of millions of working hours to be lost.

During the past two and a half years, however, an intensive study of the problem has been made in Britain at Harvard Hospital, Salisbury. Although no spectacular cold cure has been announced, this special unit set up by the Medical Research Council and the Ministry of Health has been able to report real progress and clearing up of a number of important points which have so far been very doubtful.

The greatest difficulty in studying the common cold has always been that no known animal—except chimpanzees—are susceptible to it, while the ailment itself is not serious enough to bring sufferers to hospital or clinics where they can be carefully studied. Consequently, laboratory work is extremely difficult.

At Salisbury, for the first time, it has been possible to bring together really large numbers of human volunteers for detailed research. Nearly 1,000 volunteers have visited the clinic for 10-day periods. During their stay elaborate precautions are taken to see they run no risk of accidental infection from the staff or from fellow volunteers so that the results of the experiments made can be quite clearly understood. While relying on their human volunteers, the research workers have themselves made repeated attempts to find some susceptible animals, but quite without success. Hedgehogs, monkeys, ferrets, mice and many other animals all enjoy complete and enviable immunity from this human weakness.

A satisfactory method has been perfected for inducing colds in volunteers at will. It is done by transferring nasal washings from somebody in the throes of a cold to the nose of a volunteer. A high proportion of "takes" is recorded, though wide differences in individual resistance have been discovered. Another discovery is that infection is present fully 24 hours before the sufferer becomes aware of it. Some normal people without colds seem from these experiments to be carriers of the cold virus.

The virus present in nasal secretions appears in some ways to be extraordinarily resistant. Thus, when stored in intense cold, secretions retained their infective powers even after two years. On the other hand some popular writings—which the Salisbury workers have studied just as carefully as the records in medical journals—seem to show that in a small community the cold virus dies out in a few weeks unless fresh infection is brought in from the outside world.

Thus, the Spitzbergen community finds that colds almost disappear a fortnight after the last ship leaves in Winter, but there is an epidemic as soon as the first ship arrives in Spring. In Tristan da Cunha, another very isolated community, the same kind of thing occurs, though here an interesting fact is that ships which arrive after long voyages bring no colds presumably because the virus has died out en route. Ships from Cape Town, 12 days away, bring colds but not those from Panama which make the long journey round Cape Horn.

An unsuccessful but none the less important series of attempts was made to cultivate the cold virus in incubating hens' eggs, but four commonly-used techniques, which have succeeded with other viruses, failed. The cold virus, which can for a few days reduce the strongest man to misery, was apparently unable to thrive in the delicate tissues of an unhatched chick.

Most people have their own ideas about the original cause of colds—the two main schools of thought being that which maintains all colds are caught from other sufferers and that which believes that cold feet, draughts and so on are the culprits. The Salisbury experiments suggest that both answers may be right. Almost everybody may, at some time or other, harbor the virus, but a cold develops only when a draught or sudden chill temporarily lowers the body's resistance or when one receives a particularly heavy dose of infection by coming into close contact with a person whose nose-blowing and sneezing is sowing a rich crop of infected droplets.

The ubiquitous pocket handkerchief also seems to be a dangerous source of infection. Experiments with bacteria show that a carelessly flourished handkerchief can contribute enormous numbers of bacteria and, possibly, viruses equally easily become airborne. This danger might be almost completely averted if every handkerchief was impregnated with some suitable disinfectant every time it was laundered.

Natural resistance to colds varies enormously from one person to another, and in the same person from one year to another. It is on this fact that the reputation of most popular cold cures is built. At Salisbury, volunteers received doses of infection thousands of times heavier than would normally be encountered in everyday life, but even so, two people out of every five proved resistant to a single attempt at infection. Very few, however, claimed to remain free of colds all year.

A popular belief not altogether borne out by these experiments is that after suffering from a cold one is temporarily immune to another. In fact, however, it proved possible to reinfect some volunteers less than a fortnight after they had recovered from the previous cold.

It is popularly believed that colds are the consequence of cold weather and are therefore seasonal in their onslaught. The Salisbury team doubts this. Thus, in the West Indies, an epidemic of colds may occur in December when the temperature is little lower than it is in mid-Summer. In other countries a monsoon, and not a cold spell, may herald an outbreak of colds. Immunity to colds in Summer may be apparent rather than real and a consequence of the fact that instead of crowding together indoors we spend a lot of time in the open air where the chance of infection is much less.

These careful experiments in Britain have not led to a full knowledge of the cause of colds or to any method of curing them, but they have laid a very solid foundation for future work. In particular they have succeeded in their main object, which was to work out a practical laboratory method for detailed study of colds, without which no progress could be hoped for.

Jury Decides Police Officer Shot Himself

Hamilton, Feb. 9 (CP) — An inquest jury decided Tuesday that Constable Harry R. Bennett of nearby Ancaster shot himself "intentionally or otherwise." The 62-year-old officer died in hospital here Feb. 1 a few hours after his wife found him lying wounded on the floor of their home.

Ancaster councillors recalled at a meeting Monday night that a by-law had been passed in January confirming Bennett's reappointment as constable. Councillor W. J. Briggar told the meeting:

"Two or three days before his death, Constable Bennett said he felt he was going to lose his job. He should have been assured of the council's confidence in him."

Nine Hungarians Officials in U.S. Quit Their Posts

By The Associated Press

A "closed" sign hung today on the door of the Hungarian Consulate in New York—a silent symbol of the wave of angry reaction stirred by the conviction of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty.

Hungarian consular staffs in two other cities also were split by resignations that came as public officials and churchmen throughout the western world protested the life prison sentence imposed on the Cardinal in Budapest on treason and other charges.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, today termed the sentence "more merciless" than death, and called on Americans to vitalize their protests by removing "every Communist cell from within our own government."

In Congress, demands were raised that the United States sever diplomatic relations with Hungary, and that the United Nations be asked to intervene in the Mindszenty case.

In Canberra, Herbert Evatt, President of the United Nations General Assembly, said the matter may come before the April U. N. meeting in New York.

Heading the list of nine Hungarian officials in the United States who quit their posts yesterday in protest was Bela Balassa, acting Consul-General in New York and a Hungarian diplomat for 22 years.

He said he reached his decision because present events in his homeland "overstepped the bounds of human morals and God-like decency."

Four members of his staff resigned with him.

In Cleveland, two clerks quit their jobs in the Hungarian Consulate office. Two officials of the Hungarian Legation in Washington also resigned.

Will Be Allowed to Stay

Indications in Washington were that the consulate staff members probably will be allowed to stay in the United States as political refugees.

In Britain's House of Commons, L. W. B. Teeling, Conservative member, served notice he will ask President Harold Wilson of the Board of Trade to consider breaking off negotiations for a trade treaty with Hungary.

In Budapest, a spokesman for the Hungarian government criticized foreign secretary Bevin of Britain for what the spokesman said was "an attempt on the eve of the verdict to influence public opinion."

No Political Motives in Trial Says Spokesman

Budapest, Feb. 9 — (AP) — A foreign ministry spokesman Tuesday told correspondents who covered the Mindszenty trial their reports had been objective, but were "misunderstood by those who did not believe what you saw with your own eyes."

The spokesman said demonstrations in the United States and Britain "clearly show that people abroad took not notice of the reports you sent from here."

The spokesman said he wanted to discuss the political background of the case as the legal basis of the verdict, although he stressed there were "no political motives" in passing the sentences.

He made these assertions:

1. The question of religion was not discussed in any respect during the trial.

2. The fact that Cardinal Mindszenty was a Royalist meant he aimed to abolish the results of democracy. "In Communist terminology the Communist state is considered a democracy.)

3. "Imperialists" abroad attempted to make the Cardinal a hero of free speech and human liberty.

4. The action of Selden Chapin, United States minister to Hungary, made the Cardinal believe the Americans would soon interfere in Hungary's internal agairs and that the Cardinal would soon assume the role of the patriarch of Athens. (Chapin has described charges that he influenced the Cardinal as "nonsense and pure fantasy.")

5. The basis of the Cardinal's policy has been a belief that a third world war is inevitable. His role would be to resist until the war broke out and to supply the United States with information.

Bevin had said before sentence was passed that the trial was "repugnant to every Englishman."

The Hungarian spokesman said "we also think it repugnant that a spokesman for a Labor government which oppressed human freedom from Greece to Malay and against which people revolt should dare criticize a trial, the fairness of which cannot be doubted."

Shannonville Fair Board Re-elects H. Osborne, Pres.

Shannonville — The annual meeting of the Shannonville Agricultural Society was held at the home of the secretary treasurer, K. R. Vivian recently. There was a good attendance of the directors and their wives, also the lady directors.

The meeting was in charge of the president Mr. Harold Osborne. Mr. Osborne expressed his thanks and appreciation to the officers and directors for their support in the past year, which helped to make the fair last September such a success. He also gave credit to the Junior Farmers for their successful calf club which was an innovation this last fair. Very keen interest had been shown in the large number of entries in the competition.

Secretary for the meeting was Mrs. John Blatherwick.

Mr. K. R. Vivian gave the financial report on the activities. He discussed the various problems of the year. Some sections showed a substantial increase and others slight decreases, but on the whole much the same as previous years. The year's work ended with a small deficit, due largely to the fact that more prize money had been paid out and higher operating expenses.

Board of Directors

The newly-elected Board of Directors was as follows: Lorne Lazier, Robert Little, Harry Sine, Morris Reid, Percy Moore, A. Mitchell, Elmer Vivian, John Blatherwick, Herb Houston.

Associate Directors: Charles Long, Clarence Hagerman, Jack Sherman, Floyd Goodfellow, Raymond Clarke, Leslie McLaren, Arthur Long.

Lady Directors: Mrs. Lorn Lazier, Mrs. Robert McFarlane, Mrs. Sid Fitzgerald, Mrs. Morris Reid, Mrs. K. R. Vivian, Mrs. H. Houston, Mrs. Harry Sine, Mrs. Robert Little, Mrs. Raymond Clarke.

Associate Lady Directors: Mrs. Clarence Hagerman, Mrs. Elmer Vivian, Mrs. Ed. Lazier, Mrs. Floyd Goodfellow, Mrs. A. Mitchell, Mrs. Leslie McLaren, Mrs. John Blatherwick, Mrs. Percy Moore, Mrs. Charles Long, Mrs. Jack Sherman.

The following officers were nominated from the Board of Directors:

President, Harold Osborne; 1st Vice President, Robert McFarlane; 2nd Vice President, Ed. Lazier; Secretary Treasurer, K. R. Vivian.

Delegates Chosen

Two delegates were chosen to be sent to the Ontario convention of agricultural societies being held in Toronto February 10, to 11th in the person of two lady directors. Mrs. Sid Fitzgerald, and Mrs. Lorne Lazier.

The auditors report was given by Messrs. Ken Juby and Everett Stratton which showed the books in excellent shape.

An enjoyable time was then spent in progressive euchre, followed by delicious refreshments served by the ladies.

Tom Campbell, Native of Belleville, Recalls 36 Years in Hat Business

(Reprinted from Calgary Herald)

Tom Campbell, Canada's only hatter by appointment to the royal family, has sold his Calgary store after 36 years in business here, to W. A. Mottyn-Brown. This concludes a career in the sale of men's hats and furnishings, which made the Campbell name widely known in the West, particularly in Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg, where he operated stores which have since been sold.

One of the most famous trademarks in the city was the top-hatted cane-carrying kewpie doll over the slogan "the naked truth is not immodest", which Mr. Campbell thought up himself, as he did the name "Smile" hats for his headgear.

Arrived in 1912

It was a rough and raw cow town when Mr. Campbell arrived in 1912 from his native Belleville, Ontario, after a few years at Vancouver. He opened his business a block east of his present location, 216 8th Ave. W. Glancing out at the noisy —motor traffic on busy 8th Ave. he mused "they used to drive cattle along that street, through mud, too, in those days."

Gentlemen's tastes in chapeaux have changed during his selling career almost as much as the street for in his early days sombre colors were almost universal. Nowadays the pastels and lighter colors are greatly in demand. "Ties", he observed with a nod to the reporter's flamboyant cravat, "have changed completely from dark solid colors to extensive coloring."

Mr. Campbell was not long in becoming established in Calgary and he has no intention of leaving it. His name will remain with the store and he and his wife will continue to live here after a short holiday in Mexico. His stores in Winnipeg and Edmonton, which he started after successfully building his business here, no longer carry his name.

First Royal Customer

The connection with the royal family came in 1921, when the Duke of Windsor, then the Prince of Hales, and the Duke of Kent visited Calgary in 1921, and came into his store to buy hats. Mr. Campbell served them himself and recalls that they bought ordinary dress hats. He received a warrant as a hatter to the royal family afterwards and it still hangs in his office.

When the King of Siam visited Banff in 1931 he sent for cowboy hats for himself and his retinue, and Mr. Campbell sent 12 of them to the mountain resort by special car. He did not receive a warrant of appointment from the Siamese monarch however.

Other famous heads adorned by a "Smile" hat included the late Viscount Bennett's. He preferred bowlers and dark homburgs. Senator Pat Burns was also a Campbell customer.

Generous with Money

"For as long as I can remember Tom has been a generous supporter of community projects", a pioneer business man recalled to The Herald. "He has made many a contribution to charitable groups and has been an enthusiastic booster for sports, both in financing and as a spectator.

"Tom has been one of the steadiest, most original and successful advertisers in Calgary business." declared a man who has known Mr. Campbell since the latter arrived here in 1912. "He had the knack perhaps better than any other of the earlier merchants."

Watching the Christmas crowds, the biggest in his career, in his store, he recalled that back in the days when his shop was a block east of his present location, 216 8th Ave. W. (it was Stephen Ave. in those days) his regularity as an advertiser was just taken for granted by Bob Edwards, publisher of the Calgary Eye Opener.

"Bob rarely ever bothered to ask me if I wanted an ad. He just put one in his paper and then came around to collect, saying I didn't have to pay if I didn't want to. I always did."

Foresaw Oil Future

In his first years in Calgary he was an active member of the rapidly booming city's Board of Trade. He was quick to see the oil potentialities of the province and financed the drilling of a well in Turner Valley. "It seems that belief in the future of Alberta's oil is really being justified now and this province will expand even more in the next few years," he predicted.

Mr. Campbell was one of the first members of the Golf and Country Club and until recent years was a handy man with a rock and broom in local curling circles. He is a member of the Renfrew, Ranchmen's and Gyro clubs and attends Central United church.

Good Camp Cook

Hunting and fishing are his favorite recreations and gun companions all know him as a good shot, but to the more intimate friends who hunt with him he's noted for being good company and an excellent camp cook, whose skill with the skillet adds flavor and enjoyment to a hunting trip. Another friend when asked for information about Mr. Campbell said it this way: "He's a great sportsman, but even more to the point he is and always has been, in business or socially, a good sport."

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will leave soon for a trip to Mexico and will return to Calgary in the spring.

Editor's note: Mr. Campbell is well known here where he received his education. His father was the late John Campbell of Cannifton and later of Belleville. His mother died some years ago.

Mr. Campbell has a sister and a brother living in the city. Miss Minnie Campbell and Mr. J. Ed. Campbell of 34 Catherine Street, two sisters in Toronto, Mrs. Florence Bayly and Miss Della Campbell, and a sister in Syracuse, N. Y., Mrs. Alice Menzies, while another brother, Milton, has lived in Edmonton for many years.

London Letter:

Transportation Problem Acute In Great Britain

By STUART UNDERHILL

London, Feb. 9 (CP)—London's transportation problem has become so acute government spokesmen don't attempt to apologize for it.

When members of parliament complained about the poor train service to the northern suburbs, L. J. Callaghan, parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of Transport, said he didn't have to be told about such things.

"I live in southwest London and sometimes travel on a workman's carriage. You have to stand on someone else's toes the whole way," he told the House of Commons.

Callaghan said London had outstripped its traffic capacity and he couldn't promise any improvement. Buses weren't much help, because they simply made surface traffic more congested. Anyway, only a few were available because of the heavy export demand.

He said the subway was an ideal solution for handling traffic, but it now cost £1,500,000 ($6,000,000) a mile, which meant that building 10 or 15 miles was a major project. It would cost "scores of millions of pounds" to ensure that people could travel in comfort.

Ernest Davies, Labor member for Enfield, in northwest London, said he and his neighbors had to travel in railway coaches 50 years old.

18,500 Air Hours, Log of Three Million Miles Record of Pilot O.P. Jones of British Airways

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ste. Marguerite Que., Feb. 9 (CP)—Capt. O. P. Jones is up in the air—again. And he loves it because on the ground this bearded king pin of the air transport pilots is never absolutely happy, even at the age of 50.

A few months ago it looked as though Capt. Jones—the O.P. stands for Oscar Philip—was through in the air. Somehow he contracted a misplaced spinal disc necessitating painful surgery and a tough fight back to wrestling a four-motored transport across the Atlantic.

"For a time I thought I might not make it," said Capt. Jones today, soon after he finished the Trans-Atlantic hop which boosted his flying miles to 3,000,000. "But my surgeon was never in doubt."

Capt. Jones is 10 years past the age when British Overseas Airways Corporation pilots, of which he is the senior, may retire. But medical men keep saying he's fit and he won't get out of the air.

"I think I can fly for a few more years at least," said this sabre-backed man. In hours his air time is 18,500.

He is the only founder pilot of his company still flying the routes and with the exception of E. S. J. Alcock, now instructing for B.O.A.C., is probably the only pilot flying who has logged 3,000,000 miles.

Native of Kent

"Triple mileage millionaire" Jones, a native of Kent, served in the Royal Flying Corps in 1917, later barnstormed England for a couple of years and then got into airlines work.

By now he has carried 114,000 passengers. During the war he served in the air transport auxiliary and later on the North Atlantic ferry routes between Montreal and the United Kingdom.

On the side he breeds bull terriers and became such an authority that last September, disc and all, he rode lying down in the back seat of his car to New York to be a judge in the Westchester dog show.

Now he must return, with B.O.A.C.'s shift of its base to England.

"I do so with a good deal of regret," he said, storking his pointed chin beard which is famous among airline personnel.

For those who may wonder how a pilot keeps going so long Capt. Jones says there are a couple of answers: The right kind of wife and some off-hour antidote. He's got both.

"My wife introduced me to the finest of antidotes, horse riding," he said. "It helps you to unwind after long hours in the air."

And Mrs. Jones? "Well, the medical men make a great play about a pilot having to be free of all worry and Mrs. Jones takes complete care of that department and looks after me."

Newfoundland Senators Will Be Equally Divided

Ottawa, Feb. 9 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday in the Commons the six new Newfoundland senatorships will be divided among the colony's three main religious denominations—two Anglicans, two Roman Catholics and two United Church men.

He said during discussion of the main bill to bring about the Canada-Newfoundland union that the government had been told it would be "unwise" to appoint the new senators by any other means than "three and three."

There should be three—one for each religious denomination—appointed at a time, or none at all. It would avoid any "offence" to any of the groups involved. The government's action would be misunderstood if any church appeared to be gaining preference in the appointments.

He said he had checked into the period which had elapsed between the entry of other provinces into the Canadian Confederation and the appintment of Senators to the new entities. He had been surprised to learn that the period ranged from five months to "much more than five months."

He did no indicate how much time would elapse before the Newfoundland Senators were appointed.

Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC—MacLeod) said the government and the Commons should consider electoral reforms.

Senators, he said, should be elected by the people. There was no reason why the elected Senators should not form a single body, with each member voting as he saw fit.

Mr. Hansell said it was difficult to get any government in power to accept the idea of an elected senate. The government liked the privilege of making senate appointments.

A large body in Canada was belittling parliamentary institutions. Many held the view that Senators were appointed because they were good party supporters and that they were being given a "juicy political plum."

"I am not prepared to say that isn't so," said Mr. Hansell.

G. K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough West) suggested more women be appointed to the senate.

No Restrictions

Hon. Earl Rowe (PC—Dufferin-Simcoe) said that Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, former Prime Minister, was reported to have appointed no one to the senate who would not agree to reform. He asked if Mr. St. Laurent would ask senate appointees to agree to any reform inflicted upon them.

Mr. St. Laurent said he knew of no infliction being placed on Senators. No one appointed to the senate by him had indicated that they felt anything was being inflicted on them.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes V.C. (PC—Nanaimo) urged that the government in making senate appointments from Newfoundland give consideration to former servicemen. Men with good war records could be found among all religious denominations on the island.

Leafs and Canadiens Tangle In All-Important Game For Possession of Third Place

(By The Canadian Press)

Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs meet tonight in the most crucial of three National Hockey League games scheduled.

The floundering Montrealers, winless in their last five outings, hold a one point lead over the Leafs for third place as the teams move into the queen city. In two other league fixtures the cellar-dwelling Chicago Black Hawks collide with Boston Bruins while the league - leading Detroit Red Wings tangle with New York Rangers at Detroit.

The Montreal camp reports that veteran Murphy Chamberlain will be back in action, but little Norman Dussault will be sidelined with a sprained ankle. The fleet-footed winger suffered his injury at Montreal Thursday when he was on the receiving end of a stiff bodycheck from Toronto's Bill Barilko. The Canucks don't hope to have him back in the line-up before Sunday night when they clash with Hawks.

It was first reported that Chamberlain suffered a dislocated shoulder against Detroit Sunday night, but medical examination revealed that his injury was limited to a bruised shoulder.

The Canucks will also be minus rearguard Kenny Reardon, who is expected to be out of action for five weeks with a separated shoulder.

Detroit with a 12- point margin over the Bruins are expected to come through with a victory over the New Yorkers despite the 5-1 trouncing they received from Rangers the last time they met at the motor hub.

Although Hawks lead in the scoring departments, they have slipped into the cellar and need a win tonight to vacate that lowly spot.

Boston have recalled defenceman Ed Kryzanowski from Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League to replace the ailing Fernie Flaman. Kryzanowski, who started the season with the Bruins before being sent to Hershey, is a former University of Toronto star.

It is expected that Boston also will call up forwards Zellio Toppazini and Dave Creighton, who were sent to Hershey for seasoning, before the N. H. L.'s Thursday deadline. Under an A. H. L. ruling, N. H. L. clubs cannot recall players after Feb. 10.

LEAVE HOUSES EMPTY

Akron, O., Feb. 9 — (AP) —A meeting of approximately 300 landlords voted Monday night to allow any of their properties that become vacant to remain empty until rent controls are lifted. The meeting was sponsored by the Summit County Rental and Home Owners League, which claims a membership of about 1,000 controlling about 1,600 rental units.

TO SEEK WAGE BOOST

Buffalo, Feb. 9 — (AP) — The Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union (C. I. O.) will seek a general wage increase this spring, Joseph C. Scioli, international representative of the union, said Monday night. The extent of the wage increase to be sought will be determined at a national wage policy committee meeting opening in Denver March 15, Scioli said.

New Hockey Loop Would be Senior Says Gorman

(By The Canadian Press)

Tommy Gorman, President of the Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, at Sherbrooke Tuesday gave new details concerning his project for a Quebec-Ontario Hockey League that would replace the present Quebec senior loop.

In an interview Gorman said that the proposed league would be of senior calibre, and not a semi-professional loop.

Nine cities would be represented in the circuit, four from Ontario and five from Quebec. They would be Ottawa, Hamilton, Toronto, London, Montreal, Sherbrooke, Valleyfield, Quebec and Shawinigan Falls.

According to Gorman's plans, two teams which at present hold franchises in the Q.S.H.L., the Boston Olympics and the New York Rovers, would be dropped. Boston suspended operation earlier this season owing to financial difficulties.

The West Indies Tuesday were declared winners of the cricket test series against India.

The West Indian eleven managed to hold the Indian team to a draw in the fifth and final match. The West Indies were winners of the only test which ended in a definite result.

India failed by six runs to force a victory in the final test.

India, 90 runs for three wickets overnight in their second innings, were set to get 271 Tuesday for victory, but close of play game with the score at 315 for eight—six short of their target.

In their first innings they had made 193 in reply to the West Indies 286, to which the tourists added a second innings' total of 267.

Pitcher Bob Feller made his pay cut official Tuesday by signing to play with the world-champion Cleveland Indians for his 11th season.

Feller flew his plane from New Jersey to Cleveland and took only 20 minutes to get through the formal business of inking his 1949 contract.

About two weeks ago, the fastball pitcher refused to sign because he found the terms set forth a little stiff. But he didn't let his boss, Will Veeck, down.

Veeck was asked whether Feller will still make the most money on the team. His answer: "How's the weather out today."

Shortstop-Manager Lou Boudreau signed a couple of weeks ago on a straight pay contract for two years. His salary is estimated from $65,000 to $75,000 a year.

Feller's, with today's contract, is guessed to be around $72,500, a cut from last year of about $10,000. That assumes(however, that the Indians will draw as many customers as in 1948.

Although Joe DiMaggio's new $90,000 contract tops Babe Ruth's best salary by $10,000, the New York Yankee star outfielder's take-home pay will be just a little more than half of what the Babe netted in 1930 and 1931, after taxes.

Based on pay of $90,000, and allowing customary deductions, the government will take exactly $49,939.36 from DiMaggio's 1949 earnings in income tax. That leaves Joe with only $40,063.64.

On the other hand, based on 1930 and '31 tax deductions, Ruth gave the government only $10,513, which still left him with $69,487.

Sudbury Wolves, Canada's entry in the world hockey championships to be played later this month, at Stockholm Tuesday defeated the Swedish Norrkoeping team 4-0.

The Canadians scored one goal in the second period and garnered the rest in the final stanza.

Three Guelph rinks were setting the pace as play progressed in the second round of the Guelph Curling Club's two - day Colts' bonspiel for the F. R. Ramsey Trophy.

Charlie Palmer skipped his Guelph rink to a 16-5 victory Tuesday night over L. Wilson of Hamilton, L. Henry led his rink to a 12-6 win over Pickett of Hamilton and L. Thompson beat Fulton of Toronto 14-10.

Visiting North Bay Black Hawks took their second trimming in two nights of play at Renfrew Tuesday when Andy Freemark's Renfrew Lions defeated them 9-3 in an exhibition match. The Black Hawks were trimmed by Pembroke Lumber Kings 5-2 at Pembroke Monday.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A writer in a current sports mag. quotes a "gentleman who has worked in many hockey games as an official" as suggesting that the lineman be taken off the ice and seated at rinkside where he could whistle offsides, also keep clear of playing area. The writer goes on to say that he would go a step further. He would advise the hockey moguls to stop laughing at everyone who suggests posting a referee off the ice. He agrees that the ref. should stay on board the hockey craft, but an assistant referee in a box overlooking the arena would enjoy a vantage which would enable him to spot many an infraction which goes by the boards.

The occasional thump in the ribs, the gentle massage of an opponents ribs by the rock-like end of a hockey stick by a "wise" player, the odd trip does get by officials, sometimes, in this neck of the woods, at least, but not enough to warrant the placing of assistants in the stands. Heaven knows there are enough there all ready. The idea may have some merit but not too much, or enough, that is, to warrant it being put in effect.

The idea of an assistant referee tooting the official piccolo from a box at rinkside would open a wide gate. The first thing you know, every Tom, Dick and Harry, Mary and Jane would be tooting whistles and a canary chorus would shrill through the arena every time a player threw a dirty look at one of the opposition. Referees in these parts have been doing a good job, as have their linesmen. True they step in the way of hard-driven pucks along the boards at times, but the damage done is negligible.

Their Nibs have a wholesome respect for their own shins, torsos and carcases and they're not going to be on the receiving end of a bullet-like puck that comes hurtling their way, if they can get out of the line of fire. That's only human nature.

Kingston interests have taken over the Border Baseball League franchise and will operate the Ponies this year, according to a Limestone city report. The franchise was purchased by a group of local sportsmen but all other details are a deep dark secret, it says here.

Add records not likely to be broken—In 1900, the legless Johann Hasslinger walked from Vienna to Paris, 871 miles in 55 days—on his hands.

Ken McKnaught's turkey-fat Rockets trek to Kingston on Friday night where they meet the Kingston Pattons in a scheduled Junion "B" fixture. Underdogs in the league, the Pattons, nevertheless are a game bunch of youngsters who may not be as hefty as some of the players on other teams but they don't lack for spirit. However the Rockets, we predict, will keep their undefeated record intact, or should, at the expense of the Limestone City youngsters. But anything can happen in a hockey match.

At a recent Toronto-Chicago game in the Windy City an excited spectator threw a cardboard box on the ice, and out hopped a live rabbit. As soon as the rabbit felt the cold ice he jumped all over the place. Leaf Defenseman Bill Barilko finally caught the bunny and heaved it into the crowd, where an alert fan made a beautiful catch of a very scared and confused rabbit.

Tonight the high-stepping Trenton RCAF Flyers take on their traditional rivals from the town of Trenton in a scheduled Intermediate "A" fixture. The lads in blue at the moment are sitting pretty on top of the heap and appear to be the pick of the loop. They defeated the town squad by a 5-0 score on Monday night and are looking forward to a repeat tonight. The Jim McDonald crew, however are trying desperately to heave themselves out of the cellar slot by their bottstraps and tonight's tilt should be quite a tiff. Game at 8.30.

MARMORA

Marmora Sinks Tweed Under 13-2 Score

Marmra—Before a crowd of approximately 750 fans, Marmora hockey team continued its long line of victories on the home arena on Monday evening defeating their old rivals Tweed by the score of 13-2. The game had to be halted in the second and third periods through injuries sustained by Courneyea the visitor's goalie. This player turned in a fine game and given better support the score against his team would have been much less. For the first two periods, the game was fast and clean, but entering into the third, when Marmora was leading 7 to 1 a little rough play developed which cost both teams minor penalties. It was the first game on the local arena to be handled by two referees and it was under control.

The teams:

Two Brother Combinations Hard to Beat

(By The Canadian Press)

Windsor Spitfires have two brother combinations that'll be tough to beat in the post - season playoffs.

Last night the Spitfires walloped the hapless Galt Rockets 12-5 in Galt in an Ontario Hockey Association junior A tilt. And the backbone of the victory was a steady performance by brothers Larry and Johnny Wilson and Bert and Bruce Giesebrecht.

Johnny sniped four goals and led the Spitfires to their 31st win in 41 games. It gave them a 10-point margin over the second - place Barrie Flyers. Bert came next with three goals while Larry and Bruce each netted two.

Bert's three goals ran his individual scoring leadership total to 86 — two more than brother Bruce, in second place.

The Spitfires drove into a 7-3 lead in the first period, held a 7-4 margin at the end of the second and then outscored Rockets 5-1 in the third. Jimmy Maxwell got the other Windsor goal. Pete Tkachuk, Bruno Horvah and Joe Kilby tallied for Galt.

The game was marred by 20 penalties, including four majors. Windsor players drew 12 of the sentences.

Six teams see action tonight, all juniors. Toronto Marlboros meet Guelph Biltmores, Spitfires clash with Oshawa Generals and Barrie Flyers play Stratford Kroehlers.

Statue of Jockey George Woolf To be Unveiled

Arcadia, Calif., Feb. 9 —(AP)— There will be something on the sentimental side at Santa Anita race track tomorrow at noon, when the statue of a famous jockey will be unveiled at a public ceremony.

Cast life - size in bronze, it stands on a marble base in the centre of the flower - bordered walking ring. The figure faces toward the statue of one of the finest thoroughbred race horses of all time.

The jockey is the late George Woolf, the race horse, Seabiscuit.

Woolf, a native of Calgary, was the leading United States stakes rider in 1942 and again in 1944. He was fatally injured in a spill during a race at Santa Anita Jan. 3, 1946.

He rode to many a triumph, from the bush tracks in 1928 on the plush circuits until his death. One of his greatest triumphs was recorded in the Pimlico Special in 1938.

That was the time Woolf sent Seabiscuit to victory over War Admiral in the match race feature of the period.

Woolf always said Seabiscuit was the best horse he ever rode.

Gunners Midgets Lose to Petes By 4-3 Score

Leading by a goal in both the first and second periods the Belleville Gunners midget "B's" lost a tough decision to the brawny Peterborough midgets in Peterborough last night emerging on the short end of a 4-3 score. The second game of the goals-to-count series will be played in Memorial Arena here tomorrow night as part of a minor hockey double-header.

Without the services of one o their star forwards Don Whalen the red-and-blue clad Gunne held the upper hand for tw periods, leadi 2-1 at the end of the first, and 3-2 at the end c the second. The heavy Peter however rallied strongly in the third and just managed to edge the Belleville kids by the lor goal.

It was a good hockey gam with both teams travelling at top speed throughout. The Petes previously had eliminated the Lindsay kids, losing in Lindsay 4-3 and winning at home by a 9-1 count.

The Gunners, however are highly confident they can overcome the small margin of one goal here tomorrow night and turn back the Peterborough threat to advance into the second round of the Midget "B" playdowns.

Sacos Roll High Score in "B" League

The Saco team of the Major "B" (Tuesday) League took over high scoring honors at the Recreation Alleys last night rolling an aggregate of 3441 to turn back Black's Meats by a 3-1 point score. Black's rolled 3058.

The Ontario Intelligencer "Inkspots" won their third straight victory defeating the cellar-dwelling ANAF team 4 points to nothing. In the remaining game the "Our Gang" team won from "Just Us" by three points to one.

Veteran bowler Joe Legault won the high triple honors with a score of 842 with Max Peoples rolling the high single of 320. Legault got a 300 single. Peoples triple was 802 with Art Stewart contributing a 745.

The scores:

Saco (3 points)	3441
Blacks (1)	3058
Our Gang (3)	3200
Just Us (1)	2978
Ont. Intell (4)	2867

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By KEN KELLY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Edmonton, Feb. 9 — (CP)—The life of a hockey league president is not always a happy one but when his players start parting each other's hair with hickory during a game, it sinks to its lowest ebb.

Such must be the feeling of D. P. McDonald of the Western Canada Senior League as he surveys the remarks of Stan (Edmonton Bulletin) Moher.

Stan has a word or two to say about McDonald's remarks after a few minutes of mayhem during a Regina Capitals - Edmonton Flyers game. Five players needed stitches after the game.

Says Stan: "It will be remembered that McDonald, obviously totally in the dark concerning the make - friends - and - influence-people philosophy of D. Carnegie, had gone out of his way to denounce the local set-up. This presumably was by way of explaining away the Donnybrook following which five players required stitches.

" 'The remedy,' McDonald pontificated, 'lies in stricter control by coaches and management, supported by fans who will demand a rugged but clean and sportsmanlike performance by the players.' "

No Clues?

"However, as the Flyer hockey committee sees it, the W. C. H. L. president doesn't have a clue to the real remedy.

"Following their . . . conclave, straw boss (Gordon) McDonald (chairman of the Flyer Hockey Committee) issued a rebuttal statement, bristling with thinly-veiled sarcasm and containing more than a hint that Flyer heads are by no means satisfied with the Calgary lawyer's administration.

" 'Instead of finding fault with the Edmonton fans and management, it might be wise if he (D. P. McDonald) would do some house cleaning on his own behalf,' the committee communique read."

A Cold War

"Actually it isn't clear whether or not the intention is to bring the matter directly to the league head's attention. The evidence is that the Flyer committee plans no more than long-range sniping, with the Edmonton press and radio the instrument of attack.

" 'I'm not even going to discuss it,' " was McDonald's answer to the Flyer statement. I will not be drawn into any controversy with one of the clubs.' "

MAY BE ASKED TO COACH

Toronto, Feb. 9 — (CP) — Annis Stukus former football star, may be asked to coach Edmonton Eskimos in the Western Interprovincial Rugby Football Union next season.

Stukus, Toronto sports writer, admitted last night in comment on an Edmonton dispatch, that he would confer with an official of the Edmonton club here 'within a couple of weeks."

"I don't know what they have to offer and I haven't really had an offer from the club itself," Stukus said. "I first heard about it from a friend in Edmonton."

TURNING THE PAGES OF
"CANADA UNLIMITED"

Canadian mining industry started with the "Compagnie des Forges" which built the St. Maurice Forges in 1737. For 150 years they processed iron which lay in great deposits along the St. Maurice River.

Mining discoveries grew, making Canada richer. Gold was found in British Columbia in 1858. And when, in 1889, Sudbury Mines revealed a fabulous wealth of copper, nickel and platinum, mining became a major industry and a leading world producer of alloys and precious metals.

The great iron deposits of Northern Quebec and Labrador give far-seeing men faith in the future of Canadian mining. They know there's room to grow in Canada Unlimited.

And mining is only one phase of Canada's development. The full story is told in "Canada Unlimited", an illustrated 144-page book published by the O'Keefe Foundation. Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Feb. 9 (AP) — Featherweight champion Sandy Saddler has knocked out 61 opponents in 99 professional fights. George Dixon, who, old timers say, was the greatest featherweight, flattened only 19...that probably proves that there are more fighters now than in Little Chocolate's heyday and that they aren't as good...Joe Niland, Canisius basketball coach, protests that constantly. hanging defences "rob the kids of the opportunity to perfect individual defensive skills."....What does he want, a basketball game or just practice? Bobby Feller, who has an alarm on his wrist watch, has had a telephone installed in his car but can't remember the number...not many batters in the American League have his number, either.

Sports Before Your Eyes

Don Gehrmann, Wisconsin's star miler, always carries a handkerchief clutched in one hand while he's running. As long as he sticks to dual meets, Don can use it to mop up the opposition.... Neatest trick of the season took place at the first race meet of the Laconia (N.H.) Driving Club on Lake Opechee...Dr. Robinson W. Smith was rounding a turn when his horse, G Hal, threw a shoe. One of the nails flew up and the Doc caught it between his teeth.

Former Baroness Says Atomic Bomb Not the Answer

Pembroke, Ont., Feb. 9 — (CP) —A former Russian-Polish baroness warned Tuesday night that "an atomic bomb won't eliminate Communism.'

"The only way to fight Communism is to fight for an ideal," Mrs. Katherine Doherty, the former Baroness De Hueck, said in a speech before the Professional Women's Club.

That ideal, said Mrs. Doherty who fled Communism in Russia before Second World War, was "that in Canada we believe in the Almighty, while the Communist does not."

The former baroness then turned to 39 displaced persons, women guests of the club, and spoke to them in Russian. She told them she and they had a common bond. Both had seen homes razed, loved ones killed and known in general what it was to suffer at the hands of an enemy.

"The shadow of Communism will grow," she warned. "We can still light the world if we stop thinking of money as our god and change our conception of other people, those on the wrong side of the track."

Mrs. Doherty is now director of a Friendship House at nearby Combermere, Ont.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Lead me not into temptation to talk Kibitzer slam convention. Nor need you drag it out of me. You can hear me shoot off my mouth about it at the drop of a hint or invective.

Mention Blackwood convention in the same breath and my jabber will blister your eardrums. Comparing their relative merits is fodder for my ego. It gives me a chance to prove mine is so much better.

Both use same replies to five no-trump for showing kings only. Where they differ is in first replies to four no-trump. And what a difference! Kibitzer shows aces and kings; Blackwood only aces.

In Blackwood, replies to four no-trump are: Five clubs to show no aces; five diamonds, one ace; five hearts, two aces; five spades, three aces; five no-trump, four aces.

Kibitzer replies are: Five clubs, no aces; five diamonds, one ace and no kings; five hearts, an ace and a king; five spades, an ace and two kings; five no-trump, an ace and three kings; six clubs, two aces and no kings; six diamonds, two aces and one king; six hearts, two aces and two kings; six spades, two aces and three kings.

Many slams depend on enough kings. By the time you learn amout them in Blackwood you are already in six. In The Kibitzer you still have time to stop at five if not enough kings are discovered.

One spade is the south opening in this pair:

SOUTH
♠A K Q 8 7
♦Q 8 4
♣Q 7

NORTH
♠J 9 6 4 3
♥Q 4 2
♦A K 9
♣K 6

North responds three spades, south says four no-trump. If north has only one ace a slam will depend on his also having three kings.

With Blackwood, north replies five diamonds to show one ace. Five no-trump says south. Six hearts replies north to show two kings. North must go to six spades and is defeated.

With The Kibitzer, north replies five spades to show an ace and two kings. Missing an ace and a king, south passes and makes five.

Choose your weapons.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 9 (AP)—At first she didn't succeed, but Ida Lupino is trying again.

A year ago, Ida took a whirl at being a movie producer. The deal netted her a continual headache and no picture.

Today, she's at it again, this time on a saner basis. She w' soon start "Not Wanted," a film about unwed mothers which sh says will cost "under $200,00" My guess is that it will run considerably under that sum.

Ida is currently doing much of the writing on the "Not Wanted" script and has conferred with the Nuns at the St. Anne's home fo. unwed mothers. Naturally with such a subject, she has also heard from the industry censors.

"I found them amazingly helpful," she said. "We went over the script with them and they pointed out what it must do. They practically wrote the story for us. They showed that the story must be aimed at three classes:

Girls and Parents

"1. Teen-age girls, since the majority of unwed mothers are between 11 and 18. Their own emotions are immature and their biggest fear is pain. Therefore we must show as much of labor as we can

"2. Older —girls, whose emotions are more developed. They must be shown the painfulness of having to give up their child, as most unwed mothers must, for economic reasons.

"3. Parents. We must show that becase they have brought a daughter into the world they must share the responsibility for her, no matter what happens."

Ida declared that all of the company's films will be semi-documentaries about important topics.

Soviet Economists Predicting U.S. Economic Crisis

Moscow, Feb. 9 — (AP)—The Russian people have been told for several consecutive days that economic conditions in the United States are growing worse.

There has been no editorial comment so far but there probably will be plenty soon. Soviet economists have been predicting an economic crisis in the United States for some time now.

The general Russian opinion is that there is another American depression on the way which will make that of 1929 mild by comparison.

Church Groups To Curb Gangs

Toronto, Feb. 9 — (CP) — Toronto's Protestant Church groups are going all-out to curb and prevent juvenile delinquency. And they're starting with children too young to think of street gangs.

A six-week course of instruction for group leaders, who map out programs for first - graders and adolescents now is in full swing. It is under the sponsorship of the Toronto Religious Education Council.

Programs have been decided with more than just a recreational value. "Children and older youths, too, must be taught to work as well as play," officials said. They are taught to take an interest in their work and 'teenagers are kept busy during the hours in which some might otherwise turn to mischief.

Jake the Barber Is Paroled

Detroit, Feb. 9 (AP) — John (Jake the Barber) Factor, who always said he went to prison to escape gangland vengeance, was paroled yesterday.

Factor was serving 10 years for an alleged $500,000 mail fraud in whisky warehouse receipts manipulations. He pleaded guilty in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, in 1942.

In 1933, Factor is reputed to have paid $70,000 ransom to gangsters Roger Touhy and Basil Banghart for his freedom—after the pair had kidnapped him.

Factor has maintained he pleaded guilty on the mail fraud charge because he feared vengeance and desired safety of prison walls.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma invited some lady to bring her husband around and play bridge, and the doorbell rang while pop was helping ma with the dishes, and ma said, Oh dear, they're here alreddy. It's really inconsiderate of people to be as prompt as that. Hurry and let them in, William, and entertain them a few minutes while I get through here, she said.

But yee gods, what will I talk to them about? pop said. I never saw either of them in my life and I dont even remember their name, he said, and ma said, Dont be abserd, their name is Cloverly and they're crazy about anteek ferniture. So just start the subject and they'll take care of the rest, she said.

And pop quick went and opened the door and sot down in the living room with Mr. and Mrs. Cloverly, saying, Mrs. Potts will be rite along.

This weather is quite unusual, I mean for this time of year, Mrs. Cloverly said, and pop said, I imagine the changing weather has quite an effect on anteek ferniture.

I never thawt of it in that way, Mrs. Cloverly said, and Mr. Cloverly said, I suppose even in the glacial age, men sat on stools made of icicles, he said, and Mr. Cloverly said, I dont envy them.

Mrs. Cloverly not saying anything, and pop said, Benny, run back and see what's keeping your mother.

Which I did, saying, Hay ma, you better go in there. Pop's trying to talk about anteeks, and it aint working, I said, and ma said my goodness, I got the Cloverlys confused with the Bramleys. The Cloverlys aren't in and changed the subject to.

interested in anteek ferniture. The Cloverlys aren't intristed in a thing in the werld except bridge, she said.

Being what she hurry up went

Whisper In The Night

BY MARIE BLIZARD

Cecil lit a cigarette, drew on it and tossed it over the rail into the water. "I do need you," he said without looking at her. "I don't know any girls and . . . well, I like you. There's something about you that's . . . the Italians call it sympthica. I want you there . . . also, I knew you'd like it. You do, don't you?"

If Cecil hadn't looked so much like a small boy suffering with an anxiety to please, Rosalie might have said that she wanted a more exciting existence less beauty. But Cecil did look very much like a small boy, and Rosalie said, "Of course I like it. And I like knowing that you are there."

"Right!"

That was all he said for a little time. Two slim shadows, silhouetted against the night, one dark, one fair, they stood looking out silently at the moving waters.

Rosalie broke the silence: "How lovely this must have seemed to Bermudex four hundred years ago when he discovered the islands!"

His gaze still fixed on a distant hill, he answered her with Swinburne's words:

"Dim centuries with darkling inscrutable hands
Have reared and secluded the shrine
For gods that we know not, and kindled as brands
On the altar the years that are dust, and their sands
Time's glass has forgotten for sign."

Poetry! Luther Kane told her to find a poet and pose as a romantic lady.

"Did you write it?" she asked softly.

"No, darling. Swinburne. I think perhaps you'll like this one better. It makes me think of you."

Rosalie's eyes were soft. Her lips parted a little and she said, "I want to hear it."

"Who may praise her?
Eyes where midnight shames
the sun,
Hair of night and sunshine
spun,
Woven of dawn's or twilight's loom,
"Radiant darkness, lustrous gloom . . ."

Her head was very close to his. There was perfume in the flowers tucked in her dark hair. His voice faded before the poem was finished and Rosalie turned her face toward him.

"It was lovely," she whispered.

"You are," he said and bent his head. His lips were cool and brief on hers, and sent a flutter through her veins.

"We . . . we'd better go back now."

"Yes, Rosalie, of course. And thank you for . . . well, thank you."

It was a moment, Rosalie thought that she would encase tenderly in her memory. This was romance. This was the whisper in the night that Luther Kane called romance.

At the door she said to him,—"Cecil, will you read to me tomorrow? Poetry, I mean. I want to know it. I want you to teach it to me."

"Love to. But you're not to forget your bathing gear."

Rosalie laughed. Men were so practical. Here she was caught in a fragile mood, and Cecil was talking about bathing gear.

They'd been out there on the porch more than half an hour. She looked about for Frame and saw him sitting alone at their table. "Good night, Cecil. I'll expect you tomorrow at what time?"

"About three . . . I'll take you to your table."

Rosalie's smile for Cecil had a rueful turn of pentitence for George. "I am sorry George. It was so lovely outdoors, I didn't realize we were out so long. You should have come out and cleared the smoke out of your eyes."

"I've been holding down the fort waiting for you. Mrs. Rutherford wants to meet you, but I couldn't find you."

Rosalie's glance of surprise was directed at Cecil.

"I expect she does," he said, but Rosalie didn't think he looked very happy about it. "I've told her about you."

She felt Mrs. Rutherford's gaze on her as she crossed the room with George and Cecil. It made her uncomfortable.

But Mrs. Rutherford's smile was charming and warm and her voice dripped with cordiality when Cecil presented her.

"We've wanted to meet you," she said with a glance that embraced the others at her table, "Cecil told us how much he thinks of you. You've met Mr. Reid, have you not?"

Rosalie murmured that she had not.

"And now that you're so near to us — Oxford Gardens is only half a mile from Acadia — you must have Cecil bring you over frequently. Do you like tennis?"

Rosalie said she wasn't very good, and that Mrs. Rutherford was very kind. But Rosalie was thinking of something else. She was thinking that Angela hadn't acknowledged her presence with so much as a small smile. And that contrary to what she might have expected, Cecil was looking as if he could cheerfully choke the lady who was being so kind to her.

"Hello . . . Hell-ooo! . . . Oh, Luther!" Rosalie's voice ended in a wail and she slammed the receiver back on the telephone stand. She clutched a handful of hair and made a series of very unpretty faces.

"Seriously, my child," Luther Kane said in the paternal manner that he had come to adopt with her, "why waste this glorious day on the telephone?"

Rosalie dialed furiously. "Because — for the sixth time, Luther — I've got to get Mrs. Rutherford on the wire. Her invitation is very clear about answering, if you please. And with Mrs. Rutherford, one does as one is told."

"I consign Mrs. Rutherford to her proper place — or would you like me to be more explicit?"

Rosalie was very patient. "What have you got against Mrs. Rutherford?"

"Not nearly as much as I have against little Cecil, your golden-haired shadow."

BEATS SHOVELING—This railway rotary plow is a good deal more substantial than a snow shovel when it comes to clearing drifts. Shown in action, the plow is clearing the rail line running through a dozen or more southwestern Manitoba towns and villages which were snowbound in late January and early February. Some of the drifts it bucked were 12 feet deep. (CP Photo)

British Columbia Plans to Repeal Margarine Ban

By The Canadian Press

The only Canadian province with legislation forbidding manufacture and sale of margarine plans to repeal the ban.

British Columbia intends to lift the restriction at the current session, its government revealed in the Speech from the Throne read yesterday at the opening of the legislature at Victoria. Sale of butter substitutes is prohibited in British Columbia under a 1935 act which takes precedence over a ruling of the Supreme Court of Canada making it legal in other parts of Canada.

The Throne Speech also proposed large loans to finance a major public works program, additional financial aid for the University of British Columbia and equalization of school taxes in rural districts. It also recommended plans for improvement and development of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, a B.C. government-owned line which U.S. interests have sought to link with the Alaska Railway.

The Manitoba legislature also opened yesterday and in Toronto preparations went forward for the opening of the Ontario legislature. Quebec's parliament has been sitting since last week.

The Throne Speech at Winnipeg said the Manitoba government considered it a matter of "utmost urgency" that everything possible be done to proceed with plans to provide additional hydro-electric power. The government plans power developments at Pine Falls on the Winnipeg River.

Examination of every Quebec resident is sought in that province's anti-tuberculosis campaign. Health Minister Albiny Paquette told the legislative assembly that the government realized there are people in Quebec who unwittingly carry tuberculosis germs about homes, offices and factories.

Search for Dan Keller Switches Westward

Toronto, Feb. 9 (CP)—The search for Dan Keller, who escaped from a Kingston hospital nearly a month ago, switched to the Windsor area Tuesday night when a farmer reported to police that he had driven a hitch-hiker into Hagersville Sunday.

The farmer, David Phillips, said he became suspicious when he arrived home and saw Keller's picture in a newspaper. Police said the hitch-hiker told Phillips he had $400 worth of travellers cheques.

"He said the cheques were not signed by his bank in Windsor so he couldn't use them," Phillips added.

Convicted of Theft Of Empty Milk Bottle

Islington, Feb. 9 — (CP) — Gordon Irwin, 26, of Nashville, Ont., was convicted here yesterday of stealing an empty milk bottle and a ticket good for one quart of milk. He was put on probation for six months. Police said Irwin was seen walking along a street here with his pockets "bulging." They found four empty milk bottles and one ticket. He later admitted stealing one of them.

Says He Didn't Apply Brakes Because of Eggs

Cooksville, Feb. 9 — (CP) — Edgar Grafton, 67, of Brampton, was fined $10 and costs for careless driving yesterday — all over three cases of eggs. Grafton told the magistrate his truck went into a skid and he didn't apply the brakes for fear of breaking the eggs. He collided with a parked truck. The eggs broke.

INFANT'S BODY FOUND

Amherst, N.S., Feb. 9 — (CP) —The towel-wrapped body of an infant girl was found on this town's civic dump Tuesday night. Authorities have been unable to determine cause of death.

Weighing about eight pounds, the infant's body was taken to Halifax for examination by provincial pathologists. Inquest was adjourned until Monday.

Marginal Land Can be Made To Yield Cash

Toronto, Feb. 9 (CP)— So-called marginal land, the neglected 'back 50" of many a farm, could be made to yield cash for the farmer's pocketbook and low-cost roasts for the city dinner-table.

That's the contention of Prof. R. G. Knox, research director of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

He told the Ontario Crop Improvement Association that this land would not only increase farm returns but also would help to reduce meat prices.

"It is considered that the so-called hill and marginal lands could be made a great reservoir for livestock and that, with a proper system of integration, they could contribute enormously to the general intensity of farming on our better lands," he said.

"In fact, I would go so far as to say that, in competitive production, it is impossible to farm our better and more productive lands properly and to the best national advantage unless we also farm our marginal lands.

Premier Kennedy, addressing a joint meeting of the Crop Improvement Association and of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, said conservation of Ontario's farm land is a vital problem.

R. J. Bryden of the Ontario Agricultural College's department of soils, told the Crop Association's turnip division that it was time to start reclaiming abandoned farm lands. Said he:

"Let us make better use of the land here in old Ontario before invading the north or other areas where nature still holds sway.

THRONE SPEECH STRESSES WATCHFUL ECONOMY

Unjustly Accused Of Police Files Theft Keays States

Testifies He Knew Nothing Of the Files at Picton

Constable J. E. Keays today testified that he had been unjustly accused of the theft of official police files from the Picton detachment office.

Testifying before the royal commission investigating charges by Keays of maladministration of justice and of interference on the part of provincial police officers, Keays said that Inspector Page had accused him of stealing the files and threatened "that he better get them back."

For the fourth straight day Constable Keays was testifying before the Royal Commission enquiry regarding charges levelled at Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan and seven officers of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Again the County Court room was crowded to capacity as the hearing commenced before Commissioner Mr. Justice Mackay.

Keays appeared, immaculate in dark grey flannels, carrying his large stack of documents under his arm and warmly greeted many friends in the audience.

Nearing End of Evidence

As was the case on Wednesday the several officers charged by Keays, sat in a group on the jury benches.

Keays appeared Thursday to be nearing the end of his evidence substantiating charges against Mr. Donnan of implication in a fraud with E. M. Carefoot and other charges against brother officers. He has yet to face cross-examination by defence counsel Malcolm Robb. The defence intends calling approximately 25 witnesses.

Wednesday the Constable dealt with charges against Cpl. Sam Ervine of perjury in giving evidence in connection against one LeRoy Woods, and of falsification of official documents.

Submits Documents

He also charged that Constable T. R. Purdy had made out a false report in connection with the above accident.

Thursday morning, in substantiation of the above charges Keays submitted documentary evidence which he maintained was all that was required to prove beyond doubt the charge against Cpl. Ervine.

Keays produced a letter from Staff Inspector Doyle following reporting the facts of the Woods case. The letter from Inspector Doyle promised full investigation into the matter but advised that future communications regarding the matter be submitted through his District Inspector.

Inspector Doyle had also told Keays that he had no business examining Cpl. Ervine's diary to check dates on which this officer had patrolled certain highways.

Was Still a Constable

"I replied that it was the first I knew I needed instructions to obtain evidence in a criminal matter," Keays said.

Keays reminded the Commissioner that he was still a Provincial Police constabel although he had requested his resignation from the force.

Keays produced a statement said to have been given by one Harold Phillips of Sidney township admitting he had been responsible for smashing 3 guard rail posts on Highway 14, three miles of Belleville. The accident took place, the statement said, on Oct. 31st (Hallowe'en Night). Keays said that Cpl. Ervine in giving evidence in the Woods' case, had testified the three guard rail posts had been broken on Sept. 28th.

Submits Proof

In substantiation on Phillip's statement to police that the three posts had been broken on Hallowe'en night Keays produced a statement by highways department foreman Burton Bateman of Springbrook who said they had been smashed "about Nov. 1st."

Keays said the statement indicated this had been the first time the guard rails at this particular corner had been broken.

He said he would produce Mr. Bateman's diary and prove his signature.

Phillips in his statement to police had said, Keays indicated, that he would reimburse Woods if he was assessed with the repair of the guard rail.

"If you are not assessed with the cost of the posts it will not hurt the government to pay for three small posts," Phillips was quoted in the statement as having told Woods.

In connection with the Woods' accident and in substantiation of falsification of records by Cpl. Ervine, Keays submitted the judgment given by Magistrate T. Y. Wills before whom the trial was held.

Quoting from the judgment Keays read that the magistrate had been "forced to the conclusion that Woods had been blinded by lights on approaching the curve. . . . and could not be prevented from striking the guard rail."

"The magistrate," Keays said, "Could not depend on the evidence of Constable Keays or Cpl. Ervine or Purdy."

Should Have Reported

In connection with the Phillips accident on Oct. 31st, Keays said that although there had been no time for extension of service against Phillips, Cpl. Ervine should have made out a charge of failure to report an accident against "John Doe."

Had this been done there would have been a record of the accident with the highway department.

A report of the Phillips' accident was produced but it bore no stamp of the Motor Vehicle Branch showing it had been received there. A report of the accident was produced which bore the stamp of police headquarters in Toronto.

Keays said he had checked with the highways department but his report of the Phillips' accident was not on file.

Fact Confirmed

The fact that there was no such report in the highways department files was confirmed by a department search and Keays produced a letter from the department to this effect.

"What I want made clear," interrupted Commission Counsel C. P. Hope, "is your complaint that your report of the Phillips' accident was not forwarded to the highways department?"

"Yes," was Keay's reply. "My report on the Phillips' accident and of the Woods' accident. The report was not forwarded and still has not been received by the department."

Keays raised the question of proof that cost of damages to the guard rail was paid.

Admits Bill Paid

Mr. Hope admitted the bill was paid and stated he could not understand "all these journeyings around" by Keays in order to prove something which was already admitted.

"Fine," replied Keays, "if Mr Hope would admit all of exhibit No. 1 (Keays' report to the Police Commissioner in which all the allegations were made) then I would not be before this commission."

"I don't need any comment from you as to what my duties as Commission counsel are," Mr. Hope told Keays.

Referring to what he termed efforts by Inspector Page to discredit him as a police officer, Keays said that he had been falsely accused of stealing 25 criminal files from the Picton Detachment office.

Asked If It Was Joke

"I asked Inspector Page if that was a joke," said Keays.

N. IRELAND VOTES ON ITS FUTURE, BALLOTING HEAVY

Will Decide Whether To Stay in U.K. or Join Eire

Belfast, Feb. 10 — (AP) —The people of Northern Ireland vote today to decide, in effect, whether they want to stay in the United Kingdom or join Eire in a republic. The votes won't be counted until Friday.

A heavy turnout, ruinning as high as 90 per cent in contested districts, was predicted. More than 500,000 ballots may be cast.

All police were on call in event of trouble. Flamboyant parades last night ended a slam-bang campaign in which stones and bottles were thrown at political rallies and store windows were smashed.

Twenty-eight years ago the six counties of Northern Ireland (Ulster), mainly Protestant, refused to join the 26 predominantly-Roman Catholic counties of Eire, or Southern Ireland, and stayed with Britain. There have been two Irelands since.

The issues of race and religion cropped up in the general election campaign just ended.

Interference Charged

Sir Basil Brooke, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, whose Unionist party wants to remain with Britain, charged Eire political leaders with "unjustifiable interference" in the Ulster campaign.

He said in a pre - election statement that there was a possibility now - outlawed Irish Republican army might renew old-time "murder, arson and kidnapping in an election-day invasion."

Sir Basil's party held a majority of better than two-thirds in the old Ulster House of Commons. The prime minister predicted the election would increase the unionist margin.

The Unionists had 35 seats and their independent supporters 3 in the old parliament. Anti-partitionists had 14 — divided into eight Nationalists, four Labor, an Independent and a Socialist Republican.

The "King of Republic" issue was intensified by Eire's "Republic of Ireland" bill cutting Southern Ireland's last thin tie with the British crown. The measure, passed by the Eire parliament, will not go into effect until Eire and Britain have ironed out dual citizenship and tariff problems.

President Denounces Hungary's Treatment Of Cardinal "Infamous"

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP) — President Truman today denounced Hungary's treatment of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty as "infamous."

He described the treason trial of the Cardinal as a kangaroo court proceeding which will go down in history as a blot against the country which carried it on.

Truman went on to say that the matter of whether it was in violation of Hungary's treaties is being investigated and a report is to be made to him on that point.

The President discussed the trial at a press conference and gave reporters permission to quote directly his use of the word "infamous."

A reporter asked whether a break in relations with Hungary is under study. The President made it clear he didn't say that.

American officials see the whole affair as one which will bring a new clash between Russia and the western powers.

Authorities predicted the clash will come when the United States and other western powers try to call Hungary to account for its actions against the Cardinal. They expect Russia will immediately come to the defence of its satellite state.

Such a course has been foreshadowed by the consistent support given the Hungarian regime by the radio and other propaganda agencies of Moscow.

Authorities here assert that the Cardinal's conviction and life sentence is by no means to be treated as an isolated instance. They regard it rather as the latest outstanding example of a wave of oppression which has been sweeping over the Russian border countries in Europe for more than two years.

The House of Representatives late Wednesday adopted a resolution urging that the United States protest Hungary's treatment of Cardinal Mindszenty, either through the U.N. or other "appropriate" means.

State Secretary Acheson directly linked Russia with the Mindszenty case yesterday. He said that an appeal to the U.N. is under consideration.

On the point of the Hungarian government's responsibility, Acheson declared that "the people of Hungary have been increasingly denied the exercise of fundamental human rights and freedoms" during the last two years.

Other procedures, outside the U.N. were also being studied. These include a direct challenge of Hungary's actions under terms of the peace treaty made with Hungary as a result of its participation in the war on the side of Germany. The treaty pledges Hungary to protect human rights and provides limited machinery for taking up with the Hungarian government any problems arising out of the application of treaty terms.

Russia Accuses West Powers Of Ultimatum in Rejecting Yugoslav Claim on S. Austria

By ROBERT HEWITT

London, Feb. 10. (AP)—Russia today accused the western powers of issuing an 'ultimatum" in rejecting Yugoslav claims to a slice of Southern Austria.

British and American sources said Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin made the charge at the reconvened Big-Four conference on an Austrian Independence Treaty.

An informant reported British and American deputies—James Marjoribanks and Samuel Reber —said they would be glad to hear Yugoslavia's claims on other matters, provided the territorial demand is dropped.

Reber, supported by French and British deputies, denied the Western stand was an ultimatum, an American informant said.

At the same time Reber reiterated that it would be a waste of time to hear Yugoslav officials again unless they had dropped their territorial demands on Austria.

Ales Bebler, Yugoslav deputy foreign minister, arrived in London last night to renew his country's demands.

The four deputies, laying aside the question of whether to hear him, passed to other disputes sections of the proposed treaty. They are stalemated on the question of repatriating displaced persons and refugees now in Austria.

Informants said Zarubin renewed the Soviet demand that Austria be required to send all Soviet Union refugees back to their home land. The three western powers oppose compulsory repatriation.

Britain proposed as a compromise to drop all reference to repatriation from the treaty. Instead, Austria would be held to provisions of a United Nations Assembly resolution passed in 1946 providing that refugees need not return to their homeland if they do not want to.

Zarubin opposed the compromise, declaring Russia had never agreed to accept the United Nations resolution.

Yugoslav claims for land and money were the immediate issues that broke up the last treaty conference in May, 1948.

ERVINE ALTERED DIARY IN WOODS' CASE SAYS KEAYS

Claims Items Changed to Exonerate Accused on Dangerous Driving Charge

Testifying at the Wednesday afternoon session of the royal commission hearing, Constable Keays charged that Corporal Sam Ervine had committed perjury in the witness box and had altered his diary in order to exonerate LeRoy Woods, Sidney township, on a dangerous driving charge.

Constable Keays was testifying before Royal Commissioner Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay on charge of perjury against Cpl. Ervine and against Constable G. Purdy, who, he claimed, had made out a false traffic report in connection with the Woods' case.

Keays, 44 years old and the father of five children, two of whom were in the armed services, appeared Wednesday night to be nearing the end of his testimony. He still faces cross examination by defence counsel. Over 20 defence witnesses are yet to be heard.

The accident in which Woods had been involved took place on Highway 14 north of Belleville on November 4th., 1947. As result Woods was charged with drunken driving and with dangerous driving. Although he had been no where near the scene of the accident, Keays said Cpl. Ervine interfered with the investigation to a point where he had Crown Attorney Donnan issue instructions that the two charges be withdrawn.

Search Now Centres on Montreal For International Counterfeit Ring

Toronto, Feb. 10 — (CP) — The police search for members of an international counterfeit ring, which has smuggled thousands of bogus United States dollars into Canada, today centred on Montreal where a number of counterfeit $20 bills turned up.

Police said they believe the bills were shipped to the Quebec city about the same time as two bundles of counterfeit money were smuggled into the country and left at an Oshawa house.

"Apparently the agent in Montreal has been able to distribute some of his supply to his accomplices," one police officer said.

R.C.M.P. officials have warned merchants to watch for the bogus bills. They are said to be good imitations, but have certain markings that can be easily identified. The serial numbers of all the bills start with "G" and the plate number on the back starts with 480.

Meanwhile, Edwin McDonald, 30-year-old brother of the notorious Donald (Mickey) McDonald, was released from police custody last night when he raised $20,000 bail. He and his wife were arrested on a charge of possession of counterfeit money after a raid on the Oshawa house uncovered more than $15,000 in bogus bills hidden under a bathtub.

Investigators said they do not believe any of the false $20 bills are in circulation in Ontario.

A senior police official said: "We have information that similar bogus bills have been circulated in Montreal, Chicago and New York."

CANADA TO INCUR DEFICIT IN FIRST YEAR OF UNION

Abbott Says Amount Will be $23,000,000

Ottawa, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Government estimates indicate Canada will incur a deficit of $23,000,000 in Newfoundland in the first year after the island joins Canada as 10th province.

Finance Minister Abbott told the Commons yesterday it is estimated that expenditures by all federal government departments in the first year of union will amount to about $50,000,000. Federal revenues from the island in the period have been estimated at $27,000,000.

Mr. Abbott said he will read the detailed figures into the record when members resume study of the 50 clauses of bill 11, the document containing the union terms. Twenty - two clauses have already been passed.

Expenditures will cover family allowances, old age pensions, veterans benefits, defence, deficits of the Newfoundland railroad, servicing of the Newfoundland debt and other services which fall within federal jurisdiction. The amount will also include the first instalment— $6,500,000 — of the $42,000,000 transitional grants which Canada will pay in the early years of union.

He said the Red Cross hopes to see the completion this year of the free coast-to-coast blood transfusion service, already operating in many provinces.

Loss of Economic Freedom Means Also Loss Of Political Freedom

Kitchener, Feb. 10 (CP)—Loss of economic freedom means loss of political freedom, E. F. (Ted) Conover, President of the Ontario Young Conservative Association, warned Wednesday night at a meeting of the Waterloo North Y.P.C.A.

Russian Spy Ring That Operated In Japan May Still be at Work

Washington, Feb. 10 (CP) — The United States army told in detail today the fantastic story of the Communist spy ring which funnelled stolen Japanese military secrets to Russia from 1933 to 1941.

The wartime red network in Canada, disclosed in 1945 by Igor Gouzenko, was an "amateur show" in comparison with the set-up directed by Dr. Richard Sorge in Tokyo, the army said.

Sorge was a German Communist who posed as a newspaper correspondent and loyal Nazi. He and his chief lieutenant, Ozaki Ozumi, were hanged in November, 1944, three years after their arrest.

The German and his inner circle of 15 henchmen "almost succeeded in committing the perfect crime," the army said in a 40,000-word review entitled "a case study in international espionage in the Far East."

"Starting from nothing in a country which he never before had even visited, Dr. Sorge was able to develop the most complete and successful espionage operation in Japanese history."

The report says he was able to keep Russia "fully informed of Japanese military and industrial capabilities and intentions from 1933 to 1941."

Sorge cultivated the German Ambassador in Tokyo and his staff so well they told him almost anything, asked his advice and let him see secret papers.

"Probably never in history has there been a ring more bold or more successful. Although most of the principals are dead, some are still at large. They can be expected to be secretly busy with their trade at this very moment in the capitals of the world.

Many of the minor figures in the ring were released by the Americans as political prisoners. The army report indicates that maybe that wouldn't happen if the Americans had it to do over again.

Apparently the army was intended to warn the United States to be on the lookout for spying at home.

Still "at large", it says, are a Missouri-born author, Agnes Smedley, and Gunther Stein, a German who was a temporary but "top-level member" of the Tokyo ring from 1936 to 1938.

Miss Smedley is described as the go-between who first brought Sorge and Ozaki Hozumi, his right-hand man, together.

(In New ork, Miss Smedley said the report's reference to her is "a despicable lie." She demanded a retraction and an apology.

(Stein, who also lives in New York now, described the report's description of him as "ridiculous.")

Mrs. Kitabayashi Tomo, a dressmaker, was the first of the ring to be arrested, and her capture led to the break-up of the ring.

Warns Against Evils And Dangers Of Over-Expansion

Ontario Legislature Will Be Asked to Control Oleo Sale

Toronto, Feb. 10. (CP) — Steps to consolidate Ontario's expansion, with an eye to "the evils and dangers of inflationary over-expansion"—are forecast in the Speech from the Throne read today at the opening session of the province's new legislature.

The Speech, read by Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson, also forecast legislation to provide "for the clear distinguishment in all forms of sale to the consumer, between butter and oleomargarine". It gave no details of the control planned for the butter substitute which went on sale recently after a Supreme Court decision that the Dominion Government lacked authority to continue a ban on its sale.

Guarantee People's Rights

"Progressive and sympathetic law enforcement with particular firmness in the suppression of subversive elements so as to guarantee the rights of people to go about their lawful business," was mentioned as a government objective by the 1,300-word speech, shortest in years.

The government plans measures "to rationalize further the relations between municipalities and the province". New legislation will enable courts hearing divorce actions to deal adequately" with the custody and welfare of children under 16.

Other plans include: assistance to municipalities in training policemen and firemen; improved superannuation benefits to school teachers and inspectors; widened assistance for community halls, skating rinks and playing fields; improved drainage legislation; legislation affecting hospitals and homes for the aged.

Bright Future Ahead

In its reference to consolidation measures, the Speech said that never before in Ontario was there promise of greater substance, stability and progress". The government viewed with grave apprehension any influence or distraction which would misdirect its efforts in this cause".

It added: "The evils and dangers of inflationary over-expansion are constantly in mind in the consideration and formulation of the measures necessary to effect consolidation of the position now attained. You will be asked to approve proposals designed upon the broad principle of consolidation, with such consequent retrenchment as may be incident to that principle."

Prout Paces Sheet Metals to 6-1 Win Over Water Street

Paced by the fine offensive work of Prout who scored three goals and was credited with a pair of assists, the Sheet Metal team of the Northern Electric League raced through to a convincing 6-1 win over the Water Street crew last night.

Metals scored two in the first and second periods. In the third McCabe fired home Water Street's only counter, but the winners came back with another pair before the game ended.

Salter, Rosebush and Bush scored the remaining three goals for Metals. Prout, Noakes, Salter and Bush were the stars for the winners with McCabe, Ingram and Jacks standing out for the Water Street crew. Referees "Porky" York and "Mouse" Bush handed out but three penalties, two of them going to Metals.

The teams:

Sheet Metal — Goal, Rappel; defence, Longhurst, Noakes; centre, Prout; wings, Bush, Rosetti; subs, Kelleher, Salter, Rosebush, Barrett.

Water Street — Goal, Locke; defence, Ingram, Carleton; centre, McCabe; wings, Ketcheson, O'Brien; subs, Fisher, Sills, Raycroft, McGillivray.

Booklet Recalls Madoc Gold Rush

A link with the "roaring sixties" when gold-fever scorched the veins of miners and others in the Madoc and other mid-Hastings sections, was uncovered here the other day.

It is a well-preserved copy of "The Gold Hunters' Guide and Miners' Manual" found between the walls of the Woolworth building here, now in process of demolition. The small sixty-page booklet was brought to this newsroom by construction superintendent S. A. Thompson of the Richard and B. A. Ryan Construction Company.

It is as stated on the yellowed cover, "a complete history of the recent gold discoveries in Madoc, and description of the geological character of North Hastings; to which is added a summary of valuable information to miners and prospectors."

It was written by "A Provincial Land Surveyor and Practical Geologist," and was printed in 1867 by Platt and Company, "New Nation" Office, Picton, Ont.

It contains graphic stories of the discovery of gold in Madoc and other townships and the various efforts of prospectors, mining companies and others to obtain the properties.

Several advertisements feature the back pages. One in particular informs the public that "You can't eat gold, so buy your provisions at J. W. Turner's General Provision Store at Bridgewater." (Actinolite.)

Milk Producers Open Annual Meeting in City

Recommendations to advertise the product; to undertake some scheme for inspection of producers' premises as a step in improving the product, and suggestions for a more logical way of collecting dues were embodied in the opening address of President Morley Davidson of the Belleville Milk Produceds' Association today.

President Davidson opened the annual meeting of the association in St. Thomas' Parish House, shortly after ten o'clock this morning. The meeting went into its afternoon session at two o'clock with Fenton McIntyre, president of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers' League, Brantford, as guest speaker.

To Elect Officers

A discussion on general business followed, with the election of officers, appointments of various delegates and other business concluding the meeting.

In his address President Davidson reminded the producers that a motion had been endorsed authorizing the provincial executive to be the associations negotiating agent in getting a price agreement to replace the one ending, Nov. 1, 1948.

"Local distributors," he said, "gave notice they wished to withdraw from provincial negotiations resulting in the fact we are now in the midst of arbitration. We have been carrying on since Nov. 1 on a verbal agreement only. Mr. McIntyre will explain this more fully later," he said.

He "strongly recommended" that funds be set aside to finance a form of advertising either alone or with distributors, preferably with the distributors.

He thanked the association for the co-operation given him during the past year.

Discussions on the auditors' report and the report on the Agricultural Board ended the morning session.

Optimist Club Greets Governor On Official Visit

Dr. George Barrett of Ottawa, Governor of District 15, presided at the regular Monday meeting of Belleville Optimist Club. In a brief address, based on the Optimist Creed, he stressed the importance of a practical application of its tenets to our every-day life.

Dr. Barrett initiated Kenneth Campbell into the local club, and presented Optimist Gordon Carter with a trophy won at an inter-club picnic last summer. Boys' Work Chairman Tom Smith introduced the club's Junior Baseball team, who were dinner guests of the club, and their captain was presented with the championship trophy which they won for the second time, in the summer of 1848. The Pot-of-Gold draw was turned over to the young guests, with the result that two of their number departed with an unexpected but welcome gratuity of eight dollars.

Governor Barrett was introduced to the club by vice-president "Tut" Kokesh, and thanked for his address by Treasurer Frank Clarke. Also present as guests of the Optimist Club were Dr. Gordon Bucher, Richard Clarke, Ab. Elliott and Frank Foley. Harold Bankier acted as sergeant-at-arms, and Pug. Bradden presided over the pot-of-gold.

PICTON

Team of Horses Go Through Ice Of Bay of Quinte

Picton — A team of horses owned by Harry Abramsky were drowned late Tuesday when they plunged through the ice of the Bay of Quinte. They were valued at $400. Logs were being drawn from Adolphustown shore to Glenora road where Mr. Abramsky has a farm. It was near the Adolphustown shore that the horses stepped on to ice which had been weakened by a current and plunged through. All efforts to extricate them before both sank proved of no avail. The ice in the vicinity was from six to nine inches thick but there are many currents thereabouts. A. Chambers and Paul Milan were present at the time and some feet back of the horses, did not go through the ice.

CHARLES BENNETT (Formerly of Read)

The following obituary which appeared recently in the paper published at Yorkton, Sask., will be of interest to many readers in Tyendinaga township and elsewhere in the district:

"Yorkton and district was saddened on Sunday morning, January 29, with the news that Charles Bennett had passed away suddenly at his farm home eight miles northeast of Yorkton. The funeral was held at St. Gerard's Church on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Burial was made in the family plot in Yorkton cemetery. His six sons were pallbearers.

Charles Bennett was born at Read, Ont., on April 5, 1885. He received his education in the East. As a young man, in 1905, he came West, settling in the Yorkton district. In 1918 he married May Stewart and their marriage was blessed with 12 children, 11 of whom are here to mourn his loss.

Mr. Bennett was a valued member of St. Gerard's Church and an active Knight of Columbus.

A loving and devoted husband and father, "Charlie" lived for his home and family. Neighbors and friends were always welcome. His passing leaves a gap in the community which will be felt for a long time.

He is survived by his wife, five daughters and six sons: Margaret (Mrs. G. Keohoe), of Read, Ont.; Helen (Sister Mary Florence), of Peterborough, Ont., Kathleen (Mrs. P. McCormick), of Roslin, Ont.; Raymond of Peterborough, Ont.; and James, William, Mary, Gerald, Robert, John and Eileen at home. Also left to mourn his loss are two sisters, Mrs. John Brennan, Read, Ont., and Mrs. Wm. McDonald, Oshawa, Ont., and one brother Mr. Henry Bennett, of Tweed, Ont.

There was an exceedingly large number of spiritual offerings and a wealth of floral tributes.

Mrs. Alice Barnes, weighing 252 pounds, answered the ad, and, romantically speaking bowled Edwards over. They married after a courtship of three months. She has four children and two grandchildren.—Central Press Canadian.

Accommodated In Police Court, Given a Month

"Wanna rest. Wanna go back to the jail," mumbled the seventy-five-year-old knight of the road in city police court this morning.

"Okay, George, we'll see about it. How long do you want to stay?" queried Police Inspector Clare Hayes.

"Month," mutter the balding old man.

He was George Hayes (no relation to the inspector) who is well known to police departments from Toronto to Montreal.

George, who has no relatives nor address, has been travelling the broad highways for years and has often been a guest of Hastings County. Occasionally he falls foul of the wine when it is red, as was the case last night.

Having no ready coin of the realm, the elderly hobo will be a guest of the county for at least the conventional time.

Camera Technique Discussed by Club

The Belleville Camera Club met at the Corby Public Library Tuesday. After a half hour of movies in color, Mr. Tonkin reviewed the "Camera" magazine and Mr. Hedley James explained the essential points to observe in taking of successful snow scenes. This was to assist the members with their next print and snapshot competitions for March, the subject of which is "Snow Scenes."

An interesting number of prints was entered for this month, the subject being open. In the snapshot contest, Joan Bronskill won first and second. In the 5 x 7 mounted print contest Joan Bronskill won first and in the 8 x 10 or 11 x 14 salon contest, Norval Tonkin came first, Mrs. Dorothy Howard came second and Mr. N. Tonkin and H. James tied for third.

IN MEMORIAM

BEST — In memory of my loving wife, Mildred Grace Best, who passed away February 10, 1948.

Gone is the face I loved so dear,
Silent is the voice I loved to hear.
Too far away for sight or speech.
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember her who once was here,
And who, though absent, is just as dear.

—Lovingly remembered by her husband, John.

BEST — In memory of Mildred Grace Best, who passed away February 10th., 1948.

We do not forget her, we love her too dearly,
For her memory to fade from our lives like a dream.
Our lips need not speak when our hearts mourn sincerely,
For grief often dwells where it seldom is seen.

—Ever remembered by her loving brother, Everett and family.

BEST — In loving memory of our sister, Mrs. Mildred (Van Allen) Best, who passed away one year ago today, February 10, 1948.

You are not forgotten, sister,
Nor ever will you be,
As long as life and memory last.
We will remember thee.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 10 (CP)—Prices climbed steadily in dull trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Golds began a firm upward movement in mid-session that spread from senior issues into a wide list of junior producers.

Volume for the first three hours was 526,000 shares, about 4,000 shares less than yesterday's similar period.

Golds opened quietly but it didn't take much buying attention to lift prices in junior producers as much as 15 cents. McIntyre led the seniors with a point advance at 55 1-4 and Dome, Hollinger, Lake Shore, Wright-Hargreaves and Teck-Hughes were better.

Canadian Vickers jumped ahead 7 5-8 at 74 5-8 in industrials and refining oils and papers firmed.

Anglo-Canadian added 15 cents at $4.70 and Okalta, Central Leduc and Pacific Petroleum attracted buying attention for higher prices. Royalite Oil dipped a point at 26 3-4

The new shares of Royalite under the four-for-one split approved by shareholders, will be listed on the exchange tomorrow.

Waite Amulet was strong in base metals while Labrador dipped 20 cents at $5.10.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

A few medium to good light steers and heifers sold at $18-$18.75 and some good cows were $16.

Hogs were steady at $30.50 for grade A and $30.10 for grade B1. Sows were $22, dressed.

One car of good western lambs sold at $25. A few good light sheep sold at $10-$12.

HOGS

Toronto, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Hog prices at Stratford settled unchanged this morning and grade A were $30.35 to farmers, delivered and $30.50 to truckers. At Hull hogs were up 25 cents at $30 for grade A delivered.

UNJUSTLY

"It is no joke and you better — — well get them back or you will be paraded before the Commissioner'," Keays quoted Inspector Page as replying.

Keays said the Inspector told him that the Picton office was kept under lock and key and that he (Keays) was the only officer who had the opportunity of taking them.

Keays said he was accused of taking the files from the Picton office on a date when he was in Picton giving evidence.

He had communicated the matter to the Acting Inspector who had advised "waiting a few days." Later the Acting Inspector searched the Picton office and located the missing files.

'Stigma Still with Me'

"I don't know the purpose for which these files were hidden but the stigma of that false accusation is still with me," said Keays. "I still maintain I knew nothing of the files."

Keays several times referred to the stigma cast on his name and his decision in the interests of his wife and family, three of his sons in the services, to make an attempt to clear his name.

In January, Keays said, he had been transferred to Niagara Falls and later was transferred back to Belleville.

Reason for his transfer back to Belleville had been on account of Keays' health and due to the housing shortage in Niagara Falls. It was felt that due to Keays' health he should be near his family.

Offered to Apologize

"On my return to Belleville presumably for posting, I told the other men of the force that if they thought I had done anything wrong I would apologize."

The other members of the force said they "had nothing to say."

On his return to Belleville Keays said he had been instructed by letter from Inspector Page that he would not be permitted to take part in any investigation and that he was not to be permitted to bring any of his equipment to the police station.

"I asked that I be given my instructions verbally as this letter was ruining my character," said Keays.

Inspector's Page's answer had been "you have your instructions."

Letter Tells of Apology

A letter from District Inspector Page to the Commissioner indicated that Keays on his return to Belleville had "made full apology", which had been accepted by the senior officers "though other officers had not been so inclined".

The letter stated, also, that after Keays had gone to Niagara Falls there had been more harmony at the Belleville office. However, since his return there had been a cloud.

Another letter, this from the Commissioner to Inspector Page advised the Inspector that his treatment of Keays may have been too "drastic" and that Keays be permitted some duties".

"There were direct instructions," pointed out Keays.

C.A. Directed Activities

Keays said that Inspector Page's instructions to him on his return to Belleville had been directed by Crown Attorney Donnan.

"I learned that Mr. Donnan had finally carried out his threats against me, as he was responsible for the written instructions issued to me by Inspector Page. I cannot think of a better way that anyone can ruin the career of a police officer than by attacking his integrity and discrediting him."

On May 10 Keays said he had been made the 4th assistant radio despatcher on the directions from headquarters as "his knowledge of No. 9 district would be of valuable assistance to the detachment."

EMPRESS DEFENDS CARDINAL MINDSZENTY

Former Empress Zita of Austria-Hungary (left), is seen in Detroit chatting with Mrs. Eugene P. Berry, president of the Catholic Study Club and the Rev. Father Stanley Murphy of Assumption College, Windsor, Ont. During her short address the widow of Emperor Carl, who abdicated in 1916 spoke warmly in defence of Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary, who has been sentenced to life imprisonment in Budapest. The cradinal still faces the possibility of the death penalty on appeal.—Central Press Canadian.

Many Messages Of Congratulation On Anniversary

The lovely country home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Sills of Foxboro was the scene of a double celebration on Monday when they not only celebrated the anniversary of their diamond wedding, but also the anniversary of Mr. Sills' 84th birthday. Over one hundred guests, bringing gifts and good wishes, signed the register during the afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Roy Bartlett and Mrs. Clifford Wilson received the guests.

The bride of sixty years was becomingly gowned in a pretty, printed green and white crepe dress, and wore a corsage of pink roses and asparagus fern; while the bridegroom looked very smart with his white carnation boutinere.

Dining Room Gay

The dining room, with its gay streamers of white and pink; tall white tapers in silver holders, was a lively scene of reminiscent conversations. Here, luncheon was served by Mrs. Ewart Sills, and Mrs. S. H. Connor, of Tweed, assisted by Mrs. Horace Palmer, Mrs. Walter Scott, Nurse Moore and Miss Irene Aitkin.

During the afternoon Mrs. J. G. Sills and Mrs. Geo. Hicks poured tea, while in the evening this honor was assumed by Mrs. A. F. Shorten, and Mrs. Ernest Chambers.

Mrs. Connor, whose lovely contralto voice was never heard to greater advantage, delighted the many guests and friends with several solos during the afternoon and evening. Her accompanist was Mrs. Reginald Skinner, of Foxboro.

Royal Message

Besides the many beautiful gifts of flowers, potted plants, candy and cards, were telegrams of congratulations from their majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth; William Lyon Mackenzie King, of Ottawa; Province of Ontario Parliament Building, Toronto; Mr. George Stokes, M.P., Ottawa; Mr. C. L. Jewell, manager of the Bank of Commerce, Belleville; the Ketcheson boys, W. P. G. and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Steinberg, of Brooklyn, New York.

Sixty years of wedded bliss had enhanced rather than diminished the art of being an ideal host and hostess as the delightful time spent on Monday afternoon and evening proved. Neither had the bridegroom lost his chivalrous bearing toward his bride of long ago, as evidenced in his gift of a lovely diamond ring in honor of the occasion.

Mr. Sills is one of four second cousins, all of whom were born on the 7th of February, but in different years.

Melbourne, Feb. 10 — (CP) — The Netherlands minister to Australia has sent a strong note of protest to Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian affairs minister, against an attack yesterday by immigration minister Arthur Calwell on the Dutch administration of The Netherlands East Indies.

Calwell, in his speech, said an opposition motion for adjournment of the House to discuss the deportation of an Indonesian woman and her eight Indonesian children was part of a Netherlands plan to embarrass the Australian government because of its interest in Indonesia and participation in the current Asian conference at New Delhi.

The Indonesian woman, Mrs. Annie O'Keefe, was evacuated with her children to Australia during the war. She married an Australian, John O'Keefe, but has been ordered deported under the Australian government policy of returning Asiatics brought here during the war to their homes.

WARNS AGAINST

The government plans to maintain "generous support of projects leading towards improvement in the welfare of agriculture". It will continue to assist education, health programs, social welfare and highway development "consistent with the availability of essential supplies without prejudicing home construction. It plans "comprehensively fair provision for the needs and obligations of labor, trade and industrial relations," attention to development of the tourist trade and use and conservation of natural resources.

Regrets Lack of Progress

The Speech regretted that little progress had been made in settling the problems of Dominion-Provincial relations "due to the intransigent attitude of the Dominion government." However, Ontario would continue its efforts for a settlement.

Ontario enjoyed "unprecedented conditions of progress" in the last five years. The pace of industry had stepped up after the war. Production of agricultural areas was never on a higher plane. The government had followed policies designed to keep pace with the progress. Industrial expansion was accompanied by an expanding population. Thousands of immigrants had come from Great Britain. Success met efforts to have British industries establish branch plants or new enterprises in Ontario.

To Expand Housing

Legislation passed at the last session helped in construction of more than 5,000 new homes. The government expected this form of assistance would be greatly expanded in the coming year.

The speech mentioned the deaths of two members in the provincial election last June 7 — Charles W. Cragg, member for Parry Sound, and John H. P. Carrere, war hero elected in Cochrane North.

It extended good wishes to the King and mentioned the concern caused by news of his illness last fall. It extended good wishes and congratulations to the Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh on the birth of their son last November.

Says Life Term Means 15 Years For Cardinal

Budapest, Feb. 10 (Reuters) — Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, sentenced to life imprisonment on charges of treason by a people's court Tuesday, will be freed after 15 years, a high official of the Hungarian Justice Ministry said here today.

The official told correspondents that under Hungarian law all persons sentenced to life imprisonment are freed after 15 years.

He said it should be remembered that the Cardinal's sentence has yet to be confirmed by the Supreme Court, which is to review the case next week. Appeals of Mindszenty's six co-accused also will be heard.

The Supreme Court will decide which of its five tribunals will review the sentences.

The ministry of justice said the supreme tribunal will comprise a president nominated by the ministry, and delegates from parties in the government.

Unlike the lower court, members of the supreme tribunal must all be lawyers.

Beekeepers Ask Assistance To Market Surplus

Winnipeg, Feb. 10 — (CP) — The Canadian beekeeping industry, with millions of pounds of unsold honey on its hands, is seeking government assistance to take the sting out of its predicament.

Lack of an export market and a near-record production year in 1948 have presented the industry with its most serious problem since beekeeping became a factor in Canadian agriculture during the depression years.

The actual total of unsold honey in Canada is a matter of question with estimates ranging from 13,000,000 to 20,000,000 pounds. The higher figure was advanced at the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture in Saskatoon recently by Gerald Habing, a member of the Canadian Beekeepers' Council. Frank Garland of Winnipeg, council president, puts it at 13,000,000 to 15,000,000 pounds.

Mr. Garland broke down his total as follows: — approximately 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 pounds of honey would be in the hands of wholesalers, packers and beekeepers. Another 3,000,000 pounds would be on shelves in retail outlets.

The Canadian Council has made two propositions to the federal government about the honey, mostly in stock through Western Canada. With troubled world finances creating a lack of importers for Canadian honey and no apparent prospect of selling all the surplus on the domestic market, beekeepers look to the government as their only hope.

Local Builders' Exchange Looks For Active Year

Representatives of the Belleville and District Builders' Exchange who attended last week a general meeting at Toronto of all builders' exchanges across Canada presented a report to the local exchange in the council chambers on Tuesday evening. One of the highlights stressed by the local delegates was the formation in Toronto of a committee of five, elected from the representatives present to contact governments, unions and so-forth on all matters pertaining to the building industry. This is considered a very important step and is seen as looking to the greatest co-operation between owners, contractors, supply houses and labor.

The local exchange is well represented in its membership of those in all lines of the building industry, supply houses, hardware, plumbing, painters, electricians, floor servicemen, roofing experts, contractors, builders and architects. They have accomplished a great deal during the past year and their office has been moved to the Belleville Chamber of Commerce. With Mr. Freeman Burrows as secretary it is the object of the local exchange to have the building public receive utmost in co-operation and value for their dollars invested.

An announcement of interest is expected to be made within the next two weeks.

Care on Roads

The winter has so far brought considerable periods in which it is necessary for drivers of cars to exercise every precaution to prevent a collision or upset on the highways. The season has not been as cold as in other years and that fact accounts for the slippery condition of the roads with which motorists have often to match their skill at the wheel. While there has not been the usual deep snow which can create hazards, there has been considerable driving weather which has made the roads dangerous.

Cars should be checked and care exercised always to have the car and the tires in good condition. Headlights must not be forgotten as something to be checked as well as windshield wipers, radiators, defrosters and the exhaust system. Then of course the driver himself must at all times be as careful as it is possible to be. This can follow as a result of keeping the speed of the vehicle down to a rate below the average for other seasons so that in the event of any untoward situation suddenly being brought before the motorist, the latter may be ready and able to stop in a short distance. All the usual signals for giving notice of intention in passing cars, or making curves should naturally be observed.

Taught to Work

Modern science dealing with the treatment of offenders against the laws lays rightly stress upon the redemptive part in punishment. Recently in Ontario eight young men were sentenced to terms varying from six months to eighteen and comment praises this as a salutary step directed towards curbing the hoodlums' anti-social instinct. Somehow these young chaps had imbibed the false notion that gangsterism is something to be desired. Their ordinary intelligence should make it clear to them that such outlawry as has been reported is only to be wiped out for it is the very opposite of the principle of playing the game of life nobly.

The authorities have taken a firm stand and churches and social organizations are united to do their share in the elimination of this evil, which will ruin the lives of many unless they can be saved by some social measures.

The young men sentenced in the case mentioned will have a training which will bring out the good in them and it is hoped remove any symptoms or signs of a wrong slant on life they may have entertained. They go to imprisonment where forces are at work to redeem them to lives of usefulness while they are still young and able to take advantage of and enjoy those things in life which are infinitely better than following the steps of gangsters.

They will be taught that work is something honorable and that it is one of the stern laws of life that all must strive and work to do their best and make their contribution to their time and the social life of the community.

Discipline will be taught at the prison-farm place of reformation, that stage of life which it is necessary for them to pass through that they may be of benefit to their relatives and neighbors, through the removal from their minds and hearts of any false ideals and impulses they may have shown they possess.

The way they must learn is to tread the path of honest toil and manliness. Otherwise their lives will be hollow and empty or evil.

French Enterprise

The ancient city and seaport of Marseilles, France, is causing worldwide attention by the construction of the huge Corbusier apartment block as an experiment in architecture and city planning.

It is built on 36-foundation piles, 23 feet long and will have 17 stories of which 14 will be apartments. Its height will be 195 feet, the length 44 feet and the depth 78 feet. It is planned to accommodate 1,700 people in 350 apartments, each apartment being built from pre-fabricated floors, walls and ceilings.

At the present time seven stories have been built and it will take another year before the structure is completed.

Some of the features of the building are given in the French Information Service:

The height of the apartment results in a concentration of population in a small area and this situation creates other needs that must be met. The building will contain all the necessary services for food supply, health, etc., that would be needed in a city district of the same population. Two floors will be reserved for shops, public services and clubs.

On the flat roof there will be provision for sports, including a track paved with wood blocks. Gardens and sand piles will serve to amuse the children in safety and the roof will be protected by a parapet.

THE DAY'S TASKS

The countless tasks of day go on and on.
At dawn we wake to do them
all again.
Yet those who find the strength for them has gone
And idle at the window must remain,
Watching the toilers braving
snow and rain,
Aglow with health and vigorous everyone,
Seeking some goal their hearts are set upon,
Wonder if they of every loss complain?

What mattered little disappointments then
Or those small failures of their younger years?
Now 'twould be good to face them all again,
Knowing how soon grim worry disappears.
Those cares that fretted them
so long ago,
Had they the strength, they would rejoice to know.

The Packsack of Gregory Clark!

The recently published figures on Canada's enormous and ever-expanding tourist industry suggests to one of my lunatic friends that Canada ought to abandon all other industries—most of which are causing us so many headaches — and set herself up as the Playground of the World.

If being America's Playground brings us in such lavish and easy millions, what a life Canadians could lead by operating the Playground of the World!

By a little negotiation with the United States, we could get them to take over the border all those manufacturing industries which already cluster handily along the narrow fringe of Canada adjacent to the States. The population dependent on those industries would, of course, go with them. Only enough farms to feed the tourist influx would be required: the rest could be let go back to the profitable wilderness from which they were hewn. Only the few factories, such as canoe and boat works, packing houses, manufacturers of loud checked shirts and imitation handicrafts necessary to attend to the wants of the world's holiday seekers, would be required. Then all the rest of the Canadian population still on hand could operate tourist resorts.

Those who operate summer resorts could spend happy winters as guests at the winter resorts, and vice- versa. Those of us with no particular talent in resort management could be guides, golf pros, ski instructors, foresters, fish and game wardens. Rid forever of the grime, toil, struggle, bickering, strikes and lockouts inseparable from those artificial industries we have set up. Canadians could live the life of Riley.

About fifty percent of the surface of Canada, counting the Rockies, Labrador, the Yukon and most of the north, is fit for nothing forever save recreation. And there appears to be big money in it!

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

WHEN STARS SHINE

It is only upon the clearest nights, when there are no clouds in the sky, that the stars come out in all their glory and serenity. How soothing to the mind such a night — so clear and still! The very sight is medicine to the soul.

Every one of us was created and put into this world to be reasonably happy. Each one of us is given a personal key to our own selected end, or to our own destiny, as you may choose to state it. It is largely in our own hands as to whether we want to look into an unclouded sky, with the stars shining a welcome to us, or else to fill that sky with clouds, shutting all the stars from our view.

We can see little that is beautiful and inspiring in life, when we harbor bitterness, mean thoughts, and destructive ideas. If we harbor hatred, and go about our work with a sour looking face, with no smile or greeting for those with whom we come in contact, the atmosphere about us is one of clouds and darkness — and no stars will shine for us.

You see it's the clouds that shut out those shining stars, for though you may not see them, because of clouds, they are up there with all their magic glow just the same. You can't control Nature's clouds, but you can your own, by dismissing your sorrows, troubles, and petty irritations thereby getting that comforting feeling that the silent night gives to one in a full heaven of stars!

I never look into a night sky, that is studded with its billions of stars, without a feeling of reverence for the Creator of such a stupendous miracle. Never do I cease to be filled with wonder as my eyes look upward. I am inspired. I feel my littleness. I become humble. Then I think of the small world, comparatively, that is my abode — just a tiny speck in a universe of perhaps billions of other worlds of which man now knows nothing.

Merely looking into the stars, upon a perfect night, is enough to melt all our anxieties, inviting us to enjoy peace, and to radiate among our kind, all the joy, through faith, that we have received from the Creator of these stars.

Mackenzie's Column:

Irish Problem Dates Back For Generations

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

It was back about 1930 that I stood in the private office of Prime Minister Lord Craigavon of Northern Ireland (Ulster) and heard him issue this defiance to the "Irish Free State" (now Eire):

"Union with Southern Ireland? Never! Never! Never! and when I am gone, there will be other leaders of the same mind to carry on."

Lord Craigavon, a huge man who towered well above six feet, talked about the bitter and often bloody strife between the two sections of the Emerald Isle.

That "Never! Never! Never!" comes echoing down to me today. For Northern Ireland is holding a general election in which the greatest issue is the question of whether she should unite with Eire or remain a part of the United Kingdom.

Lord Craigavon is dead, but he predicted truly when he said other leaders would carry on the policy of separation.

Long Been Eager

Eire, of course, long has been eager for a merger. As a matter of fact, former Prime Minister Eamon De Valera of Eire recently toured England in support of a United Ireland.

The fight between Northern and Southern Ireland runs back for generations. Its basis is mainly religious, racial and economic.

The economic issue looms large. Ulster, one of the richest parts of the Emerald Isle because of its success in agriculture, linen manufacture and ship building, feels that union with the south would mean they would have to carry excessive taxation, since numerous parts of Eire are not as prosperous.

Trace Lineage

Then, of course, the six counties of Ulster were settled largely by Scots and English. Folks of Eire who trace their lineage back to the days of the Irish kings do not look upon these later arrivals as "belonging" to the land of the shamrock.

You have to travel in Ireland to appreciate fully just how bitter the feeling is between many of the people of Ulster and Eire.

Prime Minister Sir Basil Brooke of Northern Ireland recently summed the position up from his viewpoint as his state approached today's historic election.

"We now have on our southern border a foreign nation. It has always been their policy by one means or another to dominate our territory and to force us out of the United Kingdom.

"Today we fight to defend our very existence and the heritage of our Ulster children."

Brighteners

Johannesburg, South Africa—A man in an official car arrived recently in the little town of Hennenman in the Orange Free State gold fields.

Announcing he was a government health inspector, he called for complaints about conditions dangerous to health.

Residents flocked to him with complaints. He condemned five buildings, cancelled two trading licences, and ordered extensive repairs.

The town clerk got suspicious. He telephoned the health department at Bloemfontein, and learned the hard-handed crusader had no connection with the government.

The "inspector" was arrested—but the town had the biggest cleanup in its history.

Hollywood — Actor George Tobias is a happy man today because John D. Griffin is an honest one.

Griffin told police yesterday he found a slip of paper near an intersection. It was a negotiable cheque made out to cash for $20,000.79. It was signed by Tobias.

Honest John turned it over to police.

Crawford, Neb. — A bulldozer crew, breaking through to the snowbound Bob Soefter home 15 miles east of here, arrived just in time for breakfast — of eggs.

Since Dec. 31, the last time the Soefters got out, hens had filled every basket and container on the place.

There were some left over, too. Eighty-six dozen were piled on the kitchen floor.

STRENGTH for The Day

Dr. Earl L. Douglass

TRAIN THEM NOW

A few Sundays ago as we stood in church during the singing of a hymn, we observed a mother in the gallery with a child on each side. It was amazing that these children, both under ten, were able to read the words of the hymn with apparent ease — in fact seemed quite familiar with them and were evidently taking great satisfaction in the whole church service. It struck us that here was a parent preparing two children to get the most out of life. She was going about it in the right way. She was establishing within them a sense of values which would condition all their thinking and acting in future years.

Why do good Christian people march off to church each Sunday morning without their children? Thousands of parents who are very solicitous for the welfare of their children go to church themselves each Sunday and allow their children to return home after Sunday School to spend the rest of the morning with the comic strips. Church going is a habit, and it is furthermore a habit which, unless it is formed in childhood, is very seldom formed at any time later. Twenty-five years from now many churches are going to be empty, for the simple reason that a large percentage of our Christian citizenship will not have been trained through the years in church attendance.

REPORT ON LEUKOPLAKIA

In 1939 a Michigan man was having trouble with a white patch on the inside of his right cheek, and he was advised by doctors to leave it alone. On a trip to California in the winter of '39 he had a "check-up" at a government hospital— (Wait a moment, please. Check-up—isn't that what they call greasing your gaskets and tightening your percolator for $14.88?)—he had an examination. The hospital doctors were much interested in the white growth in his cheek and advised him to return to Michigan and get the advise of a cancer specialist—(Not so fast. Cancer specialist? There is no such specialist in Michigan or anywhere else in the country. What the doctors at the Veterans hospital advised was treatment with radium and they probably referred the patient to a radiologist — a doctor who limits his practice to X-ray and radium diagnosis and treatment—but only a fraction of the radiologist's work is with cancer, so it is naive to call him or her "cancer specialist". Besides, only quacks of the most heinous type hold themselves out to the guillible public as "cancer specialists.")

On his return to Michigan the man consulted the "cancer specialist" who had used radium with great success in the treatment of cancer. After each radium treatment the white patch inside his mouth would disappear, but in a short time it would return.

The man went to the hospital and there the doctors burned it off (for my information the man does not say whether they used actual cautery, electro-coagulation or chemical caustic) and in a short time it returned again.

Then my wife read an article in the health column of our paper (so they really printed it that day, eh?) on what you thought might cause leukoplakia in some cases—the teeth being filled with two dissimilar metals, one positive and the other negative, so that a miniature electric battery effect is produced when the saliva is acid. The galvanic current thus set up burns the cheek or tongue and accounts for galvanic sore mouth.

(I had two or three articles on galvanic sore mouth—painful ulcers of lining of cheek or covering of tongue in mouths containing dissimilar metals in bridges, crowns, inlays, fillings — ulcers which heal poorly or if they heal at all soon recur. I may have surmised that this might account for leukoplakia—white patches — in some instances but if so, it was only conjecture. In Save Your Teeth, for which send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope, there are chapters on both Leukoplakia and Galvanic Sore Mouth.)

My teeth were examined and found to have different kinds of fillings and inlays, especially one directly opposite where the white patch always started. So the dentist removed the filling (or inlay, not the tooth) and replaced it with one of similar metal—similar to the other fillings or dentures) . . . and the white patch disappeared and has never returned. Now after seven years I don't believe it ever will.

(Signed———)

Thank you, sir. Your experience with a most rebellious condition should be of interest to many who suffer with leukoplakia white patches in the mouth smokers' patches—or with galvanic ulcers, which are commonly mistaken for obstinate canker sores.

In any case of leukoplakia smoking must be stopped. Rough or defective teeth, fillings or dentures must be remedied by the dentist. Only mild mouthwashes should be used if any. If I had either leukoplakia or galvanic sore mouth I'd use only plain toilet soap and warm water as a mouthwash.

Some physicians have observed apparent cures of leukoplakia from daily application of saturated solution of gentian violet in water to the patch.

Actuay cautery at red heat, electro-coagulation or in skilled hands carbon dioxide crayon may be the best way to destroy the growth. It is for the physician to determine which method is suitable in the individual case. Radium is more effective than X-ray treatment.

A medical colleague ascribes the cure of his own leukoplakia to the optimal daily ration of natural vitamin A he took for four or five months.

Negress Asks $50,000 For Alleged 'Jim Crow' Treatment on Train

Auxiliary Meets At Home Of Miss Rachel Fox

The February meeting of the Tabernacle Evening Auxiliary was held Tuesday evening at the home of Rachel Fox, Donald St.

Mrs. Miller conducted the devotional period on the theme "Thy Kingdom Come — Through the Work of a Christian People."

Edith Stanton read an article on temperance, which stated that while definite rules were not set up by Christ for the benefit of His Disciples, certain basic principles were established. If anything hinders people being their best it should not be tolerated.

Myra Irvine told the story of Mr. Yang, the work of the Canadian Mission press in Chengtu, and its importance in helping to solve the problem of illiteracy in China. After the people have become literate, then it is necessary that suitable reading material be provided.

At the close of the meeting, lunch was served by the hostess committee, and a social time enjoyed by the members and guests.

Advertising of Food Products Discussed By Foxboro Farm Forum

The Foxboro Farm Forum met on Monday evening at Mr. Vernon Harry's home with an attendance of eighteen. In the absence of Mr. F. Tummon, Mr. M. Reynolds capably took his place as discussion leader. The topic for the evening was "Food in Sales Clothing". The questions were "Is advertising of food products in the best interests of (a) the producer? (b) the consumer? The group felt that for the producer to advertise would create a new market for any new line of goods and it would increase sales. Now advertising is left to the retailer. It was also considered that advertising was to the consumer's advantage, but that in many cases the consumer was burdened down with it.

Regarding the question "Who should take responsibility for the merchandising of farm products?" the group thought that producers should definitely be responsible for merchandising their own products through producers' organization or co-operatives.

Mrs. Vernon Harry conducted an interesting contest and the meeting closed with the serving of delicious refreshments.

COWS GETTING SNOOTY

Vicksburg, Mich., (AP)—Farmer Jim Green complains that his cows are getting snooty.

Having been accustomed to fountain water at their barns, they refused to drink from a creek when the barn's water system failed.

So obstinate were they, said Green, that they went without water for 17 hours until he got his pipeline repaired.

Have the Right Tools Handy For Hurry-up Home Manicure

If skin around the nail edge has become rky, apply a good hand cream; work it in with an orange wood stick

By HELEN FOLLETT

IF TIME is at your heels and you can't spare a precious hour for a manicure at the beauty shop, do get the right tools for home care. Buy the best, because they will last a lifetime. You will need a long flexible file of high grade steel with grooves that cut quickly. You must also have a pair of curved, needle-point scissors for snipping away hangnails. Of course, if you take proper care of those pretty pink sheaths, you won't have snags in the cuticle that surrounds them. It is only when the flesh becomes attached to the nail fabric that breaks come. Hangnails are dangerous; they cause open wounds that invite infection.

By soaking the hands well after your nightly face washing the cuticle will be soft. That is the time to use the orange wood stick, lifting the skin gently. You can do that little thing best by sending the stick in tiny circles, working from the eaves down toward the base, against which there must never be any pressure, as there is a possibility of injuring the matrix, causing a deformed or ridged nail.

Applying Cream

Some women refrain from applying cuticle cream over polish, having an idea that it will cause the polish to go spotty. That does not happen to be the case. However, there must be no oil there when the polish is applied. And, incidentally, a good hand cream worked in around the cuticle will help keep the skin at the edge of the nail soft.

If you cannot find a high grade file, use emery boards. They are always available, cost next to nothing. File from the sides—don't saw down into the flesh—and work toward the centre. The correct shape is a pleasing oval. Extremely long nails are frowned upon by beauticians; they are not voguey, they say. Of course, if the nails are short and wide, the eaves should extend over the ends of the finger to form a more pleasing contour.

For keeping the eaves neat, you can use nail white and an orange wood stick or a nail pencil, the pencil usually doing a better job.

Refreshments were served by hostess and her helpers and a social half hour was spent.

The Women's Institute was hostess to a community oyster supper on a recent Monday night in the Orange Hall where a goodly number of members and friends sat down to tables well laden with meats, potatoes, hot dishes, salads, jellies and pies of all kinds and oysters. No one could complain of the lack of oysters for there were plenty for all.

CAN YOU TOP THIS?—When eastern Canadian papers reported 11-year-old Barbara Levis of Fort Erie, Ont., had the longest hair in Canada—51 1-2 inches—Mrs. Eileen Silvester of Victoria took down her hair in earnest. A tape measure showed it was an even 60 inches long—only six inches shorter than Mrs. Silvester herself. (CP Photo)

Mrs. G. Whiteside Regional Director Soroptimist Guest

Mrs. Gertrude Whiteside, regional director of Eastern Canada region of the American Federation of Soroptimist Clubs, was the guest speaker, at the dinner meeting of the Belleville Soroptimist Club, held Wednesday evening at the New Queen's Hotel.

On Saturday evening she attended the inaugural dinner of the Cornwall Club and presented the charter to this newly-formed club. A short history of Soroptimism from its beginning in Bristol, England in 1920, when the first club was formed, to its present position was given.

The International Association is made up of three federations. Continental Europe, Great Britain and Ireland, and the American Federation. The American Federation is composed of 13 regions. Eastern Canada region comprises the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, and is made up of eleven clubs at Toronto, Barrie, Windsor, Peterborough, London, Montreal, Belleville, Ottawa, Timmins, Sudbury and Cornwall.

The aims of all clubs are to participate in efforts to achieve world peace, and for the economic advancement of women. Each club has its individual project, some provide homes for elderly women, others assist in civic projects, such as furnishing a room in a hospital, providing scholarships for worthy students and many other worthwhile plans.

Plans are being made for the next regional conference to be held in Montreal in April.

The appreciation of the club members was expressed to Mrs. Whiteside by the president, Mrs. Georgia Smith. Following her address Mrs. Whiteside answered many questions and a very informative and profitable time was spent.

GOOD MANNERS

ly Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

nd out if a man wants to wear a ring?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just become engaged, d am to have my engagement g soon. When my fiance gives e my engagement ring, I'd like give him a ring that would ve the same meaning as my gagement ring. But I have ver heard of this being done. ould it be correct for me to do [illegible] should I wait and give [illegible]edding ring?

Josephine S.

It's correct for you to give your ance a ring now or when he ves you your engagement ring, for you to give him a wedding ng . . . but you must find out he wants to wear a ring. . So ny, many men abhor the idea wearing a ring of any kind . . .and for them it's indeed serious problem when they e given a "surprise" ring! Also, en if you find out from him nd he'll be forthright about it, n fairly sure!) that he does nt to have you give him a ring, you must find out the kind he prefers and also the finger on which he prefers to wear it. He may prefer to wear even a wedding ring on his little finger . . better find out about this.

Where to put the salt for celery

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Where am I suppdsed to put the salt into which I am to dip the celery? I've seen some people put the sale on the tablecloth. Is this correct?

A.M.

No, not on the tablecloth. . . this just can't help being messy. If there is a bread-and-butter plate this is, of course, the perfect place for the salt as well as for the celery. If no bread-and-butter plate, put the salt on the rim or side of plate from which you are eating . . . dinner plate, luncheon plate, buffet plate.

Mannerly to Reply "No, Thank You"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a waiter or waitress in a restaurant or a waitress in a home passes a serving-dish to you, and you wish to decline, isn't it enough to just shake your head with the meaning of "no"? My mother says this is rude.

S. T.

And rude it is. When you decline a food that is passed to you, you should say, "No, thank you." This mannerly reply really does not take much effort . . .does it?

Marking of Post - Marriage Linens

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a woman been married several years and is replenishing her linens (table linens, bed linens, towels, and so forth) would she use her own married initials (MSB, for Mary Smith Brown, say), or should she use her husband's initials (JBD, for John Doe Brown)? This question has definitely become a sore point!

Reader

Linen purchased after marriage should be marked with the wife's initials (MSB, for Mary Smith Brown). (However, when men have their own special towels, these may properly be marked with their own initials.)

Addressing Wedding Invitations to "Mr. and Mrs."

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am an executive in a small business. I am to be married in June, and am making out my list of guests. When I plan to invite a married business associate whose wife I have never met, should I invite him only or must his wife be included in the invitation?

Louis B.

When individual invitations are to be sent (that is, not a general invitation to the entire staff or department) they should be addressed to "Mr. and Mrs." whether or not you have met the wife.

"EARLY CHATHAM" TOMATO

EXTRA EARLY NEW TOMATO

Early Chatham

Earliest Quality Tomato Yet Developed —Valuable For All Parts of Canada

Of immense value for the North and West and other short season districts. Highly desirable for all other areas too as an extra early sort producing fine quality ripe fruit as much as two weeks or more before most other varieties. Has been a sensation on the Prairies since 1943, including such districts as Lethbridge and Brooks, Alta.; Indian Head and Swift Current, Sask.; Brandon and Morden, Man. Around Calgary, where first distributed under the name of "Alberta", gardeners were simply "wild" about it. At Lethbridge Early Chatham ripened a week to twelve days before other extra early varieties. At Morden, Man., it has yielded as much as 20% to 40% greater crops than other good earlies. Early Chatham is dwarf, non-staking, and may be planted as closely as two feet each way. Fruits uniform, fine shape and colour; delicious quality. Average about 2¼ inches across but frequently larger. (Pkt. 15¢) (oz. 75¢) postpaid.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Condition the Skin for Make up

Your good-looks reporter is pleased to announce that, as make-up artists, the members of the frail sex are doing better. One seldom sees a feminine map that is too scenic—rouge applied with a heavy hand, powder spotty, lips exaggerated in outline, carrying vivid veneer. The grand army of beauty-questers is marching all right. Those who are out of step are the girls who hurry when they make themselves new faces and those who do not show judgment when selecting the necessary items at the cosmetic counter.

Look around you where pretty girls gather. It is a pleasure to see one with a fresh, fine-textured complexion that keeps that way because it receives care; the make-up privilege is not abused. In Hollywood, where beauty is an important part of the stock-in-trade of movie stars, there is a definite trend toward natural effects. Make-up artists whose names are known throughout the land tell the sisters to soft pedal. To put on the synthetic bloom until one becomes conspicuous is not to improve appearance.

There are women—you know them—who ply the rouge compact and the lipstick as if it were an occupation. The more they endeavor to make themselves beautiful the worse they look.

Some career girls start out in the morning with complexions that qualify. They spoil them with hasty touch-ups, laying on the high lights with the assistance of a small purse mirror. The lip glow lacks clear-cut borders. Putting on a fresh complexion calls for a strong light, a good sized mirror, a certain amount of time. It can't be done on the run.

Helene Starks

Some women make an occupation of applying rouge and lipstick

The skin must be kept in condition by the free use of soap and water at bedtime, a warm rinsing, applications of a cream. To a dry skin, powder and compact rouge will not adhere. Considering the devastating effects of harsh winds and atmospheric dust it stands to reason that the complexion can't get along without lubrication. Also, the outer scales are continually playing a hail and farewell act, old ones shedding, new ones forming. Scrupulous cleanliness assists this process.

Foundation cosmetics are popular now, but, like all good things in the way of beautifiers, they are often abused. A light film is helpful; your blushes will stay with you. Too heavy an application makes the skin look thick and coarse. These item come in different shades; they should be the same as the natural tone of the skin and the powder should match.

Make-up supplies the modern note. The average woman is improved by its use. But putting it on is something of an art, should be practised until one is perfect.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Teen-age Marriage That turned out Happily

A young woman who, at 18 married her school-day sweetheart and has been a happy wife for seven years writes me a very fine letter about this business of teen-age romances. Her ideas are so good that I should like to share them.

This is what she says:

"The discussion on teen-age love always interests me because of my experience with it.

"Somehow I don't feel the ages of people have too much to do with the success of a marriage. Some teen-agers are more mature than their older sisters, and sometimes a woman of 30 can't make a go of her marriage while a youngster of 18 will pass her by with flying colors.

"My husband and I met at the age of 14, and from then on he was constantly in my home. At 18 we married, and now at 25 we own our own home, have two sons and are building our future together. Our love has grown with each year and we are completely happy.

"Frankly we give credit for our happiness to clean living; no drinking, parties, night clubbing and most important of all, complete loyalty to one another. It's so easy to fool around and have fun with someone else's husband or wife but that leads to all kinds of trouble. We know some think we lead a dull life but we don't. We make our home and happiness our centre, and I think some day we're coming out on top.

"I could go on and on, but it would always go back to our foundation, that is, love, loyalty and the will to work together in everything."

I think this is the wisest and best letter I have ever received on this debatable topic of teen-age marriage, and the writer, Mrs. T. E. C., has put her finger right on the crucial point when she says that 'some teen-agers are more mature than their older sisters."

With this, I am in complete agreement. If a girl of 13—Mrs. T. E. C.'s age when she married —actually is more mature than the average 18-year-old, and has the kind of ideals and standards outlined in the letter, and, moreoover, if the young man she marries is equally mature, and his ideals and standards conform to hers, then there is every reason why the two should make a completely successful team in marriage.

Unfortunately, the average teen-ager does not have this type of maturity. Instead, she-or-he is apt to mistake infatuation for serious love, and is ready to leap into marriage with no clearly defined and well-thought-out ideas about it, but merely a lot of half-baked emotions. Please note that I say the "average" teen-ager; I am always ready to concede exceptions when any girl offers me incontrovertible proof that she is one.

So, let's put it this way: Any time two people, whatever their ages, enter a marriage, not just because it will be fun, or because they are temporarily carried away by their feelings, but with the determination to bring to their union "love,' loyalty and the will to work together in everything," the odds are on their side.

SEEING EYE DOG AIDS BLIND HORSEMAN

With his master on horseback, seeing eye dog, Moki, still has function to perform, stops horse and rider for traffic light at a Chicago street intersection. The sightless horseman is Robert Coleman, 40. His three-gaited mount is Northern Star. Farm Community in Rhodesia Planned by Migrants from Surrey

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Goldstone, Surrey, England — (CP)—Like most emigrants, Ian Hale's chief regret at the prospect of going abroad was leaving old neighbors and friends.

So Hale, 33-year-old Surrey farmer, got busy among his neighbors in the village of Goldstone. The result is that 20 of them are sailing with Hale, his wife and three sons, for South Africa.

Sixty miles up country from Salisbury, Rhodesia, they will pioneer a farming colony and, says Hale use modern agricultural equipment to wrest record crops of tobacco, maize, barley and potatoes from the veldt.

"We shall build our own homes and manufacture the materials out of what is at hand, even to making a couple million bricks. The result will be a new English colony—a small town, in fact."

Two of the villagers are stock men who plan to take a small herd of high-bred cattle with them. Special sheds will be erected to protect them from the tropical sun until they are acclimatized.

"As the nearest railway station is 15 miles from our estate, new roads will be a priority," Hale said, "and we shall plant trees to cool the atmosphere and attract rain.

"Ultimately there will be a school, church, hotel, movie theatre, houses with modern conveniences and, perhaps, a brewery."

The idea was born last year when Hale managed to leave his three farms for a holiday in South Africa. There he met millionaire farmer and stockbreeder J. F. Kapnek who had for years admired the herd of Friesian cattle bred by the Hale family in Britain.

Kapnek invited Hale to take over an undeveloped area of 12,000 acres of his holdings and farm it by the latest agricultural methods. Back home, Hale was surprised to find that people for miles around wanted to join him.

"For weeks I've been flooded with telegrams, letters and phone calls from men and women who would give their ears to go to South Africa. One fellow tramped 30 miles to ask if we wanted a baker to go with the party."

Hale's herd of cattle was sold recently for £70,000 ($280,000) and the last of his three farms is up for sale.

Disease Destroys Half Peanut Crop

Johannesburg (CP)—South Africa's £3,000,000 ($12,000,000) peanut crop is threatened with serious loss from the incurable virus disease rosette, which may cut the yield by 50 per cent. There is no cure for the disease, which spreads quickly.

In northern Transvaal areas, home of peanut growing, rosette has appeared and vast acreages are badly infected. The disease normally appears at this time but under favorable conditions the plants are well advanced and the nuts set. The drought, however, seriously retarded growth and the yield per acre may drop from 10 bags to 3 1-2.

There is a world shortage of oils for the soap industry and in the last two seasons the Union has planted bigger acreages than ever before. Last year's crop was more than 1,391,000 bags and most of the oil pressed from it went to the soapmakers. The crop failure this year will have serious repercussions in that industry.

Ship's Captain Busy Turning Out New Sailors

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Feb. 10 — (CP) — They say when old sailors retire they settle down in some small fishing village or coastal port, but that's not for silver-haired Capt. J. M. Raymond. He's busy turning out new sailors.

In the last 37 years, as head of his own navigation school here, he has graduated more than 1,700 ship's officers, including one woman capt. (Miss) Ollie Johnson of Montreal.

Capt. Raymond, 58, a veteran of the high seas and of the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve in the First World War, and inspector of the port of Three Rivers since 1938, took over the direction of the Montreal Nautical School in 1923.

Once a sailor with 48 months on the high seas has been through the mill and learned the varied nautical subjects Capt. Raymond, a sailor of the old school, thinks he is fit for Canada's growing merchant fleet.

Miss Johnston one of four women to pass her master's papers in Canada, is a graduate of his school. Capt. Johnson, for several years master of her ship on the Great Lakes, obtained her papers in 1938.

Capt. Raymond trains his sailors for inland, coastal or high seas navigation. He figures a prospective officer needs anywhere from two to three months to pass the government examinations for the Canadian Merchant Navy.

Even when death takes him Capt. Raymond doesn't want to get at or near the sea.

Said he: "All I want is a plot in the Laurentian hills."

Shooting Rats Finances Hobby

Vancouver — (CP) — Carl Dittman, 69, in the course of his duties as night watchman in a huge factory building, has killed hundreds of rats.

A former hunter of martin, mink, bobcat and lynx, he was forced by an arthritis attack to become a night watchman.

The factory pays him 15 cents a pelt as bounty, and money thus earned has enabled him to equip his cellar with the most modern woodworking equipment.

"That lathe cost me 400 rats," he remarked. "Got this bandsaw for 250 rats."

With his .22-calibre trapgun he is a deadshot and often kills as many as 13 rats nightly. Some weigh 1½ pounds and measure 1½ feet from nose tip to tail tip.

Only once has he been bitten by a cornered rat. He beat it off with a broom. His shoes have been bitten often, but that is all part of the chase.

"The brown ones are the toughies," he said. "The black rats are the climbers and spend most of their time avoiding being purged by their own brothers.

"In order to live, rats have to chew and chew and chew. They have to wear down their teeth; otherwise they can't open their mouths, and die of starvation."

Legal Measures Triply Guarded

London (CP)—From a special safe unlocked by three men with different sets of keys careful officials took a gun-metal cask.

From the cask they took a silver-gilt thimble from which they lifted an object in special protective paper. When the paper was removed they had a cylindrical-shaped piece of platinum. They put it under a glass tumbler so none could breath on it too long.

Then the committeemen solemnly entered, the glass was removed and they looked with respectful eyes at the imperial standard pound on which is based all the legal weigh measures for Great Britain.

This occasion, in a building under authority of the Board of Trade standards department, was unusual. Normally, the imperial standard pound and its companion the imperial standard yard, are examined officially only once in 10 years at what is called "the decennial comparison of the standards." At intervening "quinquennial comparison of the standards" only five copies of the actual standards are examined.

But a committee appointed to review existing legislation on weights and measures demanded a special showing of the two "imperials." The imperial standard yard is made of a kind of bronze called Bailey's metal. The exact length of the yard—a standard about which there can be no argument is the distance between two scratches on two gold plugs sunk into a bar of Bailey's metal.

Hard Liquors Replace Wine

Montreal — (CP) — Wine-drinking is losing its popularity in favor of hard liquors because better whiskies are being produced and because people are eating smaller meals.

That observation came from M. Hennessy of Cognac, France, a member of the brandy-making firm of James Hennessy and Company.

"A hundred years ago only a small percentage of spirits distilled were palatable and it was, therefore, more risky to manufacture them than wine, a fermented liquor," said Mr. Hennessy, on a business trip to Canada.

"With modern methods of distilling, there are now large industries manufacturing whisky and so on."

Much of the enjoyment of wine-drinking, he said came in eating big meals, a custom which is disappearing.

"Now, in the United States, for instance, people talk more about cooking than they used to, but Americans eat many frozen things which have no taste at all."

Getting a "kick" from wines, too, is more expensive than from hard liquors, "and people are probably looking for a kick today than in the past."

British Reporter Gives Impression Of Cardinal's Trial

London, Feb. 10 — (AP)—How the trial of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty looked to a British reporter is told in Wednesday's London Daily Express.

The Express prints a telephoned interview with its correspondent, Peter Burchett — the only British reporter who could get an entry visa from the Hungarian government. The questions and Burchett's replies:

Q. How did the trial compare with a trial in a British court?

A. People's court procedure, both in effect and appearance, is disquieting to anyone accustomed to British justice.

First of all the people's court has adopted the traditional Hungarian court practice — which is widely used in Europe — of taking all the evidence from the prisoners while in jail.

This evidence is then merely read out in court, although it can, of course, be challenged by the prisoners.

There must always be a suspicion that the evidence was originally extracted by third-degree methods.

There is a traditional method of getting information from prisoners — the same system was used by the podice of the Hapsburg empire — by the police who collaborated with the Nazis during the war.

Teams of questioners work, hour after hour, day and night. When the victim sinks forward in a sleepy stupor bright lights are ashed on to his eyes. After a few days of this treatment, it is easy to imagine his breaking down.

The trial does not start until statements of guilt have been obtained. In contrast to the British methods, the state prosecutes only those whom it has already decided are guilty.

One Professional Judge

The People's Court in Budapest was composed of one professional judge, Dr. Vilmos Olthys, and four representatives of the political parties and the Trades Unions. Two of these men were Communists.

Q. Was the press hoodwinked at the trial?

A. If there was any trickery by the Hungarian government it was done long before the prisoners entered the court.

Correspondents sat only ten feet away from the prisoners and about 30 feet from the judges. Every word could be heard and every gesture seen.

Translators were provided by the Hungarian foreign office for those who wanted them.

My interpreter was a woman. She whispered the translation into English of every word as it was spoken.

A copy of the court record was available at the end of each day's hearing.

Q. Why did the Cardinal, after denying the charges, confess? Why did his whole attitude change when he was brought to trial?

A. According to the court, Mindszenty was confronted in prison with masses of documents and evidence that it would be difficult to deny. He was left to brood on this. Then at the last moment, he was visited by Archbishop Czapik, who was a bishop while Mindszenty was still a parish priest.

35 Days in Prison

The archbishop, it was said in court, told Mindszenty that the bench of Hungarian bishops could not support him in his defiance. They had decided to await the outcome of the trial.

He had 35 days and nights in prison. One after another, personalities of the government and the church called on him. It may have been suggested to him that diplomacy would win more for the church than defiance.

His appearance in court was sombre and morose.

While other prisoners talked together, the cardinal stood alone, silent and brooding. If he did not look like a man who had been tortured or drugged, he did look like one who had been defeated.

Q. How did the other prisoners look?

A. On the evidence of appearance, speech, agility of mind, and ability to express themselves, one must say that the prisoners, at least during their appearance in court, seemed in a normal state of mind.

The dominating personality in the trial turned out to be Professor Justin Baranyay, ruddy-faced, grey-haired, with twinkling eyes.

Believes in Monarchy

In his final speech, which lasted more than an hour, he said he still believed in the monarchy. He had expected a Third World War and made his plans accordingly. As soon as "Anglo-American forces entered Hungary and overthrew the present government" he was ready to create a new one.

Q. Who were the prisoners defended?

A. All the prisoners chose their own lawyers with the exception of the Cardinal's secretary, Andras Zakar, who was appointed one by the state.

The lawyers chosen were not the best available. Few of the most prominent lawyers in Hungary wished to be identified with the defence of the Cardinal and his associates.

It depended partly on the personal courage of the defence lawyers how far they went in combatting the present charges.

Cardinal Mindszenty's lawyer, for instance, said his case was difficult in view of his client's surprising admission of guilt.

Counsel for Prince Paul Esterhazy and Professor Baranyay, on the other hand, made speeches which would have done them credit in any court.

CHIEF JUSTICE—Since the retirement of Sir Lyman Duff as chief justice of the Supreme Court of Canada in January, 1943 that post has been held by Thibandeau Rinfret, 69. If the federal government passes the legislation to abolish appeals to Britain's Privy Council, Mr. Justice Rinfret will head a body which will be the last resort for Canadians. This legislation was forecast in the Speech from the Throne opening the current session of Parliament. He will retire from his $20,000 a year position when he reaches his 75th birthday. (CP Photo)

Cockeram Takes Exception To Statement Made

Ottawa, Feb. 10 (CP) — Alan Cockeram (PC - York South) rose on a question of privilege in the Commons Wednesday to take exception to a statement of Finance Minister Abbott which "implied I did something dishonest."

Mr. Cockeram had asked earlier if the government would remove its restrictions on the sale of newly-mined golds.

"I am aware of the special interest which he has in the matter," said Mr. Abbott. "I shall take his question as notice and see whether I can give an answer at an early date."

Mr. Cockeram said the first part of the answer implied he asked the question as a representative of the gold-mining industry. He said he had asked the question because the gold-mining industry has far-reaching effects on the economy of Canada.

He asked that Mr. Abbott withdraw the implication.

The minister declined, saying that he had simply made a completely accurate statement of fact. Mr. Cockeram had spoken to him on numerous occasions about gold and had made several speeches on it.

"I never got an honest or frank statement from the minister," said Mr. Cokeram. "He always comes back with some flip answer that means nothing."

Mr. Abbott said that if he was in the habit of asking for retractions he had never received an "honest" answer. However, knowing Mr. Cockeram as well as he did he would not ask for the withdrawal.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Mr. Abbott should withdraw the implication that Mr. Cockeram was serving a special interest.

The incident ended after Speaker Gaspard Fauteux said he did not think any doubt had been cast on the honesty of either Mr. Cockeram or Mr. Abbott.

REVIVE MEMORIES

Arcadia, Calif., Feb. 10 (AP)—Memories of two notable figures of the turf will be revived at Santa Anita Park today with the unveiling of a statue of jockey Georgie Woolf and the first running of a $25,000 Fitzgerald stakes.

Georgie, "The Iceman" was killed in a spill here in 1946. The Christopher J. Fitzgerald stakes race is named for the late steward and figure in racing for 50 years prior to his death a year ago. Fitzgerald always called the Calgary-born Georgie the greatest jockey of them all.

WE'RE PLANNING TO MOVE WITHOUT LOSS OF PRODUCTION

The construction of a new plant poses many problems .... not the least of which is moving from the old to the new building without loss of production.

Here at American Optical Company Canada Limited we have been diligently planning for the smooth transition from our present factory to our newly constructed lens plant on Wellington and Bridge Streets.

In some respects our problem has been simplified because our new plant is being equipped with practically all new machinery. The amount of actual equipment to be moved from our present location has been reduced to a minimum. To speed and smooth the way for the final shift, our machine shop has now been installed in the new building and its staff is aiding in preparing the new production machinery for use.

When we make our final move it will be a series of steps — department by department — so that there will be a minimum loss of production and so that our employees will be fully employed during the moving period.

During the transition stage we will be in the very difficult position of partially operating two plants. Like most modern manufacturing concerns producing a complex product, the actual process of producing AO ophthalmic lenses is broken down into many subdivisions and steps. Each step must mesh with the preceding step and with the following operation. Lenses must flow smoothly from operator to operator. Some operations will be taking place in the old plant .... other operations will be underway in the new building. We feel, however, that all this trouble is worthwhile and will be fully compensated for by the comforts and conveniences of our new plant.

Our situation reminds us of the familiar old saying: "Three movings are as bad as a fire." It is a quotation to which we feel sure every housewife in Belleville who has ever moved will say "Amen."

Kennedy Begins First and Only Session as Premier

Toronto, Feb. 10 (CP)—Premier Kennedy begins today what probably will be his first and only legislative session as premier of Ontario.

The 73-year-old Peel county farmer who succeeded George Drew as Ontario premier when Mr. Drew became national leader of the Progressive Conservative party has stated he will not be a candidate for the leadership of the Ontario Conservative party at the convention April 22-23.

Opposition leader E. B. Jolliffe of the C. C. F. has indicated he will take the government to task for its "unfinished business," including the long-awaited report of the Royal Commission on Education. Both major opposition parties — the Liberals are the third largest group — have indicated they will demand a review of the recent hydro-electric power shortage and assurances that there will not be a recurrence next winter.

Pre-session speculation was that the throne speech would be brief. One measure expected to be forecast in the speech read by Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson was regulation of sale and manufacture in Ontario of margarine. The legislation was not believed to concern artificial coloring but speculation was that some sort of licensing would be introduced.

To Fire Salute

Today's opening ceremonies follow the ancient tradition of British parliament. The 48th Highlanders with their pipe bands were chosen as the honor guard to greet the premier on his arrival at the legislative buildings. A battery of the 29th Field Regiment, Royal Horse Artillery was selected to fire the 15-gun salute.

Before His Excellency reads the speech from the throne — written by the government—the House will vote to confirm the appointment of Rev. M. C. Davies, an Anglican minister and Progressive Conservative member for Windsor - Walkerville, as speaker.

The debate which follows the throne speech will be short if the government has its way. Premier Kennedy has expressed the view that throne speech debates serve no real purpose, coming as they do before the budget has been announced and government legislation introduced.

"But," the premier adds, "I suppose it's an opportunity for all members to speak."

London, Feb. 10 — (CP) —Mrs. Harold Wilson doesn't think much of her husband's timing.

Last July she spent precious clothing coupons for woollen garments — three days before sharp cuts in coupon values were announced.

Last month she bought a woollen dressing gown worth seven coupons. Presto — a week later woollen dressing gowns came off the ration.

Mrs. Wilson's husband is president of the Board of Trade, which has the final say in clothes rationing.

Chicago, Feb. 10 — (AP) —The Chicago Sunbathing Association—a haven for nudists — was formally incorporated yesterday. A spokesman listed among its aims:

1. Mixed nude bathing on Chicago beaches.
2. Sections of the city's parks set aside for nude sunbathing.
3. A convention this year at Rose Lawn, Ind., in which the most physically fit and proportioned man and woman will be named "Independence Adam and Eve."

German Competition In Export Market Stressed in House

London, Feb. 10 — (Reuters)—Concern among British industrialists over Germany competition in export markets was stressed in parliament yesterday. The president of the board of trade, Harold Wilson, was asked what representations had been made to him by British industries on the point. He answered that it was appreciated that the volume of German exports must increase rapidly in the next few years if Germany is to pay her way and cease to be a burden on American and British taxpayers.

Stack Empty Coffins In Front of Offices Of Shipping Company

Shanghai, Feb. 10 (AP) — Relatives of victims of the Kiangya ship explosion disaster stacked empty coffins in front of the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company today. It was the relatives' way of demanding 5,000 gold yuan (about $4) for each bereaved family and 125 bags of rice for each person drowned.

Changes Mind In Mid-Bridge, Pays Double Toll

Camden, N.J., Feb. 10—(AP)—A truck driver learned yesterday it doesn't pay to change your mind in mid-stream — or, that is, mid-bridge.

William Ulleg, 29, paid a 65-cent toll at the Camden end of the Delaware River bridge. He started toward Philadelphia — then —

He changed his mind, made a U-turn and drove back toward Camden.

The gatekeeper asked for another 65 cents. All tolls are collected at the Camden terminus.

Ulleg refused. He said he'd just paid the toll, hadn't even crossed the bridge and was just coming back.

Bridge Patroman Charles Lawrence stepped into the argument.

"Why, you violated the law by making a U-turn on the bridge," Lawrence said.

Judge John R. Dimona fined Ulleg $5.

WINTER TAKES OVER—Ice once again silenced the lower basin of the mighty Niagara River, this year more than a month later than usual. Yugoslavia Sends Spokesman To Big-Four Meet

London, Feb. 10 — (AP)—Yugoslavia today sent a spokesman to the London meeting of the Big Four Foreign Ministers' deputies to press her Russian-supported claims on Austria and Russia ignored her rift with the "heretic" communist government to Premier Tito to back Yugoslav demands.

An official American observer said, however, he would not discount the possibility that Russia might change her stand later. None of the deputies expected concessions from the Soviet Union at the beginning of the meeting.

Ales Bebler, Yugoslavia's deputy foreign minister, flew to London from Belgrade last night to speak for his country. Yugoslavia wants some 800 square miles of Southern Austria which it claims is populated mainly by Slovenes, and $150,000,000 in war reparations from Austria.

Observers said the Soviet Ambassador to Britain, George Zarubin, asked that Yugoslavia officials be invited in to give their side.

This informant said Zarubin backed the Yugoslav territorial demands. The Yugoslav claims for land and money were the immediate issues that broke up the last treaty conference in May, 1948.

Observers wondered whether Russia would show any new willingness to compromise in the light of Prime Minister Stalin's recent talk of peace.

In the view of one official observer as the deputies met again today, it is still too early to tell.

The deputies are working 18 disputed articles of the treaty. They began going through them numerically at the suggestion of Chairman Samuel Reber of the United States.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Baz O'Meara, gifted sports editor of the Montreal Star digs deeply into his rich mental hockey archives in a good piece in a recent Maple Leaf Gardens program in which he recalls the good old days when the Ottawa Senators, Toronto St. Pats later the Leafs, the rugged Montreal Maroons and the Canadiens were at one another's hockey throats in one of the most colorful eras of the sport.

Nostalgically, O'Meara says the Ottawa team of that day was something to look at and "if they played today you would see some ne plus ultra stuff of a type we don't see."

"Imagine," he says, "a defence of Eddie Gerard and Clancy in motion. They could break like quarter horses and when I tell you I think Gerard was a better man than Shore, as good a body checker as Bucko MacDonald you get a rough idea of his quality. Ottawa of that period had Gerard, Nighbor, Jack Darragh all ice generals besides Buck Boucher the great tick-tack-toe stick handler and Benedict in the nets. Denneny could flip a fast shot from the wing and when Sprague Cleghorn played with Gerard they formed the best defensive pair I have ever seen."

"They would have adapted tehmselves easily to the present style of hockey and given seven competent aides would have been right up in the forefront in any era of hockey. You can bet all the sand in the Sahara they would have given the best of the moderns a run for the roses any time they laid skates on the freeze."

O'Meara said he liked to watch the old Maroons in action because they were the most unpredictable team in hockey. They had the biggest crap games, poker with a two dollar limit on the last card. Joie de vivre unknown in this day. (Shades of Babe Pratt).

"Babe Ruth upped baseball salaries but the legacy left by the departed Maroons was the manner in which they raised contracts all around the circuit. Can you imagine a team paying $15,000 for the rights to sign up a player? They did it with Dave Trottier and canny Connie was man who got the cheque and turned over the ex-Varsity Grad to Jimmy Strahan."

"They thought nothing of giving any player they wanted, $3,000 just for his signature," goes on O'Meara, "besides the salary called for. That was the team that went into the 1928 Stanley Cup finals with Rangers with a $20,000 pool all made up by stock broker friends, but missed out when Rangers beat them.'

The Maroons were a "fabulous crew," the writer recalls, 'and we remember seeing most of them in a stock brokers office watching the ticker tape when they should have been practicing. Some of them had some pretty vague ideas of training and at times the much harassed Jimmy Strahan had to hire detectives to see that one or two of his players made the rink in time to pour themselves into their hockey suits."

The Maroons of those days were a gay carefree lot, O'Meara writes. One night when Sprague Cleghorn managed them he left the rink in Toronto at the end of the second period with them well in arrears and turned them over to the late Bill O'Brien, the trainer who made all the changes, and was amazed as well as everybody else when they tied up the game and held a split decision through overtime.

Maroons still hold the record for quick firing with three goals in 24 seconds when they pulled a game out of the flames against Rangers, O'Meara says. "But they are best remembered as a jolly crew who had a great aversion to seeing opponents stand upright, and usually did something about it." (Tomorrow we'll give you O'Meara's impressions of the famous Les Canadiens team of that era.)

Tonight the Belleville minor squads flash into action with the Belleville Gunners midgets, smarting from their 4-3 setback at the hands of Peterborough Tuesday night raring for revenge against their conquerors, and the Belleville Rockets juveniles who meet Brockville in the first game of their goals-to-count series. The Rockets should have played Brockville away earlier in the week but it appears that no ice is available down that way. The Rockets menters were asked to play on an open air rink in Athens, but they did not go for the idea. As a winner must be declared by Saturday some quick manoeuvring will have to be done by Secretary Jack Christie of the OMHA.

The Gunners who were beaten 4-3 in Peterborough when the heavier, huskier crew from the Liftlock city scored the winning goal with but three seconds to go, aren't feeling any too well about the reverse and they'll be flying out there tonight in an effort to bring home the second-round bacon. One goal is a slim margin but you can bet your granpappies store molars these Petes will be out there battling too. So all indications point to a stellar tussle between the teams. The midgets play the first game starting at eight o'clock.

Both teams are headed down the long tough championship trail and the farther they go, the tougher will be the opposition. The Gunners, under the name of "Merchants" last year went clear through to the Ontario finals, and were ousted in the last game by the Waterloo kids. Both teams carry Belleville's hockey pennants high and are deserving of more than passing support of the fans. Drop around tonight and see tomorrow's hockey stars in action.

Vancouver, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Don't believe that popular misconception of picturing a pool player as a seedy-looking hombre with beady eyes and a cigaret butt perched on his ear.

In defence of the pool player, who in general is branded as the result of a misspent youth, Eric (Vancouver Province) Whitehead writes:

"If the old belief were true, another great sportsman who would qualify as an ex-juvenile delinquent de luxe would be the little Franch-Canadian whiz, George Chenier.

"But Chenier, from personal accounts by Vancouver admirers is, if not a scholar, certainly a gentleman."

He's Good

The 41-year-old Montreal flash has been moving into the sport news recently from Bermuda. He recently finished playing an exhibition series with England's Joe Davis, the world champ.

"Strangely," says Whitehead, "neither Joe nor George show any outward traces of a particularly vicious boyhood.

Red Wings Cool off Rayner As Boston Consolidates Second-Place Hold in NHL

(By The Canadian Press)

Now Chuck Rayner knows how Bill Durnan felt 10 days ago when he was the victim of a 9-0 shellacking at the hands of New York Rangers.

Wednesday night Rayner, tabbed the hottest goalie in the league in recent weeks, watched the pucks fly by as the league-leading Detroit Red Wings plastered an 8-0 defeat on the New Yorkers.

Just as the nine goals knocked the pins out from under Durnan's secure lead in the Vezina Trophy race, the eight markers shunted Rayner into the background for a while at least.

In other Wednesday night games Boston Bruins consolidated their hold on second place with a 5-3 home - ice victory over the slipping Chicago Black Hawks, while those bitter Canadian rivals, Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs, battled to a 2-2 deadlock at Maple Leaf Gardens.

The shutout was his fifth of the season and second in a row for Detroit's Harry Lumley who took over the lead in the goalkeepers' race. Lumley has allowed 109 goals in 46 games, Montreal's Durnan 110 in 45 games.

Fourth Setback in Row

Max McNab with a pair of goals was the only man to collect more than one marker for Detroit. Marty Pavelich, Jack Stewart, Gordie Howe, Jim Enio, Bud Poile and Red Kelly all hit the target once before 12,938 fans.

Chicago's loss was the fourth setback in a row for the tail-end Hawks who have won only one of their last 11 starts.

Kenny Smith, Paul Ronty, Johnny Peirson, Woody Dumart and Milt Schmidt split the Boston scoring while Gus Bodnar, Jimmy Conacher and Red Hamill connected for Chicago.

The Hawks went ahead 2-1 in the first frame, but couldn't hold on and the Bruins salted victory away with a three - goal splurge in the middle session.

The Canadiens — Leafs clash was a two-man show. Maurice Richard accounted for both Montreal goals and Don Metz matched his feat for Toronto. The tie left Montreal in third place, still one point ahead of the Leafs. The Habitants drove from behind two times to knot the count. Richard's tying marker came with less than three minutes left.

Referee Bill Chadwick dished out 15 penalties in a rugged contest.

Murray Hayes Carries Off Wigle Trophy

By The Canadian Press

Murray Hayes, a fleet running halfback with McGill University Redmen, climaxed a brilliant college football career by carrying off the Fred Wigle Memorial trophy for 1948 at the annual McGill football dinner, Wednesday night at Montreal.

Selection of Hayes as the most valuable player to his team last season came as no surprise to the gathering of coaches, officials and players.

Hayes has been an outstanding performer in his three years at McGill and was named to the inter-collegiate all-star team for the last two seasons.

Coach Vic Obeck of McGill University's football squad, has rejected a lucrative offer from Boston University and will remain as head coach at McGill, it was announced at Wednesday night's annual McGill football banquet. Obeck did not say if he had been offered the No. 1 coaching spot at the New England University.

Several members of last year's Grey Cup champion Calgary Stampeders and a number of West Coast High School football stars have applied for entrance to McGill University, it was announced Wednesday night at McGill's annual football banquet at Montreal. It was also disclosed that Tommy Manastersky, a halfback who performed with the Big Four Montreal Alouettes two seasons back, had filed papers for entrance to McGill.

Tommy Henrich, brilliant New York Yankee outfielder, Wednesday became the fourth highest salaried player in the club's history when he signed his 1949 contract for a reported $40,000. He was believed to have been given a $15,000 boost over his 1948 salary of $25,000. Only Babe Ruth, Joe DiMaggio and Lou Gehrig ever signed bigger contracts.

Cleveland Barons In Driver's Seat Of League Race

(By The Canadian Press)

Cleveland Barons took over possession of the ever - changing first place position in the American Hockey League's western division Wednesday night with a 3-2 victory over Hershey Bears. The triumph gave the Barons a one - point edge over idle St. Louis Flyers, now in second spot.

Sid Smith shot tht Hornets into the lead early in the opening period. Bob Dawes received credit for the Hornets' second goal.

Providence Reds maintained their run - away in the eastern loop, edging New Haven Ramblers 3-2.

Organized Baseball to Figh
Gardella Suit to Supreme Cou

New York, Feb. 10 — (AP) — Organized baseball has shed its historical shyness towards legal action and is prepared to fight the latest attack against its contracts all the way to the United States Supreme Court.

The legal structure is challenged in a $300,000 damage suit by Danny Gardella, an outfielder now banned from organized baseball because he jumped from New York Giants to the Mexican League in 1946.

A United States Appeal Court ruled Wednesday that the suit may be heard. Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler, one of the five defendants, said baseball lawyers are ready to go to the Supreme Court if necessary.

The suit charged baseball with being a monopoly because of the reserve clause in every contract which binds a player to one club for life unless he is sold, traded or released. Gardella also charged that baseball should be subject to American anti-trust laws because of the large fees received by clubs for radio and television rights.

The ramifications of the suit affect most professional sports, including hockey, since they operate under similar contract provisions.

Race Becomes A "Knightmare" For Pla-Mors

(By The Associated Press)

The United States Hockey League race has become a "Knightmare" for the Kansas City Pla-Mors.

Omaha Knights slapped down the Pla-Mors 4-2 last night for the sixth straight time and extended the losing club's string of defeats to seven.

Minneapolis picked up its sixth victory in the last seven games with a 10 - 4 victory over Fort Worth at Minneapolis, and Tulsa and Dallas played to a 1-1 tie at Dallas in other games last night.

The Minneapolis and Omaha victories left the clubs' tied for third place in the northern division standings with 54 points apiece. Kansas City is second and St. Paul leads with 60.

Tulsa is still way in front in the southern loop.

Four Minneapolis players scored two goals apiece last night — Bill Richardson, Roger Gagne, Pinky Melnyk and Walt Atanas.

Omaha led Kansas City 2-1 at the end of two periods and Lyal Wiseman sandwiched a pair of Omaha scores around Hal Tarala's third-period goal to wind up the game.

Dallas and Tulsa went scoreless until the last half of the third period. Eddie Dorohoy put Dallas ahead, but with less than two minutes left Frank Ashworth tied up the game.

No games are scheduled tonight. Minneapolis plays at St. Paul Friday night.

seven. He has two tricks more than his opening bid promised.

Before heard from, responder is assumed to have two tricks. How many has north. Two high cards and a short in clubs are three tricks. He has one trick more than the two he is assumed to have.

Each raise in number by each uses up one more trick in his hand. The north response of one diamond is not a raise. It does not consume his third trick. But his raise to two hearts consumes it.

For a game in hearts are needed ten tricks. When south hears a heart assist in north, he knows hearts will be trump. His two raises consumes the two tricks he has in excess of the opening show of five.

Against four hearts, opening lead was spade ace and then another spade. Go to work on the play at your leisure. If the optical illusion is not there you have seen everything.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 10 — (AP) — Burt Lancaster is angling a deal that may mean a lengthy connection with 20th-Fox.

The film tough guy has been talking with the studio about the lead in "12 O'clock High," an air force picture which, like "Command Decision," will be bereft of females. Studio boss Baryl Zanuck is sold on Lancaster. Burt now is doing "Rope of Sand."

Scenes and Sights

Betty Hutton says she's all set to do the life of Theda Bara for Columbia. It will be played strictly for laughs, along the lines of "Perils of Pauline." . . .

Director John Farrow was telling me about a coincidence. He was running rushes of a pie-throwing scene of "Red, Hot and Blue" and who should be in the projection room but Mack Sennett. The master pie-thrower, whose biography will be filmed by Paramount, commended Farrow's technique and went into a lecture on the art of the hurled custard. . . .

Photoplay's selections of the five most popular movie actresses gives an interesting sidelight. They are Ingrid Bergman, June Allyson, Rita Hayworth, Jennifer Jones and Esther Williams. Their average age is 28. That would seem to prove that the public wants its female favorites young. . . .

Capsule Review

"Heart to Heart" (M.G.M.) shows the power of the screen as an information medium. Made by Herbert Morgan in co-operation with the Associated Press, this short film deals powerfully with the subject most important to you — your own health. It's main theme: heart disease, the No. 1 killer, can be cured by better living. The film has been nominated for an Acamedy Award.

Book Circulation Shows Increase At Public Library

Picton.—An increase in the circulation of books at Picton Public Library last year is reported in the annual review released by Librarian, Miss Katnleen Keech. The 38,401 books circulated was an increase of 3,335 over 1947. Reading average of the town was 9.95 per capita of the population. Fiction was the most popular with a total of 23,522 adult and 7,303 juvenile books being circulated. There were 5,986 adult non-fiction and 1,590 juvenile non-fiction. Biographies followed by travel and history books were most popular in the adult non-fiction, Group 38.

Turtle Visits Library

The year's most unusual library visitor was a mud turtle, estimated to be 50 years of age. He was brought in by his newly-found, but very proud owner, to learn the proper diet for a very live turtle.

In addition to circulation, it is estimated 1,500 books were used for reference purposes in the library. The reading room was also much used.

The book collection represents 11,667 volumes and 624 new books were added during the year.

The Film Library was also busy with 376 films shown to 12,263 people.

Saturday morning films for children were attended by 2,500.

There were 2,552 borrowers of whom 2,106 were adults and 446 juveniles.

Chairman Re-elected

A. F. Brown, I.P.S., was re-elected chairman of the Board, with Judge W. S. Lane as treasurer. Committees are: Library, Dr. W. B. Lane, Mrs. J. Goodwin, Miss Mary Dunkley, Mayor W. Henley, Rev. P. B. Reid, Miss Belle Shannon; Property, F. Brown, M. Dunkley, F. Mayor Henley, F. Vancott, A. F. Brown; Finance: Judge Lane, A. Vancott.

Royal Commission To Investigate All Gambling

London, Feb. 10 (CP)—Appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate every phase of gambling in Britain except card games was expected to be announced in the House of Commons today by Prime Minister Attlee.

Newspapers agreed today would be the date for the long-anticipated government effort to siphon off a fair share of profits made in Britain's seventh biggest industry.

As Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Baldwin government, Winston Churchill in 1926 levied a so-called "turnover tax" of five per cent on every bet made. Three years later he repealed the tax, calling it a fiasco.

The tax yielded a little more than £2,000,000 ($8,000,000) in one year. The betting turnover in the United Kingdom at that time was estimated at £800,000,000 a year.

To elude contributing five per cent to the government, gamblers used any and all devices.

A punter, wanting to have a flutter on a favorite, would stroll past the betting ring and stroke the cuff of his sleeve with one, two or three fingers under a pre-arranged code. There was nothing on paper—but the "cuff bettor" still collected if his steed won.

There has been no systematic effort to tap gambling profits since 1926. Since then betting of all forms—horses, dogs, football pools, bingo—has flourished.

Figures for 1948 will not be released for some months but it is generally believed the level is a little below the flush years of 1946-47. Official estimates have placed the 1947 figure for all forms of gambling at £1,000,000,000, compared with half that total in the pre-war years.

In 1946 the totes at greyhound racetracks took in a record sum of £199,000,000. An estimated £200,000,000 passed into the satchels of Britain's 35,000 dogtrack bookmakers.

In the last budget, Sir Stafford Cripps, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, imposed a graduated tax starting at £5 daily for bookmakers in the two-shilling (40-cent) ring. In the 15-shilling (3) enclosure the men with the hard hats and raucous voices paid £48.

The bookies squealed. Some said they would be forced out of business. But a few welcomed today's expected statement on the form the Royal Commission will take. Except when bankrupt, bookies usually prefer to keep their financial affairs to themselves.

AT THE CAPITOL — Cowboy star Jimmy Wakely comes to Jennifer Holt's protection in Monogram's outdoor thriller, "Range Renegades", showing today, Friday and Saturday for its first Belleville showing. MUST MAKE UP MIND

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Tony Zale, key to boxing's middleweight muddle, has until Feb. 15 to decide if he wants to try to recapture his title from champion Marcel Cerdan. If he agrees, he gets the match, which probably will be held in Chicago.

There is a general impression that Tony will decide to take one more whack at the crown he held so long. Contracts, signed before their September, 1948, match at Jersey City, give Zale first chance at the Frenchman if he wants it.

Little Benny's Note Book

oday in school Miss Kitty was lling us about poetry, saying, f poetry, genrelly speek- nsists in what is known as association of ideas, or com- ng one object with another. ability to associate ideas is cheef difference between our- es and the lower animals. For nts, when a poet compares vely lady to a flower, it is wtiful associatin of ideas, but ugh a bowl of milk is no t bewtiful to a cat, he does compare to a field covered white snow. Now who can me why he doesn't? she said. hich Sam Polland waved his hand, saying, Because cats hate snow.

Perhaps they do, but even if they loved it they wouldn't associate it with milk, Miss Kitty said. Now can anybody tell me why? she said, and Artie Bromfield waved, saying, Because it would sting their tongue if they tried to lick it like milk.

Oh dear, cats do not possess the power to associate ideas, that's the reason, Miss Kitty said. Now do you all understand? she said.

Which we all waved our hands to prove we did, and Miss Kitty said, Very well then, suppose you saw a bewtiful red sunset. What other bewtiful object would you compare it to by making use of the association of ideas? she said.

Me waving and saying, a cinnamon lollypop.

Oh dear, I hope someone can think of something more bewtifully red than a cinnamon lollypop, Miss Kitty said.

Which Puds Simkins did, waving and saying, A whole box of them.

The result being Miss Kitty claimed a whole garden full of red roses would of been a more poetical answer.

Being the only one that thawt so.

ERVINE ALTERED

Tried to Exonerate Woods

At the Woods' trial Cpl. Ervine was stated to have testified that three guard rail posts at the seen of the accident had actually been broken on September 28th, three months earlier by an unknown party.

This, according to Keays, had been testified by Cpl. Ervine in order to exonerate Woods.

On the witness stand in the Woods' trial, Cpl. Ervine had testified that he had first observed the broken guard rails on September 28th, when he had been on patrol on Highway 14.

Keays said that Cpl. Ervine had told the court that he had observed red paint on the broken posts and that he was "satisfied a red truck with dual wheels had been responsible."

At the hearing Cpl. Ervine had offered to show his diary to substantiate that he had been on patrol on Highway 14 on September 28. Magistrate T. Y. Wills, who had tried the case, had replied "that would not be necessary".

After court Keays said, "that having charge of the detachment office at Belleville, he had checked Cpl. Ervin's dairy only to find that he had been nowhere near Highway 14 on Sept. 28. One week later he had again checked the diary and found that the words "No. 14 Highway to Foxboro", (patrolling) had been added to the entry for Sept. 28."

"It could even be seen that the ink in the diary entry was different," testified the constable.

Status Jeopardized

"As result of Cpl. Ervine's evidence in contradiction to my own, my status as a police officer was jeopardized," went on Keays, "I could not substantiate that the post had not been been broken on Sept. 28."

"However, he had further investigated the matter," he said, "and had found out later that the three guard rail posts actually had been broken at 2.00 a.m. November 1st. One Harold Phillips of Wallbridge had been responsible for smashing the guard rails and had not reported the accident".

Keays said that a Mrs. Chisholm, residing near the vicinity of the sit of the Woods accident, had told him the three guard rails had been smashed "two or three days" prior to the Woods' accident.

The Crown Attorney had declined to call Mrs. Chisholm as a witness, stating that in view of other information her evidence would not be required.

Reported The Facts

Keays said that on December 29th he had reported the facts of the Woods case to Inspector Page and requested that Cpl. Ervine be instructed to return to the witness stand and rectify his evidence.

The Inspector had replied that Cpl. Ervine "could not do that" and had referred Keays to Mr. Donnan.

Keays told the commission he had asked Inspector Page for a chance to testify to "protect my self respect" and the Inspector replied "to hell with your self respect."

He said his complaints could have been settled within the Attorney General's Department without a royal commission.

He told of asking the advice of senior police officers at police headquarters in Toronto but had gotten nowhere. One senior officer, who was not identified was quoted as saying "you know what is going on down there (in Belleville) Ernie and you know that Inspector Page was transferred to Belleville under a cloud.

The officer, Keays said, told him Page was the "most ignorant man on the force, but was Commissioner Stringer's best friend." The same officer was quoted as referring to Crown Attorney Donnan as "Belleville's bar room."

Personalities Whole Crux

"Personalities have been the whole crux of my trouble with the local police," commented the constable. "I have only been trying to uphold my record with the department."

The constable went on to charge actions unbecoming to a police officer in the cases of Inspector Page and Cpl. Ervine. From a party on January 2nd, 1948, Cpl. Ervine had been carried home drunk, according to Keays.

Again on Jan. 3rd Cpl. Ervine had come to Keays' home with Inspector Page, Miss Dorothy Dowdell, police office stenographer, and two strangers, both in uniform. They had brought beer and rum with them. "They had come at 10.30 in the morning," he said.

"I only had one drink, because I had work to do," went on Keays, "but the others had several drinks and again Cpl. Ervine was carried out drunk."

Keays said that on the day in question he was to deliver summons in connection with the Woods' case. "They were not buying Keays for a bottle of liquor," he said.

Transferred in 1948

Keays here said that in connection with maladministration of justice and interference in the local police detachment several "good" officers would have something to say, officers that had service stripes to their credit.

Keays said that in January 1948 he had been transferred to Niagara Falls and had learned that Inspector C. Airey there had already received a memorandum from Inspector Page at Belleville pointing out that there was no use granting permission for Keays to return to Belleville for Monday, January 19th to attend court in connection with the Woods case.

"In the memorandum Inspector Page stated that he had discussed the whole case with Mr. Donnan who had instructed that I would not be required any further in the case."

Keays demanded that the memorandum from Inspector Page to Inspector Airey of Niagara Falls be produced in court "so we can find out just why they did not want me back in Belleville."

Commission counsel C. P. Hope replied the communication was not available but that Inspector Airey would be called to the stand and could answer for himself.

"Are you inferring that I took the memorandum from Inspector Airey's file?" asked Keays.

"I am inferring nothing," replied Mr. Hope, "only that Inspector Airey will be here to answer for himself."

CANADA TO INCUR

Originally, Canada estimated that its revenues from the island would not amount to more than $20,000,000 a year. Newfoundland representatives, after a check by chartered accountants, said the figure was too low and that revenues at existing tax rates probably would amount to $27,000,000 a year.

Postage to Stay up

Mr. Abbott warned that the value of Newfoundland's union with Canada should not be judged from the balance sheets. He said the first year's operations probably would not give a fair indication of federal expenditure and revenues in the island.

Postmaster - General Bertrand said it will take "many long years" before his department drops the one-cent increase in postage rates which was applied during the war.

Trade Minister Howe said government policy is opposed to the use of barter as a means of stimulating trade with Britain. Tariffs already have been lowered and other concessions made to stimulate British imports to this country.

Mr. St. Laurent said he wished to make it clear that no one in Newfoundland will be excluded from consideration for appointment to the Senate because of his religious beliefs.

On finances, Mr. St. Laurent said Canada will take over Newfoundland's net debt of $62,584,816. This represented approximately the amount which Newfoundland has spent on services which normally come under federal jurisdiction.

Mr. Mayhew, speaking on the Maritimes and Newfoundland fishing industries, said "I believe one will strengthen the other in looking for markets and that both will be able to go after business together in a better way than would be possible separately."

Will Add to Prosperity

Several Maritime members felt the union would add to the prosperity of all fishermen.

However, H. G. Archibald (CCF — Skeena) and Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) protested that Nafel, the Newfoundland fish - exporting company which charges $10,000 for its membership, will be allowed exclusive rights in the export of Newfoundland salt fish for five years after union.

Mr. Mayhew said the company operates under regulations of the Newfoundland Fisheries Board, which will become a federal government agency after union.

Howard Green (PC — Vancouver South) asked if any steps have been taken by the government to encourage the development of industry in Newfoundland. Defence Minister Claxton said some plans have already been drafted for the provision of assistance to industry in the island.

Mr. Abbott said a branch of the Industrial Development Bank will be established in Newfoundland. The bank loans money to small industries for development purposes.

Life Tableau Often Precedes Untimely Death Says Psychologist

- By ALVIN STEINKOPF

Sheffield, England — (AP) — When sudden death looms, does your past life unreel before your mind's eye like a high speed movie? Or do you just draw a frightened blank?

The chances are four out of 10 you'll get that lightning review of the past, says Arnold Freeman, educator and psychologist, who has made a hobby of subjecting popular beliefs to factual tests.

For years Freeman, warden of Sheffield's educational Settlement has been hearing the story that at the moment of sudden death the victim "sees his whole past life spread before him." The psychologists call it a "life tableau."

Freeman wondered about the facts and, as a scientific investigator, came up against the stubborn fact that it isn't practical to ask persons who died suddenly.

So he did the next best thing. In newspaper appeals, he asked persons who almost died in sensational circumstances to relate their "critical moment" experiences.

Freeman's research indicated that the popular beliefs in the matter are two-fifths right. Two out of five persons faced by sudden death do, indeed, see a parade of their experiences in a life tableau. Three out of five have rather stupid thoughts or are too scared to think anything.

He traced down at least 20 instances of persons who saw "everything pass in review." Thirty-four didn't see a thing, and the testimony of dozens of others was inconclusive.

A Methodist clergyman who fell from his bicycle in front of an automobile reported, that he saw all life in detail. "It seemed to start with a broken toy in early infancy. The final thought was the grief my mother would feel when my death was reported to her."

A London man rescued from drowning told Freeman:

"I saw myself as a boy riding a railway engine footplate, and there was a mental flash about stealing apples from an orchard."

Service men who escaped death by inches provided much of Freeman's data. Most of them had trivial impressions at the climactic moment. An airman trapped in a plane which sank in the ocean reported:

"My only concern was to get back to my mother, father and girl friend then came unconsciousness, and later I read that I had been fished out. It's still a kind of unreal existence. Maybe I'm not supposed to be here, but there was no life tableau when I approached the bar."

A naval lieutenant fell out an eighth-storey window. He landed, jolted but alive, on a sixth-floor balcony.

"I said to myself, 'well, I'm damned,' and felt only surprise and amazement at having done such a silly thing."

"Man seems to live out the past, through the present and on into the future," Freeman says. "His memory seems to be a mechanism to bring his time-self into relation with his space-self. Under exceptional circumstances, under such a jolt as facing death unexpectedly, the time-self in some cases becomes momentarily severed from the space-self, and memory flashes out in detailed reality.

Whisper In The Night

BY MARIE BLIZARD

Rosalie favored him with a despairing glance. There were times when she couldn't suppress Luther.

"As for Mrs. R., what I have against her is distinctly personal. It regards you, my fair maid. Here I am taking you on as a student of life, and every time I try to do something to prove to you that fun compares favorably with romance, you are sitting by a telephone calling Mrs. Rutherford to say that you'll be over for tea, or tennis, or something".

"Luther, she's been simply sweet to me! She hasn't given a single party to which I haven't been invited. Any time Cecil wants to take me somewhere in the boat, she's been entirely generous."

"I don't suppose you have any idea that she might have an ulterior motive?"

"Ulterior?" Rosalie's eyebrows looked at the moment very much like Mrs. Rutherford's.

"Skip it, baby. You'll find out soon enough. How's the poetry going, by the way?"

Rosalie let out a sigh. Then she laughed. "Oh, Luther, you know too much! How can a girl be a lady of mystery, a portrait woman, a romanticist with some one like you tearing aside the thin veil of her innocent little poses?"

"Are you admitting that I'm on to you?"

"No, I admit nothing. Besides, I really do like poetry. That is, of a kind. Only, Luther, I must be awfully unintellectual."

His eyes crinkled up with the kindly amusement to which she had grown accustomed. "Does the poet want you to be intellectual?"

"I'm not sure what he wants me to be. But I'm doing my best. Only . . . only when he goes on, with a light in his eyes about — 'Gone proudly friended; felt the quick stir of wonder' — that's Rupert Brooke — I'll be darned if I know what he's talking about."

"Why don't you give up the whole idea?"

Rosalie couldn't answer him. She felt a slight flush rise in her cheeks. Perhaps, it was not good that Luther Kane understood her so well, well enough to know that there was something she could not give up, something she was holding to.

"You haven't been away from Somerset more than three or four times since you came. Is that any way to see our beautiful Bermuda? For three weeks I've been..."

Rosalie nodded her head up and down. "I know," she said, "For three weeks you've been trying to open my eyes to countless delights."

"And now I'm trying to intrigue you into cutting this silly social stuff and coming out to St. George with me."

"I do want to go, Luther. But . . . well, I came here to have fun and seeing ruins isn't an awful lot of fun."

"Ruins? Not ruins, child. A lovely place where you step back into two or three previous centuries ..."

"I lived in them in New England all my life."

"Interrupting is rude. As I was saying, you'll see ships that ought to be in a museum, except that they'll be right there in the harbor. You'll buy mangoes from old mammys, and, little one, think of what we can do tonight!"

Rosalie didn't want to think of what they might do at night. She didn't want to be tempted. She wished Luther wouldn't go on asking her to have fun. Wished George Frame and the Johnsons who were so jolly wouldn't always ask her to do something at an hour when she was already engaged to do something with the Rutherfords and Cecil. The truth was that Rosalie was beginning to find herself in a web of her own weaving and she longed to do the very things she had to refuse to do.

Try as she would, she couldn't keep wistful curiosity out of her voice when she asked, "What would we do at night?" Her eyes were bright.

"We'd go to St. George and dance outdoors..."

"And look at the old ships?"

"Right! And over the winding streets of the old town. Or, if it's cold, we can sit in the hotel's ship's cafe — it's glass enclosed. From there we can look upon the old fort while I give you a course in tactics. How does that appeal to you?"

"The implication that I need a course in tactics does not appeal, but the dining and dancing outdoors does."

"Good girl! We'll start in an hour."

"Luther . . ." Rosalie regarded him thoughtfully. "You can see right through me. You know all my pretenses. I'm quite sure you think I'm the most shallow, rattle-brained female in the world. Will you please tell me why you are so nice to me?"

"Oh, I like you. Besides I don't think you're shallow or rattle-brained."

"Don't you?" There was positively gratitude in Rosalie's voice.

"No, baby, but I'll tell you what I do think about you. I think you give grand performances. I think you ought to be in Hollywood."

"Just what does that mean, Mr. Kane?"

"Exactly what you think it does. You're never yourself. You are always acting. You act The Popular Girl with poor smitten George. You are The Lily Maid of Asolat with your Cecil. With me, you're yourself. You have a sporting sense. You're natural and you have a sense of humor. You have, in other words, all the characteristics of a grand gal who'd rather be a glamor girl. Why, in heaven's name, I don't know! I'll bet if you didn't have a lot of money, you'd make a swell wife for some small-town boy. You'd probably even make a darned competent secretary."

There were sparks in Rosalie's eyes when she got up. "You're not offering me either job, are you?"

Luther shook his head. "No, darling. You won't be any good for me until you get over wanting to walk in the moonlight with glassy eyes. Not but what it was very touching and pretty."

"You're not satisfied with psychoanalyzing me! You have to spy too?" Rosalie's voice was so sweet, it was filled with deadliness.

"Spy? Say that again and be sure you smile, or I may turn you over my knee. Perhaps I was only guessing."

Perhaps he was. Rosalie debated the point in her mind. She wondered if Luther had really seen her with Cecil the night before. Overhead the moon was unbelievably theatrical. The stars sparkled through the branches of dark cedars. The blooming oleanders of the tall hedges had been like a back-drop on a stage. She was aware of how fragile and romantic her white gown was in that moonlight. And she had deliberately led Cecil to picking a flower to tuck in her hair. He had kissed her once and they had walked on with moonlight in their eyes, hand in hand. It had seemed lovely then, but if Luther had seen it—

It would have been rather silly. There were lots of things that seemed lovely when she and Cecil were doing them, but in the bright, white light of another day, they seemed . . . Rosalie did not know the words for it.

There were days when they went out in the sailboat and it had been exhilarating to feel the salt in her face, to have Cecil wipe her eyes and laugh with her and say, "Rosalie, you've no idea how good it is to know you."

Cecil's restraint in itself was romantic. He didn't say things—foolish things like George Frame — or he didn't call her baby, like Luther. But there were ways he had of looking at her, of making her feel that she was important to him. She liked feeling that she was rather precious, and that Cecil was old-fashioned in his manner to her.

But, oh, if he weren't so persistently poetic. Why ever had she asked him to teach her poetry? Some of it, she though she might have liked. But Cecil wanted to read epics and things about lost planets, and Young England. Half the time she had no idea of what the words meant.

Luther was right. She was feeling like the Lily Maid, and it was bearing her down. She suddenly realized that she was acting The Haughty Queen at the moment. And the sense of humor Luther had discovered saved her. She grinned.

He saw it, read her mind. "You see? That's what I like about you. Now, get into something to wear in the boat. We're going to St. George."

"I can't, Luther. Honestly. Mrs. Rutherford has asked me to dinner. Her daughter, Angela—I've met her only once — has been to Jamaica and she's having this dinner for her."

Luther opened his eyes very wide. Then he took off his glasses and polished them. He didn't look at Rosalie. "So little Angela has been away for the past fortnight? Well, pet, Uncle Luther suggests that you skip this party . . . and my reasons are no longer personal. You'd better come with me."

"What do you mean, Luther?"

"Maybe you'd better go and find out for yourself. But I can tell you right now that if you're not doing a grand posing act, you're going to get that little heart of yours bruised. And that's all I have to say."

KIDNEYS DISTURBED SLEEP MANY TIMES EACH NIGHT

Had Sharp, Shooting Pains in Arms and Legs, Backache and Bad Headaches. Tried Many Things. Got No Relief Until He Used Syntona.

All around us are grateful men and women who have used Syntona and found it to be just what they needed to help build up run-down system and relieve common ailments of stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. Syntona produces these results by cleansing the system of excess acids and waste matter and by promoting better assimilation of food to help build up strong, healthy nerves and sound bodies.

"My kidneys were giving me trouble for several years," said Mr. Lindsay T. Irvine, St. Thomas, Ontario.

"I would have to get up several times each night and in this way lost considerable sleep. I had sharp, shooting rheumatic pains in my arms and limbs, backache and frequent headaches that often made my stomach feel sick and nauseated.

"I had tried many different things, but nothing really helped me until I began taking Syntona just a short time ago. Now I am able to sleep pretty well through the whole night without having to get up, the shooting pains are gone and I am free of headache and backache. I feel so much better that even my work seems easier now."

SAM CARR AND WIFE WHISKED INTO CANADA

Keays Not Detailed To Probe Shootings Says Judge Marion

Prescott and Russell Crown Attorney at Time Testifies

Constable Keays was not detailed to have charge of an investigation into a double shooting at Navan, Ontario, in 1940, in which O.P.P. Constable Harold Dent and a transient named John Miki were killed.

This was told today to the Royal Commission by Judge C. W. A. Marion, county judge for the combined counties of Prescott and Russell, as he testified at the hearing inquiring into charges against police officers made by Constable Keays.

"Keays was not detailed to have charge of the investigation," stated Judge Marion, "there were dozens of officers around and Keays took the investigation on himself."

Judge Marion was called as Keays' witness in the investigation to testify in connection with the double shooting. At the time in question Judge Marion was acting as Crown Attorney for Prescott and Russell counties.

By request of Commission Counsel C. P. Hope Judge Marion was being heard before the cross-examination of Keays.

Documents as Exhibits

Beginning the morning session of the hearing Keays entered a long list of documents presented in substantiation of evidence which had been given previously.

Again the county court room where the hearing is being held before Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay, was filled with spectators, although possibly not to the extent that it was Thursday afternoon.

It is noted that the morning audience is composed mostly of men while more women are seen present in the afternoon.

Constable Keays throughout the investigation has presented his evidence without the services of counsel. The general impression by persons attending the hearing is that his evidence has been remarkably well presented.

Ability to Recall Dates

Keays has shown an astonishing ability to recall dates relative to his allegations. Some of which go back over ten years.

For well over an hour Keays had Commission Counsel C. P. Hope and Staff Inspector Arthur Moss searching department files and producing the required documents and communications.

In his evidence Keays has alleged Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan was implicated with E. M. Carefoot in a fraud against the public.

Also Mr. Donnan was alleged to have suppressed evidence in the Carefoot trial and to have interfered in the police investigation of the matter.

Sergeant J. A. Stringer of Ottawa was charged with making false statements in an inquest in 1940; Cpl. Ervine was charged with perjury and with falsifying official documents.

Constables J. B. Driscoll and G. R. Purdy are charged with making out false reports, while Police Commissioner W. H. Stringer and Inspector W. A. Page are accused of failing to take disciplinary action against the above officers.

Keays Requests Letter

Keays requested a letter stated to have been written by Mr. Hope reprimanding Mr. Donnan of unjustly criticizing Keays.

Reference had also been made in the letter, Keays said, to alleged interference by Mr. Donnan in the Carefoot investigation. The letter could not be found but Mr. Hope said further search would be made.

"I have some recollection of the letter," said Mr. Hope, "and I have no doubt whatever that I made reference to the interference." "I would resent very much any interference in any case of which I had been placed in charge and would tell anyone so."

Toronto, Feb. 11 — (CP) — Murray Smith, 14 - year - old schoolboy, is the object of a police search and his mother fears he may have lost his memory following a fall at the school. He has been missing since Feb. 7, when the school principal sent the boy home after he fell and bumped his head. He did not arrive at his house.

KEAYS COMPLETES EVIDENCE IN CHARGES LAID

Will Face Cross Examination by Malcolm Robb, Counsel for Officers Charged

Additional charges of misbehaviour on the part of provincial police officers at Belleville were heard yesterday by Royal Commissioner Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay from Constable J. E. Keays as that officer completed his evidence after four straight days in the witness box.

Today Keays will face cross examination by defence counsel Malcolm Robb with respect to charges of perjury, suppressions of evidence against seven provincial police officers and a crown attorney.

Acting as his own counsel Constable Keays has presented a ponderous amount of evidence and in almost 24 hours of testimony has filed 79 separate exhibits. Dates dealt with went back nearly ten years.

CORNWALL MAN DIES SUDDENLY

Cornwall, Feb. 11 (CP)—Louis J. Lebano, 51, died suddenly at his home here Thursday night of a heart attack. He was assistant superintendent of public works.

May Have Influenced MacArthur To Move to Australia--Churchill

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—The American decision to order Gen. MacArthur from besieged Corregidor to Australia in 1941 may have been influenced by a manoeuvre two years earlier by Winston Churchill, the British wartime Prime Minister writes in his momoirs.

Churchill writes of the incident in an instalment from the second volume of his memoirs now being published.

Churchill says he may have influenced President Roosevelt and War Secretary Henry L. Stimson in their decision to order MacArthur off Corregidor by taking a similar action regarding Lord Gort at the time of the Dunkerque evacuation.

Lord Gort was British commander in France at the time.

Churchill writes he drafted a note to Lord Gort ordering the latter to leave Dunkerque for England at a certain point in the evacuation.

The note added "no personal discretion is left you in the matter."

Churchill says when he was in Washington later shortly after the entry of the United States into the war, he showed the message to President Roosevelt and Stimson.

Churchill writes:

"The President and Mr. Stimson both read the telegram with profound attention, and I was struck by the impression it seemed to make upon them.

"It may be (for I do not know) that this influenced them in the right decision which they took in ordering General MacArthur to hand over his command to one of his subordinate generals, and thus saved for all his future glorious services the great commander who would otherwise have perished or passed the war as a Japanese captive. I should like to think this was true."

The evacuation of 250,000 British soldiers from Dunkerque, Churchill writes, was made possible only by tremendous work of all the services—the army's defence, the fight of the R.A.F. and the unremitting efforts of the fleet of 830 vessels, many of them small boats sailed by amateurs.

"The mosquito armada as a whole was unsinkable," he writes.

BULGARIA INDICTS 15 TOP CHURCH LEADERS AS SPIES

Official Says Churchmen Already Had Confessed

Sofia, Feb. 11 (AP)—Communist-governed Bulgaria is going to put 15 Protestant ministers and officials on trial soon on charges of treason, violating currency laws and spying for Britain and the United States.

Vladimir Topencharov, Deputy Foreign Minister, said the churchmen already had "fully confessed" to the spy charges.

The government last night announced the names of those arrested for the first time, disclosed the indictments and named 12 American and British churchmen, educators and officials who it said acted as "contacts" in the spying activities.

The fifteen indicted are leaders of the United Evangelical Church. Represented in the church are the Methodist, Baptist, Pentecost and Congregational faiths.

Vassil Ziapkov, head of the Congregational Church in Bulgaria and religious representative of the United Evangelical Church, was alleged to be the "heart" of the treasonable activity.

Others indicted included:

Yanko Ivanov, his deputy and supervisor of Methodist churches in Bulgaria.

Nikala Mihailov, head of the Baptists.

Import Control Will be Extended To New Province

Ottawa, Feb. 11 (CP)—Canada's dollar-conservation measures, which block the outflow of United States dollars by prohibiting imports from U.S. dollar areas, will go into effect in Newfoundland when the island becomes the 10th province.

This provision is expected to be contained in the government's "omnibus" bill, a measure to extend existing federal laws to Newfoundland, when it comes up for discussion in the Commons today.

Finance Minister Abbott told the Commons Thursday that Canada's foreign-exchange control board already operates in Newfoundland and that U.S. dollar exchange entering that country always has been available to Canada through the close inter-locking of the Canadian and Newfoundland banking systems.

Canada has provided Newfoundland with its requirements of U. S. dollars.

Extension of the import control to the new province will ensure that there is no "loop-hole" through which Canadian importers will be able to bring in banned American-made goods.

Pro-Partition Unionist Government Re-elected With Increased Majority

Belfast, Feb. 11 — (CP)—Sir Basil Brooke's pro-partition Unionist government today was re-elected and won a "mandate" for Northern Ireland to continue as part of the United Kingdom.

The election was fought on the single issue of "King of Republic." Mounting returns showed the government retained control of the 52-seat legislature and there were indications its majority may have been increased.

At 1:45 p. m. (8:45 a. m., EST) today the Unionists held the 27 seats necessary for re-election. Opposing parties held five. These figures include 20 seats which went unopposed and four other seats in Queen's University will not be determined until the end of the month.

About 90 per cent of Northern Ireland's 495,744 registered voters were reported to have cast ballots.

The first Nationalist victory came in East Tyrone, where Joseph Stewart carried the tri-color banner of Eire.

Hugh Minford won the only seat contested in County Antrim to give the government a sweep of the seven Antrim seats.

The first woman to gain election was Unionist housewife Dinah McNabb of North Armagh.

Upsets Scored

An upset victory in Belfast was scored by Alderman Thomas Cole, who defeated Labor member of Parliament Harry Downey.

Downey had been pledged to support the entry of Ulster's six counties into a new Republic of Ireland. Cole's margin was 3,674 to 3,390.

Three Unionist cabinet ministers were returned to parliament by big majorities in the Belfast districts. They are Col. S. H. Hall-Thompson, education; Maj. Maynard Sinclair, finance, and William Grant, health.

Baby, Rescued from Fire, Dies As Business Centre of Village Of Trout Creek is Wiped Out

Trout Creek, Ont., Feb. 11 (CP) —A five-months-old child died today after being carried from his burning home as fire razed the business section of this farming community 20 miles south of North Bay. Damage has been estimated at $70,000.

The thermometer registered 20 degrees below zero as tiny John Wesley Osborne apparently died as a result of asphyxiation. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Osborne, both suffered severe burns as they attempted to rescue the child. Mrs. Osborne crawled through a window to reach the infant.

As fire struck the village of less than 500 persons, it destroyed the F. Quinlan General Store, operated by Mr. Osborne. It also destroyed Victor Mogridge's Trout Creek general store, apartments above it, and a warehouse and an adjacent feed store.

The North Bay fire department arrived at the scene shortly before 10 o'clock this morning to help weary members of the Trout Creek volunteer brigade. The volunteers battled the blaze since it was discovered two hours earlier.

Russian Demand For A-Bomb Ban Beaten Down

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Lake Success, N. Y., Feb. 11 — (CP) — A Russian demand for prohibition of the atomic bomb and a cut in big-five armaments was beaten down last night in the United Nations Security Council.

Instead, the council sent to its commission for conventional armaments a resolution from the U. N. General Assembly to continue work on studies towards limiting convention armaments.

Russian delegate Jakob Malik immediately served notice he will raise the arms issue again in the commission for conventional armaments and in the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission.

A Russia resolution including similar demands was overwhelmingly defeated last fall by the General Assembly in Paris.

Only Russia and the Soviet Ukraine voted for the resolution which demanded that the United States tell how many atomic bombs she has.

The defeated resolution, which contained a slap at the North Atlantic pact, would have ordered a one-third arms cut by March 1, 1950, by Britain, the United States, France, China and Russia.

It would also have instructed the Atomic Energy Commission to submit by June a treaty prohibiting atomic weapons and a treaty for control of atomic energy, both to become effective simultaneously.

Russia has an untold number of army divisions while the western world only a few. A one-third cut in the Russian army would still leave it many times the size of all western divisions combined.

The council also voted on a surprise Russian proposal called on the council to send to the arms commission and to the atomic commission both the assembly resolution and the Soviet proposal on arms control. This was defeated.

Twenty Injured In Clash Between Rival CIO Unions

East Moline, Ill., Feb. 11 (AP) —About 20 persons were injured, including two top officials of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) in a 20-minute pitched battle yesterday between some 300 members of two rival C.I.O. Unions.

Both officials were arrested after the bloody brawl at the gates of the East Moline Works of the International Harvester Company. On one side were some 70 U.A.W. organizers. They were opposed by more than 200 workers at the plant, members of the United Farm Equipment Workers Union.

Thirteen of the injured received treatment at a hospital for bloody and broken noses, cuts, broken arms, bashed heads and cracked ribs. Only one was a plant worker. The Unionists injured included John W. Livingston of Detroit, U.A.W. vice president and director of the Union's Agricultural Implement Department, and Pat Greathouse of Chicago, U.A.W. regional director.

Arvid Sheets, president of F.E. Local 104, said he will ask warrants today charging the two C.I.O. officials with inciting a riot. They were summoned to appear today before a police magistrate on the disorderly conduct charges.

Sheets said "our membership does not intend to permit outside labor bosses to destroy the things we have worked so hard and so long to accomplish."

Climbs Out of Wrecked Car on RR Tracks Unhurt

Coldwater, Feb. 11 (CP) — A freight train wrecked his car during a heavy snowstorm yesterday, but driver Frank Tornbloom of Toronto climbed out of the auto without a scratch. It is believed Tornbloom did not see the train as he approached a crossing three miles southwest of here. The car was spun about on the highway, its front end smashed in.

COMMONS MOVES QUICKLY THROUGH DEBATE ON UNION

Third Reading of Bill Likely be Given Today

Ottawa, Feb. 11. (CP)—The Commons, moving faster than anticipated, probably will conclude today the debate on Legislation providing for Newfoundland's entry into Canada as a 10th province.

Members, who originally voted to set aside two weeks for the debate, yesterday completed a detailed study of the 50 clauses in Bill 11, the bulky document containing the financial and other terms of Union.

They still must give the measure third reading and send it to the Senate. They also must adopt an address asking the United Kingdom Parliament to ratify the terms of union and make them a part of the British North America Act.

Opposition members made an unsuccessful bid to have some details changed as the discussion ranged from Old Age Pensions to finances and from railway operations to veterans allowances.

Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. members urged that the government make Old Age Pensions payable in Newfoundland as from March 31, the date set for the consummation of union.

Prime Minister St. Laurent explained that Canadian and Newfoundland representatives had agreed that the Pensions would not be paid until the Newfoundland Legislature passes a bill providing for Old Age Pensions.

Must Cut Wreck Of Plane to Free Victims' Bodies

Sudbury, Feb. 11 — (CP) — Bodies of two Indian trappers killed in a plane crash 24 miles northeast of Gogama, will have to be cut from the wreckage, police revealed today.

The trappers — Richard Naveau, 41, and his 21-year-old nephew, Sidney Naveau, were killed when the light plane crashed on an isolated lake 110 miles north of here Tuesday. The pilot, Robert Milligan of Toronto, former R. C. A. F. flier, suffered two fractures of his right ankle.

Provincial Constable N. Cowie who flew to the scene of the tragedy from Gogama, said it was impossible to remove the bodies without cutting the wreckage. The plane can not be demolished except by Transport Department officials and an inspector from Toronto is expected to fly to Kenogamassing Lake this afternoon.

A Sudbury coroner, Dr. H. C. Nash, is expected to accompany the Toronto inspector. The bodies will be flown directly to Matogami Post and released there to the family for burial.

Alleged Key Figure To Stand Trial In Espionage Case

Mrs. Carr Faces No Charge And is Allowed Freedom

Ottawa, Feb. 11 (CP)— Sam Carr, alleged key figure in the Soviet spy ring, today was whisked into Canada to face charges arising from the Dominion's 1946 espionage probe.

The Russian-born Carr and his wife, picked up in the United States a fortnight ago on immigration charges, were brought across the St. Lawrence River at Prescott, Ont., and turned over to Canadian authorities.

Wife Allowed Freedom

His wife, who is not wanted on any charge in Canada, was allowed to go free but R.C.M.P. took Carr into custody and headed for Ottawa where Justice Department officials set the stage for a court hearing.

Carr, who fled Canada three years ago when the spy case broke, will be arraigned on charges connected with a false passport case. The Royal Commission which probed the espionage case quoted Russian documents indicating Carr had received a sum of money in connection with obtaining a false passport allegedly for a Russian agent.

The prisoner and police escort left Prescott about 11 a.m. and R.C.M.P. at Ottawa, 60 miles away said they expected him to arrive here in a little less than two hours.

The Justice Department announced that Carr, alleged central figure in the Russian espionage case, will be arraigned later in the day or tomorrow before Magistrate Glenn Strike.

The arraignment will constitute preliminary inquiry to determine whether there is enough evidence to warrant trial on charges connected with the espionage case. Justice Department officials did not say specifically what these charges would be.

Magistrate Strike is the official who conducted preliminary inquiries in most of the other 18 accused of espionage following the probe of the 1946 Royal Commission.

All those who appeared before him were committed for trial.

Nine subsequently were convicted and eight acquitted.

Charge of Conspiracy

Later Justice Department officials said Carr will be formally arraigned on a charge of conspiracy to commit forgery with a number of officials of the Russian Embassy, including Col. Nikolai Zabotin, military attache who headed the spy network of which Carr alleged was one of the two Canadian ring-leaders.

The charge was said to have to do with the forgery of passports.

Tom Thumb Would Feel Like Goliath In Miniature Rooms Collection

Toronto, Feb. 11 (CP)—A treasure hunt through Europe's most fabulous antique shops for rare art objects has produced a collection of miniature rooms which would make Tom Thumb feel like an overgrown Goliath.

Thirty period rooms furnished in exquisite detail went on public display here today at the Toronto Art Gallery in the only Canadian showing of the collection of Mrs. James Ward Thorne of Chicago.

The rooms, scaled one inch to the foot, have been estimated at $5,000 each.

An authentic reproduction of German, English and French styles, the collection dates back to 1505 and illustrates much of the modes and life of the time.

Architectural design, carved ceilings and stained-glass windows are exact duplications of either specific rooms or are composite types. There are more than 150 pieces of each room, including crystal chandeliers and oriental rugs.

Mrs. Thorne is a perfectionist who insists that even door knobs must be carved in the period style represented by the room.

Although all rooms are given a "lived-in" look by books on tables, open violin cases and animal sketches before the fire, the elaborate furniture of most periods would make a contemporary uneasy.

"I poked around in the most obscure and interesting shops in Paris, Rome, Florence and London," Mrs. Thorne said.

what she wanted in the exact size requirements, she trained her own cabinet-makers, jewelers and interior decorators to make furnishings. Mrs. Thorne did most of her own upholstering, curtains and needle point rugs.

An English firm made a special tea service in Wedgewood China which sits on a tray the size of a 50-cent piece. A retired English policeman carved a complete chess set in ivory.

Mrs. Thorne has been interested in collecting tiny art pieces since her girlhood, but about 15 years ago she thought of creating miniature rooms. Three years of work in her Chicago studio completed the collection gathered from all parts of the globe.

THRONE SPEECH DEBATE STARTS IN ONT. HOUSE

M. C. Davis of Windsor Walkerville Riding Elected Speaker of House

Toronto, Feb. 11 — (CP) —The Ontario Legislature today begins debate on the Speech from the Throne, read yesterday at opening ceremonies by Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson.

The 1,300-word speech — the shortest in years — forecast a policy of retrenchment and consolidation to meet a danger of "inflationary over-expansion."

An unofficial explanation of this point is that the government has come to realize that a downward course in general business conditions has set in and that the government intends to proceed with caution on public works expenditures.

It forecast legislation which would provide for clear distinction between margarine and butter offered for sale; and expanding program of house construction and firm law enforcement measures "in the suppression of subversive elements."

Maj. J. W. Foote (PC-Durham) the former army chaplain who won the Victoria Cross at Dieppe, will move adoption of the throne speech, seconded by Allistair Johnson, Progressive Conservative member elected in the Parry Sound by-election.

It is customary after opening ceremonies for the Premier to postpone the throne-speech debate one or two days to enable members to consider it.

Toronto, Feb. 11 (CP)—Synopsis—A storm centre over Saskatchewan and Eastern Montana this morning is causing blizzard conditions over the Prairie Provinces and Northern States. Although the storm centre is weakening as it moves eastward light snow with considerable drifting may be expected in Northern Ontario tonight and Saturday. A southerly flow of warm air in advance of the storm centre will bring much milder weather to southern regions of the province

WILL CHANGE GOVT.

Vancouver, Feb. 10 (CP)—British Columbia Indians are going to challenge the federal government's right to collect income tax. Thomas Harry Hunt, a member of the Quakiutl Nation—the only Indians in the province to maintain aboriginal fishing and hunting rights—is taking Supreme Court action in a test case to see if the government has the right to tax the livelihood of natives. The non-reservation tribe has 1,900 members.

CAR LEFT ON STREET SO FAR NOT CLAIMED

Who owns the car, and why did he leave it with its motor running shortly after midnight last night opposite the Crystal Hotel? That is puzzling city police for the time being. The car apparently is not a stolen one. It remained with engine purring on the travelled portion of the street for 25 minutes before the lads of the law took over and wheeled it to the police station. So far it has not been claimed.

Truck Breaks Thru Ice in Trent, Four Escape

Trenton, Feb. 11 — Breaking through the ice, a truck containing three men and a 12-year-old boy sank to the bottom of the Trent River Thursday, but all four managed to escape with nothing more than a wetting.

"It was a near thing," said Alphonse Gingras, Trenton contractor, who was behind the wheel of the truck. "We didn't have too much time to get out."

Gingras and the others, Douglas Westfall, William McCoustra and the boy, Howard Foshay, were returning to shore across the ice when the front wheels entered an expansion crack which widened under the pressure. Foshay was seated on McCoustra's lap.

"When the truck started to settle, I shouted to the others to jump," Gingras recounted. "I opened the door on my side and jumped into the water. Westfall was next to me and he did the same. McCoustra pushed the boy off his lap through the left-hand door, and tried to get out the right-hand side. But the door was jammed and he had to slide over and get out the other door. By that time the truck had settled into the water."

Gingras managed to clamber on to the ice and assist Westfall out of the icy water. Both grabbed Foshay who was floundering in the water. The boy had gone under twice before he was fished out.

"McCoustra had quite a struggle to get to the surface," Gingras said. "We got him on to the ice, too."

The shivering quartet were given warm clothing and hot drinks at a near-by cabin and were none the worse for the ducking last night.

Milk Producers Adopt Board Of Arbitration Award At Annual Meeting in City

The Belleville Milk Producers Association at its annual meeting in St. Thomas Parish Hall yesterday went on record as being in favor of provincial negotiation and adoption of the Cowan Award as laid down by the Board of Arbitration. A number of Trenton shippers were present.

The association it was stated, had been in verbal agreement with distributors here since November 1948 when former agreements expired.

The Cowan Award states that "milk distributors purchasing milk from producers shall pay for its quota or sales whichever is the greater and the producers shall sell such milk at a basic price per 100 pounds of milk testing 3.4 per cent butter fat delivered to the plant of the distributor.

The blended price for milk shall be paid by distributors and is arrived at by increasing top price milk 20 cents per hundredweight for fluid milk sales and by increasing the price of secondary milk, included in the basic hundredweight, 25 cents per hundred over the prices in the agreement dated November, 1947 between the two parties.

Not Unanimous

Members of the Producers Association at the meeting yesterday however were not unanimous in the adoption of the motion. While the majority voted in favor or several members did not vote although no contrary votes were noted. President Morley Davison remarking on the situation said it should be unanimous but a spokesman for the "silents" declared that several men were against the motion but were "afraid" to vote against the majority. The vote was an open one after a motion for a closed ballot was defeated.

Producers here have been receiving $3.90 per hundreadweight for fluid milk sales. Under the award the new price will be $4.00 for dairy requirements when on quota and $3.95 when on open quota.

Explains Award in Detail

Fenton McIntyre, Brantford, president of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers League in a lengthy address explained in detail the Cowan Award. He pointed out that 78 of the 103 markets in Ontario had adopted it, and in the main the distributors were falling in line. He answered several questions during a discussion period and acted as chairman during the election of officers.

Consumers, McIntyre pointed out, were willing to pay if "we give them the proper high grade product." He had visited many consumer groups and this feeling had been unanimous.

He urged the producers to make all effort to produce a good product. "You cannot make good milk out of poor milk by pasteurization. People in the cities depend on you to see that your commodity is the "safe" milk. In many instances many of us are to blame for poor quality because we have never organized ourselves to get a price which will enable us to get a better product."

Must Work with Distributors

"However," McIntyre said, "we must work with the distributors. I would rather have an agreement with the distributors than adopt the Award to force them to do something. No industry can progress with one group fighting another group within that industry. Why should we, the producers, fight with people who actually are our sales agents. We should agree in the best interests of all."

The meeting endorsed a motion authorizing distributors to collect dues from producers each month.

Following is the slate of officers named at the elections held following the general meeting:— President — Morley Davidson, (re-elected); Director to Provincial Association—Fred Mitchell; Vice pres.—Arnold Mitchell; Sec.-Treas. — George Flower (re-elected); Directors — Douglas Atkins, Jarrell Anderson, Ken Jones, Jack Parrott, Stan May, Don Leeming, Edgar Ray, Arthur Vermilyea, Gordon Woods; Auditors, Jack Parrott, Geo. Rollin, J. Broad; Representative Agriculture Board — Farley Vermilyea; Delegates to Convention — Don Leeming, Carl Thompson, M. Davidson, Arnold Mitchell, Geo. Flowers, James Broad, Horace Knight. TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 11 (CP)—Industrials continued yesterday's late decline on the Toronto Stock Exchange today as prices slipped on losses ranging from fractions up to two points. Base metals dipped from early firmness and western oils failed to hold early gains. Golds bucked profit-taking to hold their own.

A wide list of industrial issues slipped in mid-session as action slowly increased.

McIntyre led a firmer gold list, adding 3-4 at 56. Juniors showed gains ranging up to five cents. Seven early gains in the golds were wiped out as some profit-taking became evident following yesterday's late advances.

Consolidated Smelters resumed its downward slide, losing 3 1-4 at 105 1-4 and touching a new low at 104. Waite Amulet opened on a fractional advance but soon weakened and was down 1-4 at 13.

Calves were 1,140 head. Choice vealers opened steady at $32 for tops, but dropped $2-$3 at midweek and sold at $28-$30 for choice with plain to medium vealers at $16.50-$26. A few thin grassers brought $15-$16.

Hogs toalled only 1,871 head. The market opened unsettled with no definite price established, but settled unchanged at midweek. Grade A were $30.50 and Grade B1 were $30.10. Sows were unchanged at $22, dressed.

Sheep and lambs were 1,054 head. Good local and western feed-lot lambs sold at $25-$25.25. Culls and mediums were $16-$22. Good light sheep were steady at $10-$12 with culls and heavies $5-$9.

Acheson Outlines Assurances to Be Given to Norway

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP) — Norway's question-and-answer session with the United States over the North Atlantic defence alliance drew to a close today.

Foreign Minister Halvard M. Lange planned to catch a plane to New York tonight, taking with him State Secretary Acheson's final word on the benefits and responsibilities of membership in the alliance.

The treaty is intended to bind the United States, Canada and Western Europe into a tight ring against Communist expansion. Russia, strongly attacking the project, has made Norway a counter-offer.

Diplomatic officials said Acheson was prepared to give Lange these assurances:

1. Norway would get "maximum amounts" of any American arms suplied to members of the alliance—if Congress approves such an arrangement.

2. Norwegian military leaders would have full opportunity to help plan over-all defence strategy.

3. Norway would not be asked to permit foreign peacetime bases on its soil as the price of membership.

These informed officials said Acheson would make it clear the United States will not give military support to any neutral defence alliance such as Sweden has been proposing for the three Scandinavian states.

Lange and the Danish Ambassador both have inquired specifically about the official American view on that point.

Norway rejected Sweden's proposal, but ,with Denmark, has been seeking some compromise such as a separate Scandinavian alliance which could be tied in with the Atlantic network.

That plan is reported to have received little encouragement from State Department officials.

KEAYS

Several letters by Mr. Hope in reference to the Carefoot case were produced, but although Keays said he knew of their existence, he claimed they did not include the required letter.

The question of relevancy of many of the documents requested by Keays was raised by Commissioner Mr. Justice Mackay.

Not Interested

"I am not the least interested in the words of various departments if they are not connected with this inquiry. If so this whole inquiry would become a farce."

Keays concluded his presentation of documentary evidence at the morning recess a few minutes after twelve o'clock.

At the resumption of the hearing Keays announced he was ready for cross-examination.

On the witness stand Judge Marion confirmed that at the time of the double shooting he had been crown attorney in the combined counties of Prescott and Russell.

Asked by Constable Keays if he had received a copy of Sgt. J. A. Stringer's report prior to the inquest.

"Yes, a verbal report," replied Judge Marion. "No written report. There are none on file."

"The judge denied that he had received a written report on the shooting from Keays who had been in charge of the investigation.

Keays, among his many allegations alleged that Sgt. Stringer said Miki had been killed by him in a gun battle in which "several" shots had been fired.

Claims Only One Shot Fired

Keays, however, had claimed only one shot had been fired by Stringer and that one George Smith could testify as to this fact.

Keays further stated that Smith had not been called at the inquest.

On the witness stand today Judge Marion denied any knowledge of evidence being suppressed at the inquest. He said that he did not know that a George Smith was supposed to have known something of the shooting.

"The first time I knew that a George Smith was supposed to know something of the shooting was when I arrived here to give evidence at this hearing," said Judge Marion.

"Did Keays give evidence at the inquest?" asked Keays.

"No, he did not give evidence; he wanted to theorize," was the reply.

"I did not ask for any comments," pointed out Keays. "I only asked you a simple question."

"The witness is entitled to give an explanation of his answer," interrupted C. P. Hope, commission counsel, "and that was all he was doing."

"Who was authorized to conduct the investigation into the double shooting?" asked Keays.

Directed to Come, Claim

"No one," was the reply, "there were many officers around and you took it upon yourself." Judge Marion admitted, however, that Keays had introduced himself as having come to the scene of the shooting at the direction of Inspector Cousans.

Under questioning by Keays, Judge Marion said he had been made familiar with the details of the shooting and Stringer's statement by verbal reports from Keays and other officers.

Term Controversy At Ancaster 'The Devil's Brew'

Ancaster, Feb. 11 — (CP) —A stream of charges and counter-charges involving mishandling of municipal funds has split the management of this small township, six miles west of Hamilton, into two factions.

The controversy, termed by citizens "the devil's brew," came to a head Feb. 1 with the death of Constable Harry R. Bennett, 68, from a bullet wound which a coroner's jury ruled was self-inflicted.

Thursday, the Attorney-General's Department was asked to conduct a full investigation into Bennett's death and into charges that township funds have been mishandled.

The "devil's brew" caused a rift among councillors. Two council members are backing Rev. John W. Hamilton, retired minister and president of Ancaster Citizens' Association, while the others are behind Reeve-farmer C. E. Anderson.

The reeve has charged Mr. Hamilton and his association with "meddling and besmirching the reputations of honest and God-fearing people" and "the good name of a good community."

Mr. Hamilton, who requested the full-scale inquiry by the Attorney-General, said his association "will not be satisfied" until it determines how municipal funds have been spent.

He claimed that a $5,000 surplus in 1945 had grown into a $40,000 deficit in 1947, and that tax arrears, which had a surplus of $1,000 in 1945, had a deficit of $21,000 two years later.

The question of municipal finances caused a flurry of excitement when Miss Fannie Postans, deputy clerk-treasurer, charged that former clerk-treasurer Elmer Lyons had borrowed $1,300 in township funds in December, 1946.

Miss Postans said she revealed the situation when she was asked to resign because of "staff reorganization."

Referring to Bennett's death, Mr. Hamilton said the constable was probably worried over the fact he had received $795 in "overpay."

"It was obviously an indication of the gross inefficiency which has so long marked the affairs at the town hall."

The retired minister said he had "been rebuffed" when he visited municipal affairs Minister George Dunbar and decided to place the matter in the hands of the Attorney-General.

Textile Executive Charged With Income Tax Evasions

Montreal, Feb. 11 — (CP) — After a year of investigation, the Federal Department of Revenue signed complaints in criminal court here yesterday against Albert Sansoucy, Montreal textile wholesaler, charging him with income tax evasions amounting to $2,500,000.

The complaints, 45 in all, are lodged against Sansoucy, Albert Soucy Et Frere, Ltd., and Albert Soucy, Ltd.

Government lawyers said that Sansoucy owed the government $2,500,000 in back taxes. Under the double penalty clause, Sansoucy stands to lose $5,000,000 in fines, penalties, interest and taxes if there is a conviction or a plea of guilty.

Besides being charged with violating every major regulation in the Income Tax Act, the textile executive is also charged with violating the War Income Tax and the Excess Profits Tax Act.

The income tax charges include making false statements to tax officers, buying and selling securities and bonds under fictitious names, secreting his assets, placing them in the names of others and fictitious persons, failing to make an income tax return and destroying his account book.

The offences are alleged to have been committed between 1943 and 1946.

Last May, the government obtained a writ from the Exchequer Court enabling it to retain $1,000,000 in cash and bonds seized from a safety deposit box belonging to Sansoucy. It was issued on the grounds that there was danger that the money might be lost.

After the raid, in which a large amount of United States currency was found, Sansoucy was charged with violating Foreign Control Board regulations and fined $1,500.

Information in one of yesterday's complaints was that Sansoucy's 1943 income tax return, filed in 1947, listed his taxable income as $5,391, instead of $281,045. As a result, he evaded payment of an income tax of $251,067.

In other years the government alleges the evasions amounted to: 1944, $266,665; 1945, $284,826; and in 1946, $224,224. These figures only include his personal income tax.

His firm, the government charges, was simultaneously avoiding payment of $795,717 in income taxes and $460,079 in excess profits tax.

Looks Like Hot Race for Top Academy Award

Hollywood, Feb. 11 (AP)—It looks like a hot race for the top female academy award and a runaway for Sir Laurence Oliver among the men.

The academy of motion picture arts and sciences last night announced nominations for its 1948 awards. The top selections are:

Best performance by an actress —Ingrid Bergman, "Joan of Arc"; Olivia De Havilland, "The Snake Pit"; Irene Dunne, "I Remember Mama"; Barbara Stanwyck, "Sorry, Wrong Number"; Jane Wyman, "Johnny Belinda."

Best performance by an actor—Lou Ayres, "Johnny Belinda"; Montgomery Clift, "The Search"; Dan Dailey, "When My Baby Smiles at Me"; Sir Laurence Oliver, "Hamlet" Clifton Webb, "Sitting Pretty."

The best motion picture — "Hamlet"; "Johnny Belinda"; "The Red Shoes"; The Snake Pit'; "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre."

In the feminine race local observers generally regard the leaders as Jane Wyman for her performance as a deaf mute in "Belinda" and Olivia De Havilland as the mental patient in "The Snake Pit."

In a year marked by few strong male performances, Sir Laurence appears a cinch winner. An unusual note is that Dailey was nominated for a musical and Webb for a comedy role ;the only other dramatic nominees are Ayres and Clift.

The list of nominees for the best movie should shock Hollywood. Two of the five were made in England. "Hamlet" also produced and directed by Sir Laurence seems to be the strongest contender out of sheer dramatic force.

BULGARIA INDICTS

Two or Three More Trials

Georgi Chernev, head of the Pentecost Church.

The four named are members of the Supreme Council of the United Evangelical Church in Bulgaria.

The other 11 are Protestant ministers.

In addition, Topencharov said two or three more trials of Protestants will be held in the provinces.

The indictment named 12 Americans and Britons as "organs of foreign intelligence and representatives of international reaction" who visited Bulgaria at various times since 1944 and made contact with the 15 accused either directly or indirectly. These were:

Cyril Black, professor of Russian History at Princeton University, who has been an adviser to the United States delegation in the United Nations Balkan commission.

John Evarts Horner, former acting United States political representative at Sofia.

Louis Reck, present United States commercial representative in Sofia.

Dr. J. Hutchison Cockburn, Director of Reconstruction and Inter-church Aid of the World Council of Churches, former Moderator of the Church of Scotland.

Bishop Paul Garber, of Geneva, Methodist Bishop of 11 European countries.

Robert Tobias, of the World Council of Churches in Geneva.

Former Principal Charged

Elain Cooper, former Principal of the Methodist-sponsored Lovech College in Sofia, now a teacher at Bridgeport, Conn.

A Maj. Thompson, a former member of the British Mission to Bulgaria.

Robert Strong, Col. Thompson and Stanley Andrew, none of whom was otherwise identified.

Emilony Turner, who succeeded Miss Cooper at Lovech College, a school for girls of high-school age.

The four defendants who are members of the Supreme Council of the Evangelical Church were specifically accused of voluntarily organizing a spy network and collecting and delivering to foreign intelligence representatives information on economic, military and political matters.

They were declared to have invited foreign intervention in overthrowing the present regime.

Topencharow said the trial would be before a regular criminal court and probably would get under way yet this month. The trial will be open to the public, he said.

TAKEN TO OTTAWA

The crown will be represented by Robert Forsyth, K.C., in his last court appearance for the Department of Justice before becoming a judge in Ontario's York County.

J. R. Cartwright, K.C., of Toronto will resume his role as prosecution lawyer.

Witnesses are expected to include Igor Gouzenko, Zabotin's former cipher clerk whose disclosures touched off the syp trials, and Dr. John Soboloff, Toronto medical practitioner, who has been fined in connection with the passport case.

Escorted Across River

U.S. immigration and police officers escorted the Carrs across the river on the 9:30 a.m. ferry. R.C.M.P. had a car waiting for him and he was immediately whisked towards Ottawa, 60 miles away.

Mrs. Carr left for the Prescott railway station with the object of taking the noon train for Toronto.

She said she did not care to discuss the case and told reporters she had no idea where her husband was being taken. She said the trip from New York was uneventful.

Carr was arrested on illegal-entry charges in New York Jan. 27 after eluding capture for three years. His wife, alleged to have overstayed a visitor's permit, was taken into custody the following day.

Both were held at Ellis Island in New York by American immigration authorities until the deportation orders against them could be executed.

PRO-PARTITION

The election was to pick 52 members of the House of Commons, but only 28 districts were contested. The Lower House later will elect all 26 senators except the mayors of Belfast and Londonderry, who get Senate seats by virtue of their position.

Balloting Quiet

The balloting was generally quiet, in contrast to the heated campaign which saw stones thrown at rallies and windows smashed.

One of the few incidents yesterday occurred when factory workers in County Tyrone left their jobs to fight over whether a Unionist poster should remain up. Police took it down to pacify them.

The uncontested districts were settled previously by acclamation. The government party had 20 of these seats and opposition candidates were acclaimed in four.

As Ulster voted, Prime Minister John Costello of Eire and his predecessor, Eamon de Valera, issued a statement calling for union of the two parts of Ireland. It said:

"Great Britain has no more right to partition Ireland in the interests of a favored minority than Russia would have to partition the states of Eastern Europe for a similar purpose. e repudiate the suggestion that the present northern election is a plebiscite."

Main factors in the campaign have been race and religion. Many of Ulster's six counties are descendants of Scots and English settlers. They are mainly Protestants. The 26 counties of Eire, are predominantly Roman Catholic and the Protestant element in Ulster say that if the two sections of the country are unified they would be brought under pressure of Eire's Catholic majority.

The World Aroused

Communism is seen as having shown itself clearly in its natural role in the sentencing of Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary to life imprisonment on the charge of treason. It is that force which has manifested itself in this age, bent on crushing liberty and gloating in the exercise of tyrannical measures against free peoples. The world has seen Hungary prosecuting a good man who has spent his life in the noblest of work in serving others and along with the word "prosecution" the word "persecution" has been used by many to express their condemnation of the treatment shown this leading churchman. Communism is the foe of Christianity and every other religion for religion stands for freedom and blocks the way that tyranny would go. Cardinal Mindszenty is naturally a victim on whom the blows of Communism had to fall.

The charge of treason which was laid against the Cardinal shows the extent to which Communism will go in pursuit of its goal of destruction of the forces of freedom, faith and justice.

Cardinal Mindszenty has the world of the free nations and right-thinking men and women on his side and already the free world has spoken directly and bluntly and with a unity of purpose which the spirit of Leninism and Russian Communism's followers cannot overcome because right is right to the end of reckoning. The freedom-loving world has been aroused and it will prove a resistless power.

Hungary has shown what could become the fate of men in other lands if this tyranny should proceed without halt or opposition. But the trial of the Cardinal has shown that free men revolt at oppression. The souls of men and women in our world of liberty have been stirred by the threat they see. The treatment of the Cardinal is seen as a challenge to right and justice.

President Truman has called the treatment of Cardinal Mindszenty "infamous" and the trial of a kangaroo court proceeding. U. S. Secretary Acheson has pointed out that Hungary has broken the pledge made as a conquered country.

Communism in this case of the trial and sentence imposed on Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty has been shown in its hatred of the institutions of freedom and of faith and it is itself the expression of a sinister tyranny with lust for power and hatred of free institutions of political life and of the church.

How Soon Use of A-Energy

How far away is the first "productive use of atomic energy? That question is in many minds for there has been considerable talk of peacetime use of the greatest discovery of the modern world. The Manchester Guardian says that it will be no great matter for surprise if this first use of A-energy turns out to be driving ships rather than factories. It adds, that they will be warships may almost be taken for granted and notes that research staffs are already busy on an experimental nuclear reactor for naval use which the Westinghouse Corporation is to build for them. Results are looked for, in a hopeful if rather vague estimate, in from two to six years.

This means quicker work than has been expected in the development of power piles for industrial use and may mean quicker progress controlling the heat of nuclear fission, which is the first problem common to all such enterprises.

Commenting on this, the Guardian says that at sea as on land, nuclear fission can only substitute a new fuel for coal or oil and when the problem has been solved of getting the heat out of the pile at a serviceable temperature, without burning up any of the stabler materials of which it must be constructed, some difficulties may be foreseen in fitting the new "furnace" into the ship . . . It may be an awkward shipmate for the engineers and new style firemen on a stormy night. In the field of strategy and tactics the most that can be claimed for the atom-powered warship is an ability to stay almost indefinitely at sea—without having to make a friendly port for refuelling. Atomic power can also provide provisions and ammunition—there is really not much in this. And though battleships and cruisers have sometimes found that the chase or the long patrol outran their fuel supply the oil-burning ship has already found an answer to that in the ocean rendezvous with a tanker.

The Packsack of Gregory Clark

In several Canadian cities in recent weeks there have been outbreaks of gang rowdyism amongst teen age boys between sixteen and twenty years of age.

Gangs of half a dozen up to twenty and more of these youths will descend on a lunch-counter or a dance hall and beat up the young people they find in these resorts. Half a dozen of them lately boarded a street car and became obnoxious. When the motorman tried to control them, they stayed on the car to the end of the run and jumped on the motorman and beat him up badly.

Invariably, these gangs outnumber the people they molest. In other words, they are cowards. They are yellow. The fact that the impulse to act husky comes to them only when in packs or gangs is ample evidence anyone requires to know that individually they are cowards.

This yellow quality in the young rowdies has never been accentuated, as far as reports go, by the police magistrates who have dealt with them. The courts stick strictly to the legal aspect of the cases. But the legal aspect — the disturbance created, the injury and the damage done —is nothing at all compared with the moral aspect.

Canada has never been notable for its cowards. The two past generations of Canadians have provided world-renowned fighting forces that gave Canadians a very precious reputation.

It is the grown men among us who cringe when we read of these cowardly bands of boys. From what lions are they sprung?

To the sentences and fines imposed by the courts, the magistrates, as men, ought to add these words: "Furthermore, I would like your families, your friends, your girl friends and your neighbors to know that you are cowards, you are yellow . . . !"

It could be more curing than a fine.

STRENGTH for The Day

LET US REDISCOVER AMERICA

Four hundred and fifty-seven years ago, Christopher Columbus "discovered America."

And yet, of course, he didn't discover the greater part of America. He discovered only a few islands. He made other voyages, but he never lived to know that the greater part of the New World consisted of a tremendous continent three thousand miles wide, destined to become, because of its natural resources, the richest area on the whole earth.

This is a good time for us to rediscover America. The basic liberties for which men have given their lives have been crushed out in many countries.

In this fair era of scientific achievement and in the year of the Prince of Peace, 1949, nations are so suspicious of one another that a type of war known as "cold war" is constanly being waged.

What about this beloved country of ours? Two things are to be said, at least. First, it is the God-blessedest country on earth, and we had better awake to our good fortune. And second, unless we watch sharply, we will lose our liberties and fall under the yoke of dictatorship.

The rediscovery of America in 1949 is as important as was the discovery of America in 1492.

Some Serious Defects

By JAMIESON BONE

President Ontario Property Owners Association in The Property Owner and Building Maintenance magazine.

Herein we shall discuss a few flaws in our social system, not that anything will be done towards a cure, but just to give them an airing. Time and again we hear it said that this is the best country in the world, with the hidden suggestion that nothing more need be done. As one of the song hits in "Oklahoma" says regarding Kansas City—"They've gone about as far as they can go." Or like a man losing one leg being thankful he didn't lose both legs.

Municipal Elections

Toronto's municipal elections are a bit of a farce and we might as well admit that the "get out and vote" slogan is no more effective than the "Give till it hurts" catch-phrase. Election day should be changed to the first Monday in December with nominations 3 weeks in advance of this. The polls should be open from 8 a.m. till 7 p.m. and most decent firms will close an hour earlier that day or otherwise see that their employees get time off to vote, without loss of pay. This is done very successfully elsewhere. There is no necessity for a holiday. A holiday just makes everybody follow their natural instinct to —pardon us—get out of Toronto as quickly as possible. Furthermore, on New Year's Day, Toronto people being largely of Scottish extraction, many otherwise good law abiding citizens who remain in the city that day couldn't make a cross on a ballot if they tried. A happy new year's eve frequently makes for an unhappy New Year's Day.

Teen-Age Hooligans

On this subject we can only repeat our own ideas, for expounding which, fully ten years ago, C. B. C. paid us at the rate of $2.50 per minute on a coast to coast radio hook-up. Incidentally this was the only time we felt that we had been paid what we were worth. In short, we declared that the average Canadian boy, not yours of course, nor mine naturally, but the average lad must be a butcher, baker, banker, bricklayer or barber.

Ordinarily he would leave school at 15 and get to work. By 21 he would have learned his trade (trade unions permitting) he would probably be married and raising a family and be well able to support them. As it is he just stays at school trying to learn something about everything and knows nothing, and naturally enough he then becomes a burglar.

We might mention here by the way that George McCullagh, Edison, Burns, Mark Twain and a few more of us left school between 12 and 15 and didn't do too badly. None of us could have passed the senior matric. with or without honors. On the other side of the picture we have our 200 odd Rhodes Scholars. Do you know any of them or have you ever heard of them? They are nearly all school teachers (with a strong lefist union) or ministers with a lot of dis-union or government employees well entrenched with the Liberal Party, now on the skids we hope.

Those who do not become burglars use up their surplus energy in hooliganism, while the more "refeened" ones, 16-25 are the auto-killers, the fellows responsible for maiming or killing their boy and girl friends and doubling the auto-insurance rates.

Greatest Country

We have a wonderful heritage etc., parroted from one end of Canada to the other, don't need the poor old Empire and all the other bally rot about flags, anthems and citizenship.

JAMIESON BONE

We do need the Empire and need it very badly as India, Pakistan, Burma and Erie will find out. Our total armed forces (combined strength 38,285) couldn't lick their lips. The whole continent here was 25 per cent on relief until Britain ordered out the sinews of war. Then we all, the whole continent, became rich at their very great expense, and feel that we are very hot stuff although nobody on this continent had anything to do with inventing radar, asdic, Mulberry docks, Bailey bridges, Penicillin, sulpha or the atomic bomb, though you would surely think we had. We can now afford to be aloof, take in a few odd D.P.'s and the odd British imigrant.

For the past ten years it has almost been impossible to get any Britisher in, even for thirty days visit, and we are the people who have the facts about this if they should be needed. We have discarded British citizenship, are about to throw out the flag, even a tiny Union Jack up in the corner and we don't want or need the Privy Council for justice.

We are now Canadian citizens if you take a good look at your new passport, but in reality we are pretty close to being French Canadian citizens. We will soon be like the Irish with neither Empire ties nor trade and no doubt the next thing will be an awful wallop from some unexpected source and we will stand alone in our glory waving our Fleur-de-lis and singing "Oh Canada, we stand and stand and stand— right here and all alone."

Housing Verboten

Volumes have been written on this subject without them affecting the situation. In housing as in trade unions and margarine and rent control, the government is not out to govern wisely. They are out to perpetuate themselves and their friends and for nothing else.

The minority groups mentioned above wield the big stick, actually as well as metaphorically and the rest of us suffer in silence. That is our most beautiful and wonderful "democracy" that the trade unions talk about although they know very well that it is purely and simply a dictatorship of the left. Surely we have been kidded about this long enough.

And here's a hint to capital and brainpower without which the wheels of industry will turn no more; Israel goaded to desperation and attacked on every side by Lebanon, Trans-Jordan, Saudi-Arabia, Iraq, Iran and boastful Egypt has licked them all to a frazzle. Sort of David and Goliath act. History is replete with such overwhelmings of evil.

There was good old St. George and The Dragon. St. George disguised as the British Empire licked the Armada, Napoleon and was undoubtedly chiefly responsible for the defeat of Germany and her satellites in two world wars. And now another dragon looms on the horizon with some of its fangs already well embedded in Toronto The Good.

YOUR THOUGHTS

It's the thoughts you think, from the moment when you awake in the morning, until you put your mind and body to rest at night, that control both your health and your happiness. Your thoughts are the one thing you cannot escape. They go with you everywhere. They are you!

How important, then, that they are happy constructive thoughts—thoughts that enrich you in mind and heart. Thoughts have an immediate effect upon the entire body. Angry thoughts rush through the human system like a destructive storm through a city. But pleasant, inspiring thoughts affect the body as sunshine does the growing things of earth.

Your thoughts are your silent friends. They are ever with you, and you alone are able to make them always friendly. If you keep harboring thoughts that uplift you, you will be radiating influence everywhere you go — and you will go far, as well.

Probably the most damaging and disturbing of all thoughts are those of fear. Get rid of all thoughts of fear in your life and you will meet every emergency with courage and confidence. The best of all antidotes for fear is faith. Faith in yourself, faith in whatever befalls you, and faith in God. Faith is a triumphant thing. It has healed more sick minds and bodies than all the doctors and medicines ever have. Just put it to the test and learn.

The thoughts of the great thinkers of the world live on and on. We go to them, as recorded in books, and their creators live again for us! My library shelves are lined with thousands of books whose thoughts were once living men and women. They live for me the moment that I take one of these books in my hands and read.

What a wonderful line that is of Tennyson's — "Kind hearts are more than coronets, and simple faith than Norman blood!" You cannot have a kind heart without kind thoughts. Thoreau lived in a small cabin at Walden Pond, apparently alone — but he had his thoughts—and he wrote them down and gave them to the world, for which the world eternally thanks him and honors his memory.

PERENNIAL RESEARCH BECOMES STALE AFTER THIRTY YEARS

Every year about this time at least one research investigator, professor or "scientist", usually a number of them make the headlines or at least the front page with a story about the cause of common cold. This game has been going on now for more than thirty years the earliest clipping in my scrapbook bears the date of Jan. (blurred), 1918.

At that time the "scientists" seemed to plump for some coccus or other and they favored the theory that the coccus lurked somewhere in mouth, nose or throat and, when it caught the victim with his "resistance" down sprang to the attack.

For the past two or three seasons a virus of some kind seems to strike the fancy of the front page scientists. With this slight modification the 1918 story might be printed today as the latest discovery of science, and nobody would know the difference.

In view of the record of more than thirty years of research it is obvious that there are always good angels who are able and willing to sponsor the show. They must be credulous customers. They must believe there is a malady, ailment, disease or illness that is identifiable as "the common cold."

If I were Mr. Gotrocks I imagine I'd be flinty about giving any of my good money to such a cause. I can think of numerous happier ways of doing good. What's the sense of wasting money and human endeavor searching for the fountain of youth or for buried pirate loot or hidden treasures of the Spanish conquistadors? Well, of course there is one chance in a thousand or ten thousand of finding something of value if you dig hard enough though whether the junk would bring enough to pay the expenses of the project is problematic.

Searching for a cause and a specific remedy or cure for "the common cold", however, seems an aimless kind of project unless some definition of "the common cold" is first formulated. So far as I can learn no one has defined "the common cold" as a clinical or pathological entity. Physicians and health authorities who hold forth learnedly about it in the newspapers whenever they get the chance, carefully avoid telling the public what it is — they imply that any damn fool knows what a "common cold" is, and I suppose that is so, yet I repeat, the physicians and health commissioners who advise the moron population to keep their feet dry, avoid drafts and changeable or inclement weather just haven't the courage to define "the common cold" so that we may all know what they're talking about. It is much easier for them to string you damn fools along if they can keep you always as innocent as you are now.

Makes it easy to hedge on the diagnosis if you are not astonished when your "bad cold" proves to be infantile paralysis or meningitis.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Dirty Work at the Schoolhouse

Our daughter, aged nine and 11 years, are spotted with ringworm. I believe they got it from wearing the same gowns or drapes many of the children wore at school when they were being examined by the school doctor. I see no need for it—each child should wear her own slip—that would be more sanitary. (H. D E.)

Answer—Right. Go to the head of the class or rather to the head of the school board or the board of health and see if you can't clean up the dirty technique.

Pets from an Invalid

Two years ago a man died of cancer. Recently his son gave us two half grown dogs that had been his father's pets. We wonder whether these dogs, which are perfectly healthy, could carry the germs. (R. C.)

Answer—No cancer germ has been discovered. So far as we know cancer is not communicable. Keep the dogs if you like them, and forget about cancer.

Doctor's Records

Is one entitled to get the reports—X-rays, basals, blood counts etc., from the physician when one pays for all the tests. (Miss C. W. D.)

Answer—The courts have ruled that such reports are part of the physician's or hospital's record and cannot be claimed by the patient. Cold turkey, they would mean nothing to you. If you were a good patient and the doctor a good doctor he'd probably show you the reports and interpret them for you besides.

Gandhi's Spirit, Teachings Go Marching On

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

A year has passed since Mohandas Gandhi was shot to death by the Hindu Narayan Godse. But the teachings of the great spiritual leader go marching on with increasing strength at the head of India's awakening millions.

Yesterday Godse was sentenced to be hanged for one of the terrible crimes of the ages. Of six fellow conspirators, one was condemned to death and the rest to life imprisonment.

Godse testified at his trial that he "respected Gandhi's saintliness" but disagreed with his policies of love and tolerance for Moslems. And as the assassin and his colleagues left the courthouse after being sentenced they were shouting:

"We will conquer Pakistan (the Moslem Dominion). Long live Hindustan (the Dominion of Hindu India)."

The condemned men had tried to kill ideas with leaden bullets.

Margin of Failure

The margin by which they failed is seen in the fact that the bequest of brotherly love left by Gandhi had much to do with preventing war between Pakistan and India at the height of the quarrel over the rich state of Kashmir. The long labor of Gandhi, the Hindu, for Moslem-Hindu peace brought striking recognition on the anniversary of his death from Khwaja Nazimuddin, Governor-General of Pakistan.

"In the present - day world which has failed to take a lesson from the devastation and misery caused by two world wars of this century and where the cult of violence still holds sway, it would be well to recall Gandhi - Ji's message of non-violence, for the salvation of humanity lies in outlawing violence."

You will note that this Moslem leader called the Hindu "Gandhi-Ji." That in itself is a great tribute, for the suffix "Ji" is a designation of respect and affection.

Influence of Christ

I always think of him either as "the Mahatma (great - souled one)" or as "Gandhi-Ji." Many folks were impressed that way by this humble little man who once told me that the greatest influence in his life had been Christ's sermon on the mount.

So Gandhi-Ji's ideas march on.

General Crerar Wants Compulsory Military Training

Quebec, Feb. 11 — (CP) — The problem of being able to mobilize maximum, adequately trained forces just as soon as war closely threatens can be solved only by now accepting the procedure of compulsory military training, Gen. H. D. G. Crerar said here Thursday night.

The former commander of the First Canadian Army Overseas spoke to the Quebec section of the Canadian Military Institute.

He disagreed with suggested policies that Canada's contribution to the winning of a Third World War, "should it be forced upon us, can best be made by producing the means by which our allies can do the fighting . . ."

"I cannot believe," said Gen. Crerar "that Canadians would accept delayed, even dilatory, arrangements for active military participation in the struggle, depending initially even for local defence requirements on sound assistance from the U.S.A."

Proportionate Share

Gen. Crerar said that the fact Canada, with 13,000,000 population, could contribute little military manpower compared with the United States in any world conflict was not a good argument against the country producing at least it proportionate share.

"Certainly it is not a vew which can possibly appeal to the countries of Western Europe and to the United Kingdom which are being urged to create and maintain the maximum armed forces of which they are capable."

Present Day Realities

"I am frequently told," he said, "that no political party in Canada . . . would be ensured of public support if it proclaimed itself in favor of compulsory training in peacetime. I am also told that the main stumbling block to such vitality important pre-war arrangements lies in the attitude of the population of Quebec . . .

"Well, I just don' believe that appreciation to be in keeping with present-day realities. It was not the view of the many thousands of French-speaking Canadians who served with such distinction in the First Canadian Army Unit in the last war . . ."

He observed that a recent poll on this question showed the majority of thousands of youngsters, young men and women of Canada were in favor of compulsory military training — and the Quebec percentage actually led returns from Ontario and all other provinces.

Heavy Demand for Meat Products Despite Abnormally High Prices

St. Boniface, Man., Feb. 11 — (CP)—Prices on the hoof—worth more than $90,000,000 — passed through the sprawling union stock yards here in 1948, reflecting a heavy demand for meat products in the face of abnormally high retail prices.

Representatives of eight commission firms and from 20 to 25 dealers and order buyers did casually and verbally for anything from one to 20 carloads of stock, worth $4,000-$5,000 a carload.

Trading by word of mouth is the practice in this terminal market, largest in the British commonwealth, which covers 200 acres of land about three miles from Winnipeg.

The yards will accommodate 14,000 cattle, 5,000 hogs and 3,000 sheep.

Last year the market handled 158,000 head more than were cleared through any other Canadian yards.

A table of cattle prices shows the average received a hundredweight in 1933 was $2.45, covering sale marketings of 162,721 head. Last year these marketings rose to 355,690 head, with the average price $14.91.

The removal of the embargo on cattle shipments from Canada to the United States in mid-August of 1948 paved the way for sharply rising prices. Nearly 80,000 cattle were purchased for movement to the U.S., their value being estimated conservatively at $14,000,000.

Livestock men said the high prices meant that cattle which normally would have come forward early this year were marked in October and November of 1948. They foresaw a light run at fat cattle this spring.

Returns from livestock last year in western Canada were "right behind" those for grain, one authority said. The livestock industry and its allied processes employed more workers than any other field.

The union stock yards were on the routes to larger centres of consumption both to the south and east.

Journalistic Merits of Papers Draw Comments

Ottawa, Feb. 11 — (CP)—The journalistic merits of several daily newspapers drew the comments of the Senate Thursday as the Chamber got into a brief tangle over a bill involving the Globe Printing Company which publishes the Toronto Globe and Mail.

Piloting the measure, Senator Peter Campbell (L — Ontario) said it would allow the Globe Printing Company to increase from $30,000 to $100,000 the annual value — in effect, the net annual rental value — of the real estate it can hold.

This would allow the firm to get title and ownership of the building in which the paper is published, now held by the Mail Printing Company.

Senator Norman Lambert (L — Ontario), recalling "very close associations" with the background of the firm, moved that the Chamber send the bill to commities for further study.

He said he found it hard to relate the figure of $100,000 to the real and actual value of properties owned by the two companies, or to see how it related to the carrying on of the newspaper.

Senator Campbell said the figure related only to rental value and that he had been assured that the amount would be sufficient. There was "nothing sinister" in the bill. The company was incorporated in 1866; the bill would amend its powers.

Intervening, Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, urged that the Senate try to get bills through to demonstrate its capabalities to the Commons.

Ranks with Best

As for the Globe and Mail, it was "a very good paper, one of the very best papers in Canada . . . it ranks with the Montreal Star, the Winnipeg Free Press..."

A Liberal senator interjected: "Not the Free Press."

"Oh yes," said Senator Haig, "the Free Press is a good newspaper; it agrees with me on wheat and any paper that does that is all right."

Senator W. D. Euler (L — Ontario) said he couldn't understand why any limitation was placed on the real estate value for the firm at all. He knew of no such restriction on any other corporation.

He had nothing against the Globe and Mail as a newspaper, he said.

"I have," interjected Senator Donald MacLennan (L — Nova Scotia).

Senator Lambert said he thought the Globe was a good newspaper although he didn't agree with its editorial policy. He mentioned several properties held either by the Globe or Mail Companies and said there seemed to be "some ambiguity due to the involved titles."

The purpose of the measure was not clear in its relation to the carrying on the business of the firm, that is the publication of a paper.

Three Kingston District Men Sent for Trial

Cornwall, Feb. 11 (CP)— Charged with extortion and robbery, three Kingston district men Thursday were committed for trial after a six-hour preliminary hearing.

The men, George Smyth, 23, and Russell Parker, 23, of Kingston, and John Graham, 21, of Barriefield, also will face charges of possessing a revolver and offensive weapon. Smyth is believed wanted in Kingston on a bigamy charge.

Magistrate P. C. Bergeron ordered the men returned to county jail. He deferred setting bail until next week.

Police arrested the trio Jan. 6 at nearby Morrisburg, Ont., in connection with events following discovery of Smyth's wife and another man in a Montreal hotel room early in January.

Bernard Hart, 23, of Farrans Point, Ont., 14 miles west of here, said he was with Mrs. Smyth in the room when the trio entered, armed with a gun and "billy."

A discussion on divorce followed. Hart said Smyth asked what it was worth to keep Hart's name out of it. Graham suggested $2,000. "I told them I could get $1,000 the next day," said Hart, "but would have to go to Toronto for the rest."

Hart said the trio forced him at gun-point to accompany them from Montreal to Cornwall. He handed over $825.

The three men were picked up the same day. Police found a revolver and a blackjack in their car. No charges were preferred against Mrs. Smyth or Hart.

Life in British Zone in Germany Described to Canadian Club Women by Mrs. Carrington, M.B.E.

The Women's Canadian Club was privileged to have as their guest speaker Wednesday evening in Bridge Street United Church parlors, Mrs. Philip Carrington, M.B.E., and wife of the Archbishop of Quebec, who held the undivided attention of her large audience with her vivid and illuminating address on "My Visit to the British Zone in Germany".

Mrs. Carrington, who was introduced by Mrs. Arthur May, president of the Club, is a writer and thinker of note, having earned the order of Member of the British Empire by her work in the Gaspe Peninsula. She is also secretary of the Quebec branch of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, and has had the privilege of attending the Lambeth Council of Churches; as well as a private audience with the Princess Elizabeth. As one of the four delegates of church women ,from the four self-governing Dominions, she had the privilege of representing the Dominion of Canada, and as such was permitted to enter Germany.

Free to Travel Anywhere

At Dusseldorf, which had once been a fine city, but now showed what destruction and devastation could accomplish, she made her headquarters. Some steps in repair work were being done, but the first to be rebuilt was the school of art, the museum, and the opera house, even before the homes to live in, showing that Germany's artistic sense was still predominant. Here, she was given a car with "V.I.P." on the door, and a driver, and 'carte blanche', to go when she chose and where. On the whole the food was well cooked, even if not varied. All food stuffs grown and fruits were left solely for German consumption; the British touching none of it.

Among the many problems confronting Germany today, as Mrs. Carrington saw them. One problem was the awful destruction; a large part of all the great cities of the Ruhr had been destroyed. Hundreds of thousands of people live in cellars made of concrete blocks, like cells. Sometimes four families were living in one cellar, with three of the wives expectant mothers.

Women Face Dark Future

Another problem was that of the two million women ranging in ages from eighteen to forty with no future. Frustrated women, whose husbands and sweethearts had been killed. They had no work and no professions. Women held no important place in Germany even before Hitler's time, and when he came into power things were no better. If a German girl desired to attend college, she had perforce, first of all to spend one year in a labor camp. Germany was a man's world.

There were no clubs for women; the only outlook was either to become deaconesses, or to be married, and only the nice looking ones were marriageable. The law was fixed and regimented, like the laws of the Medes and Persians, "It changeth not".

Thousands of Waifs

There are up to fourteen thousand children, who have no idea who their parents were. They wander around in fields in hordes smuggling and stealing what they can out of the borders of Belgium, the land of plenty. Around 500 of them are captured every month, and are being trained by men like Sidney Bee, an ex-air-force pilot, who is training them to be orderly. The "Save the Children Fund" is doing a splendid work along these lines.

Speaking of the Displaced Persons Camp, which in spite of being run well, have so many unpleasant condition, Mrs. Carrington said. Displaced persons are not happy, they cannot return to their homes, they are not wanted. The young wives, whose husbands are in Canada are not allowed to join their husbands until the husband earns sufficient to bring them out. These young wives keep on working, and many are discouraged, wondering if their husbands have forgotten them and their children. Besides the young wives, there are the young intellectuals among whom are artists, writers and musicians, who have no future and are filled with hopelessness. "We should take the intellectuals, we don't seem to be overrun with them; two to three hundreds would hardly wreck the equilibrium," added the speaker.

Harvesting by Hand

In spite of the slowly rising silk factories, and the cutlery, pottery and household goods factories, there are no heavy industries, and no agricultural implements; the harvest are harvested by hand, and unless some strong leadership can be produced the future of Germany looks black indeed. "Let us think kindly of our late enemies; where they are bathed in fear, we have freedom from fear; where we have security, they have insecurity; where they have sorrow, we have happiness; where they have hardship, we have comfort. We are fortunate indeed. Each citizen should play a part in the reconstruction to be worthy of the freedom he has!"

Official recognition will be given to the newly organized Phalanx Club of the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday and Sunday when a delegation of members of the Montreal Phalanx Club will come to Belleville to formally induct the members of the club here.

Phalanx is an international organization among Y.M.C.A. young men, affording them opportunities for service as well as meeting their needs for friendship, wholesome enjoyment and enriching experience. Its aim is to serve young men in the post high school period whether they are in college or business. In a well rounded program for good citizenship young men of the "Y" between the ages of 18 and 24 find in it the opportunities for training, enabling them to shoulder the greater responsibilities which are theirs as they come of age.

The local chapter is under the guidance of Drummond C. McDonald, program director of the Y.M.C.A. Most of the members are graduates of the local collegiate and Hi-Y Club. The president or primus as he is named, is Merle Massey.

Some twelve members from Montreal will make the trip along with Norman A. Millington director of young adult program of the Central Branch of the Montreal Y.M.C.A. There is a link between the two associations, Al J. Davis, the local General Secretary having been a member of the staff of Montreal Central for five years before coming to Belleville.

A welcome to membership in the club awaits young men of Belleville, particularly those who are new in the city. It is anticipated that other chapters will be formed as the quota requirements are filled.

SHANNONVILLE

Valentine Tea Held by Guild. Holy Trinity Ch.

Shannonville.— The Ladies' Guild of Holy Trinity Anglican Church held a very successful Valentine tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Dowdell on Wednesday afternoon. The guests were welcomed by the president of the Guild, Mrs. William Coles, and were ushered into the rooms which were decorated with red streamers and hearts in keeping with the Valentine season. Each little tea table had a centrepiece of red and white candles in attractive holders. Little baskets of white and red crepe paper filled with candy decorated the table also cupids, hearts and Valentine serviettes added to the attractiveness of each small table.

The oldest woman member of Holy Trinity Anglican Church, in the person of Mrs. Henry Toppings, poured tea during the afternoon. This table presented a most attractive appearance with its Valentine tea cloth, the tall white and red candles in their cut-glass holders, the centrepiece a silver basket containing red and white carnations and a lovely silver tea service gracing each end of the table.

The waitresses wore attractive red and white aprons and caps to match. Each Guild member wore an ornament of rosettes and hearts in keeping with the decorations.

Mrs. Spencer acted as the secretary-treasurer for the afternoon tea.

Those in charge of the small tea tables were, Mrs. Cecil McCarthy, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Fred Louis and Mrs. William Conley. Assisting in the kitchen were, Mrs. Clarence Hill, Mrs. Jerome and Mrs. Arthur Brant.

Mrs. Dowdell, besides the offering of her home for the tea, kindly donated the lovely Valentine tea clothes and matching serviettes.

Mrs. Nellie Howard was the originator the pretty aprons and the candy baskets. Mrs. Helen Louis was responsible for the waitresses' caps and the Valentine cupids and hearts.

This tea was indeed a decided success and much credit is due to the president and members of the Guild for their fine efforts to make it so.

In the evening the ladies of the Guild held a euchre party in the same home. A large number were present and twelve tables of euchre were played throughout the evening. Mrs. Spencer acted as treasurer for the evening's entertainment. Donations for the tea and euchre were received from members unable to attend.

The prize winners were as follows: Ladies' 1st, Mrs. Johnson; 2nd, Miss Dorothy Dowdell; Consolation, Mrs. Percy Howard; Men's 1st, Mr. H. Toppings; 2nd, Mr. W. Tucker; Consolation, Mr. Frank Green. Lone hands, Mrs. William Coles.

Mr. Walter S. Pickell of Shannonville, kindly donated all the prizes for the euchre party.

Dainty refreshments were served by the Guild members bringing a successful euchre and an enjoyable evening to a close.

The president, Mrs. William Coles, thanked the hostess, Mrs. Dowdell, for the use of her home.

WALLBRIDGE

Travelling Cases Given to Couple Before Departure

Wallbridge.—There was a very good attendance at the pot-luck dinner which was held here last Tuesday by the W.A. The school-teacher, Mrs. Phillips, the music-teacher, Miss Pitman, and the pupils attended and enjoyed the dinner together with other members of the community and visitors.

After the dinner, a short program of vocal and instrumental music with Mrs. C. Fair at the piano was given, also a contest by Mrs. H. Ketcheson.

The most important part of the program was a presentation of two travelling cases to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Colley, by Mrs. Morley Phillips and Mrs. E. Nicholl. Mrs. C. Woods read an address expressing the high esteem in which they are held by the people of this community, among whom they have lived 11 years. They were the best of neighbors and friends, always willing to help in any good cause and in church work. Mrs. Colley has taken an active part in the W.I., and other women's associations, and their decision to return to England, their homeland is deeply regretted but home-ties are very strong. A safe journey is wished for them and every success and prosperity in the old home and should they ever decide to return to Canada they will be assured a hearty welcome by their friends in Wallbridge and vicinity.

Will Celebrate 27th Anniversary

On Sunday, February 13th., Mr. and Mrs. Willie Sharpe, 53 Wallbridge Road., will celebrate at their home the 27th anniversary of their wedding, which took place in Ottawa. Mrs. Sharpe is the former Laura Peck of Ottawa, and Mr. Sharpe came from England.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Fiance's Sister should not take over privilege of fiancee's family

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My brother became engaged several months ago, but no announcement of the engagement has been made. Now I would like to have an announcement party for his fiancee, telling her friends about the engagement and the date of the marriage. I am going to have the announcement-party in the form of a dessert-bridge in the evening. How should I word the invitations, since I don't want the guests to know what the party is for? Also would you please tell me some way I could make the announcement or have one of the guests make it, and when during the evening the announcement should be made? My brother's fiancee is a very lovely girl, and I want to do the correct thing to make the party a success.

H. N.

I'm sure you do "want to do the correct thing". . . .but for you to give this engagement-announcement party is entirely incorrect. For one of the most important rules, a tradition built on honor-where-honor is due, is that an engagement announcement must always be made by the girl's family. This is their time-honored prerogative and privilege, and no one must take over this honor. If the engaged man or any member of his family makes this important announcement it naturally gives the unattractive impression either that the girl's family does not approve of the engagement or that they are socially careless about doing what they should do.

Your brother's fiancee sounds like a fine, well-bred girl, and if you take over the giving of a "surprise" engagement-announcement party she (and her parents also), may be, probably will be, mightily embarrassed. Please do not broach your plans, generously and kindly made though they are, to anyone. The thing for you to do is to wait until the girl and her family have made the announcement of the engagement (this can be done in the simplest way, a party not at all necessary) . . . and after this you may, as soon as you wish, give a party to celebrate the engagement.

How to sign informal birth announcements

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What form of names are signed after the printed word "Parents" on informal birth-announcements such as those that are bought from a stationer? "A" says the parents' first names. . . John and Mary Clark. "B" says Mr. and Mrs. John Clark. Who is right?

Mother-to-be.

"A" is right: the first names should be used. It is incorrect and inappropriate to sign the formal name on these informal cards. An increasingly popular way to sign these cards . . . entirely correct. . . .and often a very practical form to use, for information or identification, is this:

John Underwood Clark
Mary Delafield Clark

Correct punctuation after the salutation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

After the salutation in a rather formal letter, isn't it correct to use a colon and a dash (:—)?

Marie

No. A colon and a dash (:—), as well as a comma and a dash (,—) are obsolete forms. Use either only the colon, or, for perhaps less formality, a comma, after the salutation.

"Dr." Before name in signature not correct

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it ever correct for a doctor to sign a letter . . . and I mean letters, not merely memoranda . . . with the title before his name. . . Dr. John Sunshine? I maintain that this is correct in some circumstances, particularly when he wishes to indicate that he is a doctor. Am I right?

Sarah G.

No. It is not correct for anyone to sign a letter with a title before the name. So "Dr. John Sunshine" as a signature is not correct. But it is correct, for information or identification, for a doctor to sign a letter John Sunshine, M.D.

Felt Profile Flatterer

By PRUNELLA WOOD

A BEAUTIFUL clear shade of crocus yellow felt is used for this beguiling little trotteur hat, spring tonic for a sober suit. The crown has two peaks which serve as accent trimming, and the brim rolls up and back in a line which flatters both profile and coiffure. The yellow veil is dotted with chunky black chenille puffs.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

It is better to weep than worry

The woman who bursts into tears when she is unhappy, who has a grand old bawling time, who gets over it and goes about her business, experiences a sense of relief. She blows off steam. She does no damage to her health or her face. It is the steady worrier who courts premature wrinkles, suffers from a jittery nervous system, tags about with a doleful mug that clouds the atmosphere of the home.

No cosmetic has ever been compounded that will improve her appearance. Among middle-aged and elderly women the marks of worry are a common beauty grief. The only cure for it is a practical, working philosophy. Most women can face big trials; the small ones get them down. Annoying trifles appear bigger and more terrible the longer one thinks about them.

Fretting depresses and depletes the mental and physical forces. It can do real damage to the health in the course of time. It has a bad effect upon the circulation; the hands get cold and moist, the mouth dry. The skin "crawls" with fear. It destroys appetite, so necessary to well-being, and it slows up the gastric juices so that digestive processes are retarded.

Without proper nutrition of the body, the tissues of the face soften and relax. In the course of time wrinkles appear. As the countenance continues to carry an expression of fear and anxiety, lines etch in around the eyes and the corners of the mouth droop, forming furrows on either side of the chin. That's bad.

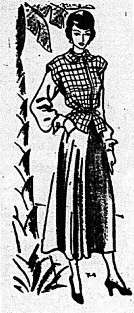
The worrier develops into a whiner and a whiner is the world's worst bore. Self-pity is devastating; a woman should be ashamed to indulge in it. It brings dreadful penalties—a grey complexion, dull eyes, lagging steps. It curdles the soul and life goes sour.

There is a close bond between our physical and mental beings. A woman may wonder why, some days, she is as serene as a May morning. Another day she may awaken depressed, for no reason that she can guess. Some chemical changes going on inside, possibly. She has been overdoing, or she hasn't had enough fresh air and exercise, or she has permitted the daily routine to get her down.

Something must be done to boost her spirits. A new hat may do it—one never knows. A session at the beauty shop may take the kinks out of her nerves. She will find rest and relaxation there, and that is what most of us need these hectic days.

A new hat may boost her spirits

Country Flannels



Smart three-piece costume

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

GEARED FOR SPRING, resort or country wear is this good-looking three-piece costume. The skirt is of French blue flannel, the blouse of crepe in matching color. The blouse has a plain high round neckline and long sleeves. The sleeveless jacket is in blue and yellow checked flannel. It has a demure little round collar, one tuck across the chest, and a matching belt with yellow buckles.

Fashion Flashes

GOING TOGETHER nicely are beads and woollens. Sheer woollen in light mauve is used for a pretty dress and jacket ensemble. The dress, cut on Empire lines, has back fullness, as has the jacket. The dress has an embroidered "necklace" of amethyst beads and pearls, while similar beaded detail appears on the jacket revers.

GOOD ITEM for mid-winter wear is the frock of printed wool jersey. Gray with a shocking pink dot motif is used for a pretty dress with a wide, cord-shirred midriff, short sleeves and deep, plunging neckline; a good choice for at-home or resort wear.

HERE AND THERE the two-piece print is starting to appear again. Pure silk, in black with a tiny deep pink rose motif, makes a pretty two-piecer, the jacket top with pockets formed of narrow ruffled tiers of self fabric, with similar rouching for the lapels. Both top and skirt have back fullness.

SPRING RAINS will bring out some of the prettiest raincoats seen in many a year. Crinkled nylon taffeta in Kelly green makes a handsome raincoat with full back and self-sash tie. There is a matching scarf-hood.

TO ONE SIDE go many of the new hats. Gray felt, swathed in clouds of maline in which are tucked grape clusters, is used for a pretty little side-dipped cloche with rounded crown.

BEST NOVELTY in the Winter fur season is the all-fur suit. Black Alaska sealskin is the fur used for a handsome suit with belted jacket that is nice for wear on its own or to make a suit with the matching fur skirt that flaunts big patch pockets. There is also a beret of the sealskin to finish off a nice warm costume.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Readers Accuse me of Inconsistency

When any reader misunderstands something I have written, I am always very glad to hear about it so that, if possible, I can clear up the misunderstanding.

A letter signed by "Us Girls" which I have just received, tells me that these readers believe they have discovered a serious inconsistency in some of my advice.

They have reference to a letter printed in my column recently in which a group of girls asked my advice about the romance of one of their number. It seemed that this girl goes out on dates with a young man who has asked her to marry him, but whom she does not love and has told him so definitely. The argument her friends are having is whether or not it is fair of her to continue on such friendly basis with the man. Some of them say she should not see him any more; the others say that since she has told him how she feels, it is at his own risk if he still insists on seeing her. The letter added that this discussion was going on about the girl without her knowledge. I assumed that the girls intended passing on my advice to her.

My answer was to the effect that I agreed with those who felt it was up to the young man himself whether he wants to keep on seeing the girl or not, but that I also thought it was not really their affair and they should not get mixed up in it.

Now this other group of girls, who think my advice has been inconsistent, presents their case in this letter:

"We disagree very much," they say, "in your recent writeup about a girl whose friends were discussing her."

'In previous writeups of yours that we have read you have advised people to go and relate their problems to some of their close friends, but when these girls tried to help their girl friend, you told them not to mix in. We believe that these girls may have read previous columns where you have advised people to go to their close friends and tell their troubles, and that was probably the reason why they wrote to you for advice on helping their friend. We feel that these girls must be very close to her if they want to help her that much.

"If this girl were capable of solving her own problem, we feel that her friends would not have written to you, and to get such an incomplete answer, that they should tend to their own affairs, would not help them much.

"We think we may have misinterpreted your reply, but to our way of thinking it was an unsatisfactory one, and we hope you will print this so as to clear our minds if we have looked at it from a different angle. But we don't think we have."

I think the trouble here is that the girls who wrote this letter fail to understand the distinction between a situation where someone goes directly to a friend and asks for advice, and a situation where no advice has been sought but the friends take it upon themselves to give it anyway. I have, indeed, often suggested that some reader who writes me about a problem might get help from someone with whom he can talk it over in person. Usually I am thinking of a minister or a priest, a sympathetic school latives in Rochester, N.Y.

Mrs. B. Tanner and Mrs. C. Henteacher or older relative in the case of a young person or perhaps, where an older person is concerned, someone accustomed to dealing with problems of human relationships. I do not often recommend discussing one's troubles merely with a friend.

All this is very different from having advice proferred, unasked, by even close friends.

I hope the girls who wrote me the letter will let me know if this clears up the confusion in their minds over what they thought was an inconsistent attitude on my part.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

Lovers of Little Gods

By ROY L. SMITH

It is possible to measure a man by the size of the god he worships. Millions of moderns pay their homage to diminutive divinities, and therein lies much of the tragedy of modern life.

Jesus' Conflict With The Petty

Some of the most unpleasant experiences through which Jesus passed during his life here among men were his encounters with petty people.

This week's lesson tells three stories of such. In the first one it is recorded that the Master healed a poor helpless fellow whose friends were so anxious in his behalf that they tore up the roof and let him down into the midst of the crowd where Jesus was. Certain onlookers stirred up no little muss because they were in disagreement with him on the subject of his theology. Their doctrines were much more important to them than the sufferer's life.

> The Sunday School Lesson for February 13: "Jesus Faces Opposition," Mark 2: 1—3:6.

In the second story Jesus is reported to have given offense to some very proper people when he ate with some disreputables. Unfortunately, the proper folk had never concerned themselves with the outcasts, and were only interested now because it gave them a new opportunity to criticize.

In the third story we hear Jesus being rebuked because he had worked a miracle of mercy on the Sabbath day. In this instance the defenders of an institution were more concerned about their sabbath than about the helpless humanity all about them.

Little Gods Are Still With Us

It is one of the tricks that life plays on us that we become so completely absorbed with the good and oblivious to the best. We worship the ritual instead of the God to whom it is addressed. We become devotees of the decorations, and miss the sublime figure of the Lord of life himself.

A men's Sunday school class in a large downtown church was solicited by the leader of a great humanitarian movement who asked for ten minutes to give the men four facts greatly needed and highly important. The class refused, saying: "We have a very important lesson this morning. We are studying the wheels of Ezekiel." They were unable to see the desperate need at their door, so absorbed were they in the ancient problem.

The caretaker of Bunhill Burying Ground in London boasted to a tourist that he could tell exactly where each one of the 104,000 persons were buried in his graveyard, but, when the tourist asked him where he could find a restaurant, the old man said: "I do not live in this neighborhood." He knew the location of 140,000 dead folk, but he could not tell a live man where to get a bit of supper.

Some People Actually Love The Evil

Jesus made a discovery of very great importance. He found people in this world who actually love evil in preference to goodness.

Every man who sets out to battle injustice will find those who have no conscience on the subject.

Every man who attempts to set up laws and forces to protect little children may expect to meet opposition from those who find it difficult or unprofitable to join him.

Every man who attempts to get a reform under way may be sure of the opposition, sometimes extremely bitter, of those who can see no need of reform.

There are those who love the obscene, who revel in the filthy, who rejoice in the lustful, who make their living out of the disreputable. Anyone who interferes may be sure of enmity.

It is true that a man may be judged by the company he keeps, and it is also true that he can be judged by the enemies he makes. To have the approval and goodwill of some people is to one's great discredit.

The Way of Life is Uphill

An airplane, in order to climb faster, takes off in the face of the wind. The best game fish are accustomed to swimming upstream. Champions are made by competing with the stiffest competition that can be found. The way of life is uphill.

If there were nothing wrong with this world there would be no need for the church. If there were no mistaken people there would be no need for teachers.

All of us can expect opposition if we are working for the good. How we meet our opposition is the real test of our religion.

VICTIMS IN THE WAKE OF WESTERN BLIZZARDS

Like the aftermath of a battle, the bodies of 150 cattle dot the frozen surface of this lake near Ashby, Neb. The entire herd, property of the Thurston ranch, wandered into the lake during a blizzard. Unable to escape or even stand, they fell and perished one by one. Then the driving snow dressed each carcase with a blanket of white. The blizzards that have been ravaging the entire western states have made frozen livestock a familiar, tragic part of the cattle country scene.—Central Press Canadian.

The King May Visit Australia, N.Z. in 1950

London, Feb. 11 (CP)— The King hopes to revive soon plans for a royal tour of Australia and New Zealand, dropped when he became ill last November.

Commenting on reports that the trip may be made in 1950, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said:

"It should be remembered that the tour was only postponed. It was never cancelled."

Evidence that the King himself determined to make the visit was given in a telegram he sent Monday to a dinner of the New Zealand Society.

The King continues to make "very good progress" in his recovery from an obstruction of the leg arteries, the palace spokesman said. He takes frequent walks at his Sandringham estate in Norfolk, where he is staying with the rest of the royal family.

Court circles report the King's health seems to have steadily improved since he went to Sandringham Jan. 8, but he still cannot climb stairs.

He cannot go to the marshes to shoot duck as he usually does on a Sandringham holiday.

A Buckingham Palace official said today that it was impossible to forecast any date on which the royal family might resume their plans for the Australian visit.

Court circles said the visit was unlikely to take place this year.

A spokesman for the Australian High Commissioner in London said however, that his government is still trying to sell six custom-built Daimler limousines which were ordered here for the royal trip.

The price $15,000 each.

"Any new plans for the tour are still indefinite," he said.

Hearing on Extortion Opens at Cornwall

Cornwall, Feb. 10 (CP)—Preliminary hearing of three Kingston district men on charges of extortion, concealing a revolver, robbery and possession of an offensive weapon opened here today.

George Smyth, 23, and his companions were charged in connection with events following discovery of his wife and another man in a Montreal hotel room early in January.

Bernard Hart, 23, said he was with Mrs. Smyth in the room when Smyth, accompanied by Russell Parker, 23, and John Graham, 21, entered. He said Graham carried a gun, Parker a "billy" and that Smyth struck his wife several times after they had argued about their separation.

"They started to discuss a divorce," Hart said, "and then Smyth asked me what it was worth to keep my name out of it. Graham suggested $2,000. I told them I could get $1,000 the next day, but would have to go to Toronto for the rest."

He said they drove to Cornwall the next day and he handed over $825.

The three men were arrested Jan. 6 near Morrisburg, Ont., when police found a revolver and blackjack in their car.

Whisper In The Night

BY MARIE BLIZARD

Cedar logs crackled and hissed in the great outdoor hearth casting a ruddy glow in a semicircle over the brick terrace where Rosalie sat, a small coffee cup balanced on her knee. In a chair at her side, Tubby Reid leaned toward her intent in his discussion of fishing as the only sport.

Indoors, the living - room of [illegible] House, Mrs. Rutherford's fourteen - room "cottage," was occupied by the bridge players who had taken to the tables immediately after dinner.

Beyond the circle of light on the terrace, two shadowy figures moved down the steps toward the garden. Cecil and Angela.

"You take bluefish and striped bass. Sure, they're sea fish but they don't come in the very deep sea. I've gone after 'em at Montauk and Florida, of course. But give me game fishing any day."

Rosalie said, "Why?" She'd been saying little things like "Why?" and "Really?" or "Please go on" for the last hour, it was so much easier to sit and pretend to listen than to talk.

Besides Rosalie wanted to think, to remember. She wanted to photograph the details of the scene before her to remember all her [illegible]. Returned to whatever life her future was to be, she would have need, she felt, to remember this that seemed fairyland to her. The details were as important as the motif. The black servants in white coats. The fragility of the china in her hand. The flower-filled silver bowls. The great mirrors giving back reflections of the beautiful room, the women in their evening gowns and jewels, the men in black and white.

She loved it all so that she felt disloyal to the people she loved best — Tom and Marion. They seemed closer to her tonight than they had in the many weeks she had been away.

There had been a letter from Marion that day. A proud letter. Tom, she wrote, had had a promotion and a raise. They'd moved into a larger place. The Bullock's house on Westbury avenue and Rosalie would be delighted with it.

"Game fishing has zest to it. It takes finesse and good old brute strength."

Rosalie came back from distant places and turned her face to Tubby. His, she noted, was much too red and characterless to find interesting. She said "Tubby, don't you do anything but fish?"

"A few things. But it's a great sport. That's why I built a place here. You get twelve months of it here. And, say! Have you ever gone after a wahoo?"

Rosalie smiled. "Is it really a fish? It sounds like a college yell."

"Is it a fish! It's the fish! You know the wahoo is so streamlined, it can make sixty an hour. I remember one time . . ."

Rosalie really couldn't bear another of those tales. She said, "It must be fun. I suppose a sixty-pound fish wouldn't be too much for a woman to handle?"

"Not a bit!" He poured a generous portion of Scotch into a glass. It was his third since dinner.

"How'd you like to try it? I've got a couple of boats. We'd go over to the southwest end of the island ..."

"I'd love to . . . sometime."

"Have you seen my speedboat?"

Rosalie said she hadn't. He pulled her to her feet. "Come along. She's tied up to the dock. I want you to see her."

Rosalie saw that the shadowy figures on the terrace steps had disappeared. Pique possessed her swiftly. "I'd like to," she said. "Which way do we go?"

The going was rough over the coral path. Tubby put his arm around her to steady her and did not remove it.

Rosalie said, "Thanks, I'll manage all right."

It was a high step up to the dock from their approach. He lifted her easily but he did not put her down. She felt his breath hot on her cheek and turned her head swiftly. But not soon enough; she was crushed to him, his arms tight around her. She tried to free her hand to push him away. Then, abruptly, he released her.

She turned away from him to retrace her steps to the terrace. And saw why he had let her go. Angela and Cecil were standing on the dock. Their backs turned to them.

"I'm sorry," Tubby murmured at her back. "But you were so darned sweet listening to me rave on. I thought you liked me."

"I liked you all right, Tubby, but I hadn't developed any grand passion for you," she said heatedly.

"I won't do it again, if you don't want me to."

"I don't," she replied firmly. "Now, let's forget it."

The bridge game was over when they returned to the terrace. In the light of the dying flames, Rosalie could see Mrs. Rutherford quite plainly. She was peering into the night, and for an instant when she saw them, Rosalie thought she saw an expression of annoyance cross her face. She was smiling when they came up the steps.

"Where have you children been?" she asked, and without waiting for an answer, continued, "Tubby, Angela has been looking for you. And, Rosalie, my dear, we wanted you and Cecil to take a hand and finish a rubber for us. We've been neglecting you."

"Not at all, Mrs. Rutherford," Rosalie said smoothly. "I've been highly entertained. Tubby has been telling me all about his fishing."

"Tubby's sweet," the older woman said for no good reason.

Settled once more in her chair before the fire, she thought of what Luther Kane had said to her, the things he had implied about Mrs. Rutherford. But he was wrong! If Rosalie had been the daughter of an old friend, Mrs. Rutherford couldn't have been kinder to her.

It was Angela who made Rosalie uncomfortable. Angela, a girl a few years younger than herself, had made her feel that she was an intruder. She might, Rosalie felt, have been a little more cordial to her, since she knew that her mother had taken her under her wing for Cecil's sake.

Rosalie did a great deal of thinking about Angela. Angela and Tubby. For Angela's mother, during the girl's recent absence in Jamaica, had referred to them almost as one. "Oh, Cecil, Tubby rang up today to say he had a cable from Angela." Or "When Angela gets back, Tubby wants to consult her about redecorating his boat house." Or, Angela and Tubby would be doing this or that.

But Angela was no more cordial with Tubby than with any of the others. And most certainly Angela had not been looking for Tubby when Rosalie last saw her.

Poor Cecil, he was not only under the thumb of Mrs. Rutherford but he was forced to take care of her whole family.

"Oh, there you are!" There was a sharp edge to the voice with which Mrs. Rutherford greeted her daughter.

"You didn't think I'd eloped or anything, did you?" Angela lit a cigarette with an angry gesture.

"Tubby's been looking for you, weren't you, Tubby, darling?"

Rosalie's eyes widened a little at the interchange between the two. They wondered at the affection in Mrs. Rutherford's voice when she spoke to "Tubby, darling." He had a fresh drink in his hand and his eyes were neither clear nor attractive.

"No," he said unexpectedly, "I have been trying to get Rosalie to promie to promise to go fishing with me. Whoopee and wahoo!!"

Mrs. Rutherford said quickly, "Cecil, do fetch Rosalie a wrap. I see the child is cold."

Rosalie got up at once. "Don't bother, Cecil, thank you. It's getting on toward midnight. I'll . . . I'll go and get it. Then I think we'd better go."

She wanted to get away. The air was suddenly charged with a kind of anger all about her.

"I'll get it," Cecil said instantly, exchanging a glance with her which seemed to say, "I'll explain this, Rosalie, darling. Please don't let it upset you."

"It's in Angela's room," she said, leaving him.

Her evening bag. Where had she left it? She remembered having it at dinner and crossed the living - room to the dining - room. She found it on the buffet and went back through the room and up the wide stairs. Angela's room was the last on the left. She opened the door.

HEARING HIS SENTENCE TO JAIL TERM

The 60-day jail sentence read to them by Superior Judge Clement D. Nye does not seem to faze Robert Mitchum, movie star convicted on a narcotic charge, but Film Actress Lila Leeds, left, and Attorney Grant Cooper (second) look anything but cheerful in this courtroom photo. Mitchum and Miss Leeds, arrested with two friends, Dancer Vickie Evans and Robin Ford, real estate man, last September when narcotic agents broke up a marijuana party in a Hollywood Hills cottage, were sentenced to one year in Los Angeles county jail for conspiracy to possess marijuana. Judge Nye suspended the sentence, then put them on probation with 60 days as part of the probation terms. — Central Press Canadian.

The Story of Family Security that Figures can't tell

A message from the more than fifty British, Canadian and United States life insurance companies in Canada and their agents

Why so many people own life insurance

More than any other type of financial protection, life insurance brings freedom from worry about the future. It offers the easiest, most dependable way to provide security for the family and income for old age. No wonder almost all of the nation's families are protected in this way!

The amount of new life insurance protection put in force by Canadians during 1948 was 1 billion, 300 million dollars.

Cheques that start a new life!

When life insurance payments are made to policyholders, countless dreams come true! These payments make it possible to set up a new business, travel, send a boy or girl to college, or retire. This is how most policyholders and their families benefit from their life insurance.

Living policyholders in Canada received life insurance payments totalling $115 million in 1948.

Homes are kept together

Imagine what life insurance payments mean to families that lose their breadwinners! Such payments mean that widows and children can be kept together, mortgages paid off, children kept at school. In many instances, life insurance is the only sizable asset left by many Canadians at death.

Last year, the life insurance companies paid out $75 million for death claim benefits.

In 1948 the life insurance companies and their agents faithfully served over four-and-one-half million policyholders in all walks of life, in every part of the nation.

It should be obvious to any person who examines the structure of life insurance operation in Canada that the whole range of its activities is conducted in the public interest.

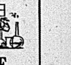
Life Insurance Served You in These Ways Too!

Building for progress

Last year millions of dollars were invested for policyholders by life insurance companies. Result: new schools, roads, power plants, bridges, industrial plants and many other projects were constructed, promoting progress and creating jobs from coast to coast.

Aiding war against disease

By subscribing substantial sums to medical research projects last year, the life insurance companies continued to help science to fight cancer, tuberculosis, heart ailments and polio. These and similar projects were supported to help Canadians live longer, healthier lives!



IT IS GOOD CITIZENSHIP TO OWN LIFE INSURANCE

Gunner Midgets Eliminate Petes; Rockets Juves Grab Goal Lead Over Brockville

Belleville's Minor Hockey night howled — pardon — squeaked — in Memorial Arena last night as both Belleville teams came thru with victories.

The red clad Gunners Midgets, romped home to an easy victory over the husky Peterboro team wearing the famous colors of the Boston Bruins, and donged the "Clappers" by a 10-1 count.

In the second hard-fought tilt the Rockets juveniles in a close-fought battle edged the fast-skating Brockville tribe by a 4-3 score to carry a one-goal lead into the next game — if the powers-that-be don't order things otherwise.

Gunners 10, Peterborough 1 . . . .

Running wild in the second and third periods, Gunners eliminated the Peterborough Clappers in the second round of the OMHA Midget "B" playdowns by a 10 - 1 score. Peterborough defeated Gunners at home on Tuesday night by a 4-3 count. Gunners won the round by a 13-4 score.

Gunners led 1-0 at the end of the first period and after that took over matters. Their passing plays were too much for the bigger Peterborough team, but the score does not indicate the difference. It was a good hockey game with both teams going all out, but the Gunners' plays were clicking too much for the Petes.

They rammed home four goals in the second period and five more in the third.

Carey for Gunners scored three, Whalen two, Barrett, Milligan and Lally the others.

Stewart got the Petes' lone tally in the second period. Three penalties were handed out, two of them going to the Gunners.

Carey got another hat - trick scoring the conventional three goals while Milligan who opened the proceedings by scoring the pry - opener also got himself two assists. Milligan was one of the stars of the night. Whalen got a pair while Pete Green and Lally were outstanding. Diminutive Bill Curtis in the Petes' nets distinguished himself as did Clapper, Stewart and Sullivan.

Peterborough: Goal, Curtis; defence, Stewart, Kimball; centre, Mongraw; wings, Clapper, Sullivan; subs, Ferguson, Murdock, Floyd, Seabrook, Kimball, Wood, P. Mongraw, Scriver.

Belleville: Goal, Schreider, defence, Green, Milligan; centre, Barrett; wings, Whalen, Carey; subs, Allen, Lally, Hull, Jones, Elliott, Blaind, Thompson, Barclay.

Summary:

1st Period.
1 Belleville, Milligan 6.59
Penalties—None.

2nd Period.
2 Belleville, Carey (Milligan, Green) 2.05
3 Belleville, Whalen (Milligan) 3.00
4 Belleville, Whalen (Elliott) 9.59
5 Petes, Stewart 11.05
6 Belleville, Barrett (Green) 17.15
Penalties—None.

3rd Period.
7 Belleville, Green (Barrett) 13.55
8 Belleville, Allen 14.10
9 Belleville, Lally (Allen) 16.40
10 Belleville, Carey (Whalen, Barrett) 18.17
11 Belleville, Carey (Whalen, Barrett) 19.20
Penalties — Milligan, Carey, Ferguson.

Officials: Referees, Perry Everett, Belleville; B. Romhany, Peterborough.

Belleville Rockets 4, Brockville 3

Rockets in the juvenile half of the twin bill facing a husky Brockville team rammed home a close 4-3 victory after scoring 3 goals as against one in the first period. The teams battled to a scoreless second session when the Brockville kids threw a scare into the Rockets and their supporters by scoring a brace to tie the count.

It was nip-and-tuck hockey all the way after that and both squads battled desperately for the winning goal. And it was not until the seventeen minute mark was reached that Lupinette aided by Nolan and Doran fired home the winning goal.

The game was marked by heavy checking and end-to-end rushes with both goalies standing out. Bob Green in the Rockets' nets was as cool as the proverbial cucumber and kicked out plenty of Brockville rubber. At one time, unprotected, he stood his hockey ground and outguessed an incoming Brockville forward with a neat piece of defensive work. At the other end McComber, also shoved, kicked and pushed out a lot of Rockets' pucks.

Gilmour, Lupinette and Brown were the pick of the winners although it must be said that Rivett, Doran and the rest did a good job. McNally of Brockville who scored two of his teams' goals was a standout as was Rumsby. The Peterborough goalie, it looks like McComber here, played a standout game especially in the emergencies.

The teams:

Brockville: goal, Mionan; defence, Amyotte, Companion; centre, Coulle; wings, Reynolds, Bartlett; subs, Rumsby, McMahon, Crooks, Pearce, MacNeill, McCombie, Smith, Warren.

Belleville Rockets: goal, Bob Green; defence, Muirhead, Gravin; centre, Harry Brown; wings, Strahan, Gilmour; subs, Hatfield, Doran, Brown, Rivett, Nolan, Lupinette, Don Dolan.

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

While the withdrawal of the Trenton Intermediate "A" hockey club may have been a surprise to some, it was not unexpected in hockey circles. Manager Jim McDonald has been working under a terrific handicap during the past few weeks, in fact since the group opened. One by one he lost players either through injuries or other circumstances until only a skeleton of the powerful squad that swept through the Belleville District Hockey League with only one defeat remained. The final crushing blow came to McDonald's hopes of remaining in competition last Monday when Cyril Johnson, his star centre received a painful facial injury necessitating his retirement from the game for some time.

It seems too bad that a grand town like Trenton does not support a team that has, and did work its way into the hockey sun hereabouts. We recall, when Lou Schmidt was suspended during the Belleville District Hockey League season we received a flock of letters from indignant Trenton hockey fans anent the incident. The other night, we are informed, when the Trenton team played a home engagement, there were not enough receipts to pay expenses. Where, then were these gentlemen, whose letters we have on file, vehemently protesting egad, in the name of sportsmanship, against the suspension of Schmidt.

Where were these so-called sportsmen who so vigorously rose to the defence of, mark you, a winning team? Where were they when it slipped into the doldrums, because some of its players departed, and others were forced out of action because of injury?

Good-time Charlies? Any city, town or village can or will support a winning team—but it seems when the hard-time chips are down the guy who has the intestinal fortitude to go out and manage, finance and help a team for the community's sake, is left holding the bag.

The Trenton Hockey Club in the Belleville District Hockey League, carried high the gonfalon of the game for its home town. It swept through undefeated until the final schedule game. It was a good drawing card. It was feared. The champion Diesels were not all out betting they could beat the black-and-white crew. The final game of the schedule drew a record house. A year ago the Trenton-Trenton Flyers series which went the limit packed Memorial Arena.

It was with sincere regret that we heard Jim McDonald say "we are through." He can't be blamed. No manager of a hockey team unless he's a millionaire can carry on with a lackadaisical citirenry behind him. We may not know the right score, but surely Trenton could have shown some interest in a team when it was slipping as it did so magnificently when it was winning.

This from the Kingston sports scribe: "Unbeaten and untied in six and five games respectively the Belleville Senior B Diesels and Junior B Rockets continue to set the pace in their OHA groups and judging by past performances they are the teams to beat for the right to advance into the next rounds. This upsurge in power by the Belleville hockeyists has established somewhat of a precedent which, however, might not have been possible if Kingston's outstanding senior and junior players had not been split among so many clubs.

"Belleville's achievements in the Senior B race cannot be lightly ignored. Offensively and defensively the Diesels have surpassed all pursuers and observers will not be surprised if they go through the group race unbeaten. On Monday they will oppose the winless and outclassed Ontario Aces in a four-point game in Belleville. Their two remaining games will be staged in the Harty Arena, the first against Nylons on Feb. 18 and the next against Queen's on Feb. 28.

"Having disposed of the Barons on two occasions the Rockets leaped the toughest hurdles and should make a clean sweep of the regular series. They will appear here against Pattons on Friday night in conjunction with a junior contest which will be waged by the Barons and the Aces. On Feb. 25, the Navy Tars will cross sticks with them in the Harty Arena while on Feb. 28 Queen's will entertain them here. Pattons and the Aces have dates to keep in the Moira River metropolis but why bring that up!"

Our junior Rockets wing into action tonight in Kingston against the Royal Pattons squad. They're after their sixth straight victory and if past records are a criterion they should come home with a win. They meet, we are told, the same team here in Memorial Arena on Tuesday night next.

Chicago Shunts Rangers Back To Basement

The old principle of balance seems to be underlined anew in the three - quarters National Hockey League race.

The principle is based an a combination of offensive power and defensive strength. Detroit Red Wings, apparently coasting to the championship with a 12-point lead over Boston, are the best example.

Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers show the reserve side of the coin. Hawks have a high - scoring, free-wheeling outfit who can score plenty of goals. New York has a solid goalie and a fair defence but can't score goals. All season, the two clubs have been struggling to stay out of last place.

Thursday night the Hawks pushed Rangers out of fifth place by a single point when they won 3-1 in New York. The other NHL teams were idle, except for Montreal Canadiens, who played an exhibition game in Owen Sound, and beat the local Mercurys 9-4.

Ends Disastrous Slump

The New Yorkers took a first-period lead on Alex Kaleta's counter at 9:45 but in the second, Gus Bodnar tied it up. Adam Brown and Roy Conacher banged in the winners for the Hawks in the third.

The game ended a disastrous slump for Chicago. Before Thursday night the Hawks had lost five straight and they had won only one game in their last 11.

In the exhibition game, the Mercurys were strengthened by five Montreal players, Roger Leger, Hal Laycoe, Billy Reay, Rip Riopelle and Joe Carveth.

Elmer Lach paced the winning Montreal attack with three goals, with Maurice Richard and Leo Cleveland Barons, pace-setters in others went to Doug Harvey and Glen Harmon.

For the Mercurys of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A series, Doug Gillespie, Riopelle and Leger were the scorers.

Capitals Move Up in League

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 11 — (CP) — Indianapolis Capitals edged to within a single point of Cleveland Barons, pace-setters in the American Hockey League's western division, with a 6-3 victory Thursday night over New Haven Ramblers.

Freddie Glover packed the heftiest scoring punch for the visitors, slamming home two goals in the second period. Other Cap scorers were Rod Morrison, Cliff Simpson, Don Morrison and Eddie Bruneteau.

The Ramblers' goals were scored by Jean-Paul Denis, Chick Webster and Buck Davis. The New Haven team was without the services of goalie Emil (The Cat) Francis and forward Eddie Slowinski, both recalled Thursday by the parent New York Rangers.

Sandy Saddler Not Favored To Beat Pep

New York, Feb. 11 — (AP) — Sandy Saddler, a vicious knockout winner over Willie Pep last October, is a surprising underdog in tonight's Madison Square Garden rematch, the first defence of his world featherweight title.

The first sellout crowd since Rocky Graziano - Marty Servo in 1946, more than 18,500 will watch slim Sandy from Harlem try to prove it was no mistake when he flattened Pep in 2:38 of the fourth round Oct. 29. The pick here is Saddler, probably by a knockout, in less than the 15-round limit.

Pep's loyal Connecticut clients are responsible for the sellout with at least 6,000 from Hartford, New Haven and Bridgeport coming to town with cash to back their opinions. They can't believe that Pep, beaten only once in 135 fights before he met Sandy, was whipped by such a Johnny-come-lately.

It's likely the former champion will go in tonight at 5-to-7 choice in the biggest betting fight in years, according to all reports.

At 26, Pep is fighting for his fistic life as a beaten champion, his brilliant record will be obscured by another loss to Sandy, a spindle-legged Negro with the left-handed punching power of a welterweight.

Saddler, only 22, still is the "hungry" fighter. From 1944 until last October, manager Charlie Johnston led Sandy step by step up the ladder in the feather class. When he was judged ready he came through in fine style but the payoff was small. To get the title shot, Saddler took only 10 per cent of the gross $55,751 to 50 per cent for Pep. This time each will receive 30 per cent from a gross that will be around $85,000.

WORKS WITH R.C.M.P.

Washington, Feb. 11 (CP) D The United States Secret Service was agent working with the R.C.M.P. in a search for clues to the origin of fake $20 bills seized Monday in Oshawa.

A United States treasury department spokesman said Thursday night the agent was assigned soon after a raid which led to discovery of more than $15,000 in bogus United States currency and the arrest of two persons.

The fake notes are "definitely of a type circulated recently around New York and Chicago," the spokesman said.

Toronto, Feb. 11 (CP)—When your friends don't agree that your favorite hockey player is one of the all-time greats, don't feel too badly—even the experts can't agree.

Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle says: "Recently I asked Lionel Conacher, Dick Irvin, Art Ross and Lester Patrick to name 11 hockey players in each of three eras who they considered were outstanding in their day and times.

"They obliged, in each case picking 31 players.

"When Lionel Conacher gave his great players list, he added his opinion that the greatest player is Milt Schmidt; the most durable, Hooley Smith; the most graceful skater, Dave Trottier; the toughest hombre, Bill Cook; the most thrilling to watch in action, Howie Morenz."

Lytle said only one of the 10 experts placed any players on his list for the 1939-1949 years.

"When you find qualified experts...unable to place any Johnny-come-lately on their squads, what other conclusion can be drawn except that the individual today, however great he may be potentially, is submerged in the collective hustle and confusion of bodies we now see converging en masse first at one goal and then at the other?"

Goalie Award

The race for the Vezina Trophy—symbol of goal-tending supremacy in the National Hockey League—is tightening rapidly. But Doug (Windsor Daily Star) Vaughan doesn't think the manner in which the trophy is awarded is a true yardstick for measuring the goalie's ability.

"It just could mean that he (the goalie) has had the best defensive club in front of him.

On a percentage basis you'll find that Harry Lumley of Detroit has a slight edge—but it is so slight as to be almost negligible.

"Chuck Rayner's record with a team which is only a half step out of the league cellar speaks for itself," says Vaughan. "He has a total of six shutouts to his credit ...two more than either Durnan or Lumley."

Belgians Will Withdraw From Bobsled Contest

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 11 — (AP) — Stunned by an accident that killed Max Houben, veteran Olympic driver, and critically injured his brakeman, the Belgians withdrew today from the world two-man bobsled championships and left three countries to vie for honors.

The United States, Switzerland and France each will send two teams down the treacherous Mt. Van Hoevenberg run this week-end in quest of the world title.

The Belgian's tragic accident, first fatal one to occur on the Mt. Van Hoevenberg run, came shortly after two American teams had qualified for the championships in trial runs.

The Belgians' speeding craft left the icy course about half way down the curling slopes, striking some heavy poles and plunging into a small shed housing water pipes.

ENTITLED TO FAIR PRICES

Ottawa, Feb. 11 (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said Wednesday night just because there were food price declines in the United States was no reason to believe that Canadian food prices should also drop. "Canadian farmers are entitled to prices which would justify their war-time sacrifices," the minister said in a speech before the Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers Association.

(By The Canadian Press)

Goalies in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior 'A' League have a new piece of silverware to compete for — the Turofsky trophy, it was announced at Toronto Thursday. It will be awarded to the Senior League netminder having the lowest goals-against average.

In line for the prizes are Howie Harvey of Toronto Marlboros with a mark of 2.70 goals a game and Marcel Pelletier of Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen with a 2.74 average.

The trophy was donated by Lou and Nat Turofsky, Toronto sports photographers.

At Los Angeles, big Bill Tilden, former tennis champion of the world, Thursday was sentenced to a year in jail. Judge A. A. Scott found him guilty of violating his probation on a conviction of contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old Beverly Hills, Calif., youth. Tilden turned 56 Thursday.

Tilden, originally was put on probation Jan. 16, 1947, for a period of five years. He served 7 1-2 months at the County Honor Farm as a condition of probation.

Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League announced Thursday night the sale of Freddie Hunt to Hershey Bears in a straight cash deal. Hunt, a native of Brantford, had been with the Bisons since 1942 with the exception of one season with New York Rangers.

Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League announced Thursday they are sending Eric Pogue to Pittsburg Hornets, Leaf Farm Club in the American Hockey League. Pogue broke his leg at the Pittsburgh Training Camp at Welland last Fall. Since he resumed skating, he has played with the Marlboro Junior and Senior Amateur Clubs.

At Hanover, N.H., Dartmouth College defeated McGill University of Montreal 9-6 Thursday night in an intercollegiate hockey game held in conjunction with the 39th annual Dartmouth Carnival.

The British Amateur Athletic Association confirmed Thursday at London the amateur standing of 20-year-old Maureen Gardner, Olympic star. It ruled that a photograph of her wearing a brand-new windbreaker jacket was used in an advertising leaflet without her permission.

At San Juan, Puerto Rico, Artie Wilson, a hard-hitting Negro shortstop now playing in the Puerto Rican League, was signed Thursday by the Cleveland Baseball Club and shortly afterwards the New York Yankees accused the Indians of "unethical" practices. The Yankees announced last week they had approached Wilson. They were supposed to have the Negro star in the bag.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Feb. 11 — (AP) — Harry Westerby, who trained Ranger hockey teams for 20 years, now is trainer for the Spokane, Wash., Flyers, who recently ran up a string of 20 straight home victories . . . Jim Gallagher, the club's general manager, is reported to have gone "hog wild" over chess. Probably because that is one game where he can make a move without consulting Phil Wrigley, Charley Grimm and Red Smith . . .

Cleaning the Cuff

Eddie Doherty, president of the Red Sox - owned Louisville Colonels, has set a 450,000 attendance goal for the season. If he beats that, Eddie likely will be made a Kentucky general . . . first robin of spring appeared yesterday when Cliff Bloodgood delivered the first copies of the 1949 "who's who in baseball." . . . Manager Dick Edwards claims that featherweight red top Davis is a "career man" — he makes a career of fighting Willie Pep.

Switcheroo

Clemson's Frank Howard, who has been hitting the banquet circuit since his team's 'gator bowl victory, comes up with a new version of the best way to pick a football team . . . and he blames it on Peahead Walker of Wake Forest . . . Peahead, says Frank, takes his squad out in the woods during the spring and tells them to start running . . . the ones who run around the trees are tabbed as backfield men . . the guys who run right over the trees go into the line.

Ottawa's First Big Winter "Do" Opens Saturday

Ottawa, Feb. 11 — (CP) — Staid Ottawans are hardly raising a flutter as the biggest assemblage of sports events in the city's history gathers upon them.

Probably they will start and wonder next week, but the capital colony is mostly interested in parliamentary proceedings. They will likely run into the high-jinks Saturday night, when they find a snow-queen crowned on the front steps of a downtown hotel.

Before the week is out they'll find the capital is teeming with the virile, outdoor sports billed by the Junior Trade Board for Ottawa's first big winter "do" in years.

From today until Sunday, there will be the central Canada ski championships. Tomorrow the Governor-General will launch a snowshoe meet on his cricket grounds. Monday the central Canada bonspiel — an irons meet in accordance with this district's traditional preference for irons—will start and continue on all city rinks throughout the week.

Topping the week off will be the international dog derby and the Canadian figure skating championships.

The derby will feature eight New England teams, and a lone Canadian entry, made up of a conglamoration of dogs harnessed by the efforts of three Ottawans who hated to see an international derby turn into an all-American affair.

The Canadian entry — with more bravado than experience — is made up of Donald Radbourne, who will pilot the seven nondescript Canadian dogs, and his companions, Cecil McCooeye and Stan Stanyar.

The figure-skating championships will have special interest because of the strong battle for the crown laid down by Barbara Ann Scott when she turned professional.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 11 (AP)—The gravy train has come to a halt for movie stars, at least at one film chief Bob Palmer feels strongly about it. He blames stars for much of the industry's current economic troubles:

"With more freedom, the actors could have ruined the industry. They got too much power during the war years. Now the administrative end will take over again and run things."

Palmer's harsh words follow two pertinent news items. One reported a loss of $3,000,000 in Universal's report for the last fiscal year.

And Salaries

The other story disclosed recent salaries paid by U-I.

Star salaries can often be the difference between profit and loss on a picture, Palmer said. "You pay out $200,000 for an old star and $100,000 for a featured player," he illustrated, "and that $300,000 is probably the grave of the picture."

U-I has embarked on a policy of home-grown stars.

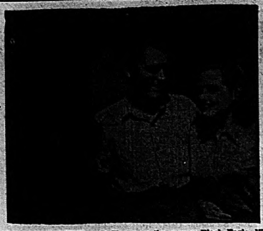
"New faces bring new life to the box-office and cut costs," Palmer explained. He mentioned Richard Widmark as an instance where a new personality can inject adrenalin to sagging theatre returns.

New Faces

The studio is now combing the woods for fresh (and inexpensive) talent and the casting chief said that radio and little theatres are the best sources.

The type of talent?

"Leading men have swung back to the rugged type again," Palmer said. "Clark Gable was the original of that type. Then came the pretty-boy cycle headed by Robert Taylor and Tyrone Power. After that, the baby-faced, shy kid typified b Jimmy Stewart and Van Johnson. Now we are back to the he-man."



AT THE McCARTHY — O. Henry on the screen; Black Eagle, Wm. Bishop and Virginia Patton are seen in "Black Eagle," the story of a horse, the outdoor adventure, based on O. Henry's famous tale is now at the McCarthy Theatre along with a added new feature, "Mary Lou," with Frankie Carle and his piano.

AT THE CAPITOL — Belita performs one of her most brilliant skating scenes in Allied Artists' dramatic film, "The Hunted," co-starring Preston Foster and starting Monday at the Capitol Theatre for its first Belleville showing. On the same program the year's greatest musical romance, set to the glorious melodies of Tchaikovsky, "Song of My Heart," starring Frank Sundstrom, Audrey Long and Sir Cedric Hardwicke.

AT THE CAPITOL — The famous Swedish film star, Frank Sundstrom, makes his American screen debut as composer Tchaikovsky in Allied Artists' musical triumph, "Song of My Heart," starting Monday at the Capitol Theatre for its first Belleville showing. On the same program "The Hunted," starring Preston Foster and Belita, world famous ice skater.

AT THE BELLE — Lucky Lilli Palmer (the "Body and Soul" girl) has two men after her in "No Minor Vices," hilarious triangle comedy closing at the Belle Theatre tonight. The rivals are Dana Andrews and Louis Jourdan. The Paramount action-drama "Disaster," is the second feature attraction.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was walking along with Puds Simkins talking and arguing about different subjects sutch as all dogs being smart enough to know their own name ,but how many —would be smart enough to know both their names if they had a last name too, and Puds said, Hay, talk about names, there's a funny name for a street.

Meening a tiny little street with a sine on it saying, Watt Street, and I said, G, if anybody asked us the name of this street and we told them Watt Street, they'd think we were asking them what street. Oh boy what a joke, I said.

Jimminies, let's wait here till somebody asks us, Puds said. We'll keep on telling them Watt Street and they'll keep on saying this street, till they finely see the joke, he said, and I said, Oh boy, maybe they'll never see it, if they're as dumb as some people.

And we kept on waiting and people kept on going passed and not asking us, and I said, Heck, it's probably sutch a little bit of a street that nobody even gives a darn.

Well hay, lets walk a little ways passed it and ask somebody ourselfs, and they wont even know what street we're talking about, so they'll say, What street? and that'll be the rite answer without them even knowing it, Puds said.

Sounding like a perfect idea, and we kept on going till some little man with a big stummick started to go passed, and I waved in back of us, saying, Can you tell me the name of that street, mister?

What street? the man said, and I said, Thank you, and Puds said, Thanks very mutch.

And we kept on goin trying to keep our outside from showing we were laffing inside, and proving you never have to waste anything, including a good joke.

Could be Retroactive

He said the Federal Acat could be amended to make the federal government's share of the pensions retroactive to March 31. But it had been considered that such action would be unfair to other Canadians. He said that the aged of many provinces had to wait a long time for their provincial governments to pass old age pensions legislation after the federal legislation had been passed in 1927.

Mr. St. Laurent said family allowances could be paid retroactive from March 31 because the allowances are administered solely by the federal government, whereas the pensions are administered by the provincial governments.

The federal government pays 75 per cent of the cost of pensions up to $30 a month.

The discussion of social security measures touched off another debate on what transpired at the 1946 Dominion - Provincial conference when George Drew, now opposition leader, was Premier of Ontario.

Reiterates Charge

Mr. Drew reiterated a charge that the federal government planned to pay for an over-all social security platform through the imposition of a "poll tax."

Defence Minister Claxton, who was health minister at the time of the conference, reiterated his denial of the charge.

Mr. Drew told Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) he was sure the people of Canada are ready and willing to contribute to an over-all social security plan, but he was equally sure they did not want to make that contribution through a poll - tax on every man and woman and child.

Mr. St. Laurent made it clear that the government will not hold up the legislation containing the union terms until the responsible government League of Newfoundland gets a final court ruling on its efforts to prevent consummation of union.

Veterans Minister Gregg said approximately 1,700 Newfoundland pensioners of the two world wars will be brought within the scope of Canadian pension legislation by the terms of union. Several opposition members urged the government to take advantage of the opportunity to extend war veterans allowances to imperial veterans now in Canada.

Finance Minister Abbott gave this breakdown of the $50,200,000 which Canada expects to spend in Newfoundland in the first year of union:

Tax agreement payments and subsidy $7,800,000; old age pensions $2,700,000; family allowances $8,400,000; transitional grant $6,500,000; general department expenditures $22,000,000; and cost of servicing Newfoundland's external debt $2,800,000.

Best Estimates

"I cannot stress too strongly that these are only the best estimates that I can give at the moment . . ." said Mr. Abbott. "Detailed estimates have not yet been finally considered and approved."

Application of federal taxes to the island will yield $26,922,000, he estimated.

No firm estimate has yet been made of the possible Newfoundland railway debt after union. Transport Minister Chevrier said the railway, to be taken over by the Canadian National Railways, had a deficit of $2,200,000 in 1948.

When the railway becomes part of the C.N.R., the salaries of its employees will be brought into line with those prevailing in Canada and freight rates will be reduced to the basic rates prevailing the Maritimes.

Bring Increase

Mr. Chevrier said the C. N. R. also will take over Newfoundland's publicly - owned telegraph and telephone system and any wireless facilities relating to telephones. The Transport Department will absorb such services as ship-to-shore telephones.

He said it is expected that union will bring a 30-per-cent increase in the rail and steamship traffic between Canada and Newfoundland. But he told John Dickey (L — Halifax) and Clarie Gillis (CCF — Cape Breton South) he could promise no early start on the improvement of facilities across the Straint of Canso, between Cape Breton Island and the mainland.

A board of engineers is considering possible improvements to existing facilities, of construction of a bridge, a tunnel or a causeway.

Mr. St. Laurent told T. J. Bentley (CCF — Swift Current) that the Newfoundland legislature will have full control over education and will be able to establish non-denominational schools. But it will not, in making grants, be able to discriminate among the various denominations.

The prime minister reiterated that the 99-year leases which the United States holds on defence bases in Newfoundland will still be valid after union. Negotiations now are underway to have the United States agree "that it will not exercise those rights in a manner that would offend against our rights of sovereignty in Newfoundland . . ."

THRONE SPEECH

However, Premier Kennedy has expressed the view that the debate has little value, coming as it does before major government bills have been introduced or the budget presented.

Before the reading of the throne speech, Welsh-born M. C. Davies (PC-Windsor - Walkerville) was elected speaker. Premier Kennedy and leaders of opposition parties made brief speeches of congratulations to the new speaker and paid tribute to John H .P. Carrere, former Progressive Conservative member for Cochrane South, and Carl W. Cragg, former Progressive Conservative member for Parry Sound, both of whom died since the June 7 election.

First reading was given to 15 government bills, most of them amendments affecting legal procedure in courts and to seven C.C.F. bills, including an act to guarantee civil rights and amendments to labor legislation.

Principal government bill was an amendment to the Community Centres Act which would extend the benefits of the act to all communities and provide a $5,000 grant for construction of skating arenas.

Wants Committee

The C.C.F. gave notice it will present a resolution calling for a select committee to inquire into hydro-electric power development. The committee would be empowered to call witnesses and have access to records.

Premier Kennedy moved the appointment of a similar committee to investigate C.C.F. charges of irregularity in the election of Education Minister Porter in Toronto-St. George last June. The C.C.F. gave notice of a motion calling for the extension of the municipal franchise to all persons eligible to vote in provincial elections.

The C.C.F. introduced seven bills, calling for a legal guarantee of certain civil rights; a maximum work week of 40 hours; an increase in payments under the Workmen's Compensation Act from 66 2-3 to 100 per cent of earnings; and the inclusion of milk, bread and fuel in the terms of the Public Utilities Act.

KEAYS COMPLETES

Charges made by Constable Keays included allegations against Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, Commissioner W. H. Stringer of the Ontario Provincial Police, Inspectors W. A. Page of Belleville and T. W. Cousans of Perth, Sgt.J. A. Stringer, Cpl. Sam Ervine and Constables J. B. Driscoll and G. R. Purdy.

Major Charges Laid

Major charges by Keays were as follows:

1. That Inspector Cousans on instructions from Commissioner Stringer ordered the suppression of evidence which showed Sgt. Stringer gave untrue evidence at a coroner's inquest in 1940.

2. That Donnan suppressed evidence in connection with a fraud trial concerning E. M. Carefoot in 1947 and obstructed police investigation.

3. Purdy submitted a false accident report in 1947 while Ervine falsified police records and committed perjury in the witness box.

4. Inspector Page and Commissioner Stringer took no action when the irregularities were reported.

Seating Capacity Taken Up

Public interest in the Royal Commission inquiry mounted Thursday afternoon with the County Court Room being crowded to its fullest seating capacity by citizens from the city and immediate district.

So great was the audience that many were unable to gain admission to the court room and persons standing were asked to return to the corridors before the afternoon session commenced.

In the jury stands additional witnesses to those in court during previous days of the hearing waited in readiness to being called following Keays' testimony.

Commencing the afternoon session Keays referred to two weeks following his transfer back to Belleville from Niagara Falls. He had been instructed to report to Kingston to assist in a murder investigation, but he had been called back to organize police officers for a manhunt in Prince Edward County where the Brewers' Warehouse at Picton had been robbed.

"I was driven to Prince Edward County and left afoot," went on the officer, "and at six p.m. the three wanted men came along in a stolen car.

Capture of Three Men

"By chance Sgt. Hartleib and Constable Harry Caldwell came along. We gave chase and the men were captured—one of them with a gun."

Keays said that while interrogating the three men at Picton instructions were received from Inspector Page to "get back to Belleville."

Prince Edward County officers later had asked Inspector Page to permit Keays to continue assistance and were ordered by Page to "get out, Keays is not doing anything."

1948 Incident

Referring again to personalities between Senior officers and Cpl. Ervine, Keays said that although Ervine had been 25 miles from the scene of the arrest of the three men in Prince Edward County, he had been commended for his part in the manhunt.

Interference on the part of Cpl. Ervine was again cited by Keays as he referred to an incident in June 1948.

Keays said at this time, prior to provincial election local provincial police had checked CCF leader E. B. Jolliffe, said to be travelling at 75 miles per hour. This officer had asked Keays for advice and had been referred to Sgt. Hartleib.

Cpl. Ervine however interfered, said Keays, and instructed the traffic officer to "hold off —maybe Jolliffe will be elected."

Inspector Page had advised that procedure to be taken should be left to the Police Commissioner so as to not leave the responsibility to a junior officer.

"Don't worry about that", Cpl. Ervine was quoted as saying, "I'll see Bryson". (Mr. Donnan).

Subsequently Mr. Donnan was stated to have instructed that Jolliffe not be charged.

"Don't charge Jolliffe," Keays quoted Mr. Donnan as instructing, "Jolliffe is a good friend of Col. Drew."

At this bit of humor the Commissioner smiled and the audience broke into laughter which was promptly hushed by police.

Charges Liquor Carried

Again charging behavior unbecoming to police officers, Keays said that Cpl. Ervine and Constable Purdy had carried a load of liquor in police cars.

The incident, he said, took place during election celebrations. The two officers had unloaded the liquor from the white police car in front of a Trenton theatre prior to a Conservative parade. The officers supposedly had been on highway patrol, Keays said.

Reference here was made to Miss Dorothy Dowdell, police stenographer. Keays produced a July 10, issue of "Hush" and quoted a paragraph "who is the female sergeant-major who has much to say in Belleville Police headquarters?".

According to Keays Miss Dowdell had frequently given orders to constables at the detachment office on instructions from Inspector Page.

Keays said his only point in producing the copy of "Hush" was to "clear the name of a respectable officer who was not responsible."

Throughout the afternoon session the witness presented a mass of documentary evidence in substantiation of charges which he had previously preferred.

He referred frequently to his fight for a hearing as to charges against police officers but said he had never gone to the press nor to the opposition.

Eventually he had been promised a hearing by Attorney General Leslie Blackwell who had told him if he could not prove his charges he would be fired.

"I accepted the Attorney General's threat of being fired," Keays said.

Keays said he had asked for his resignation from the force "not to get a job," but "to protect the good name of his family."

He had merely asked for an enquiry within the department and not "a public scandal as we have here now."

Keays stated he had tendered his resignation Oct. 3rd, to be effective Nov. 15, 1948. He had received no acknowledgment of his resignation and had turned in his uniform.

He quoted from a letter received from Police Commissioner Stringer advising that he had been placed under suspension for having turned in his uniform and pending a formal inquiry into his charges.

In his letter the Commissioner had advised that Keays was still a member of the force and that prior to his turning in his uniform it had been the intention to grant him leave of absence.

Says No Notification Re Leave

Keays claimed he had received no official notification of being placed on leave of absence "else I would not have turned in my uniform for which I have the greatest respect."

Keays stated that although he was supposed to be on leave of absence his pay had been held up and it was not until Dec. 21 that he learned he had been suspended.

On Dec. 22 he had received a letter from police headquarters advising that his pay cheque could not be considered. The same afternoon he received a telegram from the commissioner saying his pay cheque was in the mail.

Referring to accusations by Constable J. B. Driscoll, Keays told of an accident which occurred August 7, 1947 near Trenton in which one James Tweedy had been killed when struck by a bus.

Keays said he had started the investigation which was turned over to Constable Driscoll, and Constable Gagne. Charges had been laid against the bus driver, one Gerald Holmbeck, but had been dropped when Cons. Driscoll had said Keays was drunk when he started the investigation.

One of the constables at the local detachment office was quoted by Keays as saying that Inspector Page said the Holmbeck case would be withdrawn as Keays' evidence was not reliable.

Claims False Report Given

Again Keays accused Constable Driscoll of submitting a false report in an investigation and also had caused a junior member of the R. C. M. P. to submit a false report to cover up his actions. "The result of Constable Driscoll's actions," Keays said, "had been that the city of Belleville lost a $500 fine and two R. C. M. P. officers had been transferred from the area.

Several times during the afternoon hearing Constable Keays had asked the production of police documents from commission counsel C. P. Hope.

One particular document, however could not be found and as the afternoon session closed Keays again asked for it. Keays took the report, read it, and then said it was not the same report he had prepared for Staff Inspector Moss.

"This is the only such report that I know anything about," replied Mr. Hope.

Inspector Moss Heard

"May I speak?" asked Inspector Moss. "I don't like the insinuations by Keays that I have changed this report. That is the report which I received from Keays at Niagara Falls as the result of our interview."

"It is not the report I requested," returned Keays. "Would you like to swear that under oath in the witness box?"

As the session concluded commission counsel asked that Keays turn in his diary as an exhibit. "You can have it," replied Keays. "You can have every document I have the minute I am through with them."

Jeweler Pays Fines and Costs, May Not Appeal

Pembroke, Feb. 11 — (CP) — George J. Simpson, convicted a fortnight ago on 10 charges connected with his refusal to collect luxury tax on jewelery he sells, Thursday paid a fine and costs totalling $2,842 and heard Magistrate W. K. MacGregor postpone hearing on an 11th charge for two weeks.

Simpson's cheque will be held until he decides whether he will appeal the convictions.

He announced earlier in the week that he had abandoned his one-man rebellion against federal tax laws because of the "extra expense involved in each new charge."

Another Pembroke jeweler, Howard E. Woolcock, also paid $899 in fines and costs Thursday as a result of similar charges. Woolcock pleaded that his failure to remit the luxury tax was the result of bookkeeping errors.

Deportation Order Being Fought By de Bernonville

Montreal, Feb. 11 (CP)— The case of Count Jacques Duge de Bernonville, fighting a deportation order to his native France where he is under sentence of death for wartime collaboration with the Germans, comes up in Superior Court today.

Also facing deportation are the Count's wife and two daughters, Catherine, 17, and Josianne, 23.

The deBernonvilles were ordered deported by the Canadian Immigration Department on the grounds they were in the country illegally.

The Count, a thin wasted figure as compared with the days when he was a Lieutenant-Colonel in the famed French Chasseurs Alpins, came to Canada in November, 1946.

Prior to the court hearings his case attracted wide attention when Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal, among others, defended the Count's right to be in Canada as a political refugee and declared that he was a wartime hero, rather than a collaborationist.

At first, when the Count came to Canada under the name of Jacques Benoit, he was unknown. He kept out of sight and worked in the woods for a time around Kamouraska, Que.

He visited immigration authorities, confessed to fraudulent entry and asked permission to become a permanent resident of Canada. He claimed that return to France meant virtually certain death and that, since he had been sentenced to death in absentia he had not had a chance to defend himself.

The charges against him in France were "violence, treason; arson and looting."

A veteran of two wars, de Bernonville was decorated many times, wounded many times and during the First Great War was a military commander of the Lyons area under Marshal Petain. He denied he had been responsible for deaths of Allied servicemen.

207,253 FARMERS FILE TAX FORMS

Ottawa, Feb. 10 — (CP) — At least 207,253 farmers filed income tax returns for 1947, Revenue Minister McCann informed John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) Wednesday in a Commons return. He said there may have been more but that was the number who used the special T1 form for farmers.

Legal 'New Deal' Is in Making For Army, R.A.F.

By STUART UNDERHILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Feb. 11 (CP)—A legal "new deal" for the British army and the R.A.F. is in the making, including the right of appeal from courts-martial findings.

A committee appointed by the war office in 1946 has recommended changes in the two services' legal procedures. Those not needing legislation for implementation already are in force while the others are being prepared for presentation to parliament.

The committee's six-point submission was:

1. Appeals should be permitted on points of law when courts-martial findings are returned against offenders who pleaded innocent.

2. Service trials ought to be speedier. Depositions on oath and statutory declarations should be admitted. Findings should be unanimous; failing unanimity new trials should be in order.

3. Delay in bringing offenders to trial ought to be discouraged. Reports should be submitted every eight days on progress of cases against prisoners still under close arrest and awaiting trial. It should be illegal to detain a man longer than 90 days without trial. If untried then he should be discharged, ineligible for rearrest on the same count.

4. Sentences should be pronounced in open court.

5. The judge advocate general ought to attend to judicial matters only.

6. Punishment should be limited to six months for any one non-treasonable offence with an overriding maximum of 12 months for two or more offences.

The regulations are to apply to officers as well as to other ranks.

Reserve Enough High-Grade Iron Ore for All Time

Montreal, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Sufficient high - grade iron ore to feed Canadian steel mills for all time is being reserved in the deposits of the new Quebec - Labrador fields, W. Durrell, general manager of Labrador Mining and Exploration Ltd., yesterday told the Optimist Club of Montreal.

So large are the deposits, Mr. Durrell said, that it is already known that mining of the ore will continue for many years. The ultimate extent of the fields is not yet determined, he said.

Canadian steel mills will have first call upon the ore.

THE WORLD NEEDS A PRAYERFUL PEOPLE for your community

For many years, we, a member of the Poster Advertising Association of Canada, have been in the business of supplying the general public with timely news regarding Canadian products and services. Through the various types of Outdoor Advertising—"24-sheet" Posters, Painted Bulletins, Claude Neon Displays and Electric Spectaculars—we have helped to distribute information about the things business has to offer for the enrichment of life. Lately we have been casting about for some means of using our facilities, at our own expense, to make an additional contribution to the public welfare.

We might have helped promote safe driving; but many organizations are already doing that. We might have urged more temperate living, but there are an infinite number of opinions as to what constitutes temperate living. We might have concentrated on good citizenship, but that is too vague and nebulous to awaken any active response.

Therefore we determined to use a simple but powerful appeal which we believe will be received with pleasure by the community at large—an appeal to support the local church. The accompanying reproductions show two posters which will be rotated month about in this and other areas, on full size, full-colour 24-sheet Posters, as a contribution to the welfare of the community. If they are well received, if they stimulate interest in the Christian Church, we will be more than satisfied.

Canada Achieves Import-Trade Record With U.K.

Total Foreign Trade Up Seven Per Cent Over 1947

Ottawa, Feb. 12. (CP)—United Kingdom goods enjoyed one of their best selling years in the Canadian market in 1948.

The government's Bureau of Statistics noted yesterday that value of Canada's import of British goods amounted to almost $300,000,000—an all-time high.

During the same year, Canada expanded its total foreign trade to achieve a record-busting total of $5,747,000,000. This was seven per cent higher than in 1947 and more than 30 per cent higher than in 1946.

Imports from the United States in 1948 totalled $1,806,000,000, down $169,000,000 from the 1947 aggregate. Restricting her imports and expanding her exports to the U.S., Canada cut her unfavorable trade balance with that country to one-third the 1947 figure.

The balance was a debit of $283,600,000 compared with $918,100,000 in 1947.

Total imports from all British countries amounted to $504,100,000, compared with $354,400,000 in 1948 and $11,300,000 in pre-war 1938.

Newfoundland exported $11,091,000 worth of goods to Canada, compared with $67,000 in 1938.

YUGOSLAVIA TOLD SHE MUST CHANGE HER ATTITUDE

Russia Says Country Will be Out in Cold on Communist-Model Plan

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—Russia today told Yugoslavia she (Yugoslavia) is out in the cold on the Communist-model "Marshall plan" until she changes her hostile attitude.

The Soviet position was stated in a note broadcast by Russia's official news agency, Tass, in reply to a Yugoslav protest at being left out of the Economic Council of Mutual Aid.

This latest rebuff to Premier Tito was broadcast as two other developments were reported which might concern Yugoslavia.

A Yugoslav move before the big four's deputy foreign ministers here was believed to indicate she was getting ready to seek a compromise on a settlement of her claims against Austria.

Russia and Yugoslavia have been at outs since last June when Tito's Communist party was thrown out of the nine-power cominform on the grounds that he was too nationalistic and not a true Marxist.

The feud was intensified when Russia and some of her east European satellites drastically cut down on Yugoslav trade. Then Yugoslavia was left out of a conference in Moscow last month when Russia, Bulgaria, Hungary, Poland, Romania and Czechoslovakia organized E.C.M.A. as an answer to the Marshall plan.

The Soviet note, as broadcast by by Tass and recorded here by the Soviet Monitor, said Yugoslavia protested Feb. 1 that this was an act of discrimination and contradicted her treaty of mutual aid with Russia and the other east European countries.

Exclude Possibility

The Soviet reply, delivered in Belgrade yesterday, said the Yugoslav government itself "excluded any possibility of Yugoslavia's participation in the Moscow conference by taking up a hostile position towards the U. S. S. R. and countries of the People's democracies."

The reply said there was no discrimination against Yugoslavia and that Yugoslavia's "hostile position" was a complete contradiction of the Soviet-Yugoslav treaty of friendship and mutual aid.

As for the principle of equality in E.C.M.A., said the Soviet note, any attempt to represent it as something new for Russia "is one more proof of the hypocrisy of the Yugoslav government."

The note said the Yugoslav government was trying to mislead its people by false pretensions, while "conducting wholesale reprisals against, and arrests of Yugoslav citizens who stand for friendship with the U.S.S.R. and countries of the People's democracies."

The note concluded by saying Russia wished Yugoslavia could be a member of the E.C.M.A. but such participation "is possible only in the event that the Yugoslav government gives up its hostile policy."

HITCH HIKES HOME

Brockville, Feb. 12 — (CP) — Pte. William R. Dexter, 23, is here with his convalescing wife today after a three-day hitchhiking trip from North Carolina. He took to the road when bad weather grounded the plane which was flying him part way home. Dexter had been with one of the three Canadian platoons training with the Second United States Marine Division.

Just 17 Miles from Central London, Another World, Another Century

Chelsham, Surrey, England, Feb. 12 — (CP) — Seventeen miles from the whirling bustle of central London is another world, another century.

In it lives gentle, white-bearded James Wells, 78-year-old shepherd, with his 250 Dorsey Down sheep and 300 lambs, carrying the shepherd's crook that was his father's and grandfather's before him.

From the straw - covered lambing pens comes the dull tinkle of sheep bells. They are 150 years old and "out-of-date" but Wells still prefers them to any other.

"When the bells are quiet at night the sheep are quiet and I'm asleep," he said. "When the bells are ringing the sheep are disturbed — maybe a dog or something — and I'm awake."

Since two weeks before Christmas when lambing started, the old shepherd has lived in an iron-wheeled shepherd's hut with Jock, a golden-haired retriever. On the coal stove near the door are two babies' feeding bottles, for in every flock there are a few lambs who depend for their lives on bottle-feeding.

At 11 Wells left school and took his first job as under-shepherd to his father. There was no pay.

Wells was 16 before he received his first wage — six shillings a week with board and lodging. Since then, through peace and war, he has diligently tended his flocks year in and year out.

One night in 1940 the luftwaffe killed his dog and 83 sheep. His other dog pined for a week and then died — a severe blow, to the old shepherd.

"I've only been away from Chelsham once in my life and that was when I went down to Bognor. It wasn't so bad but too noisy for me."

'EVIL CONSPIRACY AGAINST LORD,' SAYS POPE PIUS

Mentions No Countries Or Communism by Name

Vatican City, Feb. 12 (AP) — Pope Pius declared today that an evil "conspiracy has been formed against the Lord" in certain countries.

The Vatican swiftly followed the apostolic exhortation, which called for special masses April 10, with announcement of major excommunication against "all those who dared raise their hands against the person of Cardinal Mindszenty" of Hungary, brought him to trial or participated in his "infamous sentence."

Cardinal Mindszenty was sentenced to life imprisonment by a court in Communist-governed Hungary Tuesday on charges of treason, espionage and black-market dealings.

The Pope's 1,000-word appeal did not name any countries, nor mention Communism by name. But there was no question but that the pontiff had in mind the trial, conviction and sentencing to life imprisonment of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, primate of Hungary.

The exhortation, dated at St. Peter's yesterday followed by four days the sentencing of Cardinal Mindszenty by a people's court on charges of treason, plotting to overthrow the government and engaging in black-market dollar deals.

Consistory to be Held

Two days hence, on Monday, the Pope is expected to deliver an allocution before an extraordinary consistory of the College of Cardinals condemning the action of the Communist government of Hungary in bringing Cardinal Mindszenty to trial.

In an apparent reference to recent moves for western European unity and the projected North Atlantic pact, the Pope said:—"We welcome with approval the steps that have been taken to United States together in ever closer alliances."

Such alliances, he declared, should help ward off civil discords and wars which in the future with new weapons will cause immense destruction."

The Pope opened his exhortation by declaring: "The conflict between the good and the wicked ...has seldom, if ever, been so acute as it is today."

He did not refer to Cardinal Mindszenty by name but spoke of the "glorious fortitude of martyrs" which, he added, "recall the early ages of Christianity."

On the other hand, said the Pope, "we are overcome by grief and anguish as we preceive the iniquity of the unrighteous reach a degree of impiety that is incredible and without parallel.

Strong Red Guerrilla Attack in Macedonia

Athens, Feb. 12 (AP) — The Greek army today reported a strong new attack by Communist guerillas against the town of Phlorina in western Macedonia close to the Yugoslav border. A staff communique said the action began last night.

A spokesman said that nowhere had the attacks broken through the town's outer defences.

Keays, After Five Straight Days on Stand, Given Respite By Adjournment of Hearing

Tired and noticeably haggard after the terrific ordeal of five straight days in the witness stand, Constable J. E. Keays was given a two-day respite Friday evening as the Royal Commission investigating Keays' allegations of maladministration of justice, perjury, and falsification of records by seven provincial police officers and a crown attorney, was adjourned until Monday.

Keays made the above allegations last October 30 when he tendered his resignation from the Ontario Provincial Police. Friday evening the hearing was adjourned by Commissioner Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay until Monday morning.

Commencing last Monday the investigation each succeeding day has seen mounting interest on the part of Belleville and district residents. With Keays as the central figure, persons crowding into the court room have heard the constable testify as to his allegations.

Appears Without Counsel

Appearing without counsel Keays for four straight days had told how senior officers of the force had tried to discredit him and how Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan had threatened him and interfered with his police investigations. Three other officers, he alleged, had submitted false reports or had falsified records.

On Friday the first of approximately 25 adverse witnesses, Judge C. W. A. Marion, former crown attorney for the combined counties of Prescott and Russell, gave testimony, while as the session adjourned, Keays was back in the stand for cross examination by Malcolm Robb, defence counsel.

Officer Awarded Medal

Judge Marion testified in connection with allegations against Sgt. J. A. Stringer of Ottawa who Keays said had given false evidence in connection with a double shooting at Navan, Ontario. In a gun fight Sgt. Stringer had killed one, John Miki, transient, after the transient had shot and killed O. P. P. Harold Dent. Sgt. Stringer had taken Dent's gun and followed Miki into the bush where he had killed the transient. Stringer was later awarded the police medal for his part in the shooting.

Keays claimed in his evidence that Stringer had fired but one shot, while Stringer in his report had told of a gun fight in which "several" shots had been fired. Keays said he had investigated the shooting for the provincial police.

Continuing the afternoon session with Judge Marion still in the witness box, Keays raised the question of the two revolvers produced as exhibits at the inquest looking into the double shooting at Navan in 1940.

Not Called at Inquest

Keays maintained that the revolver taken from the body of Miki and that taken from Sgt. Stringer had not been properly identified. He said he had been the only one in a position to identify the guns and he had not been called as a witness at the inquest.

Britain Hopes to Produce Steady 250,000,000 Tons Coal Annually in About Ten Years

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Feb. 12 (CP)—If miners co-operate, Britain hopes to be producing a steady 250,000,000 tons of coal annually in about 10 years.

Underground production last year was 196,000,000 tons. Target for this year is 210,000,000.

At National Coal Board Headquarters, engineers are studying plans for increasing output which have come from coal-producing districts since the mines were nationalized in January, 1946.

Technicians hope it will be ready some time this year, two years ahead of schedule. But its effects will not be felt before 1955, or perhaps 1960.

Considerable short-term reconstruction has already begun. This chiefly involves the improvement of underground transport.

"We think our standard of work at the coal-face compares favorably with that of other countries," an engineer said, "but we fall behind in moving the coal to the surface. "Mining techniques and coal formations here don't always lend themselves to the use of American-style cutting and loading equipment, but we're making big strides in developing our own machinery."

In its long-term planning, the coal board works closely with two other state organizations — British railways and the British electricity authority.

The electricity authority, now embarked on a big expansion program, is one of N.C.B.'s biggest customers. As such, it is being asked to become an outlet for lower-grade coal with high ash content.

No official long-term target has been set but 250,000,000 tons a year is generally estimated as the ideal to meet home and foreign consumption and maintain stocks.

But costs must be reduced.

"This country's done for unless we can produce more coal more cheaply," an N.C.B. official said bluntly. "All our production costs will be affected.

Thousands Marooned by Snow In California and Idaho, Zero Weather in Many Areas

Chicago, Feb. 12 (AP)—More than 4,000 persons were marooned today by heavy snows in California and Idaho and a mass of cold air pushed southward from Canada over the northwestern part of the country and moved into northeastern Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska and the Dakotas. It was expected to spread over Kansas, Minnesota and parts of Iowa and Illinois.

Temperatures dropped and winds up to 40 miles an hour and gusts up to 70 reblocked miles of the newly-snow-cleared highways and rail lines.

Below zero readings ranged from -17 at Lewiston, Mont., to -5 at Rapid City, S.D., as the cold front moved into the plains.

Northern New England also reported sub-zero temperatures today, with a low of -14 at Caribou, Me.

Four thousand dam workers living in trailer homes in the Feather River Canyon near Quincy, Calif., were cut off by heavy snow. They expressed fear their homes would be washed away if warmer weather set in or rains flood the river. A snowslide halted rail travel between Quincy and Oroville.

The food shortage became more critical for the 500 persons in Stibnitz, Ida., a mining community which has been snowbound for more than a week. A plane planned to fly 4,700 pounds of food to the town today.

Hay-lift operations were halted in many sections of Nevada and ground travel in many parts of Wyoming was at a near-standstill. Planes are ferrying passengers from stalled trains to Denver and Salt Lake City. Rawlins, Wyo., was getting food supplies by air as all roads into the community remained blocked.

St. Laurent Visits President Truman

Washington, Feb. 12 — (AP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent, making his first foreign trip as Canada's top official, today began a weekend visit which includes talks with President Truman.

The Canadian leader told reporters Friday night when he arrived in a Canadian government plane from Ottawa that he hopes concrete plans for the North Atlantic defence alliance will be ready soon.

He will lunch with the President at noon today and a formal discussion later.

COMMONS URGED TO HAVE NATIONAL MARKETING ACT

Curtailment of Food Sales to U.K. Stressed

Ottawa, Feb. 12 (CP)—Adoption of a national marketing act to provide greater security for Canadian agriculture was urged yesterday in the Commons by representatives of some of Canada's major food-producing areas.

Stressing the curtailment of food sales to the United Kingdom and the possibilities of reductions in other markets, the members said a national marketing act is necessary to provide for the orderly handling of Canada's surplus agriculture products.

The requests, made in the session's first debate on agriculture, brought no immediate response from the government. Agriculture Minister Gardiner possibly will express the cabinet's views when the debate resumes Monday.

The speakers included Thomas Reid (L-New Westminster); George Cruickshank (L-Fraser Valley); Robert Fair (SC-Battle River); F. S. Zaplitny (CCF-Dauphin); Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C. (PC-Nanaimo); Arthur Ross (PC-Souris) and H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West).

Centre on Resolution

The debate centred on a resolution to a bill providing for a one-year extension to the Agriculture Products Act, the legislation which gives the Canadian Meat Board, the Dairy Products Board and the Special Products Board the authority to purchase food needed to fill contracts with the United Kingdom.

Earlier, the Commons gave third reading and sent to the Senate the legislation providing for Newfoundland's entry into Confederation as a 10th province.

Trade Minister Howe announced the sale of Toronto's Christie Street veterans hospital to the city of Toronto for $100,000. It will be used partly as a hospital and partly as a home for the aged.

External Affairs Minister Pearson disclosed that conversations already have been opened with a view to developing trade between Canada and the new State of Israel.

Resources Minister MacKinnon said the government is giving serious consideration to the question of professional men among displaced - person immigrants being allowed to practise in Canada. It was a "difficult" problem because these professional men themselves decide who may practise in Canada.

The agriculture debate was swung to the question of wheat by Mr. Ross who said farmers have lost $2,000,000 through the United Kingdom wheat contract because other farm prices were based on the wheat price.

FRIEND TAKES MONEY

Toronto, Feb. 12 — (CP)—Two Nova Scotia men, Robert Higgins, 20, and Fred Green, 23, told police last night that a companion with whom they had pooled their money took all their possessions. They said the erstwhile friend took $54 from them at gunpoint and drove away in a car in which they had packed all their belongings. After living together in Toronto the three had decided to look for work in Montreal and were packed ready to leave.

Carr Arraigned Without Bail On Conspiracy Charge

Alleged Ringleader Soviet Spy Ring Tried on Feb. 21

Ottawa, Feb. 12. (CP)— Sam today on a charge of conspiracy and was immediately remanded without bail until Monday, Feb. 21 at 11 a.m.

The alleged ringleader in the Soviet spy ring did not plead and did not elect his method of trial, which could be before a magistrate or an immediate trial in a higher court.

He was not represented by counsel. He was returned to county jail after telling the court he would not ask for bail at this time.

Carr, brought to Ottawa Friday after being deported at Prescott, Ont., by United States authorities, wore a blue suit and red-and-white necktie in his initial court appearance. He appeared serious but not greatly concerned as he answered questions of Deputy Magistrate Joachiam Sauve and Crown Counsel Robert Forsyth with a slightly foreign accent.

Charged with Forgery

The charge read in court accused Carr of conspiracy with a considerable number of Russian Embassy officials and Dr. John Soboloff of Toronto, to forge a Canadian passport.

Turned over to the R.M.C.P. at Prescott, Ont., Friday by United States immigration officials, the stocky, bespectacled Carr was accused of carrying on his activities from 1942 to 1946 inclusive in Ottawa, the Ontario County of York and other parts of Ontario and Quebec.

First among the Russians named on the charge was Col. Nicolai Zabotin, the former Embassy military attache who headed the spy network.

Dr. Soboloff, a Toronto medical practitioner, has been fined in connection with the passport case. He is expected to be called as a witness in the Carr case.

Carr entered the courtroom with a number of plainclothes police and a group of men accused of other offences. He sat in the high wooden dock with four other men, a neat, impassive, clean-shaven man.

CROWN ATTEMPTS TO PROVE KILLING PREMEDITATED

Detective Says Finger Prints on Beer Bottle Those of Accused

Riviere Du Loup, Que., Feb. 12 (CP)—The Crown's case against Maurice Lebel, standing trial here on a double-murder count, gathered momentum yesterday when evidence adduced tended to link the slender 28-year-old backwoods trucker with the brutal slaying.

Through evidence given by five Crown witnesses on the third day of the hearing, including a small, frail woman who said she lived for years with Lebel, the Crown apparently was attempting to prove premeditation in the twin-killing.

Lieut. Maurice Deafiene of the provincial police testified that finger prints on a beer bottle found at the blood-spattered murder scene tallied with those of the accused. The bottle was found near the head of one of the two victims, Louis Philippe Breton and Wilfrid Dumais of Trois Pistoles.

Speaking in a tone barely audible to court officials, 42-year-old Marie Lavoie said Lebel owned a shotgun which he removed from the kitchen wall of their home at St. Guy June 30, 1948. This was day before the bodies of Breton and Dumais were found in a ditch by the side of a lonely dirt road 11 miles east of here.

She said the accused told her the shotgun was too long and that he was going to cut it. The witness said he took it to an upstairs room to saw off the barrel.

Heard Several Blasts

The following day she heard several explosions, but could not say definitely if they were caused by Lebel testing the gun through a window. She said there had been dynamiting on a waterworks project in the area at that time.

Indian Youth Admits He Lived Like a Hermit

Cornwall, Feb. 12 (CP)—Court officials here were baffled Friday by the case of Donald Jacobs, 16-year-old Cornwall Island Indian who admitted he lived like a hermit in his parents' home, subsisting on stolen food and using wood torn from the dwelling's floor and ceiling for fuel. Jacobs pleaded guilty to a breaking, entering and theft charge.

When no one responded to a plea by Magistrate Raoul Labrosse for a job for the youngster, the cadi said: "If this lad were a dog he would be cared for by the S.P.C.A. Why can't we have some group which could look after him? This is the real soil in which the seed of Communism is planted."

Sentiment for as Low as Five Cents Bought in Valentine Shopping

(By The Canadian Press)

It isn't the price tag, it's the sentiment —and from coast to coast you can buy Valentine sentiment for five cents.

For those of you who step up to the card counter and splurge on frills and red satin for the girl of your dreams, the ticket may run as high as $2.50. Nevertheless, a cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press reveals that sentiment is back in style.

The return of sentimentality has practically banished the sour, sarcastic card—the penny lemon that junior used to slip, unsigned, on teacher's desk. Gone too are the tricky, mechanical gadgets, the pasteboard dog with rolling eyes and wagging tail.

But when it comes to prices, the Canadian husband looks to the price tag for a guide—sales clerks report that men pay more for their wives' cards than women pay for cards to their spouses.

Flowers, candy and gifts enter the picture as well. Ottawa reports a rush for heart-shaped boxes of chocolates. Violets are hard to get in Montreal, but interest in Saint John, N.B., is high in Spring flowers and in red roses and carnations.

Variations 'of the traditional idea are springing up in various areas.

The personal touch is provided by Ottawa stores, which are selling material so that individuals can make their own cards.

Humorous cards are popular among Montreal office girls for sending to co-workers but in Ottawa the sales clerks, who should know, say such cards are not nearly as funny as a year ago.

In Edmonton the new trend is for adults to buy cards for children and the children's teachers. Valentine cut-out books have appeared here also.

Quicksand Holds Up Progress On Sewer Installation

Apparent lack of progress in the completion of installation of sewers along MacDonald Avenue and Victoria Ave., is causing considerable concern on the part of home owners in the Parkwood Heights area who are waiting to get into their homes.

This was stated today by Mayor D. L. Storey, who reported that more than two weeks ago he had reported the lack of progress to the consulting engineers responsible for the work. At that time Mayor Storey said he had demanded that progress be shown within a few days or that another contractor be put on the job.

It is understood that quicksand has been holding up progress of the work of sewer installation.

Citizens Complain Protection Is Not Sufficient

Complaints of lack of adequate protection for the public in connection with blasting operations being carried on by the McFarland Construction Company doing excavation work with respect to watermain installation in the downtown section of the city have been made, according to Mayor D. L. Storey.

"There have been several complaints of this nature with respect to blasting by McFarland's and I have taken the matter up with our consulting engineers Gore and Storrie," stated the mayor.

Complaints in the main have been that lack of protection has permitted stones to fly out of the trench with risk to damage being caused to both life and property.

It was also stated that adequate notice had not been given to pedestrians on the street before blasts were put off.

It is understood that the engineering firm has made a complaint to the construction firm with instructions to take all necessary precaution to prevent injury to some person, or damage to property.

Klimack Construction Company which is doing the work, have been instructed to "shore" the excavations depending on the nature of the excavation. Instructions have also been given the contracting firm to proceed with the sewer on Victoria Ave. and Bridge Street and until this work has been completed the MacDonald Ave. sewer north of Victoria Ave. will not be undertaken.

The engineering firm of Gore and Storrie have indicated that unless improvement in the progress of the work is shown another contractor will be brought in to take over certain portions of the work.

Elderly Woman Takes Stroke In Bathroom

Two instances of petty theft from automobiles parked on local streets were reported to police during the past 24 hours.

Scott Cameron, local salesman, complained that a number of calendar samples had been taken from his auto, while Frank Huff, Bridge Street, reported that a portable radio had been taken from his car which had been parked on Victoria Ave.

On the advice of a friend that he could not get an answer by telephone from an elderly woman living alone on Dundas Street, police investigated and found the elderly woman had taken a stroke in the bathroom of her home and was unable to get to the telephone to summon aid. The woman was taken to Belleville General Hospital by ambulance.

Ben Bleecker Vice President Ontario Fair Bds.

Toronto, Feb. 12 —(CP)— Ontario farmers were urged Friday to increase production of livestock as a means of raising the North American living standard and as a form of food stockpiling for hemispheric defence.

Dr. Karl D. Butler of Washington, head of an educational organization for United States Farmer Co-operatives, told the Ontario Association of Agriculture Societies that nations with large livestock herds have an automatic cushion between the people and the harvests.

"These herds simply represent stored food on the hoof. If the need arises, a part of the capital stock in animals can be butchered, adding to the immediate food supply and, at the same time, grain which the livestock would have eaten is released for human consumption."

E. H. Buck of Paris was elected president. Other officers are vice-presidents, Ben Bleecker of Halloway, George W. Boyer of Bracebridge; secretary, J. A. Carroll; treasurer, M. B. Cochran, Almonte.

In the women's division, Mrs. F. H. Henderson of Napanee was elected president, and Ina Hodgins of Carp and Mrs. W. A. Hume of Campbellford vice-presidents. Mrs. H. A. Dickenson of Mount Hope is secretary-treasurer.

Field of Eleven Go in Handicap At Santa Anita

Arcadia, Calif., Feb. 12 (AP) — Something of a preview peep at the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap two weeks away was expected today with the running of the $50,000 San Antonio Handicap at a mile and one-eighth.

A field of 11 eligible candidates for the big race was named for the San Antonio, but the field may lose a threat or two if showers continue to pelt the Arcadia Park.

Named for the fat purse, which carries a gross value of $63,300 provided all 11 go to the post, are the following:

Ace Admiral, On Trust, Oration, See-Tee-See, Vulcan's Forge, Rose Beam, War Trophy, Stepfather, Autocrat, Solidarity and Dinner Gong.

Ace Admiral remains a heavy favorite to add the San Antonio to his Jan. 29 victory in the $100,000 Santa Anita maturity for four-year-olds.

Farm Equipment Dealers Meet

Belleville and District Farm Equipment dealers held their regular monthly meeting and banquet at the Golden Acres Inn on Wednesday evening, all companies being well represented.

Mr. Harold Meyers of Truck and Farm Supply gave a very detailed report of the convention at Toronto. Mr. Meyers was appointed vice president of the provincial association during its session at Toronto. The guest speaker for the evening was Mr. Lorne McDougall of Lorne McDougall Insurance Agencies, Belleville.

Mr. McDougall gave a very interesting and instructive talk on insurance. Mr. C. Arthur Bateman on behalf of the members expressed their thanks. Mr. Bateman strongly impressed on the members the many advantages of placing their insurance with their local agent rather than with some company which might be a long ways away and take no active part in your community life. After a general discussion by all members, the meeting was adjourned to meet again next month.

BIG INDUSTRY

Canada provides three out of every five newspaper pages published throughout the world.

Fats and Oils Decontrol in U.S. May Ease Prices

Ottawa, Feb. 12 (CP)— Margarine may soon flow more plentifully into Canadian homes on a sea of edible fats and oils let loose from the United States.

The two commodities — major ingredients in the manufacture of the butter substitute and shortening—were for a long time scarce enough to make large-quantity margarine production difficult n Canada.

Fats and oils decontrol in the United States may also have the effect of easing prices of margarine, lard, salad oils and soap, government officials say.

It was lucky, said one government spokesman, that the immediate effect would be on lard, driving the price of that article below 24 cents a pound on the retail market.

Since there was no importation control on the amount of fats and oils which can enter Canada, there was also the possibility, said the same spokesman, that prices of other agricultural commodities may decline.

There would be an adverse effect, he said, on Canada's own small fats and oils industry which could not compete with American prices on the open market.

In pre-war years, when margarine was banned, Canada imported more than 200,000.000 pounds of oils and fats annually.

In Washington Commerce Secretary James Sawyer said individual shipments of fats and oils to Europe would continue to be licensed—to make sure they go to Marshall-plan countries — but that the quota limitations to particular countries no longer will be imposed.

The decontrol followed protests from Congress members and producers that the export curbs had served to build up surpluses in the U.S. and to lower American domestic prices.

The disclosure of the decontrol in Ottawa followed a Commons announcement that 71 more articles were removed this week from the dwindling list of goods requiring permits for export.

George McIlraith, parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, said the new removals reduces to 275 commodities. January 1,1948, it included 520 items.

Major items taken out of the restricted class are iron ore, linseed oil and flaxseed oil, household machinery and appliances, beans, peas, all fruits and all vegetables, except potatoes.

Both Parties Seem To be Determined To Battle it Out

Toronto, Feb. 12 — (CP) — Labor Minister Daley said Friday both parties concerned in the United Textile Workers (A.F.L.) wages strike at Penman's Mills, Paris, Ont., "seem determined to battle it out to the finish." There was nothing more the Labor Department could do, he said.

Mr. Daley spoke in answer to a question by opposition leader E. B. Jolliffe.

A 45-member delegation of strikers Friday asked Premier Kennedy to withdraw from Paris a provincial police detachment sent to the town to keep order at the strike scene.

The premier replied that the prvincial police would be withdrawn as soon as the town council, which asked that the police be sent to Paris, requested the withdrawal.

The premier said the government would do all in its power to settle the strike. He expressed hope that the company would see its way clear to accept Labor Minister Daly's invitation to enter into strike settlement talks. The union said it was willing to negotiate a settlement but the company made its acceptance conditional upon a return to work by the more than 200 workers.

"King's Men" Win 37-11 Victory In North Ireland

Belfast, Feb. 12 (CP) — Complete returns from voting in the Thursday election gave the "King's Men" at 37-11 margin in the House of Commons.

Tabulations on four other contested seats, held by Queen's University in Belfast, will not be available for some time. Voting there was conducted by mail. Political observers expect the majority Unionist Party, which favors continued union with Britain, to pick up two or three of these seats.

As the votes were being counted, Eire announced she will officially become the Republic of Ireland on Easter Monday, April 18. That is the 33rd. anniversary of the Irish rebellion against Britain.

The Eire Dail (parliament), when it passed the Republic of Ireland Act cutting Eire's last ties with Britain, left the way open for the six northern counties, largely Protestant, to join the 26 predominantly Roman Catholic counties in the republic.

Sir Basil Brooke, prime minister of Northern Ireland and a Unionist, said the election outcome showed Northern Ireland wanted to stay in the United Kingdom.

The Unionists and three Independent supporters held 38 seats in the old Commons, dissolved last month to permit of show of public feeling on the "King or Republic" question.

The Unionists' present count of 37 in the new house includes two Independent supporters.

The Nationalists won nine seats in the new Commons, compared to eight previously. Two Nationalist supporters — one Independent Labor and one Socialist Republican — also were elected. The Labor Party, which had 4 seats in the old house, lost all of them. The Labor members had been Nationalist supporters.

The Unionist count at the polls was about 235,000. The combined opposition ran up 137,000 votes.

One fact stood out —the Labor party, caught between two fires, had taken a severe beating in the straight "Orange and Green" battle.

The election result will enable Sir Basil to claim strengthened reaffirmation of faith on Ulster's part in the United Kingdom and British Commonwealth.

Longin' dear mother for you."

HOLMES—In loving memory of Mrs. A. Holmes, Cooper, who passed away February 12, 1943.

The depths of sorrows I can not tell
Of the loss of one I loved so well;
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep,
Her memory I shall always keep.
I often sit and think of her;
When I am all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.

Mrs. Sam Carr Now in Toronto

Toronto, Feb. 12. (CP)—Mrs. Sam Carr reached Toronto today from New York and said she planned to start organizing her husband's defence against charges that he is a Russian agent.

A tiny dark woman with self-assurance and ready wit, she said she was going to arrange for counsel for her husband, but had not yet decided whom to retain.

On the train trip to Toronto from Prescott, where she entered Canada after travelling from New York, she exchanged light banter with reporters and photographers. Meanwhile, her husband was being booked in an Ottawa police station on a charge of conspiracy to utter forged documents.

Reporters asked her about her future plans should her husband be convicted. She replied:

"I am sure he is not guilty of the charge."

Notes from St. Petersburg, Florida

By NELLIE ARTHUR

Extracts from the diary of Nettie Wardner: A continuation.

Monday, Nov. 29, we left our cabin at Sanford at 7 a.m. We passed lovely residences and beautiful pine groves as we came out of the city. A truckload of mules passed us heads pointing both ways. We just saw a moving train with a diesel engine, about the first since leaving Pennsylvania.

The land is level for a ways and we see many log tobacco buildings with fireplaces where they cure it. We just passed a lumber yard and its lumber as far as you can see. We just passed a car something unusual for us for mostly we let them pass us. A road leading off to the right has a row of pines on either side. The driver said this road goes to the famous winter resort of Pinehurst.

Soon we saw the large hotel there in the distance standing out above the pines. Then we came into the town of Southern Pines between three rows of pines on either side of the road, in fact the town, is built among pine trees. We had breakfast at Holliday's restaurant which we reached by leaving the highway and going down into the business section.

Having said good-bye to beautiful Southern Pines, we drive on through North Carolina to Laurinburg. Beside the road we see lots of little oak trees almost like a forest with leaves brown but still hanging on. We see large cotton fields with white bunches of cotton here and there on the withered low bushes. We got out and picked a few clean bunches.

At 11 a.m., we passed into South Carolina and from here to the end of our journey the land was perfectly level. The soil was still red and we passed real live oak trees and magnolias. We saw a station on whose platform were piled up about 100 bales of cotton ready to ship.

There are many groves of pecan trees here now. The tall graceful trees are almost bare of leaves and some nuts can still be seen on the trees inside of the bursted shells. We passed though Bennettsville and saw large homes with tall pillars, all white. We passed over a rough bridge above a wide river ,the Pee Dee, which has golden brown water. Then we came to Society Hall with its fine old homes and on to Hartsville, where we had a good dinner of beef, cabbage, black-eyed peas, bread pudding and Johnny cake at the Manhattan restaurant.

At Bishopville we stopped in front of the finest church. The windows are beautiful onyx with pale green and all colors around the outside. As we drove on, we came to a lake full of trees, covered with Spanish moss, which has a lacy look, is a sort of dirty grey color and hangs in festoons from the branches. Farther on we passed through the large city of Sumter. As the evening shades began to gather, we came to Summerton but could find no suitable place to stay.

Driving on, we came to the great Santee River, which is as wide as our Bay of Quinte. Far up the river we saw in its midst a great drowned forest, the branches and trunks all bare standing up like masts of ships out of the deep water. Over this river we drove upon a fine new wide cement bridge built since the driver passed over last April on her way north. At that time the old wooden bridge was marked unsafe. Just beyond the Santee River we came to a tourist court in the country consisting of about twenty cottages. Here we secured one with twin beds, $2.50 each. By eight o'clock we had had our supper out of our lunch box and were ready for bed.

Tuesday:

We left before it was really daylight. We soon reached a swamp district where the trees were standing in water and there were bridges every little ways. We entered St. George at 7.30 and stopped at the Hotel Palms for breakfast. The waiter brought us our boiled egg in a cup. The mistress of the place, an English lady, had noticed by our car licence that we were Canadians and brought us egg cups instead. We had besides a large soup plate full of oatmeal' with cream, toast and coffee all for 45 cents.

From St. George we went on towards Savannah and came to Walterboro where the highway drops No. 15 sign and taken on No. 17. There is Spanish moss everywhere. The land is very level. We came to Ridgeland and then to Hardeeville for lunch. It is getting warmer. I changed to my Spring coat today. I enjoyed my first piece of pecan pie at Hardeeville.

Then passing over bridges, above deep swamps we came to the Savannah River and crossed its mouth, here divided into several parts separated by swampy islands. On the south side of this river we entered Georgia at 1.30 p.m. As we came over a very high bridge into the great city, we could see away to the east, large ocean freighters in the harbor.

Leaving Savannah we came on down through small Georgian towns, past pecan groves and pecan stations, where the nuts are sold; past peach orchards and sawmills; over wooden bridges; past swamp lands nearer and nearer to the old town of Brunswick, Ga. We, however, could not reach it before nightfall but stayed at a tourist court twenty miles north, the Delta Cottages, at Darien.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

CIVILIZATION'S EFFECT

The coming of man to America has had a decided effect on bird life. Cutting down forests, burning (whether intentional or otherwise), draining land, ploughing the ground, building houses, and hunting—all these activities have, in several hundred years, gradually altered the habits and the numbers of many birds. There are species which now have become adapted to the new environment, are taking advantage of it, and actually thriving; others are being crowded off the continent.

Chimney Swifts have been given that name only since they have had the opportunity of living in chimneys. They used to build in hollow trees, as did House Wrens, Purple Martins, and Tree Swallows, all of which now nest in boxes when possible. Phoebes have taken a great liking to our bridges, making their nests on beams underneath.

Nighthawks in country districts still lay their eggs on flat rocks, but all our cities and towns have their families of Nighthawks brought up on roofs of tall buildings. Even Peregrine Falcons are forsaking their high cliffs for skyscrappers.

Probably the highest bird population are found in man-made sections such as parks and gardens where there is a great choice of habitat. Tall trees, bushes, grass and flowers bring a variety of species, and if nesting boxes and human dwellings with enticing eaves are added, so much the better. The farmers' fields are well-stocked larders for many kinds of Sparrows, Kingbirds, Bobolinks, Meadowlarks Rose-breasted Grosbeaks and Cowbirds while the hedges in between offer them cover, and are homes for numerous kinds of Warblers.

The Killdeer Plovers appear where forests have been cut down, Snowy Owls are attracted to city dumps to obtain rats, House Sparrows and Starlings find accommodation in every tiny opening in our buildings, Pheasants are being introduced and are protected.

But unfortunately some species have been entirely wiped out by the onslaught of civilization, while others are fast disappearing. Lumbering is destroying the territory of both Ivory-billed and Pileated Woodpeckers, hunters take more geese and ducks than is legitimate, the ignorant "habitant" uses the Great Blue Herons' wings to clean his stove, while the fisherman removes the food of Kingfishers and Ospreys. The tragic death of hundreds of waterfowl because of oil spread on the water is the latest way in which civilization takes its toll of bird life.

W. J. Johnson Honored on 84th Birthday

Saturday last was a day long to be remembered by two of Belleville's rural residents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Johnson, of Oliver's Corners, who, in company with their many friends and relatives, celebrated the 84th anniversary of Mr. Johnson's natal day.

He was the recipient of many tributes of congratulations in the form of lovely cards, letters, and gifts from friends, both in Toronto, Ottawa, and Madoc, as well as from the neighbors and community friends in his immediate vicinity, and from his son, daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. B. Sharpe, of Belleville.

One of the delightful surprises of the day, was the presentation of a very beautiful birthday cake, replete with all 84 candles, brought by Mrs. Carter, who also brought a dainty cake for Mrs. Johnson.

Several Friends Called

During the day several friends called, extending to Mr. Johnson their best wishes for the future, among whom were, Mr. and Mrs. Wright with their granddaughters, Marlyn and June.

The supper guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tucker, and the Misses Frances, Carol and Pearl; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Carter, Miss Audrey and Master Ray Carter and Mrs. Charles Colley.

Later in the evening, Miss June Livingstone, Mrs. Frank Tucker and Mrs. Cecil Carter served delicious refreshments, which with the singing of "Happy Birthday to You", brought a very happy day to a close.

The Blind and the White Cane

Attention for the past week has been directed to those persons who carry the white cane in their walk about the streets as a sign or emblem that they are handicapped by loss of sight. The blind are very industrious and active and the use of the white cane serves to draw to the attention of the seeing public that the carriers are so handicapped. They are anxious to help themselves and are a model for their more fortunate brethren who have sight.

They have impressed everyone with their marvellous acquired gift of walking without the sight that most men and women possess. Sometime in their lives darkness has come upon them but they have remained the most cheerful of persons and are a real antidote to many folks who though in full possession of all their senses are full of complaints. Not so the blind. They have a fine sense of responsibility and do not grouch. They carry the white cane to indicate their plight so that they may get along with the least trouble to others. They have many friends and at corners people are ready to help them across but if there is no one there, the white cane is an indication to motorists who are travelling that those on the roadway have lost their sight.

The cane has been one of the happiest of thoughts. It has served many well. It is honored wherever it is seen and the person who has to use it experiences a sort of reliance, responsibility and independence which he feels naturally just because it is respected and honored.

On the streets fortunately in these days of heavy traffic, there are always those who are willing to help one carrying the white cane, the emblem of their infirmity. It is a magnificent tribute to the spirit of humanity that men and women will give what little help or consideration they can in helping the sightless at crossings or in crowds.

They have many great achievements to their credit and they more than serve their day and generation by what they do in industry and in the home and in the arts. They are an example and those blessed with sight may take a leaf from their book of the lessons of life and profit greatly.

In courtesy they are unexcelled for their soul beams from the gratitude they feel for any marks of attention they receive and for the blessings of living.

These courageous folk show the way for kindness. They offer an opportunity for a little graceful service to a blind person now and then, by a trip in a car or a walk or a visit when shut in, when shopping or when someone can read to them.

The white cane is honored in a way that does credit to this generation in a fast moving world.

J. F. Pringle

The great brotherhood of railwaymen of all offices and ranks and large numbers of persons in various callings in Canada and the United States mourn the passing of Vice President J. F. Pringle of the Central Region of the Canadian National Railways. His sudden last illness came as a shock to the entire country as it removed a prominent figure in Canada's transportation history.

He had a notable career which reached its high reward in a most important office in Canada's railway life. He was a noted railway builder and his rise to his high post was official recognition of his natural gifts and his faithful and devoted service in the cause of the railways.

Intimate with every detail of the C.N.R. and always interested in those who man the system, he held the esteem and respect of every one in connection with the railways and in their relations with the public. He possessed a remarkable gift of making friends and preserving friendships which came from his sincere interest in people about him. As an official he gave devoted service throughout his life in which he placed his knowledge at the service of his position and his country.

In Canadian railway annals he will long retain the place he held. Outside of Canada he was wellknown as an engineer and had the honor of having been called in to help in reorganizing the national railways of Mexico.

A man with the gift of true friendship which made him friends wherever he went, he leaves a memory that will not be forgotten. By the officers and the staffs of the C. N. Railways he will be remembered as one who enjoyed their esteem by reason of the fine talents and traits of character he possessed and the interest he had in everyone of his fellowmen.

LINCOLN'S SHADOW

They knew not his greatness who saw him; how gentle
he was and how wise!
The heart of him bursting with sorrow; the pity that shone in his eyes,
But they learned it the moment he left them, and we who are living today
And are hoping for peace for our children, can hear him still telling the way.

"Be done with old hatreds," he whispers. "You are children of God, one and all.
I warned them, and you I am warning: the house that's divided will fall;
And never will bitterness vanish and peace in the world cannot be
'Til the rule of all tyrants is ended and the least of the nations is free.

"There's nothing more precious than freedom, and nothing more evil than might
That stuns into silence the voices that dare to speak out for the right."
Still the shadow of Lincoln lies on us, appealing to all with the plea:
"Though weary, rest not from your labors 'til the least of the nations is free."

The Packsack
of Gregory Clark

About this time in February, the fatal thaws occur which are the harvest home for the wolves. While the snow is deep and soft, a wolf is on short rations, snuffling on small game such as mice from their tiny dens. And poor provender that is for a big- winter-lean wolf.

But the thaw paves the snow. On his broad paws, a wolf can make speed and cover large areas of country over the crusted snow. It is the deer he seeks: the sharp-hooved spindle-legged deer, gathered in their winter yards. And the bucks have lost their antlers . . .

Anybody who has ever seen a deer yard after a family of six or seven wolves has raided it, can hardly help but be seized by a permanent hatred of wolves. On the east shore of Lake Superior, an Indian took me into such a yard. In the frozen cedar swamp, seven deer lay dead among the paths they had kept open all winter amidst their hide-away. Only one had been really eaten. The other six lay torn only enough to be killed, with a small portion chewed in the flank, as though the wolves had wanted no more than a tid-bit of the kidneys. We trailed them on to a distant swamp where they had indulged in another slaughter.

The Indian did not share my fury.

"Plenty of deer got away," he said calmly. "In maybe six weeks, female wolf den up in hills near these swamps to have pups. The females come down and feed on these deer. Pups feed on them too . . ."

"You suggest," I protested, "that the wolves deliberately slaughter these deer and put them in storage for the whelping . . .?"

"Yes," said the Indian. "They bite that hole in the flank so deer won't bloat and spoil. Freeze better. Keep longer. But, of course, wolf likes bad meat . . ."

At all events Indians, wolves and deer got along all right in the ages before the white man come to moralize upon them.

STRENGTH for The Day
Dr. Earl L. Douglass

FACTORS IN LINCOLN'S LIFE

Three factors stood out in Abraham Lincoln's life and contributed to his greatness.

The first was his moral character. Lincoln believed that he lived in a universe controlled by moral law. To him it was stupid and hideous that men should attempt to break that moral law. He recognized that he, the nation of which he was a part, and all the individuals in the world, were under the control of moral forces which they could defy only at their peril.

The second factor in his makeup was his sound common sense. Lincoln acted as if he believed that the principles and policies which worked in the management of a grocery store at New Salem, the Post Office over which he had presided, and the little farm his father owned, could be made to work in Washington in the handling of a nation.

The third outstanding factor of his life was his unusual spiritual insight. He could see straight into the hearts of men. He had a childlike dependence upon God. Every situation, no matter how secular it might appear, was to him a spiritual situation.

He was a man of great ability, but his overpowering genius lay in his penetrating insight into spiritual truth.

Mackenzie's Column: Reds Intensify Drive Against Religion

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The foreign office in London yesterday charged that the Communist governments of eastern Europe have launched a concerted assault on churches in order to wipe out ideological opposition.

This sweeping assertion was made in connection with the indictment of 15 leaders of the United Evangelical Church in Bulgaria on charges of spying.

Only a few days ago both Britain and the United States hotly condemned the Hungarian government's trial of Cardinal Mindszenty on charges of treason.

Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury and primate of the Church of England, commenting on the cases of Cardinal Mindszenty and Bishop Ordass, made this searching comment:

"We are witnessing a deadly struggle between the Christian faith and the Christian church on the one side, and on the other a Communism which will not tolerate any form of Christian church unless it be subservient to itself."

Same Purport

Communism is intensifying its drive against religion in all countries.

Our column long has been calling attention to this phase of the Red world revolution. We venture to emphasize the threat again, since it is one of the most dangerous aspects of the Communist assault on free men.

The Communists are impelled by the knowledge that no religious person could be persuaded to join in the Red assault on human rights. Hitler pursued the same scheme of trying to kill religion in Germany.

Of course religion can't be destroyed. Only yesterday I expressed the view that "good ideas can't be killed." Bad ideas die of their own cussedness in time.

Communism, being a bad idea, will perish ultimately. Meantime, however, the exponents of this evil ism can interfere with the working of religious ideals. They can—and do—deprive the young of religious education in many instances.

Wide Waging

The Communist anti-religious offensive is being waged wherever the ism has penetrated. There are few spots where the Red fifth columnists aren't carrying on their work. They certainly are busy in this continent.

Therefore it is encouraging to see not only individuals but governments giving outspoken recognition to the fact that Communism is engaging in a concerted offensive against religion. I could be wrong but I bleieve there is nothing Communism could do which would produce such widespread resistance to it.

Letter to the Editor

Seek Opinions on Need For Old Folks' Home

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

At the annual meeting of the Women's Christian Association, a discussion took place concerning its future activities. Since the General Hospital, which the Women's Christian Association has operated since 1885, has passed out of their hands to the city; and the government favors the amalgamation of the County and City of Belleville Indigent Homes, the latter of which the associaton has operated since 1880, the members of this society desire to continue to serve in some worthy effort.

They are considering the erection of a home for elderly people who can contribute toward their care. This home would not be operated for gain, but would have to be self-supporting.

The Association would welcome expressions of opinion from the public, by letter, regarding the need for a home of this type, in which elderly people could spend their twilight days in comfort, and be well taken care of.

Please address replies to Mrs. C. W. Burr, Cor. Sec., W.C.A., 4 Bellevue Apts., Belleville.

Asked regarding the possible angle the bullet which killed Miki had travelled Judge Marion replied "I don't know as to the position, all I know is that Sgt. Stringer shot Miki and I went by the result."

"All I know is that there was an exchange of shots and that Miki was killed," he said.

Man Not Called

Keays here referred to one George Smith who was claimed to have heard the gunfight. Smith had not been called at the inquest and previously Keays had charged there had been suppression of evidence.

"I knew nothing of the man at the time of the inquest," returned Judge Marion.

"I did not know anything of the man until today when I happened to sit beside him in the court room."

"Was Constable Keays called at the inquest?" asked Keays.

"You were told that you could not 'theorize' at the inquest," replied the witness.

"Your theory was that only one shot had been fired and that Sgt. Stringer could easily have taken Miki alive. "I could not build up a case on that theory."

"My question still is, was Keays called at the inquest?" again asked Keays.

Evidence Not Suppressed

"I don't know whether you were summoned at the inquest," returned Judge Marion. "But your evidence was not suppressed and you were treated well at the inquest. You said you would rather give up your uniform than testify."

The witness denied that Keays' evidence had been "subdued" at the inquest.

"What do you mean by subdued?" asked Judge Marion. "Do you mean you as a means of giving evidence, or the evidence itself?"

Judge Marion said that if as crown attorney he had thought Keays' evidence had been proper and reasonable it would have been used. He denied that he had ever told Inspector Cousans "Good God, I told them the story of Stringer had no sense."

"I don't know whether there was one, two or three shots fired by Stringer. I do know that Miki could see Stringer all the time and that it called for pluck and courage on the part of Stringer."

Not in Province of Witness

He said that Keays' evidence, if it had been given at the inquest, would have consisted mostly of inferences "which were not in the province of a witness."

"Sgt. Stringer was from Timmins or somewhere, visiting Navan on holidays and I am satisfied he did his duty as a policeman. If there had been any suggestion otherwise, we would have been laughed out of court."

Even with everything in the favor of Keays' theory that Stringer had killed Miki unnecessarily, Judge Marion said "that Stringer in the tenseness of the moment might have fired one, two or three shots." He admitted that Stringer's story "might have been lacking in details."

Asked regarding Keays' co-operation in investigating other matters, Judge Marion said that he had no adverse comment to make. He said Keays had been a good investigator and had investigated many important cases.

Under cross examination by Malcolm Robb, defence counsel, Keays stated he had joined the Ontario Provincial Police in 1937. Previously he had belonged to the R.C.M.P. joining in 1923 and resigning from the force in 1926 to go into business with his father. Later he had worked for an Ottawa dairy and was in the automotive business before joining the provincial police.

Came to Belleville in 1944

After being stationed at Perth, Alexandria and at Ottawa, he had been transferred to Belleville in 1944.

Mr. Robb questioned the witness to some length with respect to certain revolvers which Keays had brought to Belleville.

Keays said there were "seven or eight guns" which had been seized during investigations and had been brought to Belleville by his wife with their belongings when they moved to this city. These guns had later been returned to Inspector Cousans.

The witness admitted owning several other guns, some of which were not registered. "These had been part of exhibits in trials and had been given to him by the sheriff as souvenirs," he said.

Continue on Monday

Monday Keays will again enter the witness box to be cross examined regarding allegations made against Inspector W. A. Page of Belleville, Sgt. Stringer, Cpl. Sam Ervine, Constables G. R. Purdy and J. R. Driscoll and Miss Dorothy Dowdell, district police headquarters stenographer.

Following Keays being cross examined it is expected he will call several witnesses in substantiation of allegations he has made, while approximately 25 adverse witnesses will then be called by the defence.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

COURTESY — FRIENDLINESS

In travelling around, contacting clerks in stores, and making reservations at hotels, I find one of life's greatest assets sorely missing — just plain courtesy and friendliness. In many hotels I discover that it isn't service that you are asked to pay for but "anything that you can get!"

There are clerks in stores and hotels who make you feel that you are accepting a favor from them when you ask to be served. In many of these places courtesy and friendliness seem to be considered as a lost art. But in such places there always comes a time when it will mean lost business and lost prestige. The dispensing of courtesy and friendliness by any institution often results in greater dividends to it than any exchange of money profits.

The late E. M. Statler, successful hotel owner, made a phrase famous, that could well be adopted by all hotel owners. It was: "The customer is always right." Of course the customer may not always be right, but he can be made to feel that he is right, thereby retaining his good will and patronage.

There is no investment that pays bigger dividends than mere courtesy and friendliness, on the part of any store, hotel, or business institution. In the case of a hotel, it is the traveller's home away from home. He can't be treated too well or considerately. He'll carry the memory away with him. As a departing guest he will feel that he is a silent partner in the success of that hotel.

The "lush" days do not always last for long. There are the lean days. Courtesy and friendliness help tremendously to pad the latter for better times. In all walks of life these same qualities of courtesy and friendliness mean more than one may realize. They will never go out of "style" or become "old fashioned." Keep them alive and they will keep you alive — and prosperous!

WITH C O IT'S TOUCH OR GO

Carbon monoxide gas sneaks up on you.

You Can't smell it.

You can't see it. It is colorless.

You can't taste it if perchance you do notice a faint sweetish taste it's probably too late to escape.

It takes only one part of C O in a thousand parts of air to cause headache and other symptoms; two parts in a thousand to cause utter powerlessness and unconsciousness; three parts of C O in a thousand parts of air to cause death unless rescue is prompt.

Air polluted with C O is more dangerous to the rescuer than to the person already overcome, because any exertion which increases the rate of depth of breathing increases the intake of the C O.

Common fallacies, dangerous ideas regarding carbon monoxide asphyxia are (1) that there is no danger if there is no noticeable odor, (2) that a certain kind or kinds of burners or heating appliances will consume all dangerous gases or "fumes" and therefore do not require connection with flue by stove pipe and (3) it is time to do something about suspected pollution of the air with carbon monoxide when two or more persons are "overcome" or stricken with the symptoms or signs of anoxia.

Anoxia means literally lack or absence of oxygen. That is how C O kills—it doesn't poison the body but merely combines with the hemoglobin (iron coloring matter) in the blood and the combination is more stable than the combination oxygen forms with hemoglobin, so the blood fails to deliver enough oxygen to the functioning cells and tissues to maintain life. Life is a process of oxidation, combustion. Deprivation of oxygen—asphyxia — anoxia.

Symptoms which warrant suspicion of pollution of the air by carbon monoxide are sudden tightness across the forehead perhaps slight headache, flushing of the skin. If the victim continues breathing the polluted air he or she presently gets real headache with throbbing in the temples. If the victim cannot escape or is not rescued the next symptoms are severe headache, weakness, dizziness, dimness of vision, nausea and vomiting, perhaps collapse into complete helplessness.

Such effects are produced by minimum quantities of C O in the air. When any considerable quantity of the gas is present collapse and loss of consciousness occurs almost immediately, and death will follow unless the victim is rescued and resuscitated at once.

Most people now know that more or less C O gas is given off in the exhaust of gasoline engines, especially when the engine is being "warmed up" or the choke is used—as in a closed garage on a cold winter morning. Some people know the ever present danger to occupants of a closed car from C O pollution of the air due to a leaky exhaust pipe or other defects of the combustion system.

Portable gas heaters or fixed heaters without stovepipe connection with chimney flue or with the outdoor air are responsible for many deaths from C O anoxia every winter. It is particularly dangerous to have such a heater burning in the bathroom while one is taking a bath, or in a bedroom where one or more persons sleep without open window or windows. If you are so ignorant that you think "night air" is dangerous or the "draft" from an open window will give you pneumonia, rheumatiz or something, try a full sash window screen of unbleached muslin in the open window. That will exclude draft, wind, snow, rain yet give some ventilation—enough, perhaps, to save your life in the event of carbon monoxide pollution of the air in the night.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Poor Teeth and Gums

Daughter has red, tender gums which bleed when she brushes her teeth vigorously. Also several gum-line cavities. Have been giving her calcium phosphate tablets. Dentist's only suggestion was massage gums. (Mrs. H. R.)

Answer—She should have an adequate daily ration of vitamin D—say 1500 U. S. P. units. Citrus fruit daily. Throw away tooth brush, use only soft cloth over finger for cleaning teeth and massaging gums, cloth moistened with plain toilet soap and water. She should consume not less than 1 1-2 pints (three glasses) of fresh milk daily.

B-Complex Deficiency

For past year have had strange condition in legs from hips down to toes. They feel numb at times and cold, also the outer skin is sensitive. Also have the feeling that at times they are not going to hold me up, and to run a few steps is impossible. I am 42, weigh 150 pounds for years. (Mrs. H. R.)

Answer—Send stamped self addressed envelope, ask for pamphlet Wheat to Eat. Supplement your diet with an optimal daily ration of vitamin B complex—ask about that, too, when you write.

Office Temperature

What is the best temperature to maintain in offices where women predominate? (C. T. R.)

Answer—Provided the relative humidity is kept up to a fair level a temperature of 68 degrees F. will be most comfortable and healthful. If the air is excessively dried out, as in most offices, the temperature will seldom seem comfortable to a majority of the people in the office, no matter what it may be.

COMMONS URGED

Worried About Future

"The loss," he said, "should be made up out of the federal treasury and should not be left solely on the shoulders of the wheat products." Mr. Zaplitny and Mr. Fair supported this view.

Mr. Ross said farmers are worried about their future and they deserved proper national marketing legislation.

Mr. Reid said Canada is conscious of the sacrifices made by Britain during the war. However, he felt that Britain should, in trade arrangements, give some consideration to what Canada has done during the war.

He suggested that if Canada cannot obtain a higher price for eggs sold to Britain, the government should give Canadian egg producers the right to seek better markets. Now they have to sell to the special products board.

Mr. Cruickshank, who also comes from an egg-producing constituency, said his constituents want a national marketing act and he wished to see that they got it.

Should Be Lifted

Mr. Pearkes said that surely some of the exchange restrictions, which are limiting Canadian food sales, could be lifted to permit the distribution of products needed in many parts of the world.

He charged that the Agriculture Department is partly responsible for the plight of egg producers, because it encouraged increased egg production during the war. The production had soared from 1,000,000 dozen eggs in prewar years to 89,000,000 dozen.

Mr. Herridge dealt with the problems of British Columbia fruit producers and said that they, too, were demanding a national marketing act.

Mr. Zaplitny said that Canada once again will be faced with problems of "artificial" surpluses of food unless there is a marketing act. In the past there had been such surpluses at times when people in the world were starving.

Claim Alleged Confessions Show Influence of Drug

Vienna, Feb. 11 (AP) — Two persons who said they were handwriting experts at the treason trial of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty assert that their study of the convicted Cardinal's handwriting in alleged "confessions" showed he was under influence of drugs.

The two, Laszlo Sulnir and his wife, Hanna, were under protection of western authorities today after fleeing Hungary.

They turned over to them microfilms of what they said were the original documents used against the Cardinal.

They said the handwriting in the documents is similar to Cardinal Mindszenty's usual script, but that numerous variations indicated the accused Primate had been under the influence of drugs at the time of the writing.

The Sulnirs brought Hungarian police affidavits with them attesting to their official status as handwriting analysts.

They said they were called on by the Communist-dominated People's court to testify on the authenticity of the handwriting in the trial documents and to state that the writing showed no signs of an abnormal state of mind.

There was no immediate indication why the Sulnirs so testified in the Budapest court and then fled the country to reverse their testimony.

Psychiatrist Discusses Problem of Sex Education

An overall understanding of parents during the adolescent period of children will produce a finally satisfactory attitude towards sex problems so that children of today will make more understanding and less constricted parents of tomorrow.

This was advised by Dr. George D. Scott, Kingston psychiatrist, when he spoke to members of the Queen Mary Home and School Association on sex education, Thursday evening. Dr. Scott stated that education was nothing more than giving the individual practice in thinking.

The speaker pointed out if a child was given security, love, affection and understanding in the home, coupled with a simple explanation of physiological fact, the child would get through the early stage.

Later instruction could be given in physiology in the upper grade level so that some intellectual understanding develops.

Dr. Scott pointed out that actual "sex education" to the grade 8 or 9 student is stimulating sexually and thus defeats its own purpose.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. J. A. Clare with L. A. Kells extending the thanks of the Association for his informative address.

Mrs. Ray Poste gave a short resume of home and school association policies; following which a newly formed trio from the Association membership consisting of Messrs. Taylor Franklin, J. W. Jackson and W. J. Callum, gave several vocal numbers. Accompaniment was by Mrs. Franklin.

Mrs. L. F. Hopkins, convener of the Hobby Fair, referred to the forthcoming event and asked that all entries be in early.

The junior attendance banner went to Miss Houston's class while Mr. Locklin's class won the senior banner. Coffee and refreshments were served, including tasty portions of a birthday cake in honor of the association's Founders Day anniversary. Refreshments were served by Mrs. L. W. Pringle and her committee.

Princess Margaret To Visit Family Of Guardsman

London, Feb. 12 (CP)—A fresh romantic rumor developed Friday with the departure of Princess Margaret for picturesque Mountfield Court at Robertsbridge, Sussex. Mountfield Court is the family home of Capt. Tom Egerton, 21-year-old former Coldstream Guardsman.

For gossips, the 18-year-old Margaret's weekend has an idyllic sound. Friday night she was entertained at a family dinner party. Today she accompanies Egerton to the Lingfield races and to a dance in the evening. Sunday she will go with the family to the morning service at the ancient village church in Mountfield.

The public attached some significance to the fact that Margaret is staying at the home of a commoner. But a Buckingham Palace official pointed out that no precedent is being created. Margaret has many friends who are not titled and some of her mother's relatives are commoners.

The Egertons are connected with some of the best families in Britain. Tom, formerly a captain in the Coldstream Guards, is a direct descendant of Edward Christopher Egerton, a member of parliament in the 19th century, whose brother became Lord Egerton.

Met in December

Margaret met Egerton in December when she and her sister Elizabeth attended the Bertram Mills Circus at Olympia. The introduction was performed by Margaret's friend, the Marquess of Hartington. A week later she was seen with Egerton at a West-end theatre.

This weekend she is meeting his parents, Cmdr. Hugh Sydney Egerton, R.N., retired, and Mrs. Egerton for the first time. It is believed the Princess received a written invitation from Mrs. Egerton last week.

When Princess Margaret left Buckingham Palace by automobile Friday it was noted that she was smiling and vivacious—but Buckingham Palace officials betrayed no excitement.

Egerton is away most of the week attending a school of scientific farming. He is described as a jolly good-humored man, fond of the country and a keen horseman.

Cmdr. Egerton, former high sheriff of Sussex and still a member of the East Sussex County Council, is one of the biggest landowners in the country.

The Experts Say . . .

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Feb. 11 (CP)—The Irish aren't the only ones who claim potatoes as their favorite food. Down through the centuries the lowly spud has found its place on the best of tables.

Nor is its use confined to the vegetable side of a dinner-plate. Home economists of the consumer section, Dominion department of agriculture, have moved it into the class of glamorous desserts.

Potato Puff Pudding—Ingredients: two cups mashed potatoes; four egg yolks; one-half cup sugar; one-quarter teaspoon salt; two tablespoons blanched slivered almonds; one teaspoon vanilla; four egg whites.

Press potatoes through a sieve. Beat egg yolks with sugar and salt until very light and add to potatoes. Add almonds and vanilla. Fold into stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a greased pudding dish and bake 30 minutes in a moderately slow oven of 325 degrees fahrenheit. Serve hot with pudding sauce. Yield: six to eight servings.

If it is a supper dish the housewife is seeking, she might cook her potatoes another way.

Potatoes- and Cheese—ingredients: one quart of one-half inch potato cubes; one onion; three pimentos; two cups white sauce; one-half pound mild cheese; one-half teaspoon salt.

Cook potatoes and onions, finely chopped, in boiling salted water to cover five minutes. Add pimentoes, cut in small pieces and cook seven minutes. Drain. Turn into a buttered baking-dish and pour over white sauce mixed with cheese and salt. Bake in a moderate oven until potatoes are soft.

Cook potatoes in boiling salted water. When soft push through a strainer. Scald milk with onion, remove onion and add milk slowly to potatoes. Melt half the butter, add dry ingredients, stir until well mixed and add to the boiling soup. Add remaining butter and sprinkle with parsley.

quart of milk; two slices of onion; three tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour; 1 1-2 teaspoons salt; one-quarter teaspoon celery salt; dash pepper; dash cayenne; one teaspoon chopped parsley.

Potato Soup is another cold weather supper dish.

Ingredients: three potatoes; one

Baked Sweet Potatoes — Ingredients: six medium-sized sweet potatoes, two tablespoons butter; juice of one orange; one cup shredded pineapple, one-quarter cup chopped walnuts; one teaspoon salt; one dozen marshmallows.

Bake potatoes and scoop out shells. Mash potatoes well, adding butter, salt, orange juice. Stir in all the rest of ingredients except marshmallows. Refill shell with mixture. Cut up marshmallows. Place them on top. Replace the potatoes in hot oven until heated through and browned slightly on surface.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Correct Name for her check-Signature, letter-Signature

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My husband and I are going to start a joint checking account. What is the correct form for my signature. . . ."Mrs. H. John Brown" or "Mary E. Brown"? If the latter should the initial be that of the second name or the maiden surname?

2. Does the same hold true of all business signatures?

3. How should I sign this letter to you? Is this correct:

Yours truly,
Mrs. H. John Brown

Answer: 1. Your signature on your cheques, either for a single checking account or for a joint account, should not include the title Mrs.". A correct form, and the customary form, includes (a) your first name (b) your maiden surname and (c) your married surname: Mary Eastman Brown. This is a perfect form of signature for all occasions when a signature is called for. For cheque. For all business or professional letters. For letters to those persons you don't know or don't know very well. For your signature in a guest book, etc. It is a perfect form of signature because it immediately informs of your maiden name as well as your married surname.

If you wish (though it is not such a good form, because an initial is not as informative as a name spelled in full) you may use the initial of your maiden name: Mary E. Brown.

Also correct: If, for some special reason you wish to use in your signature your second baptismal name ('Ellen', for example) instead of your maiden surname, that's correct, but, obviously, not so identifiable as your maiden surname.

(2) Yes, as your signature to all business letters. However, on certain business papers you may be asked to sign your formal name also:

Mary Eastman Brown
(Mrs. H. John Brown)

or "Mrs." in parentheses before the informal name:

(Mrs.) Mary Eastman Brown

3. No. . .never, never should you sign your formal name to a letter, any kind of letter, business, professional, or social. Your correct signature to a business or professional letter, or to someone you dont' know very well or not at all, would be:

Sincerely yours,
Mary Eastman Brown
(Mrs. H. John Brown)

Choosing the partners . . . by Matching Valentine Pieces

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister and I are giving a St. Valentine party in our basement game-room, and we have most of our arrangements for games, menu, and so forth completed. But to get the party started we'd like to have a suggestion for an "ice-breaker". Not all the guests know one another, and this is our difficulty. However, there will be an equal number of girls and boys.

Meta R.

I suggest that for your first game you feature one that calls for the pairing-off of the girls and boys . . . no better way has ever been devised, I think, for a party "ice-breaker". And for this finding-your-partner idea on this romantic occasion it would be a natural to cut valentines (the fancier, the better) into two pieces, hide the pieces around the room, and when the signal is given, all begin to search for the matching pieces of the valentine he or she holds. Then these partners merrily set forth together on the first game you and your sister have planned.

One Piece Pedal Pusher

By ALICE ALDEN

THE PEDAL-PUSHER, practical and smart, is working its way nicely into the ranks of the resort costume, nice for the beach as well as for bicycle wear. Celanese tropical cloth is used for this number, which is really a one-piece affair. It has a cleverly devised trimming band that continues to form a pocket over the right hip. The band might be pine green, navy or cinnamon brown, all nice shades to set off the spanking white.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Parents can't dominate grown Children

It is a very hard fact for parents to face, but the truth is, that after sons and daughters are grown, they might just as well leave the young people to live their own lives in their own way, and cease definite efforts to influence them any more.

Parents have their chance while their children are small, and while they are growing, to instill in them the standards that will enable them later on to make wise and mature judgments and choices. When the children are of age, the parents' work is done, and if they try to take any further dominant part in the young peoples' affairs, it is usually only resented.

In the vast majority of cases, boys and girls who have been well trained by wise parents will come to no serious harm. Undoubtedly, they will make mistakes, for that is the normal human way of learning. But in the long run, they almost always come out on top, and all the parents can do is to have faith and confidence that they will do so.

That is about all I can say to a mother who is worrying about her 35-year-old daughter because she has fallen in love with a 49-year-old widower with two children. This, in itself, would probably not disturb her, but it is the character of the man, and its effect upon her daughter's happiness, which is the real cause of her distress. And, it would appear, with reason.

According to this mother, the man her daughter wishes to marry is "very selfish, cannot see anyone else's point of view but his own, is mean and revengeful. He is a weak character and always does what is easiest at the time. He never keeps promises, nor blames himself when he makes mistakes, but will lie and place the blame on others. I am sure the only reason he wants to marry my daughter is because it would be the easiest thing to do to let her take over his responsibilities. She will not listen to any of us, and is blind to all his faults."

If the daughter is determined to marry this man, her mother might just as well keep quiet and let her go ahead, even though she knows the young woman is making a mistake which she will almost certainly bitterly regret in the future. Curious though it is, few human beings are grateful to anyone who tries to keep them from making mistakes. Most of us prefer to go ahead on our own, independently, and resent interference even from those who mean best by us.

If the daughter does marry this man, and comes to grief later on, I hope her mother will have the good sense to refrain from an "I told you so" attitude. Her daughter is a grown up woman now, and should work out her life in her own way.

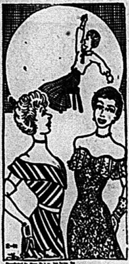
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Developing the bust.

One may deplore the wearing of "falsies" because of sharp abrupt lines, because they give too much fullness to the upper storey of the feminine torso. However, they perform a service because they provide support, prevent the sagging of tissues and muscles, a common condition among women who loathe calesthenics, never exercise.

A normally-developed bust is dependent to a certain extent upon the foundation of the chest. In the perfect feminine figure a beautifully curved line runs from the shoulder to the breasts. Without sound musculature underneath, these lines will not develop. A famous sculptor once remarked that "the breasts should live in enmity with each other" meaning that they should turn outward instead of forward. They may be set high or low upon the chest. They may be fairly flat, over-developed, rounded or pendulous. Nature seems to have numerous patterns.



There is a good chance that normalizing exercises will be rewarding.

Vigorous physical exercises and fattening oils are invaluable aids in building(up a more shapely contour of the bust. At figure remodelling salons this work is accomplished—sometimes. If there has never been normal development, no promises are made, thought even these cases sometimes respond to treatment.

The start is made by developing the chest, strengthening and improving interlacing muscles that extend from the shoulders into the torso. You can do that little thing by maintaining correct posture; it is energizing and promotes body balance. Never let the shoulders fall forward; when you do that the breasts have no support, the fibres become slack and weak, lose tone.

If the flat-busted girl will devote ten minutes a day to normalizing exercises, there is a good chance that her efforts will be rewarded.

Sit on a low stool, the legs out straight and rigid; bend the upper part of the body back, at the same time throwing the arms forcibly up and back until the head and shoulders rest on the floor and the fingers touch the floor. The purposes of these movements is to arch the chest and pull powerfully on the muscles that support the breasts. Inhale deeply on the backward movement, exhale when returning to first position.

An easier exercise is found in arm swinging. Double up the fingers in the palm of the hand. Stand tall, chest lifted. Send the hand forward, up and far out at the side, as far back as you can, swinging it in a high, wide circle. Six times with one arm, six with the other and repeat.

Every night massage the breasts with toilet lanoline, rubbing round and round with gentle upward pressure. Every morning spray them with cold water. Dry then friction with eau de cologne to stimulate circulation.

Fashion Flashes

"TRAVEL LIGHT" addicts, and that means most of us nowadays, are pleased that there are so many costumes made up of mix-and-match items. Going well together or with other garments is a four-piece beach outfit of white sharkskin printed in green and yellow leaves and flowers. Shorts, halterbra, skirt and bolero jacket make up the excellent ensemble.

SURFACE INTEREST marks many of the fine new frocks. Pale lilac chiffon, with all-over small shirring, is typical of this phase of the mode. The dress has a little sailor collar and a deep, plunging neckline, and is belted with iridescent violet patent leather.

A WINNER all over the country, whether shown in pure silk or rayon satin, is the little shortwaist dress in glowing jewel tones rather than black or navy. Nice in light sapphire blue, in moonstone blue, in absinthe green, in topaze —to name some of the favored shades.

TRAVELLER'S DELIGHT is the little dress of knitted ribbon, so simple to care for, so free from wrinkles and muss en route or when being worn. Aqua ribbon knit makes a charming little one-piece frock cut on shirtwaist lines with jeweled buttons and links of sapphire blue stones and gilt. Belt is in matching aqua suede with square buckle in sapphire blue enamel and gilt.

PLENTY OF PINK, that old favorite, marks the new Spring lingerie picture. Pale pink nylon sheer is used for a pretty nightgown with self ruffling forming the bertha collar and sleeves. Deep, plunging neckline, lace inserts dividing the V ruffling, and satin sash are other features.

FOOTPRINTS along the fashion lane for Spring will be in navy calf, judging from all indications. Lots of navy suede last year and not enough calf, is the reason given for the buyer demand for neat, tailored shoes of fine polished navy calfskin, many with single instep strap and low, gracefully curved throatline.

Hamilton Tigers Has Lead Scorer In the League

(By The Canadian Press)

The revamped Hamilton Tigers caused a liot of trouble as they wound up the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" schedule last night.

Fleet Johnny Conick paced the Tigers to a 4-2 win over the Dukes in Toronto. It was a two-fold victory for Conick. His four points gave him the individual scoring title and squashed any hope pudgy Howie Harvey, Toronto netminder, had of winning the leading goaltender's award.

Instead it gave Marcel Pelletier the Turofsky trophy when his Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen downed the last-place Stratford Indians 2-1 in another Senior "A" game.

In the Junior "A" loop, the fifth-place St. Catharines Teepees defeated the last-place Galt Rockets 10-2, the second-place Barrie Flyers downed the seventh-place Toronto Marlboros 5-0 and the fourth-place Oshawa Generals beat the sixth-place Guelph Biltmores 5-2.

Conick ran his point total to 72—consisting of 33 goals and 39 assists—and garnered the Moose Eccelstone Trophy. He tied the count 1-1 early in the second period and then assisted on three third period goals. Harvey needed a shutout to secure the Turofsky award. He finished up with a goal average of 2.74 a game for 38 games where Pelletier has 2.70 for 40 games.

Other Hamilton scorers were Tom Smelle, Clare Shillington and Brian Robertsn. Johnny McLelland and Chuck Blair tallied for Toronto.

Dutchmen Extended

At Simcoe the battling Indians made the Dutchmen extend themselves all the way. Goals by Bill Curick and Art Herchenratter in the first period carried Kitchener through. The Indians tallied late in the third period when George Blake counted. The win left Kitchener in first-place—four points ahead of Toronto.

St. Catharines went up 2-0 in the first period, made it 5-2 in the second and then scored Galt 5-1 in the third. Gerry Toppazzine paced the winners with four goals. Others went to Red Sullivan with two and Obie O'Brien, Bill Butchlen, Tom Buck and Bobby Knowles with one apiece. George Ford got two for Galt.

Little Gill Mayer made it his fifth shutout for the season as the Flyers drove into a 1-0 lead in the first period, made it 2-0 in the second and then tallied three more in the third. Paul Meger and Hall Hopper scored two goals each for Barrie. Real Chevrefils got the other.

At Oshawa, Louis Jankowski gave the Generals a 2-0 lead in the first period. Dick Gamble and Ted O'Connor made it 4-0 in the second. Lorne Ferguson and Joe Shaw tallied for Guelph. Both Oshawa netminler Shropshire and Jim Beasley in the opposite nets handled 33 shots.

Cornwall Calumets Gain Game Lead Against Ottawa

Ottawa, Feb. 12 — (CP) — Cornwall Calumets edged out Ottawa Army 3-1 Friday night to gain the lead in the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League semi-final series.

The victory gives the powerful Calumets a 3-2 lead in a best-of-seven series for the right to advance against Hull Volants for the league championship. Sixth game of the series will be played in Cornwall Monday with the final game, if necessary, in Ottawa Wednesday.

Cornwall's Eddie Emmerton scored two goals to lead the scorers. Webster knocked in the other Cornwall goal. Don Grant tallied for Army.

Army opened strong with the first marker of the game by Grant at 12:46 in the first frame. But the Calumets rallied quickly, starting their three - goal effort at the 12:11 mark in the second period. Emmerton scored the first of his two at 19:14 in the middle stanza and then came through with Cornwall's third pointer at 3:29 in the final canto.

Solunar Tables:

Make Your Shots Count

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted sportsman, author and creator of Solunar Tables)

Every upland gunner, regardless of experience, is guilty of two of the common errors that seem to be part and parcel of field shooting.

The first, and perhaps the most common of these, is the business of taking a hurried snap shot at a flushing bird when there is plenty of time for a leisurely aimed shot.

The second error, most common among the beginners, is the tendency to blast away at any bird in sight, regardless of range. Usually the result of these two blunders is crippled game in the covers instead of well-shot, dead birds in the game pocket.

In these days of increased gun pressure and reduced game populations, with shooting chances none too plentiful at best, the wise gunner will do well to make every shot count.

A wounded bird, more often than not means a wasted bird, easy prey for any predator, and we simply haven't enough birds to allow us to take chances with them.

Speedy Shots Wasteful

Most youthful gunners take great pride in the speed with which they can mount a gun and crack down on a flushing bird. Nine times out of ten there is a little point in making a speedy shot.

Flushing birds, be they quail, grouse, woodcock or pheasants, don't move out of effective killing range with the bullet-like speed with which they are credited.

Thus, when a man makes a hurried snap shot and manages to centre his bird, he takes home with him a badly shot specimen that is torn up, sometimes to the point where it is not usable as table fare.

Should he fail to centre the bird, then he misses it entirely or, worse yet, cripples it with a few pellets from the edge of the pattern.

Last fall I carried with me a stop watch and I made good use of it during the pre-season training days when we were giving my big setter, Spot, his "warm-up" runs to harden and sharpen him for the heavy work later on.

My job was to handle the dog while my companion would carry a revolver and fire over flushing birds to complete the normal sequence of events as they occur in actual hunting.

Both my son, Dick, and his partner, O'Brien, are handy boys with a gun. When a bird would flush, the one with the gun would aim to the side of the bird and fire.

The best that either of them could do was one and two-fifths seconds. Slow, you say? All right, get somebody to time you some day on flushing birds under actual hunting conditions. We were conducting these tests on woodcock and those little buzz bombs make you think twice before you shoot.

Having satisfied myself on the speed element, I next tried timing the birds themselves to see how long i took them to move out of effective range. To my surprise, I learned that the end of four seconds the average flushing bird was still within reasonable effective range.

Many years ago, when I was still in my late 'teens, an old-time grouse hunter who used to shoot for the market told me something about grouse shooting.

"When a bird gets up," he said, "say to yourself, 'there — he — goes.' That will give you plenty of time to mount your gun, figure your lead, and knock him down."

Properly spaced, the way he said it, that "there — he — goes" routine takes about three seconds.

Tells of Example

Knowing all this, I told myself, repeatedly, to take my time and centre my birds. Despite this self-schooling, I made the mistake twice of snap shooting at dodging woodcock that were twisting their way up through the branches of the cover.

Result — I missed one completely and had the doubtful pleasure of standing with an empty gun while I watched him fly away within easy range, mottled brown against the blue October sky.

The other bird I crippled and then paid the price of hunting him down. Spot and I found him two days later, with a broken wing tip but otherwise in good working order. Either one of these birds could have been cleanly killed if a little more care had been used.

The second error — that of attempting to kill birds that are beyond the effective killing range of a shotgun — is a matter that each gunner must decide for himself.

He knows his gun and his ability to use it. How far away his personal "killing range" happens to be is something only he can decide.

Perhaps the matter can be summed up best like this — don't shoot unless you believe you can make a clean kill. Wounded birds, more often than not, mean wasted game. These days, there isn't a bird in our covers that we can afford to waste.

Bill Quackenbush And Harry Watson Battle for Trophy

Two amazing men will be throwing checks at each other when the league-leading Detroit Red Wings invade Maple Leaf Gardens for a clash with Toronto Maple Leafs tonight.

Amazing, that is, in these days of slam-bang, helter-skelter hockey prevalent in the National League. Real "gentlemen" in all sense of the word are Detroit's Bill Quackenbush and Toronto's Harry Watson. Each has yet to draw a penalty with three-quarters of the schedule completed.

That the Lady Bing Trophy for sportsmanlike play will go to one of these two is almost a lead-pipe cinch.

For Quackenbush, a defenceman, going 46 games with his spotless record still intact is indeed a remarkable feat. No defenceman has ever won the Lady Byng.

On top of his clean play, Quackenbush is the leading scorer among the N.H.L. defencemen with six goals and 12 assists. He figures to take down $1,000 for making he All-Star team, and another $1,000 for the Lady Byng, if he makes the grade.

Watson's record is nearly as impressive. He is eighth in the scoring race with 19 goals and 16 assists. His 19 markers are only one less than the leaders, Sid Abel of Detroit and Chicago's Jim Conacher, have chalked up.

After tonight's game the Red Wings move over to Boston for a Sunday night battle with the Bruins, while the Leafs journey to New York to take on the Rangers. In other weekend games, the Rangers visit Boston tonight, and Montreal Canadiens play the Black Hawks in Chicago on Sunday.

SCORES THREE GOALS

Washington, Feb. 12 — (CP)— Ray LaPlante scored three goals Friday night to pace the eastern division-leading Providence Reds to a 10-2 victory over Washington Lions in an American Hockey League game.

Bryan Hextall and Chirp Brenchley scored the Lion goals. Pete Kapusta and Eddie Kullman scored twice for Providence. Jack Hamilton, Jack McGill and Johnnie Chad tallied one each.

Golab Will Play Where He's Posted By the Air Force

By H. DENT HODGSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Feb. 12 — (CP) — Between gridiron seasons, there's always a lot of fuss about what team will obtain the services of Tony Golab the following fall. The person least likely to give a definite answer on the subject is Tony, and for an excellent reason — he doesn't know.

If you ask him, for example, about the report he will coach Winnipeg Blue Bombers next year he admits there have been negotiations. But chances are he will give you the toothpaste smile and explain that the one team he wants to be sure to be on at that time is the R.C.A.F.

PILOT AS WELL—He may be an all-Canadian back to football fans but as far as Tony Golab is concerned, he's a pilot first and a grid star second. This photo shows the Ottawa Rough Rider's star at the controls of the R.C.A.F. Dakota No. 1000—top plane of the service's 412 squadron—the Very Important Person squadron that flies top

Being just another fly — say around the flight room at No. 412 squadron at Rockcliffe airdrome, Flt. - Lt. Golab is in no position to arrange his own postings.

Tony, in his own book at least, is first a pilot and second the all - Canadian backfielder who enjoyed one of his best years with Ottawa Rough Riders last season. He likes flying and he's happy in the service.

As an old Spitfire pilot with a tour of "ops" and some 1,600 hours of flying in his log - book, and a sprinkling of shrapnel scattered through his hefty frame, he is one of the few "fighter types" who managed to convert satisfactorily to transport planes.

Wounded North of Cassino

His jaunts with 412 Squadron take him anywhere from the Arctic to the British West Indies, as sky - driver for the high brass of government and the armed forces.

He was with the R. A. F. throughout the war, working with the Canadian troops in the initial assault on Italy, and his shrapnel wounds were picked up half - way through his tour of Ops, over enemy lines a few miles north of Cassino.

Tony was down shooting up a convoy of lorries on an Italian road in the same area. He was just pulling up from the job, when four Jerries appeared out of nowhere. One of them hit him with the ftirs — the first burst.

"I bailed out about 500 feet above the ground and everything blacked out," he explains. The parachute barely opened before he hit the ground, and the fall resulted in the twisted hip that sometimes gave him trouble on tht gridiron now.

Finished Out Term

Tony later finished out his tour with the 8th Army in July, 1944.

When Golab hits an opposing football line, his momentum is still helped by the shrapnel from the Rome job. Seven chunks have been removed, but he picked up 15 pieces in his left arm alone and a large piece lodged near the bone in his calf also lends weight to his line punches.

Tony came back to Canada in 1945 and tried civvy street, as a placement officer in the selective service branch of the labor department. He didn't like it and was back in the service in seven months. He hopes to stay there.

League Likely To Remain 6-Club Loop

Watertown, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP) — The Border Baseball League probably will remain a six - club league for the 1949 season, President John G. Ward said Friday night.

Ward made the statement as club owners convened to discuss a schedule and by-laws for the class-C circuit.

The league has operated with six teams since its origin in 1946.

Ward did not amplify his statement.

Corning and Oswego representatives have been interested in obtaining a franchise. Ward previously has said that Corning was ready to enter the circuit but its status was dependent upon the signing of an eighth club. He said Oswego had been given until 10:30 a. m. tomorrow to complete negotiations.

The present members are Watertown, Auburn, Geneva and Ogdensburg in New York State, Kingston and Ottawa.

Watertown fans are negotiating with James F. Doyle of Syracuse for the purchase of the Watertown franchise. Doyle has operated the club for three years.

Rockets Juniors Defeat Kingston Pattons 8-4 To Win Sixth Straight Victory

The Belleville Rocket Junior "B's" after getting a terrific first-period scare in the Kingston Jock Harty Arena last night went on to dunk the Kingston Pattons by an 8-4 score to chalk up their sixth consecutive victory in the district group.

The Pattons, not the least daunted by the proud standing of the Belleville team flew to the attack at the face-off. They slammed home two goals in the mid-session of the period and rested on their laurels at the session end.

The second period was different. And so was the third. The Rockets, stung by the first period reverse struck back quickly, savagely. They potted four goals in the second period as against one from the opposition and the third chukker heaved in another quartet of rubbers to —clinch matters.

Pattons, paced by Anderson and Beatty took the measure of the Rockets in the first period and it looked as though one of the biggest upsets of the loop was imminent. But they hadn't reckoned with the Rockets.

Led by Nolan

Led by Joe Nolan, the Rockets started to click and when the period ended, they led by a 4-3 score. Nolan potted a couple with Johnny Green and Jud Semark accounted for the remaining pair. Anderson flung home the sole counter of the visitors in this period.

Still in offensive style, Rockets rammed home four more goals in the third period while Anderson, scored his second goal of the Patton evening. And that was that, perhaps with the fact that Don Semark got himself a 10-minute misconduct penalty when he ran across the wrath of the officials.

Green Paces Team

Johnny Green, potent defenceman of the Rockets paced his team's attack with three goals, although he indulged in a bit of fisticuffing in the second period with the Pattons' Hackett. Joe Nolan got himself a pair of goals while Bonny Trussell, back in harness again, garnered four assists. Jud Semark, Peter Jones (the old smoothie) and Dougie Bone accounted for the rest of the Rocket scores.

Anderson, Anson and Beatty went well for the loging kids. The teams:

Kingston Pattons: Goal, Gaseley; defence, Boyce, Hackett; centre, Cliff; wings, Foster, Anderson; subs, Montgomery, Anson, Beatty, Twigg, Butler, Evans.

Belleville: Goal, Wright; defence, Taylor, Schreider; centre, Jones; wings, Jud Semark, Hogan; subs, J. Green, Don Semark, Trussell, Graham, Nolan, Bone, Barrett, Creeggan, McKay.

Blind Skier Says Sports a "Must" For Sightless

Kitchener, Feb. 12 — (CP) — Peter Lipnicki of Kitchener, believed to be Canada's only blind skier, says sports are a "must" for the sightless.

The 25-year-old piano tuner and rooming house operator has added skiing to his other sports achievements, which include tobogganing, ice and roller skating, bicycling and track.

"A blind person has a lot more difficulty getting around if he doesn't take up sports," Peter said. "They develop his balance and give him a measure of confidence."

Lipnicki, who suffered an eye injury at the age of four and was totally blind at 11, developed his balance while learning to ride a bicycle. His younger brother rode on the handlebar and gave directions, calling "one" to turn right and "two" to swerve left.

At the Ontario School for the Blind in Brantford, he excelled in track. He also studied piano and violin, both of which he plays well, and organized the Concert Youth of Canada, a group of teen-aged musicians who toured the Dominion.

While tobogganing with his wife Alberta this winter, Peter stood up on the sled and right then decided to learn to ski.

He and his wife took lessons and after learning the basic rules, Peter asked his instructor: "Let's go a little higher."

Sticking to the gentler slopes for a start, Peter climbs them to judge distance. On the downgrade, he lets his poles drag lightly to help him avoid falls.

Whenever they can find a baby sitter for six-mont-old Carol Anne, the Lipnickis can usually be found following one of their favorite sports.

IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 12 — (AP) — Bobsleds stood idle here today while a solemn requiem mass was said for Max Houben, 53-year-old Belgian driver who was killed on the Mt. Van Hovenberg run Thursday.

The world two - man championships, to have opened this morning, will be held tomorrow.

Houben died in hospital after his sled crashed over the rim of the run at "Shady Corner." His brakeman, Jacques Mouvet, remains in critical condition at the hospital.

McCullagh Gives $100,000 For School Rink

(By The Canadian Press)

A $100,000 hockey arena on the campus of Trinity College school at Port Hope, Ont., will perpetuate the memory of Peter Campbell, Toronto sportsman and business executive who died last fall.

The steel and red brick structure, to be known as "The Peter Campbell Memorial Arena," is the gift of George McCullagh of Toronto, publisher of the Globe and Mail and the Evening Telegram. The donation was announced Friday night at Toronto.

Larry Johnson of Winnipeg won the senior men's three mile race, only final of Friday's opening card in the Canadian amateur speed skating championships at Saskatoon. The two - day meet started in sub - zero temperatures with a biting wind, as more than 75 skaters started competition with opening heats in four events plus the senior three mile.

Ralph (Bucky) Buchanan, 26, star right winger from the Quebec Senior Hockey League, will probably make his National Hockey League debut with New York Rangers Saturday night in Boston. Now with Shawinigan Falls Cataracts, he will play with the last-place Rangers for two games, Manager Frank Boucher said Friday.

Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League announced Friday Ed Kryzanowski, Topper Toppazzini, and Dave Creighton have been sent to Boston Bruins of the National League. From the Bruins, Hershey will get Cliff Thompson, defenceman. Jud McAtee, left winger, has been recalled from Tulsa Oilers of the United States Hockey League.

G. R. Meech Friday night skipped his Toronto High Park rink to a 12-6 victory over Dr. Jack Malcolmson of Toronto Curling Club to capture top honors in district four playoffs at Toronto. Meech's rink will compete with other district winners for the right to represent Ontario in the Canadian curling championship at Hamilton.

University of Toronto girls routed a McGill girl's team 15 - 0 Friday, in an intercollegiate invitational game at Toronto. Ferne Watson, Varsity forward, scored nine goals and Alison Jeffries got four.

At Bayreuth, Bavaria, two German light heavyweight boxers knocked each other out in a contest here. Peter Clages of Dusseldorf and Mathias Wagner of Munich each landed a hard punch to the other's jaw at the same moment. Both men slumped to the canvas and were counted out.

At San Antonio, chunky Johnny Palmer shot a five-under-par 66 Friday to take the lead at the midway mark of the $10,000 Texas open with a 36-hole total of 133. In second place was Dick Metz who laid down a 68 to go with his 66 of Thursday for 134. In third place was Chick Harbert with 136.

The three St. Louis Cardinals who jumped to the Mexican baseball league would be welcomed back if Commissioner A. B. Chandler lifts the five - year suspension on players who went south of the border. "We'd be glad to have the boys back." said Cardinal owner Fred M. Saigh, Jr. The three Cardinals who jumped to Mexico in May, 1946, are pitchers Max Lanier and Fred Martin and Infielder Lou Klein.

Ottawa Rough Riders Friday night announced that Wally Masters, coach of the 1948 eastern Canada champions, has been re-engaged for the 1949 season. Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

Europeans Will Be Big Noise At Track Meet

New York, Feb. 12. (AP)—Europeans, the big noise so far of the indoor track season, have bolstered their ranks for tonight's New York Athletic Club games at Madison Square Garden.

The foreign visitors probably will dominate at least two of the top events—the Baxter mile and the Toussaint two-mile.

The Toussaint, which usually is forced to take a back seat to the glamorous Baxter race, doubtless will shoot to the forefront with Gaston Reiff of Belgium and Erik Ahlden of Sweden fighting it out for top honors.

It will be the third match between these two Olympians.

Reiff and Halden finished so close together in Boston that they both were caught in 8:55.5. Two weeks ago Reiff defeated Ahlden in the Millrose games in 8.56.1.

Pep Regains Featherweight Title of World by Decisioning Sandy Saddler in 15 Rounds

New York, Feb. 12 — (CP) — Willie Pep still has it. Battle-worn and weary with 11 stitches in cuts around both eyes, Wee Willie again holds the featherweight boxing championship of the world after a four-month lapse. Sandy Saddler, the spindle-legged Harlem slasher who dethroned Pep on a fourth-round knockout Oct. 29, yielded to the ex-champ in a savage 15-round brawl last night at Madison Square Garden.

No man in modern fight history ever recaptured the undisputed 126-pound crown after he lost it, before Pep did the trick.

The stage is set for a rematch, a third chapter, of this duel between Pep and the only man who ever knocked him out.

Next summer at the Yankee Stadium is the logical site for the third duel provided Harry Markson director of the 20th Century Sporting Club can make the match. Both managers, Lou Viscusi of Pep and Charlie Johnston of Saddler, will be in this afternoon to collect their 30-per-cent cheques of the $87,653 gross paid by the sellout mob of 19,097.

Johnston had a beef about the work of referee Eddie Joseph, who, along with the two judges, made the verdict unanimous. Charlie thought Joseph gave Saddler all the worst of it in the clinches. Once, in the second round, Joseph was unable to break the fighters. When he did, Pep stepped on Sand's foot. It was that kind of a brawl. No quarter given nor asked.

Big Betting Fight

If Joseph had let them have their own way inside the fight would have slipped out of control. Both like to hold and hit, shove and push and wrestle to get an advantage.

Pep started out as a favorite and then support shifted to Saddler. Early this week Pep was the choice and was as high as 5 to 8 Thursday night. A deluge of Saddler cash swung the odds and made Sandy the favorite at between 5 to 7 and 5 to 8 at ring time. Somebody took a "bath" on that switch, for it was a big betting fight.

The fight was fairly close but the Associated Press card had it 9-6 in favor of Pep. Referee Joseph scored it 10-5, judge Harold Barnes had it 9-5 with one even and judge Jack O'Sullivan voted 9-6 for Pep to make it unanimous.

It was a popular decision with the first Garden sell-out since 1946.

Pep was a reasonable carbon of the old master who has lost only two fights in 139. Adept at throwing a series of jabs, he found Saddler an open target for the right cross. Always, or almost always, he was on the bike, retreating and counter punching. Saddler, 124, was the aggressor all the way, but as Pep said afterwards: "He didn't catch me off guard this time."

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By TRECOR ICETON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Feb. 12 (CP)—It may yet come to pass in these days of overlapping sport schedules that Joe Fan can go swimming outdoors in the morning, take in a football game in the afternoon and watch his favorite hockey team the same night.

Jack (London Free Press) Park notes that the National Hockey League is "seriously considering" the adoption of a 70-game schedule for next year.

"The excuse for such a move is to satisfy the fans," he writes. "The fact that it would add the revenue from five home games to each of the club's coffers is incidental. The boom for a 70-game schedule got much play at the last meeting of the league. Since then attendance has dropped off in many spots and it could be that the league as it is now constituted has reached its peak."

More Worries

"It has often been suggested that the N.H.L. add four more teams to operate as a 10-club circuit. Several of the larger sport spots south of the border have shown much interest in such an expansion, but the current franchise holders, great exponents of the 'what - we - have - we -hold' school have never given the suggestion official thought.

'When pinned down they usually shrug it off by saying there are not enough players to go arouno. They are probably not worrying too much about any bids for recognition, but some day they may wake up to find that an opposition major league has been formed."

On the Field Again

Annis Stukes, Toronto rugby veteran turned sportswriter, is under consideration by the Edmonton Eskimos to coach that team in the western rugby football conference next autumn.

"He is a very competent football man and a hearty, incomplicated character who would feel right at home among the uninhibited westerners," says Jim (Toronto Globe and Mail) Coleman.

"In the best interests of the Edmonton Eskimos and Stukus, he should be offered a three-year contract. If he is hired he will be starting off with a bunch of untried youngsters and four or five Americans.

Snowshoers Hold Spotlight At Winter Carnival

Ottawa, Feb. 12 (CP) — This city's first winter carnival since 1931 will be well under way today with snowshoers holding the spotlight of the day's performances.

With Viscount Alexander acting as "honorary starter," some 300 of the colorfully-garbed "raquetteurs" will launch into races from the cricket grounds of the Governor-General's residence at Rideau Hall.

Features of the meet will be a hurdle race on snowshoes and a "forced march" walking race of four miles, for which the Governor-General has donated a special trophy. Ottawa and Montreal district snowshoers will take part.

Always a rollicking bunch, the snowshoers will attend an evening dinner at Lansdowne Park and participate in a torchlight parade from there to a downtown hotel, when a carnival queen will be crowned on the front steps.

Candidates for queen have been narrowed down to three comely Ottawa girls, Pat McFarlane, Norma Munro and Beverley Armstrong.

Meanwhile, contestants for the 90-mile international dog derby will start arriving with their huskies and malemutes. The derby, to be run in three heats Feb. 15-17 inclusive.

At the same time, 10 miles north of the city in the snow-clad Gatineau Hills, the second phase of the Central Canada ski championships will be run off.

The Quebeckers swept the first phase of the three-day meet yesterday as Tom Dennie won the 10.7-mile cross country race in one hour, 20 minutes and 32 seconds. Alex Alain, also of Quebec, finished second despite a fall two miles from the finish line which snapped one of his skis.

What often gives me bad results? My head is not a pimple. While looking for the difficulties, I overlook the simple.

First glance at a tough contract can be misleading. Immediate impression may be that some unusual scheme must be employed. This is what happened when I started reading about the deal shown here:

NORTH
♠J 8 4
♥K J 10
♦J 9 8 5 3
♣Q J

WEST	EAST
♠A 6 5 2	♠K Q 10 9 3
♥9 7 5 3 2	♥6
♦K 4	♦Q 10 7
♣9 3	♣10 7 6 4

SOUTH
♠7
♥A Q 8 4
♦A 6 2
♣A K 8 5 2

Report of this deal in the nationals has south as declarer at four hearts. West cashed spade ace for the first trick and then leads another spade. The loss of two more tricks can be afforded.

So, look at what gives. Preliminary survey makes you think the ten needed tricks can be peeled off the top. They are four trumps, diamond ace, and five clubs.

But the second spade lead changes the complexion of things. A south ruff of the second spade will reduce his hand to three trumps. There are six trumps in opponent hands to worry about.

Unless each has the unlikely holding of three, opponent trumps will not pull in time. The most expected division is four and two. Good play should provide for at least four in one hand.

This is a warning that straight tricks after pulling trumps is not a good plan. So, a hunt is made for treasure that may be hidden. Or for something elusive on the surface.

Or so it seems. And many players in the match are reported to have done this. But when they ran up against the five west trumps they were sunk by this plan.

One master player made the contract with what was a simple method. Dig it out of there.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 12 — (AP) — Seasoned observers weren't surprised at Sam Goldwyn's recent tirades against Teresa Wright and Eric Johnston. They just added two more battle stars to the producer's long combat record.

Goldwyn fired actress Wright and resigned from the Producers' Association, whose head, Eric Johnston, then commented: "Good." That set Sam off. He unleashed a rebuke accusing Johnston of using the association for his own publicity.

Independent

Goldwyn offers a refreshing note in a town too often marked by staid official announcements. Fiercely independent, he's not afraid to tangle with anyone.

Soon after he merged his interests into the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, he left the big firm to retain his independence. Nothing makes him madder than the mistaken notion that he still has connections with MGM, one of the big studios he has often condemned.

In his long battle history, we find Sam resigning from the Producers' group the first time in 1933, accusing one of its members, Jack Warner, of "bootlegging talent."

In 1936, Goldwyn himself was the object of a $5,000,000 suit by Paramount for allegedly snatching away Gary Cooper. It was settled by a friendly agreement.

Too Complacent

In 1938, Sam returned from Europe and took on all of Hollywood. "There are too many inferior people in the film business," he declared.

In 1946, he accused Hollywood of "fat-cat complacency" and said the industry had "run dry of ideas."

Goldwyn sued to break his United Artists contract in 1940 claiming the firm "maliciously attempted to drive Mr. Goldwyn out of business.' He has carried on long-range wars against theatre chains and double features.

At some time or other, Goldwyn has argued with all Hollywood columnists about something they have written about him. I am expecting a phone call any moment.

AT THE CAPITOL — A violinist entrances Audrey Long and Frank Sundstrom in "Song of My Heart," Allied Artists' musical hit based on the life of Tchaikovsky and due Monday at the Capitol Theatre, for its first Belleville showing. On the same program "The Hunted," starring Preston Foster and Belita, world famous ice skater. Matinee daily at 2.00 p.m.

AT THE BELLE — June Allyson and Gene Kelly are the lovers in MGM's all-star Technicolor version of Alexandre Dumas' immortal novel, "The Three Musketeers," starring Lana Turner arriving today at the Belle Theatre.

In Manhattan:

Richard Whorf's Version Of Richard III Entertaining Large Audiences at N.Y.

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Feb. 12 — (CP). — The accent is on bloodshed and violence in Richard Whorf's version of Shakespeare's "Richard III" which came to New York this week.

It's a stream-lined, swift-paced production of the story of a dark page in England's history. The emphasis is on the berserk fury that drove Richard to the bloody deeds through which he achieved the throne.

Judged as a melodrama, it is good theatre. Whorf makes a forceful Richard and he has assembled a cast which fits well into the savage tone of the production.

The production at the Booth Theatre, directed by Richard Barr was at its best when the hunch-backed plotter who reached the throne was hatching his dark deeds.

Mae Triumphant

After an absence of 21 years, "Diamond Lil" is back on Broadway.

To those who saw her create the title role in 1928, Mae West seems timeless and immune to age. Her fabulous acting carries the play.

Here again is the slight roll of the hip as she undulates across the stage; here the light toss of the head as she murmurs her famous phrase: "C'm up and see me s'mtime."

The flimsy plot revolves around Lil, who is Queen of the Bowery and sweetheart of the district's political leader. They are engaged in various nefarious activities, chief of which is a white slave ring.

Into this picture steps a Salvation Army captain. Virtue triumphs in the end.

As its second offering of this season, New Stages, Incorporated, is presenting a Spanish peasant drama called "Blood Wedding." The principals in this tragedy by Garcia Lorca appear as types rather than individuals.

A young man is about to be wed, despite the foreboding of his embittered mother, who still laments her husband and another son, both slain in inter-family quarrels. His fiancee, however, is in love with a married man and she and her lover flee from the wedding feast. They are pursued and her lover and her husband kill each other. That's the story.

It has been given a painstaking production that is deeply moving at times, though the tragedy is too long protracted in the final scene for effectiveness. Ralph Alswang's economically-designed sets and lighting add much to the atmosphere. Alexander Scourby is fine as the lover who makes off with the bride and Sarah Cunningham gives a forceful performance as the grieving mother.

AT THE McCARTHY — Frankie Carle and his piano enliven the activities in Columbia's "Mary Lou," at the McCarthy Theatre today. Second hit is O. Henry's great story of a horse, "Black Eagle."

BACK TO STRENGTH

The Netherlands mercantile fleet reduced to half during the war regained its pre-war capacity of 3,000,000 tons gross by the beginning of 1948.

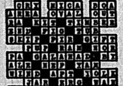
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



Little Benny's Note Book

Saturday afternoon I was sitting on the curkstone talknig to Puds Simkins and wishing something would happen, saying Heck, this has been a heck of a Saturday.

Sure, good night, it's been like a funerel, Puds said, and I said, The fellows are around in the empty lot kicing Skinny Martin's football. How about going around? I said.

Aw heck, I'm tired of kicking that old football, Puds said, and I said, Sure, Skinny thinks he's doing everybody a big favor by letting them kick it. Let's not give him the satisfaction. Oh boy, last Saturday was the Saturday, when Glasses Magee and Sid Hunt had their big fite, I said.

ell hay, let's us do the fellows a real favor by pretending we're having a fite, Puds said.

Sounding like a swell idea, and we went around to the lot and started to jump around each other waving fists, and the fellows came running over, yelling, Fite, fite, soak him, Benny, don't let him talk to you like that, Puds.

And me and Puds kept on jumping up and down and shooting out our fists without getting close enough to be dangerous, and the fellows started to yell, Aw, get in there and fite, what's you scared of, what's you doing, fighting or dancing?

And somebody gave me a fierce push, and my face accidentally went into Paul's fist, and hit him a shot back just out of paneful excitement, and Puds got mad and hit me on perpose, and the next thing we knew we were fighting for real, and the rset of the guys were all yelling happy, and just then Mr. Flannery the cop started to come up, saying, Hay, what's going on, cut that out, and everybody ran including me and Puds, giving us both time to cool off, so we disappointed everybody by shaking hands to prove it was over.

Labor Minister Will Not Meet Union Delegation

Paris, Ont., Feb. 11. (CP)—A bus load of United Textile Workers of America (A.F.L.), now in their fourth week of a wages strike against the Penman Woolen Mills here, left today for Toronto to lobby the provincial legislature.

The legislature, which opened yesterday, was scheduled to begin debate today on the Speech from the Throne.

Union spokesmen here said the group would ask their case be heard in the House and would present a petition asking provincial police be withdrawn from the town.

In Toronto, a Labor department spokesman said Labor Minister Daley did not plan to meet the Union delegation.

An earlier meeting with the minister was cancelled when company officials declined to attend a conference while the strike was in progress. The spokesman said Mr. Daley had other engagements for today and would not be available to meet the delegation.

Not Due to Violence

An autopsy conducted last week by Dr. W. J. Deadman on the body of Mrs. May Cardy, a non-striking employee of the Penman Mills, was reported today to have revealed the woman's death was not due to violence.

Mrs. Cardy left work Jan. 19 following a picket line scuffle and suffered a stroke Jan. 28. Doctors said the stroke caused her death.

Two textile Union members—Arthur Gignac and Mrs. Lillian Gillow—were charged with intimidation with violence and now are appearing in court here where 21 others face charges arising from the strikers' activities.

Along the picket lines here all was quiet as the plant opened today. Some of the 625 mill employees, not striking, continued to enter the plant for work.

Several pickets were reported to have gone to Brantford, seven miles distant, to assemble outside the Watson Manufacturing Co., a Penman plant, to seek support from Watson workers.

New Touch Added

A new touch was added to the strike scene this morning when two young children carried large placards in a picket line. A five-year-old boy carried the sign "my dad is fighting for better wages." His nine-year-old sister stood beside him, holding a placard with the words: "Why don't you help him?"

Staff Inspector F. B. Creasy voiced criticism of the union's tactics in bringing small children into the picket line. Organizer William E. Stewart replied that the union was quite within its rights.

For their lobbying of legislature members the strikers took to Toronto mimeographed copies of a statement outlining the history of the strike, and drawing attention to the company's refusal to negotiate.

"It is most naturally our wish to conclude the strike at the earliest possible opportunity," the statement said.

"The refusal of the company to meet with the minister and the union is ample evidence of the attitude which that company holds towards both the union of its employees' choice and towards a minister of the Crown.

Take Along Petition

The strikers also took with them a petition asking for withdrawal of provincial police from Paris. They reported the petition signed by more than 1,000 persons.

The threat of extension of the strike to other Penman plants was seen in this part of the union statement

"Since we can find no justification whatsoever for the position of the company, the union is seriously considering what action may be taken in the other Penman mills throughout the area.

"It was and is, our hope that a settlement could or can be reached without necessitating stoppages of production in other Penman mills.

Senator Haig Predicts Federal Election Will be Held June 27

By HAROLD MORRISON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Feb. 12 — (CP) —Say you were prime minister of Canada and had to decide the date of the next general election, what would you do?

For one thing you might do as Senator John Thomas Haig did. The 71-year-old Senator says he envisioned himself in the prime minister's shoes and out popped the answer — June 27.

That's the date he's betting Prime Minister St. Laurent will pull the election trigger — and the Senator is standing by his guns. This, he believes, will be one of the shortest sessions in Canadian history.

He's sure it's June, as he says: "I don't think the Liberals will want George Drew and his accomplished wife to campaign up and down the country till next October."

By March 31, he believes the government will have obtained approval of certain vital legislation. A luscious budget full of tax cuts will come down early in April. Its passage, says the Senator, will take about three weeks.

Other legislation will be dropped, he thinks and this will leave roughy 60 days between the dissolution of parliament and preparation of electoral machinery. Therefore to have it on the last Monday in June, the House must dissolve April 27.

That gives Senator Haig his date. What's yours?

Hudson Seal?

M. W. Mackenzie, deputy minister of trade and commerce, told this story this week as a Senate committee considered a bill to provide for proper labelling of commodities:

A fur dealer in a certain city was selling coats made of dyed rabbit as Hudson seal. The department warned him once that, at the request of the trade itself, the government had passed an order-in-council forbidding such deceptive practices. Nothing happened.

Another warning was sent, the final prelude to legal action. In his next newspaper advertisement, the dealer repented. His ad read "Genuine Hudson Seal (Dyed Rabbit)."

Encirclement

It's finally happened in the Senate — the shrinking cluster of Progressive Conservatives has been physically encircled by Liberals.

On a normal sitting now, nine or 10 Conservatives sit together in the front centre seats of the opposition side of the Chamber.

Now for the first time facing them, behind them, and on either side sit Liberals.

And small wonder. There are 14 vacancies, 67 government supporters — and only 15 Conservatives.

Jolliffe Says No Steps Taken To Avoid Charge

Toronto, Feb. 12. (CP)—Opposition Leader E. B. Jolliffe told the Ontario Legislature Friday that at no time did he take any steps or speak to any person to avoid being charged with speeding.

Mr. Jolliffe referred to newspaper reports of a Royal Commission sitting at Belleville to hear charges of miscarriages of justice made by Ontario Police Constable J. E. Keays against several of his superiors.

Constable Keays quoted Corporal Sam Ervine of having advised a provincial police constable not to prefer speeding charges against Jolliffe because "Jolliffe might be elected". Keays said that when Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan was asked for advice, Mr. Donnan said: "Don't charge Jolliffe, he's a good friend of George Drew."

Mr. Jolliffe told the legislative body that when he was stopped for speeding, he asked that the summons be sent to his Toronto office. He heard no more of the summons.

TANKS HELP IN RESCUE OPERATIONS OF MAROONED RANCHERS

This U.N. Air Force rescue unit weasel-type tank is shown hard at work on rescue operations in the blizzard-struck sections of Nebraska cattle country where ranchers have been marooned for days by weather conditions. This picture, made near Chadron, Nebraska, shows a Weasel dragging a sled load of supplies to a stormbound ranch. It was flown back to the field from the scene of the operations. Snow blizzards in the entire U.S. western states have resulted in frozen livestock being made a part of the cattle country scenery.—Central Press Canadian.

Whisper In The Night

BY MARIE BLIZARD

Angela Rutherford was standing in the middle of the room. Her cheeks were stained with tears. She looked very young and pathetic.

Rosalie forgot that she had been cold to the point of rudeness. She said, "Oh, my dear . . ."

She took a step toward the younger girl, but Angela had turned swiftly. She went to the dressing - table. She powdered her nose, repaired her lips and brushed her hair. Rosalie stood uncertainly where she had stopped.

Angela turned around quite calmly and said, "Sit down. I want to talk to you."

Rosalie sat down. Not without being angry at herself. because she did.

Angela said, "Are you in love with him?"

Rosalie opened her mouth and closed it again. What right had Angela Rutherford to ask her a question like that?

Angela didn't wait for an answer. She said, "If you are, you'll be decent about it."

Rosalie said, "I don't like this I'm a guest in your house so I can't tell you how much I don't like it, but . . ."

"Listen, Miss Bates, you're not the injured party. I am! If there is any not liking to be done, I'd say it was my turn. I'll also say this: I love that man and now he's going for you. Well, if you're not smart enough to know what you have got, maybe I'd better tell you that in spite of all appearances, he's the best there is. And you play fair! Don't satisfy your ego at his expense. Leave other men alone!"

There was a back passage to the lower floor that the servants used. If she could find it, she could slip out without being seen. Rosalie, standing in a state of wild confution outside of Angela Rutherford's door, could not bring herself to facing those people in the living room. Let them think what they would about her abrupt departure.

She tried three doors and the last one opened into the staircase. With unsteady feet she found her way down in the darkness. A sleepy-eyed maid was sitting at the kitchen table.

"Please tell Mrs. Rutherford I had a headache and didn't want to take any one off from the party to see me home," she said to the girl.

Cecil had telephoned for a carriage. She stumbled once or twice in the dark uneven footing but finally found her way to the garden gate. The car was there.

Gettig in, Rosalie pulled her wrap tight around her and sank her chin into its fold. Then wave after wave of conflicting emotions swept over her. Anger and humiliation, resentment, a sense of inferiority, a sense of superiority succeeded each other in a shattering procedure.

Angela was an ill-bred, stupid brat! But calling Angela names did not cool her anger for allowing herself to be put in such a position. It hadn't been her fault that Angela's red - faced Tubby had crushed her in his arms. But it had been her fault that she had not been able to tell that to Angela. The little fool! What would any woman want with a man like that.

Then came resentment toward all the Tubby Reids in the world. Fat, dull, good-for-nothings, she labelled them. Men who had nothing to do but fish — in Florida, at Montauk, in Alaska. Men with tons of money and no character. While men like Tom and Terry had to struggle to maintain life and their ideals. A man like Terry . . .

She wondered why Marion had not told her how Terry was getting on. You could still be interested in a man even if you were not in love with him any more. Marion had written about every one in Elmford and never a word about Terry. Well, if Terry wasn't interested in her any more, there were plenty of men who were. There was Luther Kane and Georgie Frame and Cecil and now Tubby.

Tubby! The circle of her thoughts went 'round and back to the beginning. The painful beginning. Would Angela Rutherford have dared to speak to her like that if she had been a girl of her own set.

Clop. Clop. The beat of the horse's hooves beat a tattoo in the back of her head. The angry blood there made it echo so that the walls of her room spun around when she laid it on her pillow and fell into a troubled sleep.

The morning was bright and sunny, but sleep had not quieted her anger or banished her feeling of humiliation. She munched at tasteless toast and tried to think of a course of dignified procedure. The sum of her thinking was that she would run away. She never wanted to see any of them again. Except Cecil. And if she saw Cecil, she would have to tell him why she was running away.

She didn't want to tell Cecil. Cecil made her feel that she would never take part in a scene, never do the things that other bobheaded girls might do. Cecil put her on a pedestel. If she didn't see Cecil for two or three days, she might be able to work out a different state of mind. The point was how to get away from seeing Cecil.

Somerset was a pretty small place and he turned up some time every day. And today, hearing that she had fled because she had a headache, he would be sure to come around.

She pushed her tray aside and jumped out of bed. It was half-past nine and at ten o'clock Dr. Lackland's boat party was starting on a picnic. Both Luther and Georgie had asked her to go.

Luther had said, with a drawl in his voice and a teasing gleam in his eye. "No use, George. Rosalie is strictly a moon-light girl. She wouldn't like cooking hot dogs and steak and drinking a plain man's beer."

Wouldn't she?

She showered hastily, bound her head in a bandana and got out a play - suit, a rough sweater and her rubber - soled shoes. A hot dog and being herself was exactly what she did want.

The others were already at the dock and getting aboard when Rosalie ran down the road. "Wait for baby!" she shouted and was delighted to see that a shout of welcome went up.

"Who changed your mind?" Luther demanded wickedly when they had set off across the water.

"You sure you don't mean what?"

"I think the word is who. Your chin looks very square this morning. Got a mad on?"

She shook her head. "Who—me? Why I'm always a little ray of sunshine, known as the girl with the perfect disposish'. I'm here because I want to see the Aquarium."

She saw it. Fascinated by the wonders contained in the flower-covered building, she forgot for a little why she was seeing it. The toylike sea-horses, the giant lobsters, the dreadful devilfish, the under-sea fish that look like flowers, the barracuda, the big and little strangers to her eyes — oh if Tom could see them!

That day they rode in glass-bottomed boats over the coral reef and marveled at the lovely things to be seen moving and waving beneath them. And in Harrington Sound she allowed herself to be persuaded into donning a diving helmet and going under the water "to let the fish have a chance to look at you," as Luther put it.

And when the afternoon was late and they'd had a swim and the fruit and the sandwiches were gone, they chugged their way across more waters to a tiny island where they built a great fire and sang while they cooked their supper.

Sleepy, calmed by the stars and the breeze, Rosalie rested her head against the pillow Luther placed for her and thought of her day.

"Happy?" he asked.

"Umm." She said it before she thought. Thinking reminded her that she had not decided what to do about the Angela situation.

"I told you fun was more fun than romance."

"That remark sounds like, it's cooler in the country than in the summer," she said lazily. Or perhaps it was sleepily.

It was only ten when they docked at Oxford Gardens. It had been the best day Rosalie had had since her holiday began weeks before.

There was a light in her room. She saw it shining through the windows, ran up the steps of the porch and pushed her door open hastily.

Cecil was sitting in the chair beside her desk, reading. She was aware of thinking that she looked exceedingly healthy, and not very much like a girl who had been suddenly stricken quite ill the night before. She said, "Hello!" rather weakly.

He got up at once. "I hope you didn't mind my waiting, Rosalie."

"Oh, no."

"I've been worried about you, I came over this afternoon. When you left last night..."

"Didn't the maid tell you I.. I had a headache . . . and . . . and didn't want to break up the party?"

"Yes, but Angela said you were quite all right."

Rosalie could feel her face stiffen. She said, "Angela said what?"

Thousands Of Miles Of Roads Blocked In West States

Winds Cause $50,000 Loss, Tornado Hits Edna, Kansas

Chicago, Feb. 14 (AP)— The misery dealing blizzards in the western United States have opened up a broad new front in North Dakota today with the worst 24 hours of weather the west has had in two weeks.

Six North Dakota counties were added to the disaster area as a result of weekend storms which stalled relief and rescue operations in some parts of Nebraska and reduced them by 50 per cent in others.

A minor tornado damaged a few buildings at Edna, in southeastern Kansas. At Alvarado, Tex., strong winds lifted some residences from foundations and scattered them over a wide area. There were no fatalities at either place, but damage at Alvarado was estimated at $50,000.

In southern California, temperatures sank deep into subfreezing levels again.

Ranchers Need Fuel and Food

The new North Dakota emergency area embraces six southwestern counties. Additional snow-fighting equipment was moved into the 7,500-square-mile area today from other sections where the need for it was less acute. The Red Cross has begun a survey of urgent need with the use of six ski planes. Farmers and ranchers were reported in need of food and fuel.

In South Dakota, the United States army had opened 921 miles of roads but the gain was lost by wind which choked off another 1,000 miles by drifting snow.

Despite additional snowfall of from two to six inches in Wyoming, the Union Pacific Railway hoped to clear today the last stretch of its snow-clogged right-of-way between Rawlins and Rock Springs, Wyo., and to resume operations of trains.

Temperatures were below zero in Northwestern Wisconsin, Northern Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Eastern Montana, and parts of Utah, Wyoming in the south, northwest and eastern sections of the country the mercury was around normal.

WHEAT AGREEMENT MAY EMERGE FROM CURRENT PARLEY

Representatives From 55 Countries Have Been Meeting Since Jan. 26

Washington, Feb. 14 (CP) — Hopes remain reasonably high that an international wheat agreement will emerge from the 55-country conference which started here Jan. 26.

The conference basically is a chips-down effort to write stability into the shaky history of world wheat prices—and to get food to hungry millions everywhere.

The idea isn't new. The International Institute of Agriculture sponsored this kind of discussion as far back as 1927. But wheat has assumed in the jittery post-war world an importance undreamed of 20 years ago.

H. S. M. Ishaque of Pakistan warned the food and agriculture organization of the United Nations last November that, unless something was done soon; "poverty and privations will send the teeming millions of the east, in their sheer desperation, rolling into the arms of the new economic order which has almost an irresistable appeal for the hungry and the poor."

Shree Dinkerrao Desai, India's food minister, took a less serious view but stressed the "definite relationship between Communism and hunger."

That is the background for the slow-moving Washington conference which began 19 days ago. There's really only one stumbling-block—price.

Want Price of $2

The countries which have wheat —the United States, Canada, Australia and Russia—are reported to have offered a total of 600,000,000 bushels a year for five years. But they want a top price of $2 and a minimum of $1.10.

Fifteen Killed, And 15 Injured By Ecuador Mob

Quito, Ecuador, Feb. 14. (AP) —Fifteen persons were killed and at least 15 injured by enraged mobs retaliating against an over-realistic broadcast of a fictional "invasion from Mars", Saturday.

This city of 175,000 was in complete turmoil as a result of the panic caused by the broadcast and the army was called out to quell the raging mobs. Troops used tanks and tear gas on the angry citizens.

The mob wrecked the newspaper building, its equipment and the radio station. Damage was estimated at more than $350,000.

Heads of the station said Leonardo Paez, art director, and Eduardo Alcans, dramatic director, prepared and directed the dramatization without their knowledge.

The populace had been terrified by a weird dramatization of H. G. Wells' fantastic novel, "The War of Wolds", localized to describe strage creatures from Mars landing nearby and heading for Quito.

It was carried out much after the fashion of Orson Welles' "Martian Invaion" broadcast in 1938 which caused panic in some parts of the United States.

Hysteria drove most of the population of Quito into the streets before the program directors learned how much consternation they had caused. They appealed to the people to be calm and assured them it was all fictional.

Toronto Parish Asks PM to Take Prompt Action

Toronto, Feb. 14 (CP)— More than 400 Roman Catholic parishioners in Toronto sent telegrams to Prime Minister St. Laurent yesterday calling for "prompt, forceful" government action against Hungary for the life imprisonment of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty.

The messages, sent in a block by members of the small parish of St. Anselm's, charged that the Hungarian government had "violated the peace treaty."

Directors of the movement said similar messages would soon be drafted by other Catholic and non-Catholic congregations across Canada.

OFFICER DENIES LIFTING FILES OF HEADQUARTERS

Keays Cross-Examined At Length by Counsel

The Royal Commission inquiry looking into allegations made by Constable J. E. Keays against Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan and seven provincial police officers went into its second week today with Keays undergoing cross-examination by defence counsel Malcolm Robb.

Mr. Robb is defence counsel for five of the officers named in allegations of perjury and maladministration of justice. The inquiry is being held before Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay.

Long before the morning session opened the county court room was jam-packed with interested spectators, the majority of whom had followed the hearing throughout the first week of the inquiry.

As Keays returned to the witness stand he was asked by Defence Council Robb as to what documents or reports he had taken from the Belleville headquarters of the provincial police.

In reply Keays said he had taken no documents relative to the inquiry in question from Inspector Page's files.

He had however received one report from the Acting Inspector, and with Inspector Page's knowledge. This report had been produced in court, he said.

"I can recall but one document which I received from Inspector Page since January 1st., 1948," Keays said.

On question by Mr. Robb, Keays admitted that 12 or 14 [illegible] written by himself, had "accompanied" him when he was transferred to Niagara Falls. These files were in connection with a case investigated by himself.

"These were current files, the cases had not been completed. So I could not 'take' them," he said.

On completion of the reports they had been returned to Belleville by registered mail.

One of the files taken to Niagara Falls had been with respect to the Jean Badgley case and the constable was asked what further duties he had with this particular case.

Keays replied he had been asked to write a detailed report of this case and a copy of the completed report had remained in his files.

Copied Instructions From Board

Asked if any other documents had "come" into his possession from the Pinnacle Street police office, the officer replied he had copied instructions from the board with respect to the police radio room being the "detention barracks."

He said he had received the original in the mail from Trenton. He had not reported the matter to the Inspector.

"Did any other documents come into your possession?" asked Mr. Robb.

"My answer is no" was the reply.

The same question was again put by Mr. Robb to which Keays replied he had received nothing with the exception of personal instructions from Inspector Page. "These were not on detachment file," he added.

All Signs Point to Continued Prosperity for Canada--Birks

Montreal, Feb. 14 (CP) Every internal sign points to continued prosperity for Canada for the foreseeable future , Henry G. Birks, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said today in an address to the annual conference of Canadian Retailers.

He cautioned however, that factors outside could change the picture completely.

"It must be remembered that Canada is a great trading nation and international trade is highly important to the maintenance of her high level of industrial and agricultural productivity.

Mr. Birks said retailers cannot expect to see the index of sales climb at the rate of the last decade, but "this does not mean that we do not anticipate a continuation of a high level of business."

Mr. Birks said the economic system developed in North America has provided the highest standard of living for all classes that the world has ever seen.

He urged business men to explain this system and "see that Canadians generally have a much better understanding of our way of life and a much better appreciation of the dangers which threaten it."

He declared the role of government is "to act as a referee, not to become itself a competitor; to provide and enforce legislation in the interests of the public welfare while allowing business the opportunity to expand and perform its essential function which is to produce and distribute more and more of the things the public wants at prices the public can pay."

Pope Tells Cardinals Fullest Publicity Not Given Mindszenty Case

Vatican City, Feb. 14 — (AP) —Pope Pius declared today that when a civil government contradicts divine and human rights "bishops and the faithful themselves are bound by their conscience to resist unjust laws."

Addressing a secret and extraordinary consistory of the College of Cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church on the case of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, the Pontiff asked prayers to the end that:

". . . Those who rashly trample upon the liberty of the church and the rights of human conscience may at length understand that no civil society can endure when religion has been oppressed and God, as it were, driven into exile."

The Pope said "our soul is crushed with most bitter grief" by the trial and condemnation of the Hungarian Primate.

The Pope told 16 Cardinals of the Vatican and Italian Sees that fullest publicity had been given to protests throughout the non-Communist world against the treatment of the Cardinal. Then he added:

Full Light Did Not Shine

"But, as you are aware, the full light of publicity did not shine over the trial of this Prelate, who deserved so well of all, in defending the religion of his ancestors and in the restoration of Christian morals. In fact, from the beginning, the news that arrived caused alarm. People outside Hungary who asked permission to be present at the trial were refused permission if they seemed likely to judge impartially or to give a sincere report: this led them to believe, and all upright and honest men as well, that those who were conducting the trial in Budapest seemed to be afraid to allow all to see what was taking place . . .

Socialist Earl Baldwin Sees Crisis Looming In Leeward Islands

London, Feb. 14 (CP)— Earl Baldwin of Bewdley, once sentenced to be shot at dawn, confronts another crisis today —one that he says may give reporters their biggest story in years.

The crisis concerns Britain's rum and sugar producing Leeward Islands in the West Indies.

For nearly a year Earl Baldwin has been governor of the Leewards. [illegible] ial office announced that the 49-year-old Socialist nobleman was being recalled for "consulations" Sir Hubert Rance, former governor of Burma, took over in the Leewards as acting governor.

Will Not Resign Unless Forced

Earl Baldwin arrived in London Saturday. With characteristic plain speaking, he told reporters he would not resign unless forced In that case, he said "the whole West Indies will blow up."

He did not state the nature of his consultations with government officials, including Prime Minister Attlee and Colonial Secretary Creech Jones. The government also was silent.

Trade unions in Antigua and St. Kitt's, in the Leewards, were quoted as blaming the "sugar barons" for Earl Baldwin's recall. This was officially denied. But [illegible] was no formal denial of Island's Negro [illegible] unrest among the lation, which totals Mulatto population, pared with a white popula[illegible] 40,000, com- 1,800.

The native workers, whose average wage is two shillings (40 cents) a day, were reported refusing to cut the sugar crop, chanting "no Baldwin" no cane."

In his budget address last December, Earl Baldwin had harsh

Russia Seen Speeding Up Plan To Shape Satellites into Mould

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

Washington, Feb. 14 — (AP) — Eastern European assaults on churchmen has stirred American suspicions that Moscow may be getting ready to discard the "peoples democracy" system in Soviet satellites.

They also have revived the idea that Russia is moving toward absorbing the Soviet - bloc states into an expanded Soviet Union.

Top authorities on relations with the communist world said today the trend appears to be in these directions. Officials are virtually unanimous, on on point: Under pressure from Moscow the process of shaping the satellites into the Soviet mould has now been speeded up.

Authorities read this meaning into Hungary's trial of Cardinal Mindszenty and defiance of American displeasure, the indictment of fifteen churchmen in Bulgaria, and the current purges in Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The Mindszenty case, the Bulgarian, Polish and Czechoslovakian developments, all are taken here to support the conclusion that the Soviet bloc is determined to crush the last remaining opposition quickly so as to present a solid front against the western world.

What has taken place in Bulgaria in the last two months is expected by officials to set the pattern for the other communist-run countries.

French Antarctic Expedition Within 50 Miles of Destination

Sydney, Australia, Feb. 14 — (Reuters) — The French Antarctic expedition ship Commandant Charcot has reached pack ice about 50 miles from her destination, the French dependency of Adelie Land, it was learned yesterday. The ship is carrying a number of scientists to study the resources of the Antarctic dependency.

U.S.N. Plane Dives Into Front Yard

Sewell, N.J., Feb. 14 — (AP) — A United States Navy fighter plane on a high-altitude training flight dived into the front yard of a home here yesterday, killing the pilot as it was ripped to pieces. No one in the house was hurt. It was believed the pilot "blacked out" from lack of oxygen.

Spectators in Furs Watch 'Human Bear' Take Dip in River

Toronto, Feb. 14 (CP) — Fur-coated spectators watched and shivered yesterday as Krikor Hekimian, the "human polar bear" took a 10-minute icy dip in the Humber River, just west of Toronto city limits. Parked cars, left by hundreds of spectators, caused a minor traffic jam at the point.

Planes Fail to Land Food, Fuel for Troops

Cairo, Feb. 14 — (Reuters) — R.A.F. planes from the Suez Canal zone yesterday made two unsuccessful flights in an effort to deliver urgently-needed fuel and food to British service men, snowbound for three weeks in the 6,000-foot Trodos Mountains in Cyprus. The men are isolated in a winter-leave camp.

MONTREAL FAMILY OF SEVEN KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Explodes in Mid-Air, Plummets to Earth

Maxville, Ont., Feb. 14 (CP)— Transport department inspectors today will probe the twisted and burned wreckage of a plane which crashed six miles north of here, taking the lives of a Montreal family of seven.

Killed when the light single-engine plane exploded in mid-air and plummeted to earth at 7:20 p.m. EST last night were:

Wallace C. Siple of Beaconsville, Que., president of the Siple Aircraft Company, Montreal;

His wife, Annie Irene, who returned the week previously from Florida where she had been convalescing from an illness;

Their five children: Graham, 11; Gordon, 10; Wallace 9; Sharron, 5; Sheila 3.

Siple, 32-year-old experienced Trans-Atlantic ferry pilot, who rose from a Norwich, Ont., grocery boy to prominent aircraft executive was at the plane's controls when it apparently developed engine trouble.

Crashes With Roar

With flames trailing from the engine, it roared over Dunvegan farms and crashed with a roar just about 300 yards from the farm home of Alexander Stewart.

Stewart said: "It hit the ground in a shallow dive and travelled nearly 300 feet before coming to a halt.

"We rushed to the scene. We saw the bodies of a man lying near the engine, a child lying a few feet from the main wreckage way the body of a woman half-

"We scooped the wreckage. throwing it on the [illegible] and kept didn't do much good. A lot of our neighbors, who heard the plane explode, ran over to help."

Used Fire Extinguisher

Stewart added: "When the police arrived, they used a fire extinguisher. Then we were able to tip open the cockpit. We found the bodies of four children inside."

Police and reporters gathering at the scene, found children's crayons and coloring books in the blackened snow. There was the charred remnants of a little doll and bits of a valentine.

The family were on the way home to Montreal when the crash occurred. Two of the children had been staying at the home of Siple's parents at Norwich, near London, Ont., while Mrs. Siple was convalescing in Florida.

On Friday, after Mrs. Siple returned to Beaconfield, Siple took her and the three remaining children to Norwich, spent the weekend there and then prepared to return home with his entire family.

The family landed at Ottawa airport for refuelling. They took off at 7.05 p.m. EST last night. The crash came 15 minutes later.

Murder, Suicide Theory Of Police Who Investigated

Two Guns Found and One Had Been Fired Twice

Montreal, Feb. 14 (CP)— The bodies of a Toronto lawyer and a registered nurse, both married with children, were found today in a compartment of an overnight train from Toronto. Both were shot through the head.

Police said their preliminary investigations indicated either murder and a suicide or a double suicide pact.

The dead are Earl Fauman, 31-year-old lawyer, of (2004 Bathurst St.) today, and Martha Leona Kelly, 28, wife of Inspector Frank Kelly, head of the Criminal Investigation Branch of the Ontario Police at Toronto. Her address was given by police here as 45A Christie Street.

Sprawled Across Bed

The bodies were found sprawled across the bed when police, summoned by the conductor and porter, entered the compartment.

Near the bodies was a .38-calibre revolver. Two cartridges had been fired from it. Another .38-calibre pistol, unfired, was found lying on the floor.

An empty liquor bottle and a bottle of pills were found on a shelf of the compartment. Police said there were no marks of violence about the room.

Papers found on the woman indicated she was a graduate nurse of Memorial Hospital Training School at St. Thomas.

Passengers Heard No Shots

Police and railroad authorities said the couple boarded the train in Toronto last night, occupying compartment H, car 318, in the second section of train No. 22 [illegible] Toronto at 11 p.m. Windsor [illegible] in Montreal's police were [illegible] moned. Sleeping car conductor W. Lawlor and porter J. R. Plumer reported they had received no responses to repeated knocks on the compartment door.

Police speculated the shooting took place two hours or more before the train reached Montreal, probably when it was somewhere near Smiths Falls, Ont.

Other occupants of the sleeping car reported hearing no shots, although some passengers had left the station before the bodies were discovered and unaware of what had taken place.

Plumer, the porter, likewise heard nothing during the night. Railway officials said he went about his duties as usual, even shining the shoes placed outside the compartment.

Slippery Roads Responsible For Minor Damages

The accident occurred Saturday evening.

Early this morning a T. His truck struck a telephone pole and broke it off at the base, while the truck swerved around to block traffic on the highway.

Meeting to be Held

Reeve V. M. Lynch drew attention to a meeting to be held in the town hall next Wednesday evening to discuss the possibility of a volunteer fire brigade. He also touched upon the question of sidewalk shovelling, mentioning that at the present time, the council felt that if any action should be taken by them it should be to include this as an extra convenience in preference to passing a by law making snow shovelling compulsory.

Reeve C. H. Buskard of Deloro, as guest speaker of the evening, gave an address on "Soil and Water Conservation", basing his remarks on knowledge obtained as he and seventy others visited a district in Central Ohio last year where a project, combining these two classes of conservation, had been carried out.

The remainder of the evening was spent in the viewing of technicolor movies on the "Conservation of Wild Life" shown by Norman O. Lee of the Carling Conservation Club.

The films showing the salmon run on the Fraser River and the study of the habits of the moose off the shores of Lake Superior proved highly interesting to the gathering.

The next meeting will be held on March 10, and will be characterized as Press Appreciation Night.

CAPTURED AFTER CHASE

Toronto, Feb. 14 — (CP) — A man who had followed Mrs. Walter Morrison onto her east-end verandah as she came home from work early Sunday and pushed and threatened her, fled when the woman kicked twice on the door to signal her husband.

The husband chased the man over a dozen backyard fences and captured him after a half-hour running battle in which the fugitive used boots as well as fists. Marched to a police station by Morrison, the man gave his name as Ronald Rothwell, 25, and was charged with assault and wounding.

The Morrisons came here from England 11 months ago.

Film Council For Foxboro, District Meets

Foxboro — A report was given on the expiration of contract with the National Film Board for servicing on March 31st. It was decided to send in projector in February for a final overhauling and leave the matter of insurance till the March meeting.

Mrs. Hayton announced the "workshop" which it is understood is to teach aids in operating and evaluating films. This will take place in Queen's University, Kingston, on Friday and Saturday, March 11 and 12. More about this at March meeting.

Rev. A. L. Shorten announced the film for March "When All the People Pray." He will introduce this film then and Mr. Ward plans to conduct a project on rural community activity. This film was previewed at Foxboro school at 4 p.m. on Feb. 10.

The picture "Children of the City" was shown and Mrs. Morley Sine led a discussion on "juvenile delinquency."

This was a very popular subject for discussion with a good many of the forty people present voicing their opinions.

Some of the thoughts expressed were that many parents do not assume any responsibility. It is more prevalent today than fifty years ago but it is not something new. It is to be found in both urban and rural communities.

Some of the factors causing juvenile delinquency are: boredom, proximity, cheap publicity, crime comics, misunderstanding, bad home influences, poor housing.

A community centre might be of great value in fighting this scourge of our youth, but one run under a trained leadership.

18 Beautiful Salmon Trout Hooked Thru Ice

The old reliable fishing "firm" of Joe White, Fred Bly and Keith Malloy, whom all self-respecting fish from the lowly mudcat to the mighty musky, give a wide berth when they are on the rampage, came home with another nice haul after a weekend in the north country near Hermon.

The boys decided to do a spot of ice fishing, and their efforts were well rewarded. They arrived home with a bag of eighteen grey trout beauties, the largest of which weighed between 4½ and 5 pounds with the lesser ones tipping the scales between 2½ and 3 pounds.

The trio was non-committal as to which lake the trout were caught in, but they did mention something about flavoring the regular bait with a dab of margarine.

Fishing their holes in the ice, the lads had a number of battles with the fighting trout before they (the trout) were brought to the surface.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 14 (CP)— Prices settled into a narrow range on the Toronto Stock Exchange today in dull trading. Steels captured some attention in the industrials and some gold producers edged ahead. Base metals were stronger in a mild recovery movement and western oils mixed gains and losses.

The exchange's 1 p.m. index showed industrials and golds down, base metals and western oils up. Volume for the first three hours was 548,000 shares, about 27,000 shares less than Friday's similar period.

A handful of steel issues brightened fractionally and several constructions showed gains of more than a point in the industrial groupings.

Consolidated Smelters added 1 1-2 at 106 1-2 in a stronger base metals list and Noranda and Waite Amulet were up.

A few senior golds were fractionally mixed and some juniors showed gains ranging up to five cents.

MURDER, SUICIDE

complete background to the case.

Relatives of the dead couple were said to be en route to Montreal for the inquest, which will probably be held tomorrow.

The bodies were taken to the morgue for an autopsy by Dr. Rosario Fontaine and Dr. Jean Marie Roussel, medico-legal experts.

Pending result of the inquest, police would hazard no further opinion about the shooting. It was considered significant, however, that both shots had been fired from only one of the two revolvers.

Police said in Mrs. Kelly's wallet several photographs were found, one of them showing her with two children.

Exhibits as "Souvenirs"

Constable Keays was questioned to some length regarding exhibits from court cases which he had admitted taking home. He said he had taken these exhibits home after the court had dealt with them. "Do you always take such exhibits home?" asked Mr. Robb.

"Yes," those which I keep for souvenirs."

The above reference was made in connection with exhibits regarding the LeRoy Woods accident and in connection with the Carefoot case.

Again reference was made with respect to the Carefoot case and to Constable Keays' statement in giving evidence in chief that Mrs. Carefoot had not called Mr. Robb.

"Do you solemnly swear this to be a fact?" asked Mr. Robb.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Then if that testimony is later proved to be false you will not feel aggrieved if a charge of perjury is laid against you?"

"Definitely not," was Keay's reply.

Happenings were reviewed by Mr. Robb with respect to whether Mrs. Carefoot had had the opportunity to call counsel for Mr. Carefoot.

Martin Case

Mr. Robb then went on to the Fred Martin case, noting that Keays in his previous evidence had stated that Martin had been found guilty of attempted murder by reason of temporary insanity, was sent to an institution and then was released.

"I do not recall saying that," stated Keays. "There were two periods, the time of the first hearing and at the jury trial."

Mr. Robb read the transcribed evidence with respect to the witness' statement and pointed out there had been no misunderstanding of the period meant when the statement was made.

Says he Made no Such Charge

Returning to the Carefoot matter Mr. Robb asked if the witness had charged that $298,000 worth of shares in the Belleville Aqua Vitae water company had been sold to the public. Keays said he had made no such charge.

"I said that Col. B. C. Donnan owned something over 3,000 shares in the company," said Keays.

The question was raised regarding the witness' previous statement that Crown Attorney Donnan had not acted at the preliminary hearing in the Ralph Turner case. Keays replied the only importance in connection with the statement was that youthful Crown witnesses had been left at the mercy of defence counsel.

"As I recall it the defence took quite a beating in the Turner case and the accused was sentenced to two or three years," said Mr. Robb.

"The accused was convicted because his statement was admitted as evidence," returned Keays.

Questioned by Mr. Robb again to the Woods accident Keays stood by his statement that Constable Purdy had not visited the scene of the accident on Nov. 9th.

At Time of Search

Returning again to the Carefoot case Mr. Robb asked what officers had accompanied him to execute the search warrant, and also who was present in the Carefoot residence.

Keays replied Constables Siple and Armstrong with Inspector Monahan from the College of Physicians and Surgeons had been with him. In the Carefoot house had been Mr. and Mrs. Carefoot and their son Stanley.

Questioned Over Black Bag Contents

The officer was questioned regarding a black bag in which Keays said drugs and narcotics had been found. The witness admitted that while at the Carefoot home he had not mentioned the narcotics to other officers.

"Do you regard it as sound police work not to show your find to other officers?" asked Mr. Robb.

"I did under the circumstances," was the reply.

By way of explanation Keays said although it had been considered quite probable that drugs would be found, the matter of narcotics was a matter for the R. C. M. P. who were not present on the raid. Keays said that the reason he failed to mention the narcotics was because he did not wish to make an issue of the find.

Says He Was Working on Fraud Charge

"I was there to gather material for the Crown in connection with a prosecution on the charge of fraud," said Keays.

"In view of the fact you did not show other officers the drugs you had found did you not consider there might be an inference you had planted the drugs?" asked Mr. Robb.

"No I did not," was the reply.

Mr. Robb pointed out that had Keays shown the narcotics to any of the officers the outcome of the Carefoot trial may have had a different conclusion.

"I submit that the failure of the Crown to gain a conviction in the Carefoot narcotic trial lies entirely on your shoulders through you not showing the narcotics to other officers."

"I deny that," returned Keays. The decision of Mr. Justice Lebel in granting an appeal shows the case is still before the court.

Belleville Girls Lose Close One To Cobourg 42-39

Belleville YMCA Senior Girls' Basketball team lost a close decision to the Cobourg girls on Saturday night losing in the Lakeside town by a score of 42-39.

The game was a hard-fought affair with no great margin separating the squads at any time. Cobourg took a first-half lead of 22-19 and were never headed. Indicative of the closeness of the second half is the fact that Cobourg scored 21 points as against the Belleville girls 20.

McCaig, tall Cobourg centre, paced her team to victory scoring 18 points. Dufton got ten and with Allen played an outstanding game for the winners.

Shirley Marinoff was the high scorer for the Belleville girls netting 16 points. Betty Holway also starred with nine points. Doreen Bell shone while Shirley Bunnett was one of the outstanding stars of the city squad.

The teams Belleville YMCAs Senior Girls — Shirley Bunnett (1); June Matthews (0); Doreen Bell, (7); Mary Tomaso (5); Joan Lepore. The Belleville team defeated the Orillia Collegiate Institute seniors 33-16 in the first round, but could not cope with the powerful attack of McMaster who defeated them 49-23 in the semi-finals. McMaster went on to defeat Orillia Grads 31-11 to cop the championship.

Eight teams took part in the tournament, McMaster, Belleville, Orillia CI seniors and juniors, Orillia YMCA, Orillia Grads, Sudbury Stars and West Tech Grads.

Probe Mob Action In Forcing Group To Leave NB Town

Edmundston, N. B., Feb. 14 (CP) An investigation into mob action against four representatives of the Watchtower Tract and Bible Society, or Jehovah's Witnesses, was under way today by order of Mayor H. E. Marmen.

Police said that more than half of about 500 persons who forced the four to leave Edmundston by train Saturday came from outside the town limits. Some were in lumberjack attire and entered the town in trucks.

The Watchtower representatives — Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jones, Miss Winnifred Parsons and Miss Olive Lundell — sought protection at the police station Friday night after the crowd gathered and began a search of the section where the Jehovah's Witnesses had been boarding since they came to Edmundston four months ago.

There was no violence, aside from burning of a truckload of tracts and other Watchtower Literature near the railway station.

The crowd made it plain however, that they wanted the Witnesses to leave town as soon as possible.

A shortage of $8 for the four railway fares to Quebec was donated by individuals among the throng, which milled around the station until the train left.

Some of the crowd tried to board the train "to get a look at a Witness" but were restrained by police, aided by a few civilians.

Willie Hoppe Tucks Away His Fifth Title

Chicago, Feb. 14 — (AP)—Willie Hoppe, who has held some type of a world's billiard title for 43 consecutive years to become sports' longest reigning champion, has tucked away his fifth three-cushion crown.

The 61-year-old Hoppe successfully defended his world's three-cushion diadem last night by downing Joe Chamaco of Mexico City 50-43 in 57 innings. It was his sixth victory without a defeat in the three-day round robin tournament.

In the pocket billiards division of the meet, Jimmy Caras, 40-year-old veteran from Upper Darby, Pa., regained his world's championship. He won it in 1936 and repeated in 1938.

Members of First Modern Hebrew Parliament Meet

Jerusalem, Feb. 14 (AP) — Members of the first modern Hebrew Parliament assembled here today, nine months to the day after the new Jewish state was first proclaimed.

The United Nations assembly has instructed the Palestine conciliation committee to work out a plan to internationalize Jerusalem, a Holy City to Jews Christians and Moslems.

However, Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion last night repeated Israel's claim to Jerusalem and said it would remain a Jewish city.

The Jewish population now lives in about four-fifths of the city. The Arab Legion holds the Old Walled City, with Egyptian troops stationed to the south in the Bethlehem Hills. U.N. observers and the conciliation commission have their headquarters in a southern sector.

The first day's meeting will see the deputies sworn in. Dr. Chaim Weizman, president of the state's first provisional council is scheduled to speak. One of the outstanding figures in world Jewry, he is expected to be elected by the assembly the first president of the permanent government. The state already has been recognized by 40 countries.

Pennants Float

Thousands of pennants in blue and white, the colors of the first Hebrew state in 2,000 years, greeted assembly delegates of Herzl Street, the city's main thoroughfare. A gate of honor was erected for them on a Judean peak where the road from Tel Aviv enters the city.

Delegates met in the Jewish agency building near the walls of the Old City.

The Israeli-Arab war was at a standstill as the new assembly met. This was began simultaneously with the birth of Israel last May after Britain surrendered her 25 year mandate over Palestine.

Head is Crushed While Adjusting Felt in Roller

Temiskaming, Feb. 14 (CP)— His head crushed between the felt roller of a drying machine, Ladelard St. Jacques, 54-year-old employee of the Canadian International Pulp and Paper Co., at Temiskaming, died shortly after midnight Sunday. He suffered a fractured skull. Death was attributed to a brain hemorrhage. An inquest has been ordered by William Irwin, coroner.

Mill officials said St. Jacques was adjusting the felt on a drying machine when he apparently slipped. His head was caught up between the felt and the roller and crushed.

A married man with three children, St. Jacques had been employed at the Temiskaming mill since 1925. His wife and family live near Ottawa, and the funeral will be conducted there.

things to say of the committees which wrote hundreds of reports and did nothing. Political quarters here speculated that the colonial office considered his behavior unconventional and undignified. If so, it would be nothing new for him.

Member of Quixotic Group

In 1931 the younger Baldwin was a member of the Quixotic Group, including Sir Oswald Mosley, which left the Labor party in criticism of Ramsay MacDonald for what they said was flirting with capitalism.

He inherited a share of £280,000 ($1,120,000) in the estate left by his father, and in a book explained his bachelorhood by saying he would not bring a child into a capitalistic world.

Second cousin of Sir Rudyard Kipling, Earl Baldwin is an author, playwright and musician. A veteran of two world wars, he was imprisoned by the Russians and the Turks in 1921 during the Russo-Armenian War.

On his first inspection tour as governor of the Leeward Islands, his love of the ludicrous came into play. Informed that a tiny islet in the Virgin Island was called "Dead Man's Chest," he sent 15 men ashore there with a bottle of rum. As far as anybody knows, the rum is still there.

Regional Alliance Of Free Democratic Peoples in Asia Urged

Manila, Feb. 14 (AP)—A regional organization of all "free, democratic, non-Communist nations of Asia" was proposed today by Brig.-Gen. Carlos Romulo, Philippine delegate to the United Nations. He urged the bloc to push back the influx of Communism in Asia.

Marie Resigns Offices Owing To Ill-Health

Paris, Feb. 14 (AP)— Former Premier Andre Marie has resigned as France's Vice-Premier and Minister of Justice and has been replaced by Robert Lecourt.

The resignation was announced by Premier Henri Queuille, who said Marie quit because of his health.

The resignation relieves the cabinet of a barrage of criticism. Marie, a Radical Socialist, had been attacked in the National Assembly for failing to press charges against a construction company which allegedly built the Nazis' wartime "Atlantic wall" defences on the French coast.

Lecourt is a member of Mouvement Republican Populaire, the party which observers said might have left the coalition cabinet if Marie had not resigned.

Marie said he was going to be treated for a pulmonary ailment originated while he was a war prisoner of the Germans. He was Premier from July 27 to Sept. 5, 1948. Lecourt was Minister of Justice in Marie's cabinet.

The resignation came as France's rightist leader, Gen. De Gaulle, wound up a weekend of political campaigning. He has been urging that the National Assembly should dissolve itself, so that elections can be held immediately. Normally they would not come before 1951.

De Gaulle wants to come back under a revised constitution that will give the executive branch of the government stronger powers.

He asserted that if general elections are not held soon, his followers must "oust the usurpers."

De Gaulle also spoke in favor of the proposed North Atlantic pact which would link western Europe with the United States and Canada but he insisted that the alliance be binding on all parties to act automatically in the event of aggression against any one of its members.

Marie's resignation and De Gaulle's speeches came as France's economic conditions seemed to be improving, aided by the Marshall plan.

German Reds Said Declaring 'State of Distress'

New York, Feb. 14 — (CP) — German communists declared a "national state of distress" Sunday, the New York Times says in a dispatch from Berlin.

They also ordered a propaganda offensive to spread the impression that the United States is preparing for war and is determined to maintain the division of Germany, the story says.

The German people's council, puppet administration of the Russian zone, called for a country-wide resistance movement against the western powers to eliminate conditions they said had necessitated the declajatpon, the story continues.

Taegliche Rundschau, Soviet Army newspaper, was quoted as saying "Peace demonstrations" will be held throughout the Russian zone and in the Soviet sector of Berlin.

Placards proclaiming Russia's desire for peace and the alleged determination of the United States to provoke another war are to be posed in villages that newspapers and radios do not reach, the Times says. Newspapers, the radio and other media of publicity are to be used in the campaign.

The Soviet - licensed Berlin Zeitung is quoted as saying that only by lifting the five "mortgages" the western powers are said to have imposed on Germany can the "state of distress" be ended. The "mortgages" are listed by the paper as: "Perpetuation of the occupation by the western powers; the Ruhr Statute; the occupation statute; the unlawful separation of territories on western borders, and the establishment of a permanent control board."

REMANDED A WEEK

Lindsay, Ont., Feb. 14 (CP) — Gordon Stewart, 27-year-old hotel keeper of Selkirk, about 30 miles south of Brantford, today was remanded one week on $2,000 bail on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Hazel Collinson of Fenelon Falls.

The Crown alleged that the six-foot Stewart struck Mrs. Collinson so hard with a .22 rifle that the butt broke off the gun. The offence took place Feb. 10 and Mrs. Collinson has been in Lindsay hospital since.

POPE TELLS

"But although the facts have not been reliably made known or reported clearly and completely, we cannot omit mentioning the judgment which all civilized people have passed on this trial . . .

The Pope declared Cardinal Mindszenty's physical condition during the trial was "inexplicable except as the result of secret influences which may not be publicly revealed; to prove this there is the fact that a man endowed with the full vigor of a forceful nature suddenly appears weak and mentally unbalanced."

Brands Assertion False

The Pontiff branded "completely false" the Hungarian government's assertions that "the whole question at issue was that this Apostolic See in furtherance of plans for political domination of nations gave instructions to oppose the republic of Hungary and its rulers."

"We are doing," the Pontiff told the 16 assembled Princes of the Roman Catholic Church, "what the outraged rights of the church and the dignity of the human person clearly demand."

This apparently was a reference to the excommunication of all those involved in the arrest, trial and imprisonment of the Hungarian Primate and his sentencing to life imprisonment in Budapest last week.

The unprecedented assembly convened six days after Cardinal Mindszenty, Primate of Hungary, was sentenced to life imprisonment by a Hungarian court.

The leader of the church in Hungary was the first Cardinal in modern times arrested while actually wearing the purple of a Prince of the Church.

16 Cardinals Present

In all, 16 Cardinals, 14 of them from the Vatican and two from Italian Sees, were in attendance.

The Pontiff arrived a few minutes before 9:30 (3:30 a.m. EST) escorted by lay and ecclesiastical members of his court.

The Master or the Chamber, in a time-hallowed formula, cried "Extra Omnes" (All Out), the signal for all except those allowed to attend the consistory to leave.

The consistory ended shortly before 10 a.m., less than half an hour after the meeting began.

The Pope was reported to have begun his address at 9:35 a.m. and to have spoken just over 20 minutes.

The Cardinals wore the violet robes prescribed for consistories.

Pope Pius was clad in white woollen robes with rochet and mozzetta (short cape with ornamental hood.) In the Sala Degli Arazzi (Hall of Tapestries) the Pontiff was met by Nicola Cardinal Canali, his penitentiary major, who gave him the falda (outer garment) and stole. These were donned by the Pope before he entered the chamber.

WHEATAGREEMENT

The 50 potential importers are holding out for a $1.80 maximum and a floor price of $1.30, dropping 10 cents annually to a minimum of 90 cents in the fifth year of the agreement.

The pact which three exporters and 33 importers signed last march, but which failed chiefly because the United States Congress did not ratify it, included the price scale which the exporters are asking this time.

Canada would have provided 230,000,000 bushels a year; the United States 185,000,000; Australia, 85,000,000.

But the situation has changed during the last year.

Bountiful 1948 harvests have created a "buyers' market" to supplant a "sellers' market."

Russia, a few days after the present conference started, offered to contribute a "substantial quantity" under any agreement that might be reached. Observers estimated it at 100,000,000 bushels.

Kitty is 600,000,000 Bushels

That raised the potential kitty from last year's 500,000,000 bushels to 600,000,000. It hurried the importers into a special meeting and strengthened their stand that, with so much wheat available, they should get a price cut.

The exporters are sticking by their argument—and no one denies it—that, even at $2, they lose money.

The exporters have another argument: Granted there's plenty of wheat today, there's no guarantee there will be enough to go around five years from now.

Some observers say it may be a month before any decision is reached by conference; others say two weeks should do the trick. Nearly everyone, without discounting the magnitude of the problems being faced, says it's a good thing in itself when 55 countries can get together like this—especially so soon after last year's failure.

Three Children Burned to Death

Needles, B.C., Feb. 14 (CP) — Three children were burned to death and a fourth escaped in night attire, when fire destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Taylor Saturday night.

Unable to escape from the fire-swept building were Phyllis, 10, David, 6, and Glen, 2, all of the Taylor family.

A fourth child, Sandra Taylor, 11, escaped in her night clothes.

Needles is on the Lower Arrow Lake in the Kootenay district, 50 miles northwest of Nelson.

No fire fighting equipment was available to fight the flames, noticed first by passing motorists.

Is It So Strange?

One of the most amazing suggestions has been made, it is to construct a great tube which will resemble a gigantic snake stretched out across steel towers with conveyor belts inside to transport iron ore from Lake Erie to U. S. inland steel mills in one direction and coal areas in the other direction.

Cleveland has heard the proposal made by a railroad president for just this thing and the Plain Dealer does not think it so unrealistic as it might have been thought once upon a time. In other days "the engineering problem would have been relegated to the realm of building a bridge to the moon but not these days. The skeptical souls would also try to dampen the enthusiasms of their more imaginative and romantic brethren by saying that some serious legal battles are in store over obtainment of a right-of-way. But we remind them that lawyers, as well as engineers, do wonderful things these days."

Then the Plain Dealer asserts, "nothing scientific (or legal) can surprise us. If some day we see that 100-mile snake stretching out across the Ohio landscape, we shall not be one bit surprised."

In this age of scientific wonders, with planes of all kinds annihilating space, with scientists even talking of rocketing to the moon, and with revelations of new facts in study of disease and of chemistry nothing can hardly appear unreasonable. The ancient alchemist who twenty-five centuries ago held up the dream of alchemy laid the foundation of modern chemistry and appears about to be substantiated by modern investigation about alchemy.

Immigration

Last year Canada took in more than an eighth of a million immigrants, the largest in nearly twenty years and practically double the number who entered the previous year.

From the British Isles came 46,057 last year, the largest ethnic group while from the United States the number reached 7,381. Northern Europe contributed 16,957 of whom 10,169 were Hollanders. The new Canadians from other races totalled 55,019, among them 13,799 Poles and 10,011 Ukrainians.

Newcomers to Ontario last year were 61,621 and Quebec received 24,687.

Shifting of population is fairly easy in this age. The age of Hitler's terrorism and brutalities paved the way for the exodus of many when the opportunity arrived and when crossing the seas to lands afar was comparatively easy with the giant liners coursing their way across the seas and planes annihilating time and space.

Countries which have received newcomers are able to take them as there is at work an expansionism as invention and science make movement from one part of the world to another so much more easy than it was a century ago.

Liberty Is Not Licence

A whole vocabulary of rubbish has been erected on the premise that no individual is responsible for what he does. It is always heredity, environment, school or maladjusment, or sensitiveness, or finally — frustration.

This last is the climax, as there is not an individual living who isn't frustrated, if by that is meant that rules laid down by an organized community stand in the way of his doing anything he likes. Our whole tradition of orderly progress is based on preventing the individual from acting in a way that will damage the lives and occupations of others, and if he isn't prevented then there is no such thing as order at all.

In democracy — which is an irony — we are apt to give the individual so much leeway to justify the principle of freedom that liberty and licence get confused. "Discipline is chaos." Fools like to deal in certainties, but intelligence recognizes degrees. Liberty does not mean the "right" to destroy property, preach violence and assault defenceless citizens.

A lot of the so-called self-expression that is ludicrously gilded as "revolt" is merely the insolence of futilitarians, the one defence of the weak and one more weakness. "He knew not what to say and so he spat."

It is hard to imagine a more refined form of cruelty than to convince a child that there is something wrong with "society" if he can't express himself as he likes. Because society, in any form, has a way of finally turning on such people with special savagery. That shouldn't need much emphasizing. — Hamilton Spectator.

ST. VALENTINE

St Valentine, the wise old priest
For whom this day is one of feast,
Was first with an exquisite art
To pen the language of the heart.

He understood the eager mind
Is not endowed always to find
The words that clearly will impart
The message of the loving heart.

So graciously, as we are told,
For lovers young and lovers old,
St. Valentine, who knew the way,
Phrased what their hearts would have them say.

Today, for him who told so well
What the devoted heart would tell,
The thoughtful gift, the tender line
Love sends is called a Valentine.

PATTERNS OF BEHAVIOR

Is it ever too late to mend?

Psychiatrists have been telling us that real transformations of character cannot be expected after middle life. To be sure, moral character is almost invariably created or the possibility of it destroyed by the time the person reaches twenty-five. But the experience of ministers and other religious leaders has been that sometimes people seventy years old or more experience basic transformations of outlook and behavior pattern.

We recall that Tolstoi underwent a profound Christian conversion when he was about fifty. Recently a group of ministers were exchanging experiences and two of these men spoke of profound conversions which had occurred in their churches, the persons experiencing this transformation of life being in both cases past seventy.

It never pays to wait, feeling that one can make his peace with God as death draws near. Sometimes death comes very quickly, and one has no time to think about anything, and especially not things of eternal significance. But elderly people who feel that they have not yet got hold of life should not be discouraged. Lives are sometimes completely made over, under the power of religious faith, long after the possibility of such transforming change is apparently past. It is never too late.

Omaha — When it blows in Wyoming, it really blows. Blizzard relief officials here today of a haylift plane at Casper, Wyo., which virtually stood still in the air to drop its cargo.

Flying at an air speed of 95 miles an hour, the plane bucked headwinds ranging from 90 to 105 miles an hour, Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, operation snowbound commander, related.

As a result the plane was able to drop 28 bales of hay, one after the other, and have them land almost in the one spot, he said.

Seattle — A round-the-world S.O.S. signal was relayed by Seattle Coast Guard headquarters yesterday to aid a ship in distress off the British coast.

The Coast Guard here said the cutter Bittersweet, at Adak in the Aleutian chain, first picked up the message and relayed it here.

Seattle relayed it to New York, which in turn flashed it to England. The message said the 500-British ship Cochee was burning distress signals some 40 miles south-southwest of Plymouth, England.

New York — Lillian Wolfe, manager and co-owner of a Brooklyn tavern, joined in a discussion of crime yesterday with two men customers: Said she:

"If the place were held up, I'd hand over every cent."

Thereupon, one of the men produced a gun and demanded cash. Miss Wolfe handed over a box containing $800, police said.

The two men escaped.

HELLO SHRIMPS—Just about the biggest and smallest pets in Peterborough are owned by Constable Hodge McMillan. Looking Ahead in Ottawa:

Caldwell Asks for Clarification Of Procedure in the Commons

(By The Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, Feb. 14 (CP) — Another argument on procedure may develop in the Commons Monday.

When the House adjourned on Friday, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, asked for a clarification of procedure for this week.

He said he understood that the Throne Speech debate would be resumed as soon as the Commons completed study of legislation providing for Newfoundland's entry into Confederation as a 10th. province.

That legislation was finally passed by the Commons Friday, a week ahead of schedule. The House had set aside February 7 to February 18 for the Newfoundland debate.

When the debate concluded, attention turned to some of the control measures which must be extended before March 31. Some of these measures will be studied Monday until a decision in procedure is reached.

Conferences.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, will set precedent on Parliament Hill this week when he holds the first of what he plans to be weekly press conferences with parliamentary press gallery correspondents.

Mr. Drew, who has frequently stressed his desire to co-operate with newspaper men, will hold press conferences every Friday at 10.30 a.m.

Veteran gallery members say that to their knowledge no previous opposition leader has ever held weekly press conferences.

Express

Increased express charges on small shipments of some food products are being proposed by the railways.

The new rates affect shipments of less than 100 pounds of meat, poultry and eggs. It was understood that vary considerably but do not make any large increases on individual shipments.

The proposed increases have been submitted to the Board of Transport Commissioners for approval.

The railways also are expected to file shortly a schedule of increases in express charges on fruits and vegetables and packing-house products.

Inside Facts On Communism Given by US Govt.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The Russian writer David Zaslavsky says in the Moscow Literary Gazette that it's impossible to be genuinely educated without knowledge of the Russian language.

Zaslavsky claims that the "countries of new democracy" (meaning Moscow's satellites) are learning the tongue, and that even Russia's enemies are studying it. He adds that "'The Voice of America' (the United States official broadcast) lies in Russian."

Well, I'm afraid we can't take it for granted that there is a widespread thirst for Russian in the United States. However, it certainly is to be hoped Russian isn't being neglected by American authorities.

Need Russian

Should a hot war grow out of the present cold war (which heaven forbid), the United States should look mighty sick if she didn't have plenty of citizens who knew Russian—and a lot of other things pertaining to the land of Communism.

There has been in the United States a tendency—now happily disappearing—to play ostrich towards the evils of Communism. Americans have tried to avoid discussing the facts about Communism, hoping thus (1) to avoid friction with Russia and (2) to prevent the spread of this ism among the American people.

There is recognition now that the only way to combat a great evil is to learn all there is to know about it.

Always Danger

Of course in permitting Communism to be aired in the class room, there is always the danger that sometimes it may be presented by an instructor who is a Red sympathizer. There is the danger that it may be advocated to the students.

Still, my observation has been that Red sympathizers always will find ways of getting their propaganda across in the class room, even where discussion of Communism is taboo. Many educators feel that the best way to combat this sly spreading of Red propaganda among students is to come out with the real facts.

But where is the west to get the real facts, in view of the iron curtain Naturally we aren't going to get them from sources controlled by Moscow. I think the answer is that we must depend mainly on our own government and our own press for our information.

Washington is steadily and increasingly giving the inside facts to the public.

American correspondents who are working behind the iron curtain also are doing a grand job of objective reporting. Naturally they are up against a tough censorship, but daily they are adding to the west's knowledge of how Communism works.

The way it looks from here, a realistic education about Communism is our greatest defence against the undoubted evils of

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

THE POWER OF ENJOYMENT

I believe the reason why so many newspaper men stay on their jobs is that the power of enjoyment is so strong. There is an old phrase: "Once a newspaper man always a newspaper man." This is not so true today as formerly. Many and many a newspaper man has grown out of his newspaper berth into many another useful career — becoming a famous author, legislator, or playwright.

If this power of enjoyment is kept alive, it may carry anyone into a varied career of usefulness and satisfaction. It doesn't matter so much what any of us do, long as we get happiness out of it, and enjoy what we do. It isn't always a big earning in money that gives to one his greatest satisfaction.

Many a doctor is sacrificing his health and strength in administering to others that they may have health again. The thrill that he gets from this service is a power of enjoyment to him that nothing else could give. And so he gives, sacrifices — and is happy.

There are those, however, who stay at a job beyond their power of enjoyment, and so steadily recede in efficiency and worth. Every worker should watch this, and see that he does not fail either his task or himself. With enthusiasm and interest he can make his entire lifetime one of power and enjoyment.

I have watched carpenters, house painters, and brick layers work, and have been fascinated by their power of enjoyment. I have watched a mechanic tear down an intricate part of a car, and because he knew just what to do, I knew that he enjoyed himself. I go to a mechanic to whom I have gone for years, and he always meets me with a smile, and he knows a car like a mother does her baby. I don't think he would be happy in any other job.

I have talked with many famous literary people. They work long and hard. The great ones are not in literature and writing for the mere money. They enjoy doing constructive work. They think of the time when they will leave much of themselves behind as thousands of other writers have. I have a library of several thousand books, the writers of which to whom I shall forever remain in debt.

TAKE GOOD CARE OF YOUR DIGESTION

If you are one of those poor geeks who imagine cold, sudden change, dampness, draft, insufficient clothing and the like can cause illness, you probably think wearing a hat, an overcoat, overshoes, muffler, heavy underclothing or other extras even when you don't need them for comfort somehow protects your health.

To all such geeks, greetings. I just can't help laughing at your comical behavior. But turn about is fair play, so I do not mind at all if you think or say I'm as crazy as a loon and my health teachings are as nutty as a fruitcake.

Such talk as this can hardly change the opinion of you old fogies but I'm not concerned about your health—I keep hammering away on this theme because I know from experience that we can convert a good many young persons to sanity in hygiene.

On a par with this quaint notion that you protect health by avoiding "exposure" there is the common belief that good digestion depends on the wisdom of the individual in his choice of food. If he echews items that are hard to digest, avoids eating late at night and has three regular meals of hot food every day his digestion will keep in order.

In the first place foods cannot be classified as easy to digest or hard to digest. This notion probably arises from the popular custom of explaining away the consequences of debanches by attributing the derangement to this or that item which was too difficult to digest. You know — cheese, hard boiled or fried egg, lobster, pork and beans, doughnuts, pancakes and pudding or pie. These foods are as easily digested, if you like 'em and eat them properly, as poached eggs and toast or pap.

A snack or a square meal late at night is perfectly healthful if you are hungry — provided you eat it properly and have earned it by active work or play. On the other hand people who do no honest work and get little exercise should take no food after their regular evening meal.

Instead of three meals, many persons get along better on four or five lighter meals daily, especially persons with Yankee Stomach. (Send stamped self addressed envelope for pamphlet on Yankee Stomach.)

Good digestion is largely dependent upon proper eating. After all there is only one part of the digestive process over which one has actual control, and that is in the mouth.

Few of you poor geeks with Yankee Stomach realize it, but salivary digestion goes on while one masticates food and continues for nearly an hour after the food has reached the stomach, untouched by the acid gastric juice.

By "eating properly" I mean of course good mastication. You can't chew food as thoroughly as you should unless you keep all twenty-eight to thirty-two teeth —your own or dentures installed by your dentist—in good functional condition.

So I say the first step for any one to take who wants to keep or regain good digestion is: Consult your dentist.

Only starch is digested by the enzyme or ferment in the saliva (ptyalin), but the starch in potatoes and other vegetables, in bread and all the grains or cereals, constitutes the main part of the everyday diet and yields most of the calories from which we derive energy. Therefore, oral, salivary or mouth digestion is pretty important and you had better keep yours at the peak of efficiency even if it means paying some dentistry bills.

Such foods as milk, eggs, meat, fish, fowl, cheese, do not digest in the mouth and hence require only enough chewing to divide into pieces not too large to swallow. Little chunks of meat digest as well or better in the stomach than the same meat finely masticated, ground or shredded. So it is better to gulp an egg or a sardine or some cheese or a hunk of meat if you are in a tearing hurry than it is to gobble toast, sandwich, hot dog, or pie on the run.

The Packsack of Gregory Clark

Mid-February is no time to start nagging students. Three or four weeks before examination time, in May or June, is the season for that.

But a reminiscence of one of the teachers who beat me into a better shape than I had been previously, comes to mind: and February is none too early for it.

"Pile wood!" he used to exhort. "Each day, pile wood. That's all studying amounts to. Here in class, together, we bucksaw and split the wood. But you have to pile your own.

"At the end of each day's classroom work, you find another wagon load of split wood heaped before you. Some of you will let this randon heap of wood grow and grow, from day to day and week to week. Then, three or four weeks before the exams suddenly you will have to get to work and start piling it. Piling and stacking it in a decent, orderly fashion: the hardwood at one end, the pine at the other: and the kindling in a neat stack under the shed . . . and you will be, oh, so weary!

"I assure you, the secret of a good wood pile is the secret of good study. Pile each day's wood as it comes. And as the months go by, there is nothing that gives a more comfortable and secure feeling to the human heart than to look out the window at a fine, big, tidy wood pile . . . !"

With this simple allegory, the schoolmaster made a student out of many a wayward lad. In this age of oil furnaces, it is difficult for anxious parents to find wood piles for allegory purposes. Just when a father is reaching the climax in berating his son for wanting to go to the movies, instead of staying home to study, the mother enters the room and cries—

"George! Phone the emergency! The fuel oil tank is empty!"

WEDDINGS

McCOY—WEYMARK

St. John's Mission, Herchimer Avenue, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday at 2.30 p.m., when Doreen Weymark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Weymark, Belleville, became the bride of William McCoy, son of Mr. Fred McCoy and the late Mrs. McCoy, Belleville. The Rev. E. M. Caldwell, of Shannonville, officiated.

Miss Jennie Redner played the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length, white satin gown on princess lines with inserts of lace, with fingertip veil caught by a halo of orange blossoms. She carried a Victorian nosegay of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. George Weymark, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a yellow taffeta floor-length gown with matching accessories, and carrying a Victorian nosegay of red roses.

Women's Activities

WELLINGTON UNIT TEACHERS' FEDERATION

The Wellington Unit of the Women Teachers' Federation met on Tuesday evening last at Mountain View School, The guests of Miss Mary Huff. Twenty-four were in attendance.

The meeting opened with "O Canada". Roll Call was answered by each member showing a sample of craft work.

Plans were made for the March meeting to be held in Wellington with the trustees and their wives as guests and Rev. John Mills to be the guest speaker.

After the conclusion of the business part of the meeting the program followed. Some "Reading Helps" were given by Miss Mary Walters.

A group of Mountain View pupils gave a double duet and flute selection, an accordian solo by Bob Russell, Mrs. Johnson, a reading and Miss Leila Fox sang a solo.

Guest speaker for the evening was Miss Joyce Fleming who gave an interesting talk and display on craft work from the Summer Course in Arts and Crafts.

Refreshments were served and Miss Cathie Tait moved a vote of thanks to Miss Huff and her committee for a fine program.

CANNIFTON W.A.

The February dinner meeting of the Cannifton W.A., was held in the Sunday School rooms with a good representation in attendance. Mrs. Charles Howard and Mrs. A. Holgate presided.

The dinner table was pretty with its white cloth and centrepiece of potted plants. A delicious meal was served at 2.30 p.m.

The President, Mrs. H. Farnham opened the meeting, followed by the treasurer's report, given by Mrs. Holgate. The cards which had been received, were read.

Mrs. A. Loucks read the Scripture lesson from St. Luke 39.

A very inspiring reading was given by Mrs. H. Farnham entitled "Home and Religion", and a solo by Mrs. F. Furmidge, "Living for Jesus", accompanied by Mrs. H. Empson at the piano.

The quilting was in charge of Mrs. W. I. Cole with one quilt on the frame.

The meeting was closed in the usual manner by Mrs. Trumpour.

ALBERT COLLEGE WOMEN'S GUILD

The February meeting of the Albert College Women's Guild was held in Tabernacle Church parlors on Friday last, with the President, Mrs. W. Northcott, presiding.

Following the opening and the short business session, Mrs. W. Harrison was in charge of the devotional period.

Mrs. J. G. Hornsby, the guest speaker, chose as her topic, "Yorkshire", the home of her birth, which was so vividly portrayed that all were thrilled and in fancy, walked the moors and dales and felt as though transported to the English way of life.

The speaker stated that the English people have abundant leisure time—there are not so many organizations, and every city and village is noted for its many beautiful parks, gorgeous flowers, and open air swimming pools. From her native city, Mrs. Hornsby said that one could take a different walk every day for a month.

The urban councils set aside tracts of land surrounding a city in order to maintain places of recreation and to keep the beauty spots untrammeled, and free to be enjoyed by everyone. The gracious living, leisure time to enjoy a wonderland of beauty seemed a veritable "Utopia" to her listeners.

Mrs. H. R. Harback graciously thanked Mrs. Hornsby for her delightful talk.

Miss Barbara Joan Houston, accompanied by Mrs. M. Duff at the piano, gave a very pleasing vocal solo, which was followed by a piano solo by Mrs. George Wright. Both selections were greatly appreciated.

Later refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

SCOTT'S W.A.-W.M.S.

The President, Mrs. Faul, opened the W.M.S. meeting on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Alton Sine, by using two verses of the hymn 376 "Blest Be the Tie That Binds". She stressed that the watchword for 1949 was "Advance". The Scripture was taken from Psalm 145, read by Mrs. H. W. Rose and a selection from Matt. 22, by Mrs. Faul.

The W.M.S. group were revised as follows:

No 1—Mrs. J. A. Lott, Mrs. Copeland, Mrs. Vera Sine, Mrs. Farmer.

No. 2—Mrs. K. Faul, Mrs. C. Frost, Mrs. A. Sine, Mrs. Croft.

No. 3—Mrs. R. Dafoe, Mrs. Meale, Mrs. Edison Sine, Mrs. Murray.

No. 4— Mrs. M. Sine, Mrs. H. W. Rose, Mrs. J. Scott, Mrs. Coulter.

Group No. 1 to take the March meeting.

Mrs. R. Dafoe gave a reading "For Prayer Partners". Jesus is the Good Shepherd. There shall be one fold and one shepherd. There are open doors for great opportunities for prayer for missionaries. Jesus knows our longings and weaknesses and He gave His last command, "Go ye". We can't all go, we can't all give, but we can all pray. Widen the value of prayer by four things: (1) A heart right with God. Nothing between us and God. (2) Wide sympathies for all mankind. (3) Persistence and patience. (4) Pray always—in the home, in the street—intercession brings us into touch with the loving heart of God.

Mrs. J. Scott gave a reading "Christianity Must Go", said Japan. The Japanese said they were a superior race and would soon control the world and wipe out Christianity. The missionaries have a big task to wipe out this threat.

A selection on the harp by Mrs. Alton Sine was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Carl Sine gave a reading "God Bless You", showing that when these words are expressed everything that is good for you is wished.

In the closing prayer, Mrs. Gowdy threw out a challenge to all to learn God's will to do our work and how to do it.

In the absence of the president and 1st vice president of the W.A., Mrs. Carl Sine arranged for the next dinner to be at home of Mrs. Ross Dafoe.

ST. ANDREW'S GILEAD W.M.S.

The February meeting of St. Andrew's Gilead Woman's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. E. P. York on Wednesday afternoon with an attendance of 23. The President, Mrs. Fred York, opened the meeting with the business period. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. It was decided to hold the World's Day of Prayer at the home of Mrs. Wilfred Clare on March 4.

The Worship service was then opened. The president used as her theme "Thy Kingdom Come —Through the Word of Christian People".

The convener for the month then took charge of the program which consisted of readings by Mrs. Wilfred Clare, and Mrs. Chas. Huffman and a piano solo by Mrs. G. Livingston.

Mrs. A. McCreary gave a very interesting description of her trip to the West.

Mrs. E. P. York gave a synopsis on a chapter of the study book, and Mrs. Jas. Huffman closed the meeting.

The hostess assisted by Mrs. O. Rollins, then served delightful refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

LIVING COSTS COMPARED —Cost of Living in Canada and the United States, which for a time took divergent courses, now are following about the same trend. In what is apparently the last stages of the post-war adjustment between costs in the two countries, the United States index has recently been coming down, while that of Canada has retained some upward tendencies. From now on the two are expected to follow about the same pattern. Charts prepared by the Bank of Nova Scotia show the courses of the costs of living and costs of food in the four years 1945-48. The lines do not, however, compare the cost of living of one country with the other; that is, they don't show whether it costs more to live in the United States or Canada. They do show how much living costs in each country has changed in terms of its own cost of living in the base period 1935-39. (CP Photo)

Mountfield, Sussex, England, Feb. 14 — (AP) — Inquisitive crowds jammed this Sussex village Sunday to try to find the answer to the question that has all Britain agog.

Has Princess Margaret lost her heart to a wealthy commoner?

They found no answer.

The lovely younger daughter of the King has been spending the weekend as the guest of the parents of her "new friend" — dashing Tom Egerton, 31-year-old former Captain of the Guards.

Sunday the couple attended services at the tiny 800-year-old Parish Church near the Egerton estate.

The 18-year-old Princess and the handsome bachelor arrived with his parents, Commander and Mrs. Sydney Egerton.

Her smiles and waves were for the crowd which cheered the party as it drove through the streets to the church.

Inside Princess Margaret sat in the front pew with her host and hostess. Their son was in the pew behind by himself.

Modern Valentine Custom Outgrowth Of Old Festival

Today is St. Valentine's Day. According to legend, it is the day when maidens become moon-eyed and love-sick swains get a dying-calf expression in their eyes when they think of or see the girl of their dreams.

It is the day when the young are supposed to select the one favored for their attention during the rest of the year. That's the legend. But don't believe it. Modern young love has a tendency towards fickleness. Evidence one young swain sent at least twelve Valentine cards tokening his love and affection to the girls of his dreams.

In any event the whole thing started away back when Roman maids placed their names in a receptacle. These were drawn by the toga-clad Romeos of the times, and the one chosen became the swain's "valentine" for the following year. Sometimes he was lucky others not so fortunate.

The sending of Valentines by mail or message is an outgrowth of this custom. The custom has expanded into the presentation of valentines and gifts by parents to children and vice versa, husbands and wives to each other.

In genial climates Valentine's Day is about the mating period of birds and this is supposed to have had something to do with the origin of the customs with which the day is associated.

Evidence of the still strong belief in the St. Valentine legend is seen in the heavy volume of mail which went through the Post Office over the weekend.

Anglicans Launch Canadian Churchman Subscription Campaign

The Canadian Churchman, one of the oldest religious journals in Canada has been published under private ownership continuously for more than seventy-five years as the organ of the Church of England in Canada. For a number of years the publication has been carried on under difficulties due mainly to lack of adequate support. Finally in 1947 after the decision of the General Synod a provisional board of directors was named and limited funds were made available. This board has so far taken the following steps, the Churchman has been purchased from the former owners at a reasonable figure, publication has been maintained unbroken during a difficult period of transition, Rev. Canon C. G. Lawrence of Saint John, N.B., has been named editor, a new organization has been set up and the need for a nationwide subscription has been realized. The aim is to rejuvenate and revolutionize the Churchman.

The objective of the present campaign is to raise the number of subscribers to 50,000 by the close of the present year and for this purpose since the board has no selling organization of its own, the parishes will be organized separately with the naming of a small committee of chairman, organizer, a secretary treasurer and a group of canvassers from as many groups within the church as possible.

The aim is to satisfy a widespread feeling of need and an urgent desire for a truly Canadian Anglican Church journal of a character which is realistic of the great problems of the present day which concern the church and is at the same time inspirational, educational, informative and interesting to all its readers.

There are at present 1,750,000 Canadians claiming allegiance to the Anglican Church.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LETTERS and ANSWERS

Dear Miss Fairfax—

I am 16 years old and like a boy, but I do not know his name or anything about him except that he is an usher in a theatre and attends the same school as I do. I go to the theatre he works in, and every time I go, he stares at me as if he likes me also.

I am going to have a party in two weeks, and I would like to invite him, but I don't know how to go about it. How would you get acquainted in this case? Would you just go up to him and invite him or what?

"Laura M."

Dear "Laura"—

It seems to me if this boy goes to the same school that you do there should be plenty of better opportunities to get acquainted with him than picking him up, so to speak, at the theatre. The reason he stares at you is probably because your face is somewhat familiar to him and he keeps wondering where he has seen you before.

I would suggest that you find some legitimate way at school to make his acquaintance, after which you might at some time invite him to a party. Under the circumstances it would seem to me a little forward, and he would certainly be justified in thinking it rather strange, if you were to go up to him and invite him to your home without ever having spoken to him before in your life.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a boy 17, and have learned to like a girl I met at a basketball game. I play basketball for my date money, and once in a while I sing at an affair for charity and semi-pro.

This girl loves basketball but she never goes with me to all my games. A friend said that she really cares for me, but when I call her up, she asked me about a friend of mine whom she met. My friends tell me to ask her which of us she prefers. What do you think I should do?

—"B"

Dear "B"—

I know one thing I think you should not do, and that is, ask this girl any foolish question as which of you two boys she prefers. It is not only very unfair to put any girl in such a position, but it would be childish on your part. Why should a teenage girl be put on the spot like that and told that she has to lose one boy friend if she happens to like another, too? Or why should any teen-age boy feel that to take a girl out makes her his exclusive property?

My advise to you is to be glad when this girl accepts your invitations, and be willing to see her go out at other times with other boys. That is the only sensible way to act at your age, or any other age, for that matter.

If the girl really likes you, she will want to see more and more of you of her own accord, and if she doesn't, why try to force her by making her choose an exclusive boy friend?

The book which has just been published, is a collection of four short stories in French.

Miss Waller is now learning to do embroidery. She uses a special needle in an ivory case made for her to hold in the mouth.

A Hurry-Up Beauty Routine

For a quick facial, cream your complexion, leave the cosmetics on a few minutes, then remove with cotton that has been dipped in skin freshener.

By HELEN FOLLETT

THERE are times when a girl wants to look her best at short notice. A clang on the telephone, a merry voice speaking. Won't she join the gay party? She's tired as all get out, had planned to go to bed early. But she can't turn down that date.

She must decide how the half hour or hour at her disposal must be spent. She can lie down, relax, close her eyes, pull herself together, or she can rest her weary bones in a warm bath. If she has a grain of energy left she will chose the bath with a cold shower for a finish. Before getting into the tub she will wash and cream her face. Cream and moist hot air form a grand combination for banishing pallor. Just before donning the party frock she should remove the cream with a pad of absorbent cotton that has been dipped in skin freshener.

If she has a cap hairdo, little time need be spent on it. Perhaps her finger nails will need a touch up with polish, but that doesn't take more than a few minutes.

To give herself a new face that will stay fresh through the evening she will do well to use a foundation cosmetic. Rouge can be a bit brighter than that used during the day and, of course, the lipstick should be an exact color match.

One more suggestion; she must not get fussed and flustered. To dash around looking for this or that. Men don't like 'em that way. They prefer girls who have poise, who take things in their stride, who seem never to be hurried or flurried.

She must not forget to put on a little perfume which is the final touch when one has got into one's glad dry goods. A drop behind the ears, a drop in the curves of the arm. But never on the hair, unless the glorious halo has just been shampooed.

1949 Valentines Run True to Form

(By The Canadian Press)

Year after year, in this so-called hard-boiled practical age, the good old hearts-and-flowers tradition breaks out on St. Valentine's Day.

This year's Valentines are if anything mushier and lacier than ever and the sentiments even more delicate and touching. All done up in buttons and bows — that's the style for the 1949 billets — doux, say the card manufacturers.

Perhaps it is all a part of the more open display of sentiment these days, reflected in radio's croony melodies and the screen's romantic close-ups.

The connection between St. Valentine and sweet romance was not always so close. In fact there has been a confusing number of saints and priests named Valentine. However, the one traditionally associated with today's exchanging of love messages is Valentine of Rome who was martyred 1672 years ago.

On the eve of the old Roman feast day of Februata Juno, St. Valentine was clubbed, stoned and beheaded at Rome's Flaminian Gate. The feast celebrated the Lupercalia, revels in honor of Faunus, when boys chose their partners by lot.

Condemned Paganism

Faunus was the god of cattle and fertility in general, and according to legend, a cave called the Lupercal on one of the seven hills of Rome was sacred to him.

Valentine died for condemning the pagan gods and all ceremonies connected with them. It is thought that his torture and death became a part of the wild celebrations of 270 A.D.

It is perhaps ironical that the survival of pagan rites should coincide with martyred Valentine's day. But as paganism gave way to Christianity, it is thought the early fathers saw it would be impossible to abolish all old customs. Gradually through Christian influences these old celebrations became submerged in Christian festivals.

But that's all history, and some of it conjectural at that. What really matters is the sentiment that comes with the lace heart or beribboned love token. Dripping with romance or strictly friendly, they all say, 'Will you be my Valentine?"

Urges Quick Move to Save Wildlife

Montreal (CP)—Immediate action "at cabinet levels" to halt wildlife destruction in Canada is urged by a sportsman-writer who finds governmental departments too frequently only rump bodies, headed by incompetents with a greater knowledge of politics than of the business in hand.

The plea, coupled with warnings based on facts and figures, is made by Izaak Hunter in his "With Rod and Gun" column in the Montreal Gazette.

The columnist, who can easily be identified also as G. H. Carpenter, executive editor, would like his grandchildren to be able some day to enjoy hunting and fishing in the country of their birth.

He takes note of the provincial and federal governmental set-ups but finds wildlife conservation deteriorating into extermination. Often departmental heads are chosen for reasons other than any real knowledge of wildlife management. Some hamper the work of competent and conscientious men employed permanently in the departments.

He finds many instances of retrogression in the work, with little realization that hunting and fishing are big business in Canada.

Moose have already gone out as big game animals in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick and are "a big question mark" in Quebec and Ontario. Caribou in Quebec are "just barely flickering."

Serious in West

Heavy inroads have been made into big game in northern parts of the Prairie provinces, and the serious stage is being reached in the great reservoirs of Northern Alberta and British Columbia.

Izaak Hunter finds the most common cause a combination of wholesale illegal slaughter, inadequate law enforcement and judical leniency toward violators.

On a national scale, the most promising possibilities may result from a report of a committee of the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaus. Provincial governments are paying more attention to their publicity departments and bureaus.

The committee struck snags when it wanted statistical information. Six provinces lump all but resident licences as "non-resident," with no indication of the amount of money coming from the United States and other foreign countries. There was nothing resembling a wildlife census or even estimates, although Ontario now has started a moose survey.

Among the committee's many recommendations were: stricter regulation of travel by aircraft to remote areas; increased number of competent enforcement officers; prosecution of both poacher and receiver of illegal takings.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Abraham Lincoln, February 12 —A great tribute to a great gentleman are these famous lines:

"A nature modeled on a higher plan,
Lord of himself, an inborn gentleman."
—Lincoln by George Baker.

Bride and Groom Announce New Home Address

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My prospective bridegroom and I have bought a house and are furnishing it so that we can move into it after our marriage, which will be very soon. We are so delighted to have a "home address" that we wanted to send "At Home" cards, enclosing them in our wedding invitations. Also I wanted to have my new name engraved on these cards, as I thought I remembered seeing on "At Home" cards. Since we are going to have a very large, formal wedding, I did not think it would be necessary to send wedding announcements also, so I had not planned on these.

But now comes my problem: The man I've always dealt with in the stationery department of a large local department store, tells me that I can enclose "At Home" cards with the invitations, but, if I do, they can carry only the new address, not the "Mr. and Mrs." Is this really correct, or have I misunderstood him in some way?

Margaret V.

The salesman is correct about this. On "At Home" cards enclosed with wedding invitations, it is not correct for you to have your new name .. for the reason that you would not have acquired your new name before the ceremony. A correct form for At Home cards to be enclosed with your wedding invitations is:

At Home
after the first of June
Two Pleasant Road,
Home City, Ohio

It's a very practical plan, too, and very often followed nowadays, to send out engraved "Mr. and Mrs." cards after the bride and groom and the new home are ready to receive visitors. Like this:

Mr. and Mrs. George Clark
Two Pleasant Road

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Hands Should be Handsome

You can't hide your hands. They are there, right out in the open, at the dinner table, the bridge game and when your very best feller wants to hold them. The care of the hands is extremely important to good grooming. Attention to the hands includes developing flexibility and grace when in motion.

Cleansing, frictioning with cream, and exercising makes up the routine. The first need is a bland soap. If you are the boss of the domestic works, be fussy about the cleansing agents you use during the daily routine of keeping your house in order. If strong ones must be used, slip on rubber gloves; if you don't do that little thing your hands will be rough and red. It will take days of careful attention to get them in form again.

It is a good idea to have a hand brush in your kitchen. After preparing vegetables or handling fruits, there is nothing like it for whisking the stains away in a hurry. Plunge your fingertips in a cut lemon before the washing. Use the brush vigorously on the knuckles where creases invite dust to dwell. Remove every bit of the soap with warm water. Dry the hands well if you would keep them from getting chapped. Then on with a hand lotion which you cannot use too often in cold weather.

A brisk massage with toilet lanoline or a hand cream will give smoothness to the skin. Once a week this should be a part of your bedtime half hour of beautifying. Begin with the left hand, then do the right. Start with your pinky finger; work down the length of each finger, beginning at the tip. Hold the finger to be massaged between the thumb and index finger, using a rotary and sliding movement. Thumb the knuckles vigorously.

Continue the kneading until the entire surface of the back of the hand, down to the wrist, has been treated. The longer the cream remains on, the more effective the results. Slip on a pair of cotton work gloves for the night. You'll say your hands will feel clumsy and you no like, but in time you will get used to them. During seven or eight hours of sleep the flesh will lap up the soothing application, be greatly benefited. By morning the cream will have disappeared.

Calloused spots can be frictioned away by using a toilet pumice stone. Excessive perspiration of the palms can be relieved somewhat by laving with witch hazel. The cause is usually found in a nervous condition; that calls for regard for the laws of health and a calmer outlook on life.

Nail polish, while making feminine nails attractive in appearance, calls attention to the condition of the hands. It isn't enough to have the fingertips decorative. We suspect that some busy women consider the job done when the gay veneer is applied. All wrong!

Blue Mink

LITTLE FURS ARE nicer than ever. Many a woman who refuses to compromise with quality, would rather have a small fur of the finest pelts than a whole coat of inferior skins. Then, too, a fine fur stole serves many purposes, with a suit, with a dress, for day or evening wear. Designed by Dein Bacher of the Waldorf, for southern wear now and for Spring wear at home later, is this tiered stole of cross blue mink. To soften even further the natural supple quality of the pelts, each skin is worked on a foundation of silk.

Broadway Plays Attract German Theatre-goers

By JACK SMYTH

Berlin (Reuters)—German audiences like United States drama.

Their first post-war reaction to plays from abroad was suspicion, then surprise, now enthusiasm. They are demanding new scripts from Broadway.

Eugene Bahn, theatre officer of United States military government's education and cultural relations division, has watched the growth of the German liking for American plays since early in the occupation.

"Germans have looked upon the theatre, hardly less than the school, as a "means of education" to be subsidized from public funds," he says.

"The idea of the stage existing for its own sake, for entertainment or for the completely free expression of ideas, was comparatively novel, especially to the youth.

"But it has caught hold now. While some German critics still hesitate to concede that laugh-provoking drama is worthwhile, American satire and comedy, as well as serious drama, are nonetheless drawing large crowds.

"Recently a German theatre-goer, who previously set the greatest value on tragedy, told me: 'Had we been able to put ourselves on the stage and laugh at ourselves, there could never have been a Hitler.'"

Overcome Difficulties

In spite of difficulties in procuring cloth, costumes and stage materials of all kinds, the German theatre has made remarkable strides since the end of the war.

To date, 200, contracts for American plays have been negotiated in the United States zone, 140 in the British zone, 40 in the Soviet zone, and 12 in the French zone. Forty-five modern United States plays translated into German are available to German theatres, and most of them have already been performed.

Greatest success has been "Voice of the Turtle" which has been produced in 53 cities in Germany, including several in the Soviet zone. Second in popularity has been "Three Men on a Horse" which has played in 42 cities.

Robert Ardrey's "Thunder Rock," although not a success on Broadway, has proved extraordinarily popular in Germany, as it did in England.

Thornton Wilder's "The Skin of Our Teeth," played in 16 cities, won the widest critical acclaim of any production. One critic wrote: "It is as though it were written specially for us Germans."

During the last four months, interest in religious plays has increased in contrast to the demand for "supernatural" plays two years ago.

"Enabling the German theatre to present to the German public the ideas and developments in other countries is a positive step toward the recrienation of German thought," says Bahn.

United States Places Trust In "Cold Facts"

Washington, Feb. 12. (AP)—The United States has placed its trust in "cold facts" to coax Norway into formal partnership in the cold war against Russia.

Officials said Foreign Minister Halvard Lange of Norway, got plenty of information but a minimum of persuasion during the five days he spent here seeking replies to his questions about the North Atlantic Defence Alliance being negotiated by the Western Powers.

Late yesterday Lange started home to report to an anxiously-waiting government in Oslo after receiving from State Secretary Acheson the official American view on the best way to defend Scandinavia from possible attack.

The Norwegian official plans additional talks with Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain on Northern Europe's defence prospects.

Once Lange returns, Norway must draft a note to Russia in answer to Moscow's unexpected bid for a non-aggression treaty.

The big question for Norway is whether the gurantees of American help are strong enough to risk antagonizing the Soviet government by joining with the Western Alliance.

Russia, which has a common border with Norway, has bitterly denounced the Atlantic pact as an "aggressive" move not in keeping with the United Nations. That has been taken as a clear warning to Norway not to link up with the Western powers.

But officials here indicated confidence that the information Lange is relaying will be enough to convince Norwegian authorities to take this chance.

As he left Washington, Lange made it clear that the United States State Department had not tried to influence his government's decision during his stay.

'Ike' to Help Answer Questions Military Policy

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, Feb. 12 — (AP)—The United States has called Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower back into service to help answer some grave questions of future military policy.

The wartime supreme allied commander was named by the White House yesterday to serve as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff — a group which includes the top military men of the United States Army, Navy and Air Force, as well as the chief of staff to the president.

Eisenhower is on leave from his job as president of Columbia University.

As principal military adviser to President Truman and Defence Secretary Forrestal, he will have an important part in deciding such vital questions as these:

1. Should the United States concentrate its defence planning in the Atlantic -European area, leaving Pacific defence in a secondary spot?

2. How much of its arms can the United States spare to bulwark its allies in Western Europe and elsewhere?

Announcement of Eisenhower's appointment closely followed dispatches from Tokyo saying that the United States soon may review its entire military position in Asia as a result of a visit to that area by Army's Secretary Royall.

There were suggestions— not denied in Washington — that in global strategy the Pacific zone might again assume the position it had in the Second World War, when the enemy there was merely held at bay until victory in Europe was assured.

Pigs Go to Market And Create Record

Auckland, N.Z. (CP)—Fifteen little pigs went to market at Auckland and broke a world's record The pigs, all one litter, weighed 4,500 pounds on the hoof and produced 3,293 pounds of meat. This is a world record for bacon pigs at six months.

Two-ton litters have been recorded in America for the Duroc breed, some of which are kept 15 months before being slaughtered, but they are not bacon pigs. New Zealand farmers have been set the object of the one-ton litter, but only with large litters and careful feeding can this weight be reached.

The 15 pigs were specially fed from the beginning. They broke a world record at eight weeks, weighing 964 pounds. In their six months they consumed 30 1-2 tons of kitchen waste and milk.

PERHAPS MORE MAIDS?

Britain Lessens Navigation Risks Around Her Coasts

London CP)—Britain is making navigation safer for shipping in the seas around her coasts.

Vessels will be able to navigate in safety with the aid of a radio direction indicating system. The ministry of transport recently inaugurated an extension which improves the range and usefulness of this service.

It provides each ship as it approaches the shores of Britain with a means of identifying its exact position with complete accuracy. This can be done rapidly and simply even in thickest fog or mist. The ceremony marked the completion of what has been a very complex piece of electronic engineering. When originally started three years ago, it was estimated that 10 years would be required to bring it to a point where it could be put into everyday use.

The new service is known as lane identification. It overcomes what proved to be one disadvantage in the system of radio aid which Britain had used to assist shipping in plotting a course during bad visibility. Formerly, it was necessary for the captain to know a ship's position before the navigator system could make contact with the vessel and follow its course.

The device known as Decca Navigation was originally sponsored by the Admiralty. It was used for the first time during the war on the day the invasion of Europe from Britain was launched. By its aid, hundreds of landing craft were able to beach at their prearranged positions on the French coast.

Huge Area Made Safe

A pattern of radio waves is sent out from a master transmitting station to which are attached three satellites that repeat these signals. They are received on board ship by an instrument on which simple dial readings indicate a vessel's position on a chart. The controls of this receiver are set in advance and as long as the vessel remains within range of the radio signals it can plot its course with great accuracy.

The advantages of this system are now extended to ocean-going liners and other deep sea vessels. Lane identification considerably extends the area within which its guidance is accurate and effective. Ships anywhere in the East Atlantic or Baltic can now navigate in safety with aid of this invention.

It is claimed to provide the most reliable navigational system in the world. Transmitters located in Britain and Denmark together cover 500,000 square miles of ocean.

Britain maintains four transmitters which form an interlocked pattern of constant radio lines in space. Plans for building two additional Decca navigator chains have been approved, one in southwest Britain and the other in Scotland. Tests are also being made to find out the exact benefits of the system for aircraft. It has been found that it can provide many advantages for aerial navigators.

Industrial Plan For Five Years Announced in B.C.

(By The Canadian Press)

British Columbia is embarking on a $90,000,000 industrial expansion program calling for extension of its Pacific Great Eastern Railway, highway construction, power development and irrigation projects.

Premier Byron Johnson announced the plan in a policy speech to the legislature at Victoria yesterday. He said it would be carried out during the next five years.

The province will extend the rail line from the present northern terminus at Quesnel to Prince George, a distance of 83 miles. At Prince George, 350 miles north of Vancouver, the line will connect with the C. N. R., thus providing an outlet to deep water shipping at Prince Rupert.

The railway extension is the first step in a program to tap the riches of the Peace River country, a vast inland empire rich in agricultural lands, coal and oil resources.

A $25,000,000 operating surplus for the year ended last March 31 was reported in public accounts tabled in the Ontario legislature. The House at Toronto, which started its new session Thursday, opened throne-speech debate.

Controls governing quality and sale of margarine will be urged in a resolution to be introduced in the Saskatchewan legislature Tuesday.

Premier D. L. Campbell said in the legislature at Winnipeg that within the next few days the Manitoba government must decide upon one of two types of contracts for the construction of a dam and power plant at Pine Falls on the Winnipeg River. The project, expected to cost at least $15,000,000, is part of Manitoba's power development program.

Quebec's provincial parliament did not sit Friday.

Sailing Craft Makes 80 M.P.H., It is Fastest Ice Boat in Canada

By GORDON PEPPER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Dartmouth, N.S., Feb. 14 (CP)—Like many another Maritimer, Mike Driscoll loves the set of a sail in a fresh breeze — but as a modern he likes speed too.

So he built himself a sailing craft that loafs along at 80 miles an hour on the Dartmouth lakes.

The catch is that Driscoll's pride and joy is an ice-boat.

Mike believes he has the fastest ice boat in Eastern Canada and one that would be a worthy opponent for any speed record established in the Lake St. Clair district where ice boating is also in vogue.

A saw-maker turned grocer from Newcastle, N.B., Mike recently launched his ice speedster "No. 2", a $400 monoplane-type craft with the steering apparatus from a war surplus training plane.

With 265 square miles of canvas, the Driscoll N o. 2 has turned in speeds of more than 80 miles an hour but Mike is sure he could better 100 miles an hour.

Mike has had offers of $700 to build some more of his monoplane-type craft and will likely do so.

There are two differences between this new type — the monoplane — and that of the old flat bottomed ice boat. In two words, the variations are "speed" and "comfort."

His monoplane is a super-stream-lined effort with a top and bottom of untempered masonite. Structurally, the chief difference is that the monoplane has two 33-inch, all-steel runners at the stern and one in front while the flat bottom had two in front and one behind. The sail on the mono-ship is set back to permit a more even balance of weight and this and the added sail area bring higher speeds.

Mike's brother, who recently won his wings as a pilot, says he'd sooner spend a Sunday afternoon in the ice boat than take a plane up. For supreme thrills and something that will shake out a lethargic existence, try ice boating. We'll take the shore and watch.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Four pints—pardon—points will be at stake tonight in Memorial Arena when the snorting CNR Diesels still boasting a large juicy duck-egg in the "Lost" column tangle with the Kingston Aces in a regular Senior "B" tilt. The Diesels did not play Aces last Wednesday as scheduled and both teams agreed to double the point ante in tonight's joust. On the face of things the Diesels should fold this one away in their hockey tucker-bag, but you never can tell. Look what David did to a big hoodlum called Goliath away back when. However they'll be gunning for their seventh straight victory. Next Friday night the Trainmen will meet the acid test when they meet the strengthened Nylons in Kingston. The plant boys have added Walt Gerow to their roster since they last met the Diesels and Walt has been doing some potent sniping along the left boards for the Limestone City crew.

What is said to be a disgraceful exhibition of sportsmanship took place in Brockville Saturday night when excited fans stormed on the ice in an attack on the visiting Belleville juvenile hockey team. The local kids incidentally defeated the Brockville crew 7-2 to take the round 11-5. The donnybrook took place with but two or three minutes to go when irate fans leaped the boards when a fight between a Belleville player and a Brockville player broke out. The Belleville kids stuck by their guns and gave back punch for punch as the entire teams, managers, coaches etc., got into the fray. It is understood the incident has been reported to Secretary Jack Christie and an OMHA investigation of the affair will get underway immediately.

According to reports from the battle-field, the local linesman took exception to Referee Perry Everett's decisions and at every opportunity halted the game to argue the point. This did appeal to the home town crowd apparently who agreed, naturally with the home town officials. The affair came to a Donnybrookian climax late in the third period when tempers broke loose and fists started to fly. Incidentally Billy Strahan, star forward of the Rockets juveniles suffered a fractured wrist during the game (not in the fight) and will be lost to the team for probably the season. His loss will be a serious one to the Rockets as he was the pivot man of the best line the team has.

Both minor teams trek to Port Hope tonight where they meet the midget and juvenile representatives of that town in the third round of the various midget and juvenile playdowns. The squads will make the trip together. The Gunners Midget "B's" are in fine fettle after their rousing win over the heavier Peterborough Clappers and hope to add another scalp to their hockey belts tonight. Rockets, may still be a little rockey over the buffeting they received in Brockville on Saturday, and as was said before will be without the services of Strahan. Carmichael, however, is back in the fold and adds a lot of strength to the Rockets line-up. He was in harness on Saturday night and was one of the stars of the game.

Tomorrow the Rockets juniors hope to fatten their batting average at the expense of the Kingston Aces in Memorial Arena. The local juniors took the measure of the Kingston kids last Friday but only after the smaller homester crew threw a bad scare into them in a 2-0 first period. The juniors will be at full strength for the game tomorrow and should retain their unbeaten string of victories in Junior "B" group circles.

• • •

With some one spotting caterpillars during cartwheels; pussy willows showing velvety blooms along fence rows and other signs, along come the first bulletin of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association, denoting that the gal with the diaphanous garments can't be too far away. Yep, the vernal season is around the corner, so to speak, although we don't know how far away the corner is.

In any event Secretary Frank Feaver, Hamilton, points out in his first edict that affiliations this year will not be accepted from individual teams but must come from leagues or associations consisting of several leagues. This ruling also applies to municipalities that operate industrial leagues. No player or team may play in another district without first receiving the permission of the home association.

• • •

Feaver adds that the annual meeting of the association is scheduled for Oshawa on Good Friday this year, and requests that those desiring reservations get in touch with him immediately. Official OASA certificates must be signed by all players before participating in any games in any league.

• • •

While it is a bit early to do any predicting, it is extremely doubtful if Belleville has an intermediate softball team this year. All is quiet along Rumor Row, but something like an eleventh hour occurrence might change the picture. From what we gather however, the fast-growing Industrial League will again be in operation. It was a distinct success last year, and provided plenty of high-class entertainment for lovers of softball.

Crowded colleges can make dormitories of their empty stadiums when television gives every fan a better seat at home, Bill Fay, sports editor of Collier's, forecast today.

Predicting that within the next ten years television will both boom and revolutionize all sports, Fay visualizes video audiences of 50 million fans for big games, with telescopic lenses giving everybody a 50-yard-line seat.

"New York Chicago and other large centres will build weather-beating indoor fields for telecasts," he foresees, adding: Baseball minor leagues will disappear, major leagues will expand to the West Coast, unoccupied bleachers will be razed, enlarging parks for uniform home-run distances. Basketball will become the universal world-wide favorite. Golf galleries will cease in favor of stroke-by-stroke camera views, but prize money will skyrocket with advertising fees.

• • •

Big Boxing matches will move into television studios. Horse race bookies will operate by video sets, resulting in legalized handbooks, vastly increased betting and a 10 per cent tax which may balance the national budget. Water polo, table tennis, bowling, squash, handball and other minor sports will boom as "telegenic" features.

St. Paul Saints Stretch Lead To Seven Points

(By The Associated Press)

St. Paul stretched its northern division lead to seven points over the weekend as the United States Hockey League entered the last quarter of its schedule.

The Saints tied Kansas City last night 4-4 after smothering Minneapolis Saturday 11-2.

Kansas City scored three goals in the last period to come from behind and take an edge twice, but both times the Saints matched the Pla-Mors. It was Kansas City's second tie against eight losses in its last ten games.

In other Saturday games, Dallas defeated Houston 8-3 and Tulsa downed Fort Worth 3-1.

Minneapolis will play Omaha in the only game Tuesday. All teams are idle tonight.

60 YEARS OF ACCOMPLISHMENT
1889 1949

The pioneer woman made her own soap. Water seeping through wood ashes in a barrel or piece of hollow log, produced lye. Soap was made by boiling this lye with fat in an iron kettle. In the soap plants of today, soap is made by boiling vegetable oils with caustic soda (lye). Salt is added to cause the excess alkali and by-products to settle to the bottom. Lye and salt corrode most metal vessels. Corrosion affects the color, purity and keeping qualities of soap. So most vessels and containers are made of Nickel alloys. They resist corrosion, last longer, protect the purity and color of the soap.

Nickel Brings Dollars to Canada

Since more than ninety per cent of the Nickel produced in Canada is sold to the United States and other countries, it brings a constant flow of dollars back to Canada. In fact, Canada's Nickel industry is one of our chief sources of U.S. dollars so essential at the present time to maintain our foreign trade and make available products not produced in this country.

These dollars help pay the wages of the 14,000 Nickel employees, and help provide the dollars which make it possible to pay millions in freight to Canadian railways, to buy timber, steel, coal, machinery and supplies amounting to many millions each year.

These millions, flowing into all industries through the length and breadth of Canada, help create jobs for Canadians.

Incensed Brockville Attacks Belleville Rockets Juveniles In Wild Third-Period Fight

Belleville Rockets juveniles eliminated the Brockville team from further OMHA Juvenile 'B' competition on Saturday night defeating them 7-2 in a wild and woolly game that had everything but tomahawks, shillalaghs and knobkerries used. The locals took the round 11-3 having won the first game of the goals to count series here on Thursday night 4-3.

The game was marred by a near riot which saw angry spectators leap the boards and attack the Belleville team after a Brockville and Belleville player became entangled in a fistfight. Players of both teams entered the fray and then spectators incensed it is claimed by the officials, jumped the boards and laid into the Rockets right lustily. Coach Eddie Schrieder rushed out with the remainder of his team in an effort to quell the disturbance but he was promptly set upon and given "treatment."

Investigation to Follow

The riot occurred with but two minutes to go in the third period. It is claimed that the Brockville linesman insisted that he was acting in a referee capacity and took issue with a number of decisions handed out by referee Perry Everett. The crowd apparently worked itself into a wild frenzy and the climax came when the fight started late in the final period.

It is understood the incident has been reported to the OMHA and an investigation will follow.

The game was productive of good hockey only in the first period when the Rockets grabbed a 3-1 lead. From then on it was rough ragged stuff with fifteen penalties handed out by the officials eight of them coming in the third period. Rockets drew that number for their share.

Billy Strahan suffered a fractured wrist during a melee and will likely be lost to the Rockets for the remainder of the season.

Rockets added 2 more in the second period with Brockville scoring once. The Schrieder-Dennis crew added a couple more for good measure in a wild third period with not a return from the homesters.

Local Line Too Good

The Strahan-Brown-Gilmour line was the best on the ice scoring five of the seven goals with Gilmour and Brown getting two each and Strahan the other. Hatfield and Carmichael scored the remaining pair for the winners. Carmichael was back again with the Rockets and added a lot of strength to the team. He scored a goal, was credited with an assist and drew a pair of penalties. Hatfield also stood out with neat effort getting himself a goal and an assist.

The game was played in a drill hall on a rink that was a cement floor flooded and frozen.

Rockets go to Port Hope tonight where they take the juveniles of that town in the first game of a goals-to-count third round juvenile B series. The return game is scheduled here on Thursday.

The Teams

Brockville: Goal, Mionan; defence, Amyotte, Companion; centre, Coulie; wings, Reynolds, Bartlett; subs, Rumsby, McMahon Crooks, Pearce, MacNeill, McCombie, Smith, Warren, Carmichael.

Belleville Rockets: Goal, Bob Green; defence, Muirhead, Gravin; centre, Harry Brown; wings Strahan, Gilmour; subs, Hatfield Doran, Brown, Rivett, Nolan, Lupinette, Don Dolan.

Border League Will Continue As Six-Club Loop

Water town, N.Y., Feb. 14 (AP)—The Class C Border Baseball League will continue as a six-club circuit for the 1949 season President John G. Ward announced Saturday.

Following a meeting of club owners, Ward announced that a 130-game schedule starting May 11, would be played this season. The league officials had attempted to increase the membership to eight teams, but it was announced that plans did not materialize. A Corning, N.Y., club, which was prepared to enter the circuit, was unable to do so because an eighth team was not obtained. Brockville, was mentioned as the eighth team.

Ward said the opening day schedule would send Kingston to Auburn; Watertown to Geneva and Ottawa to Ogdensburg. The directors selected Geneva as the most city for the 1949 all-star game to be played during the last week of July or the first week of August.

Major Outbreaks Occur at Windsor And Toronto

By The Canadian Press

Ontario Hockey Association referees still have their work cut out for them.

Despite fiery verbal warnings from the O.H.A. executive, players continue to draw more-than-average penalties.

Latest outbreaks came during the weekend in Windsor when officials meted out 25 penalties, including eight majors and a misconduct, as Windsor Spitfires defeated Stratford Kroehlers 4-2 in their Junior "A" tilt.

In other Junior "A" games during the weekend the eighth-place Toronto St. Michael's College Majors downed the sixth-place Guelph Biltmores 5-3, the second-place Barrie Flyers battled to a 2-2 tie against the seventh-place Toronto Marlboros and St. Catharines Teepees moved into a fourth-place tie when they beat the last-place Galt Rockets 6-5 in overtime play.

At Windsor, referees Pearcy Allen and Morris Walsh meted out nine minor and five major penalties to Stratford. Major altercation came during the second period when Joe Beda and John Wilson began scuffling in front of the Stratford nets.

Lasted Five Minutes

A melee started in a matter of seconds and lasted for five minutes. Before play was resumed the officials handed out a total of 32 minutes in penalties to six players. The original offenders were not penalized.

Both teams scored once in the first period and battled through a scoreless second. Windsor outscored Stratford 3-1 in the third frame. Larry Wilson scored twice for the Spitfires while John Wilson and Bruce McKay got one each. Pierre Cadieux and Dinny Flanagan counted for Stratford.

But violence wasn't restricted to the Windsor game. In Toronto during the St. Michael's-Guelph tilt players were sent to the penalty box frequently.

Did Not Interfere

With seconds left in the game a wholesale fracas broke out involving 12 players. Referees Larry Heffering and Bill Towns stood back and watched the fisticuffs until the players decided they had had enough. The officials unruffled, handed out seven major penalties.

The Irish showed surprising strength as they moved into the lead early in the first period by counting twice within three minutes. They struck again in the second frame with two more goals. Guelph threatened in the latter moments of the third stanza but Bud Marshall got the clincher.

Con Bonhomme tallied twice for Toronto while Bob Decourcey and Gord Hannigan got one each. Lorne Ferguson, Hill and Playge scored for Biltmores.

At Galt, the Teepees caught fire in the third period when they counted five goals and then went on to get the only counter of the 10-minute overtime session.

The Rockets went up 2-0 in the first period on goals by George Ford and Billy Newcombe. Ernie Keefe made it 3-0 early in the second stanza. Keefe got another goal in the third period as did teammate Ron Bell.

St. Catharines scorers were Jack McIntyre, with two and Bill Buschlen, Obie O'Brien and Gerry Toppazzini with one each.

Deprived of Shutout

Marlboro netminder Don Lockhart was deprived of a shutout midway through the third period. Don Ashbee got the first goal when he stickhandled through the Toronto defence and beat Lockhart on a close-in shot. Then Ashbee got the second Barrie goal during a scramble. Don Windley and Bob Hassard tallied for Toronto.

Three games are slated tonight. In two senior games the playoffs start when Hamilton Tigers meet Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen and Toronto Marlboros clash with Owen Sound Mercurys. In the Junior "A" loop the Spitfires play a return match with Stratford.

Leafs Defeat Wings, Rangers Over Weekend as Power Comes to Fore in Late Season

(By The Canadian Press)

It could be that Happy Day and his Toronto Maple Leafs have been playing possum all season. At any rate, the Leafs have hit their stride at the right time and appear to mean business in defending the Stanley Cup they captured last year.

Stumbling along in the lower brackets for the first half of the campaign, the Leafs suddenly have caught fire, knocking off the top and bottom National Hockey League teams with equal ease.

Saturday Toronto trumped the high-and-mighty Detroit Red Wings 3-1, then moved to New York Sunday night and blanked Rangers 3-0. It was rather a lean weekend for the Wings, who barely managed to rally for a 4-4 tie at Boston Sunday night. In other weekend games, Boston whipped Rangers 4-2 Saturday and Chicago Black Hawks edged the faltering Montreal Canadiens 4-3 in the Windy City.

The big man in Toronto's weekend upsurge has been slick Max Bentley. He slammed home a pair of markers in each game to account for two-thirds of the Leaf goal production.

Bentley Wins Race Horse

Bentley Saturday won himself a future race-horse when Leafs whacked Detroit before 14,191 Toronto fans. He connected with his first goal seconds after breeder Charlie Hemstead offered the Delisle, Sask., speedster a yearling if he could score.

Joe Klukay opened the scoring for Toronto in the second frame, Gordie Howe tied it up for the Wings, but Bentley cashed his counter before the period ended to send the homesters ahead again. Bentley made victory certain with the clincher early in the finale. Rookie Ray Timgren drew assists on both Bentley tallies.

At New York Sunday night, Bentley and goalie Turk Broda were a hot combination for Toronto as the Leafs sunk the tail-end Rangers 3-0. Ted Kennedy scored the other Leaf goal in this contest. The victory moved Toronto three points ahead of the fourth - place Canadiens and nudged New York deeper into the cellar, three points back of Chicago.

Drive Pays Off

Detroit's furious third-period drive paid off for the Wings at Boston Sunday night and gave them a 4-4 draw with the Bruins. Trailing 4-1 going into the final session, Detroit got hot and Gordie Howe, Bud Poile and Ted Lindsay tallied within five minutes to knot the count.

Pete Horeck gave Detroit an early lead in the first period, but Boston came through with four straight markers, Johnny Peirson beating Harry Lumley twice and Paul Ronty and Eddie Sandford once each.

Two rookies just recalled from Boston's Hershey American League farm starred in Bruins 4-2 victory over New York Saturday night. Dave Creighton and Topper Toppazzini, both still in their teens, each scored a goal and collected an assist.

Edgar Laprade notched both Ranger counters, while Sanford and Ronty scored the other Boston goals.

Montreal suffered their sixth defeat in their last seven games in losing to Chicago.

The victory was a costly one for the Hawks who lost centre Gus Bodnar for an indefinite period when he was accidentally struck by Murph Chamberlain's flying skate on the chin and knocked to the ice. He was feared to be suffering from a possible broken jaw and slight concussion.

Roy Conacher and Red Hamill scored two goals apiece for the Hawks, while Canadien marksmen were Bill Reay, Bob Filion and Ken Mosdell.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Feb. 14 (AP)—The man from Fort Wayne, Ind., seemed to be a bit more enthusiastic about his boss than his drum-beating job required. "Fred Zollner," he proclaimed, "would like to be a real big-leaguer. He knows he can't have a big-league baseball or football club in Fort Wayne, so he went into the sports where he can be big league—pro basketball and fastball." Fastball, it must be explanied, is a new name for the speeded-up version of softball and Zollner's team is having a lot more success there than in the Basketball Association of lost 20 last year. In 1947 it was America. They won 99 games and 113 and 19. His cage squad have won 16 and lost 29 to date.

Monday Matinee

Tip from Chicago says travelling Secretary Frank McMahon is likely to be the next victim of the White Sox baseball housecleaning. First indication was when General Manager Frank Lane moved McMahon out of his office to make room for the new promotion director... Boston College is said to have the inside track with Carl Joyce, the lanky Seton Hall prep runner who finished third in the half-mile at last Saturday's New York A.C. meet ... Marquette's "informal" hockey team has as its player-coach Ray Beaumont, who also is sports editor of the Marquette Tribune. He could get a real scoop by organizing a "good-bye Ray" club just before his graduation . Note to the trade: Stanley Woodward's book, "Sports Page," goes on sale today. It's worth having if only to show your boss Stan's observations on expense accounts.

WEEKEND STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Max Bentley, Toronto centre who fired fgour goals as Leafs won twice.

Turk Broda, Toronto goalie, who blanked New York 3-0 last night for his fifth shutout.

Topper Toppazzini and Dave Creighton, Boston rookies who each collected a goal and an assists as Bruins whipped Rangers 4-2 Saturday.

Roy Conacher and Red Hamill, Chicago forwards, who notched two goals apiece as the Hawks edged Canadiens 4-3.

Toronto, Feb. 14 (CP)—Playoff schedules in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior "A" League were set Sunday by the Association executive, meeting here.

The sixth-place team will play at the home of the fifth-finisher Feb. 23, with the second game Feb. 25 or 26 and the third Feb. 28.

The next series will be a best-of-five match between winners in the two lower categories in early March and the finals will be a best-of-seven series between the survivor and the winner of the first series between first and second place teams. The first game will be March 11, with games alternating between the two home rinks on March 14, 16, 18 or 19, 21, 23 and 25 or 26.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

There is only one first rule of bridge play by declarer. It is the counting of losers and winners. After a player gains confidence he is likely to get a little careless with this.

South was declarer at four hearts in this deal:

NORTH
♠J 8 4
♥K J 10
♦J 9 8 5 2
♣Q J

WEST
♠A 6 5 2
♥9 7 5 3 2
♦K 4

EAST
♠K Q 10 9 3
♥8
♦Q 10 7
♣10 7 6 4

SOUTH
♠7
♥A Q 6 4
♦A 6 3
♣A K 8 5 2

West slapped down the spade ace and took the first trick with it. He then led another spade. With so few trumps in south, what is the first thought? Save them for trump pulling purposes.

The idea would be to sluff two south diamonds on the second and third spade leads. This will make the going sounder for declarer. He can then take the fourth lead without disturbing his control.

After taking trick four he can then pull trumps, expecting one opponent to have no more than four. Then run five clubs and diamond ace. It is a brilliant thought. But it would fail here.

A life master, however, did not stop at counting his probable losers. He recounted the hands from the standpoint of winners. This he followed through until he could see ten.

He learned from this a fact that was elusive in the first survey. It told him he could make the contract without dangerous manoeuvres. All it needed was a set of simple cross ruffs.

The second spade lead was ruffed small in south. A club went to dummy queen. The club jack return was overtaken with south king. Ace of clubs was led. Whether or not west ruffed, dummy did.

A diamond return went to south ace. Another club was ruffed in dummy. A dummy spade was ruffed small in south. Another club got a ruff in dummy. South had two more tricks with top trumps.

The very simplicity of the operation is disarming. With such a tough looking contract, an unusual manoeuvre would seem necessary.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 14 (AP)—The State of the Union is good. So Bob Hope reports after seeing 15,000 miles of it.

"Wherever I went, I found the people prosperous and happy," he remarked.

The Hope tour testifies to the prosperity of the United States (and the comedian's drawing power.) Besides playing a number of benefits, he benefited himself by $612,000 in gross receipts from shows on his month's trip. In one night alone, he drew $32,000.

Bob is taking home many souvenirs he collected on the junket.

"It was fabulous," he enthused. "Why, in Abilene, they gave me a registered bull and heifer. In Cleveland, I got a Shetland pony. My kids can hardly wait until I get it here."

Whirlwind Tour

Bob said the whirlwind tour made him feel better than he has in two years. "I'm going to try to make a regular thing of it," he declared. "The amount of friendship you encounter is worth it in itself."

The comic was celebrating his first week back by doing his own radio show, an hour dramatic show and a luncheon for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

("After making all this money, I'd better keep on the good side of them.")

Now comes a two-month rest at his home in Palm Springs, or so he said.

Among the projects he is mulling is a flying trip to entertain troops in Tokyo, such as the jaunt he made to Berlin last Christmas. He would do his air show from over there and perhaps play an engagement in Hawaii, too.

He's eying television, which he will leap into as soon as it's more profitable. His next picture for Paramount, a re-make of "Ruggles of Red Gap" begins in the spring. You might say he's a busy man.

Ponderous Affair.

The luncheon which M.G.M. tossed for its 25th. anniversary was rather a ponderous affair, except for the great clowning of Red Skelton.

The best show of the day was not in the big stage where the luncheon was held. It was next door where all the stars gathered before their entrances. I sneaked in and rubbed elbows with the greats.

Almost everybody from Lassie to Gable was there. "Wow!" exclaimed Esther William, "when I think of the combined salaries under this roof!"

Frankford Minors Enjoy Saturday Hockey Sessions

Frankford—For the past four weeks, the younger boys of the village have been enjoying a session of hockey Saturday mornings, at the Frankford arena. The boys are divided into four groups ages 9-10; 11 and 12; and two groups of boys age 13-14. Each of the four groups has three quarters of an hour, which enables them to play two periods of hockey. This worthy project is being supervised by Messrs. James Connell and Bob Bates, continuation and public school principals. In a public school hockey game Saturday morning, Frankford lads defeated Stirling by a score of 3-2. Next Saturday, the Stirling boys will play host to Frankford in a return game.

The Petunias of Frankford took over second place in the Trenton-Frankford Mixed Bowling League as they downed the Egg Graders in all three games. The Shmoos dropped all three of their games to the league leading Spark Plugs, Wednesday evening.

A meeting was held in the school Thursday evening, by the interim committee which is at present in charge of the Boy Scouts. The purpose was to complete plans for the special Scout night to be held Wednesday evening by the Lions Club. It was decided that in addition to the group of twenty-six Scouts, fifteen prospective Scouts, to be chosen by the Scouts, would be guests of the Lions also.

Marmora Takes Frankford 8-5 Before 1,100

Marmora — Before a crowd of approximately 1050, a third of which comprised supporters of the visiting team, Bata - Frankford went down to defeat at the hands of Marmora in the latter's last home league game on Friday evening by the score of 8-5. A unique feature of this fast, clean game was the fact that the three penalties for minor infringements came in the first period. Marmora had the best of the game in the first and second periods but the visitors asserted themselves in the third to lower the margin against them, Schmidt being prominent and getting two unassisted goals. Both goalies brought off magnificent plays and a high pitch of excitement marked the whole encounter.

The teams:—

Bata - Frankford: goal, Davis; defence, Schmidt, Aquino; centre, Cooke; wings, Rankin, McKee; alternates, R. Mason, H. Mason, Desjardins, Forster, Hood, Howard, Courtney, Hildman, Farmer.

Marmora: goal, Borland; defence, G. Leonard, E. Leonard; centre, Cousins; wings, Lavender, K. Trumble; alternates, E. Trumble, McInroy, Goodchild, Kerr, Nicholson, Brooks.

Referee: W. M. Bowen, Trenton; linesman: T. Cousins, Marmora.

Sudbury Wolves Not Picked To Win Hockey Title

Stockholm, Feb. 14 — (CP) — Despite two convincing victories in the World Amateur Hockey Tournament which started here Saturday, Canada's Sudbury Wolves are not picked by the experts here to win the world title.

Unscored on in their first two clashes, Max Silverman's Wolves are being called to bow to the United States entry in the final round.

The Canadians walloped Denmark 47-0 Saturday and followed it up with a 7-0 triumph Sunday over Austria. Canada, Denmark and Austria are in group A of the tournament.

The United States team and Sweden qualified with Canada for the final six - team round robin tournament. There are three groups with a total of 10 teams. In each group the teams involved play each other and then the two leaders advance to the finals.

The United States team, grouped with Norway, Belgium and Switzerland, opened with a convincing 12-5 triumph over Switzerland Saturday. Sunday they trounced Norway 12-1. Sweden, in group B, opened with a 12-1 victory over Finland and then defeated Czechoslovakia 4-2.

F. W. (Dinty) Moore, coach of the Canadian team, said Sunday the Wolves are as good as the United States, Czechoslovakia and Sweden. But a Swiss expert said Canada hasn't a chance to win.

The title was won at the Olympics last year by the R.C.A.F. Flyers, whose toughest opposition came from the Czech team. The Swiss said that this year the United States would win, with Czechoslovakia taking second place and Canada or Sweden 3rd.

Canada's victory Saturday was one of the biggest ever recorded in organized hockey. But the Wolves showed up well Sunday, too. The Austrians finally were forced to put three men on defence but the Canadians kept on scoring anyway.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma came in the living room after supper, saying to pop, What time is it, William? Oh, it's nearly 8, I wonder what shows are on the air? she said.

The Merder Hour goes on at 8, as you are very well aware, my dear, and you are also fully conscious of the fact that you are about to settle back with a contented sigh to drink in two half hour merder mysteries, each containing practically the same dialog, pop said, and ma said, Now that just shows how ignorant you can be when you're badly informed. As a cold matter of fact, I happen to be in the mood for some good music, and I'll be very mutch disappointed if there's none on the air just at this time, she said.

I'll consult the radio log for you, pop said.

And he looked in his paper, saying, Be of good cheer, my dear, there's plenty of high class melody. The Light and Power Symfinny Orkester is on at 8 in an hour of all Broms music, he said, and ma said, That mite be nice, but still, it's hardly fair to the other composers to play a solid hour of Broms, and besides, I haven't paid this month's electricity bill yet, so I feel it would be cheeting to listen to the company's program under the circumstances. What elts is there? she said.

There's an hour of Gilbert and Sullivan with the compliments of Sunlight Enriched Flour, pop said, and ma said, Well, I do like Sunlight Flour, so I'd hate to lose my faith in it in case the Gilbert and Sullivan happens to be 2nd. quality.

Speeking of music, the ferst play on the Merder Hour is called The Case of the Merdered Violinist, pop said, and ma said, Then that's the very thing, I mean it's sure to have especially fine background music. William, that's a very good suggestion, she said.

And she quick terned on the Merder Hour and kept it on.

U.S. and British Navies Attract Interest in Press

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Feb. 14 (AP) — The United States and British navies have been attracting considerable interest lately in the Soviet press.

The annual report of the United States Secretary of the Navy, John Sullivan, on the state of naval armaments was commented on at length in Red Fleet, which may be considered the Soviet navy paper.

After noting this, Red Fleet added:

"Additional information on the naval armaments of the U.S.A. can be derived from the comprehensive published statement of the Chief of the Ship Administration of the Navy Department, Vice Admiral (Earle) Mills, on the program of shipbuilding reconstruction.

The commentary added, however, that Mills' statement provided "no full idea of the scales and tempo of naval armament of the U.S.A."

Red Fleet said the assertions of Sullivan and Mills for the necessity for further expansion of naval defence and particularly for a development of the submarine fleet and anti-submarine defence are "unjustifiable."

"Then, what is involved?" asked Red Fleet. "Why do the American naval leaders underscore the construction of aircraft carriers and submarine forces?

"This is explained simply: The naval programs as well as the naval doctrine of the U.S.A. are at present time entirely subordinate to and correspond to the expansionist policy of the ruling circles.

"Not defence of their communications, which no one threatens, but the cutting off at any moment of the communications of other powers on the seas and oceans, control over the world seaways — this is what the program of naval armament construction of the U.S.A. at the present time is based upon."

Summing up, Red Fleet declared:

"Thus, the British naval leadership intends to strengthen its positions on those same ocean communications which the American admirals are so zealously undertaking to 'defend,' unknown against whom.."

Refunds a Favor Not Legal Right

Montreal (CP) — The woman who decides she doesn't like the dress she bought yesterday and takes it back to the store for a refund is asking for something beyond her legal rights, the Better Business Bureau of Montreal says.

She has no more legal right to ask for a refund than the merchant would have in asking her to bring back the article because he didn't want to sell it anyway, a spokesman for the Bureau said.

"Every time a woman buys or agrees to buy something, she makes a contract," the spokesman said. "This is true whether she pays cash, makes a deposit, pays by instalments or charges it. It is true, generally, whether the agreement is signed or just verbal, although some contracts or agreements must be in writing and signed."

Hundreds of women call the Better Business Bureau about refunds. They are generally told that although some stores may take back merchandise this is generally granted as a privilege rather than a legal right.

Defective goods or merchandise misrepresented by the seller, however, may be returned by the buyer who is fully justified in expecting a refund or adjustment in such cases, the official said.

Material Witnesses Held Since June In Winnipeg Jail

Winnipeg, Feb. 14. (CP)—Whether Isabel Blanchette, 21, and Winnifred Panchuk, 20, now held as material witnesses in the slaying of Edgar Frenette, will be indicted or freed probably will be known some time next week.

Frenette, 26, St. Boniface, Man., hotel keeper, died May 30, the day after an attempted robbery at his hotel. The Crown alleged the two women and two men—Daniel Patrick Palso, 15, and James Edward Campbell, 18—attempted the robbery.

The four were arrested at Kenora June 1. Blanchette and Panchuk have been in custody since then.

Palso now is on trial for Frenchette's murder. Palso's counsel has protested the detention of the two women since June 1, and argued this week that the Crown had had nine months in which to decide what charges, if any, would be laid against them.

"It's a disagrace to keep a woman or any person locked up for nine months," said the lawyer, L. D. Morosnick. He was told the two had every right to be released provided they could raise bail.

Mr. Morosnick demanded Miss Blanchette's indictment on a murder charge in connection with the case. Mr. Justice W. J. Donovan said the question of an indictment rested with the Attorney-general's department.

However, a report on what would be done with the material witnesses likely will be given at the end of the trial, expected next week.

Mr. Justice Donovan said Campbell would be flown to Winnipeg from penitentiary at Prince Albert, Sask., to appear as a possible witness at Palso's trial. Campbell was sentenced to seven years in penitentiary after the charge of murdering Frenette laid against him was reduced to manslaughter at the Fall Assizes.

Aleutian Isles Rich in Mummies

Vancouver (CP)—Human remains dating back 2,000 years were found by archaeologist Alan G. May in the Aleutian Islands, 2,500 miles northwest of here.

Mr. May, fresh from his latest trip to the islands that form the tag end of the Alaska peninsula, said in an interview that the field is rich in mummies.

"The deeper you dig the more chances there are to discover traces and evidence of an old civilization and culture."

Originally a British scientist whose hobby was archaeology, Mr. May explored the Columbia River and the Aleutians for the Smithsonian Institution of America. Now an American citizen, his latest project was financed by the United States Navy's research department.

He said his expedition found bones, stones, tools and weapons left by the pre-Aleuts 1,500 to 2,000 years ago. The remains were oiled and generally unaffected by their long interment. Even the clothes were intact.

One of his prized trophies is the second largest skull ever found. It measured 2,005 cubic centimetres, compared to the average of 1,450.

South Africa Plans Domestic Rice Crop

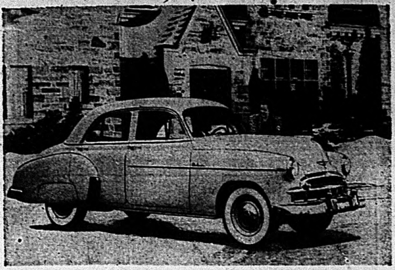
Johannesburg (Reuters)—Large rice growing areas are to be established in the northern Transvaal by the Union government. When they are in full production it is expected that South Africa will become self-sufficient in rice—and perhaps even have an exportable surplus.

The area ear-marked for the scheme is north of Louis Trichardt, near the Limpopo River. This district is malarial and will be worked by 30,000 natives under the supervision of the South African Native Trust.

Shortage of building materials and skilled labor needed to construct a canal nearly 50 miles long are delaying the scheme.

WEST INDIES FILMS

Kingson, Jamaica — (CP) — A new series of films on the West Indies is being planned to stimulate interest in colonial affairs among the people of Britain. The project includes a general film introducing the West Indies and a series of films dealing with specific subjects designed for use in schools.



The 1949 Chevrolet is completely restyled, lower, wider and is available in two series—Fleetline and Styleline—with a wide variety of body types. Shown here is the Styleline Four-door Deluxe Sedan. There has been an immense increase in glass area with all windows deepened and widened. The windshield takes full advantage of wider bodies, curving inward at the narrowed pillars to improve sideway as well as forward vision. The gain in visibility over 1948 has been as much as 30 per cent on comparable models.

HISTORIC HAIR

Among the famous historical personages whose locks of hair are included in a university celtion are Napoleon, George Washington, Edgar Allan Poe and John Milton.

FIRST OF GRANDFATHERS

For two centuries after its introduction in 1676, the grandfather clock was known as the tall, the floor or the long case clock, but in 1876 became known by its present name.

Whisper In The Night

BY MARIE BLIZARD

"She said you'd come up to get your wrap, powdered your nose, said goodnight and left. She didn't think there was anything the matter.

Rosalie felt all her anger against Angela rise to words in her throat. "Angela is the ruddest girl I ever met in my life. I wouldn't put it past her to say anything!"

Cecil stood very straight. He said quietly, "What did she say to you, Rosalie?"

"It was too dreadful, Cecil! She implied that I was .. oh, cheap!"

"No, Angelo wouldn't do that. You see I know Angela."

"You think you do; you didn't hear the things she said to me."

Cecil swallowed. Hard. He said, "Rosalie, you've been a good friend to me. I didn't know many girls, but I sort of .. I like you because I think you're a real girl. I mean that you would understand things other girls wouldn't."

"And I'm supposed to understand why another girl is rude to me! Unjustly rude?"

"You're supposed to understand that Angela isn't herself. You see she.."

"She thinks I'm trying to steal her man! As if I.."

Cecil's face was quite white. "Is that what she thinks? Then, it's all my fault. I should have explained to her. I knew that you knew.."

"Of course I knew! Hasn't her mother been throwing them at me? 'Tubby and Angela'! It wasn't my fault that he kissed me."

"Wait a minute, Rosalie, I've got to get one thing straight: Does Angela think I'm in love with you?"

Rosalie said, "No! Her darling! Her Tubby!"

Cecil's hand on her was calming. He said, "We all seem to be wrong, Rosalie. You see Angela and I are in love with each other. We have been for three years, but there isn't anything we can do about it. I haven't a shilling and .. well, Mrs. Rutherford wants Angela to marry Reid."

Rosalie said, "I think I'll sit down. This is .. just a bit of a shock, Cecil. Just let me think."

After a minute, she got up. "You'd better go now, Cecil. We'll talk about this tomorrow."

She turned her back to him. Her shoulders were shaking when he turned her about gently. His voice was very low, "Oh, Rosalie, darling, I'm so sorry. I didn't know you cared.." he broke off.

Rosalie was laughing. Rosalie was not hysterical. She was in the throes of a good hearty laugh. After a little, she said, "Oh, Cecil, if you knew how hard I've worked to be a dream girl! Now, I don't have to any more. Don't look so stricken .. I'm going to help you."

o—o

It was like the night that Rosalie was minding Marion's baby and her little niece had swallowed a pecan and Rosalie knew she had to do something without knowing what there was to do. Only Rosalie couldn't turn Mrs. Rutherford upside down and shake her until Cecil's problem was solved. Nevertheless, her eyes on Cecil's face, so strangely bright since she had promised to help, she knew she'd find a way.

It was close onto midnight and Cecil had poured out his heart to her. Ever since Angela was sixteen and he'd first met her in London, they'd been in love.

"At first, Mrs. Rutherford didn't pay very much attention but when we told her we wanted to get married, she sent Angela away to school. She's kept me on to tutor Charles because I seem to be the only person who can discipline him."

"Cecil, dear, don't wander all over the lot. I want facts. The chief objection seems to be that you haven't any money. Right?"

"Right. I have a little but not very much. Not enough to give Angela what she'd always had."

"But Cecil, if you could get a job teaching and if Angela's allowance.."

"There are a couple of catches there, Rosalie. Angela doesn't have very much of an allowance. You see, this is rather embarrassing to talk about .. it must be just between the two of us, old girl."

Rosalie said it would be.

"You see, Angela's father made a lot of money suddenly, just before he popped off. Then Mrs. Rutherford got pretty ambitious socially, but Angela's not having a debut and that sort of thing has .."

"I know," Rosalie said.

"Her mother has taken a big place in New York and one at Southampton and she wants — well, she wants Angela to marry Tubby."

"But, good heavens why?"

"Because the Reids are frightfully social, and if Angela marries him, the Rutherfords will be accepted."

"And how does Angela feel about this?"

"You ought to know that. She's willing to marry me but she feels that she owes her mother something and I have nothing to offer her at all."

"The life of a professor in a small school is very pleasant. I understand. You don't have much money but you have a kind of social position.

Cecil ran his hands through his hair desperately. "I know it sounds rum of me, Rosalie but I don't want to teach. I want to go into the diplomatic service. I've got a bit of an inheritance due next year and I plan to go to diplomatic school. You see teaching .. well .."

Rosalie pondered, chin in hand. "Cecil, if you could borrow the money to take your course now, do you think you could get an appointment? And, if you got one, could you support Angela?"

Cecil nodded. "But it would be another year."

A light broke in the back of Rosalie's mind but she couldn't make more than a faint ray of it. If she could get at it —

She said, "How much would you need, Cecil?"

"Oh, it's impossible! About four hundred pounds."

Rosalie got up. "You're going home now, Cecil. You'd better say your prayers good and sincerely tonight, I may — I just may — have a solution for you tomorrow."

The faint ray became a broad glow when Rosalie woke at daybreak. Suddenly she knew the solution to Cecil's problem! Or, crossing her fingers, she hoped she did.

It wasn't the four hundred pounds that stood in his way — four hundred pounds was only two thousand dollars. A girl as rich as she could afford to lend a friend that much. The next thing to do was to work on Mrs. Rutherford. No small job.

Tubby Reid. Tubby Reid. Tubby Reid. Whatever the approach was, it had to be through him. Tubby was not, so far as Rosalie could see, enamored of Angela, and on Cecil's word, Rosalie believed Angela was not enamored of Tubby.

Certainly Angela would be a willing ally. The point was to get to Angela. There was also the point that Rosalie had to make her apologies to Mrs. Rutherford for leaving her party so abruptly.

Rosalie proceeded in the plans for her campaign by making her face up without a touch of rouge. She hoped for a wan appearance, hoped to look as if the day before had been one of suffering.

"Dear Rosalie —" Mrs. Rutherford greeted her. "How is your poor head? Cecil was quite frantic when he found you had gone."

Rosalie said her head was much better, thank you. She said no thank you, she couldn't have tea, she'd just dropped in for a minute, and was Angela anywhere about, she wanted to say hello to her.

"I don't know what to make of her, Rosalie. She's always off by herself. I hope she and Tubby haven't been quarreling. He's so devoted to her .. you'll probably find her in her own room.

"I'll run up and speak to her," Rosalie said, escaping.

"Come in," Angela said in a detached voice, in answer to her knock.

Rosalie opened the door and the two girls stared at each other for a moment. Rosalie pretended that she didn't see the mask of coldness descend over Angela's young features. She said, in a voice that was rushed and then with a kind of anxiety, "Angela, forget whatever you have in mind. I've come here to help you and tell you that you've made a great mistake."

Angela said, "Well, sit down and please close the door."

Rosalie said straight off, "I didn't know that you meant Cecil the other night. I thought you meant Tubby. Cecil isn't in love with me. He's in love with you. And, just for the records, I'm not in love with Cecil."

Angela's eyes opened wide. "How do you know that Cecil is in love with me?" she asked She meant to demand with her tone, but she couldn't manage it.

"Because, goose, he told me He's told me everything, and I think I have an idea."

"About what?" Angela asked suspiciously.

"About how to right this silly situation."

"If you mean there's anything silly about mother's grim determination not to let us get married, you underrate mother."

"You're of age, aren't you?"

"Yes. I suppost next you'll say I could marry Cecil if I wanted to. But if I did, mother wouldn't give me a nickel and I can't get my inheritance until I'm thirty."

"But, Angela, if Cecil got his diplomatic post and if your mother approved, she'd give you an allowance, wouldn't she?"

"If she approved? Small chance. Mother aims at the Reids."

Rosalie moved over to the lounge beside the younger girl. Angela swung her long legs to the floor, moving over to make room for her.

"Suppose Cecil looked awfully good to your mother? .. I mean compared to Tubby."

Angela's face was a woebegone as her voice. "The Reids own utility millions. They're Newport. We're only Southampton. And what's Cecil got, poor darling?"

"He's got good family and charm—"

"But what good does it do? Lord Somerville has got a title but his big house needs a bathroom and his wife hasn't had a new dress since Coronation They're stony. And there are two brothers between Cecil so he can't even inherit a good-for-nothing title. Mother wouldn't go for that."

Keays Admits Making False Entry In His Police Diary

An admission from Constable Keays that he had made a false entry in his police diary in connection with a manhunt in Prince Edward county in May of 1948 was gained today by defence counsel Malcolm Robb as he cross-examined the officer.

Keays for the seventh straight day was in the witness box, either giving direct testimony, or being cross-examined in connection with his allegations of perjury, maladministration of justice and interference directed at Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan and seven officers of the Ontario Provincial Police.

In connection with the Prince Edward manhunt last spring which resulted in the apprehension of three men on charge of breaking and entering the Picton Brewers Warehouse, Keays admitted his diary contained no reference to the fact although he had been instructed by Inspector Page to organize the manhunt.

As the morning session opened defence counsel Robb introduced two cards which he intimated had been written at the Ford Hotel in Toronto. He asked the witness if the cards had been signed by him.

Keays denied his signature appeared on the cards and stated he had been on duty on the dates and time in question.

The two cards were entered as exhibits subject to identification.

Referring to the LeRoy Woods' accident, Mr. Robb suggested Keays' diary contained a false entry indicating the constable had had a conference with Col. Roscoe Vanderwater on Nov. 8th.

"My evidence under oath was that I did have a conference with Col. Vanderwater on Nov. 8th", Keays said.

Admits False Entry

Referring to the manhunt in Prince Edward County in search of three men alleged to have entered the Brewer's warehouse, Mr. Robb raised a point of Keays' diary having no entry in reference to it.

Keays had previously told the Commissioner that he had been instructed to organize the manhunt. When the question was pressed Keays admitted his diary entry in connection with the Prince Edward County manhunt was false.

"Then you cannot say whether many entries in your diary are true or false," asked Mr. Robb.

"No, sir," replied Keays. "Only in the case of the Lansky investigation."

"Slight Discrepancies"

Later Keays admitted that during March, 1948, there may have been slight discrepancies in his diary as they had been made a week following events.

"A rather unfortunate situation," observed Commissioner Mr. Justice Mackay. "What purpose would he have served by making a false entry of events having no foundation in fact?"

"It was because I did not want to appear in the limelight. I had been instructed to take no part in investigations," replied Keays.

"Was it just because you were piqued that you were not the big shot?" asked Mr. Robb.

"No, Sir," was the reply. "I have never taken credit for investigations."

Mr. Robb here suggested that Constable Charles Siple and Keays in 1948 were — "Putting their heads together" in an effort to show that Keays was being persecuted.

Denies Statement

In this connection Mr. Robb pointed out that in Constable Siple's diary no mention of Keays was made regarding the Prince Edward manhunt.

Keays denied that he had ever said to Constable Siple that he "was getting out of the police and was taking others out with him."

He admited, however, that Siple had said he was considering quitting the force to go back to his tobacco farm.

On the suggestion of Mr. Robb that it was Keays who had put the idea into the heads of Sgt. Hartleib and Constable Siple that they were being discriminated against, Keays admitted this to be true.

"Yes", he replied, "Based on facts".

In reference to the Dent shooting case at Navan, Ont., in 1940, Keays admitted being out of his territory when he investigated the matter.

Events Reviewed

Events relating to the double shooting in which Constable Harold Dent and a transient named John Miki were killed and the resulting investigation, were reviewed.

Keays said he had taken charge of the investigation "because there was no one else" and agreed that he had taken a gun from Sgt. Stringer, who had killed Miki.

He denied arresting Sgt. Stringer but stated he had said to Stringer that "they were going to the Crown Attorney to straighten out a story".

Keays had previously testified that Stringer's story had been that Miki had been killed in an exchange of shots while he contended only one shot had been fired.

Did Not Spread Story

Keays denied that he had "spread" the story regarding Sgt. Stringer's connection with the Miki shooting stating the only officer of the force to whom it had been mentioned was a Constable Kennedy at Ottawa.

Later he admitted he had spoken of the matter to Sgt. Hartleib at Belleville.

He denied that he had mentioned the Stringer incident to Constable Driscoll or Constable Siple. He stated Siple had been "astounded" when he learned of the incident through the newspaper.

Keays said that Siple had read his resignation report of last October.

Gives His Advice

Keays here said that after being falsely accused of a certain incident Constable Siple had come to him for advice. Keays advised Siple to go to the party who had made the false accusation and have him go to the district inspector and rectify his statement. He had advised Constable Siple against reporting the matter to the Commissioner through the district inspector.

Although at times removing his horn rimmed spectacles and rubbing his eyes, Keays showed little of the terrific strain which he has been under since Feb. 7 when he first entered the witness stand.

During intermission he could be observed in the witness room poring over notes and further preparing his case. The hearing is expected to last well into next week.

Will Call Many Witnesses

After cross-examination by defence counsel Robb, Keays will be turned over to Crown Attorney Donnan who is conducting his own defence. Keays is expected to call several witnesses, including three brother police officers in substantiation of his case.

Still later the defence is expected to call approximately 25 adverse witnesses.

Again referring to the Carefoot investigation Mr. Robb accused Keays of being responsible for "whooping" up the false pretences charge when he had been assisting Inspector Monahan of the College of Physicians and Surgeons in an investigation regarding alleged infractions of the Medical Act.

Questioned About Key

Mr. Robb also accused the witness of withholding from Magistrate T. Y. Wills at the Carefoot trial that there was more than one key for the O.P.P. detachment storeroom.

At the trial Mr. Robb claimed the officer said he had the only key to the storeroom where a key to the storeroom where a black bag, taken from Carefoot's home, had been stored.

On cross examination Keays today admitted Sgt. Hartleib and possibly Inspector Thompson had keys.

Mr. Robb went on to point out that to gain a conviction on a narcotics charge, continuity and proof of non-access must be shown. He suggested with outstanding keys for the storeroom this could not be given.

Suggests Possibilities

"I'm suggesting that any of the other officers at the detachment office could have borrowed a key to the storeroom," said Mr. Robb. "I'm suggesting that the narcotics in the black bag may have been 'planted' at the storeroom."

Mr. Robb went on to say if the officer had known there were narcotics in the bag it would have been placed in the vault.

Keays admitted he should have taken all exhibits in the case before the Justice of the Peace. He denied that any of the other officers at the detachment would have the opportunity to borrow a key for the storeroom.

Following the morning intermission Keays was cross-examined with respect to his statement of having to hire a car when he was instructed to attend a meeting at headquarters in Toronto.

Says Statement Untrue

Keays said he had been notified he was to use No. 1 department equipment and consequently had not asked for a police car.

Questioned by Mr. Robb, Keays denied that he had taken detachment files from the Picton police office and said that Constable Caldwell's report that he had seen Keays examining police files was untrue.

Questioned with respect to having caused dissention Keays denied that he had referred to a Constable Trimbell in 1943 as being the commissioner's stool pigeon sent down to Ottawa to look into a certain matter. Keays admitted he had been accused by Constable Trimbell of making the statement but he had replied that "anytime you think you are important enough for me to talk about there is no use of me continuing police work."

Keays denied that at any time he had ever ridiculed Constable J. B. Driscoll because of his religion as a Roman Catholic. He stated he had made reference to certain "hallucinations" the officer entertained with respect to his overseas service.

Provincial Constable J. E. Keays, who is alleging maladministration of justice, fraud, perjury and interference in investigations of constables before a Royal Commission under Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay, at the afternoon session of the commission on Monday admitted under cross examination that he "breached" his oath of office as a police officer and civil servant by going to the press with his story before he laid the facts before his superior officer.

Malcolm Robb, who is counsel for the officers involved, had Mr. Keays admit that he was in touch with Stewart Brownlee, night editor of the Toronto Daily Star, and that also Mr. Roy Greenaway of the same paper had seen him in the Ford Hotel in Toronto and had viewed photostat copies of the Woods' and Carefoot cases and also confidential reports, before he took an oath as a constable and civil servant in April in 1948.

Keays also admitted that Greenaway had told him he would get in touch with Tate. Mr. Robb asked Keays if he had the black bag with him and if the "inside dope" on the Carefoot case was contained therein and Keays answered "Yes, I would say so."

DOUBLE SUICIDE FOUND IN DEATHS OF MAN, WOMAN

Bodies Found in Train Compartment Monday

Montreal, Feb. 15. (CP)— A coronery's jury today returned a verdict of double suicide in the St. Valentine's Day deaths of Earl Fauman and Mrs. Martha Leona Kelly, both of Toronto.

The verdict followed testimony by medico-legal expert, Dr. Rosario Fontaine, who testified at the inquest he was of the opinion both fatal wounds were "self-inflicted".

The 28-year-old Mrs. Kelly and Fauman, a Toronto lawyer, were found in a sleeping compartment aboard a Toronto- Montreal train when it arrived here yesterday morning.

Dr. Fontaine, key witness at the inquest which opened this morniing under Coroner Dr. Richard Duckett, declared both Mrs. Kelly and Fauman "died from gunshot wound through the mouth and brain and multiple fractures of the skull".

Both were married with families.

Dr. Fontaine said that in his opinion both victims had to open their mouth to permit entry of a gun muzzle before the death weapon was fired.

He said this was a .38 calibre revolver found in the sleeping compartment near Fauman's knee. From it two bullets had been fired and police recovered the spent shells. Also recovered were four bullets unfired.

Harry A. Kaufman, 58, identified the body of his nephew, Fauman. Inspector Len Neil, of the Ontario Provincial Police, identified the body of Mrs. Kelly, the wife of an officer of the Ontario Provincial Police.

The inquest, held at the city morgue, attracted a good number of newspaper men but at the express orders of Premier Maurice Duplessis, in his capacity of Quebec attorney-general, no news pictures of the inquest scene were allowed.

Prior to the inquest police said they were certain the double deaths were either a case of double suicide or murder and suicide.

Press Gives too Much Space To Propagandists--Duplessis

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor

Montreal, Feb. 15 (CP)—Premier Duplessis of Quebec took newspapers to task last night for giving what he considered too much space to the "propagandists of disorder, Communism and sabotage."

He said it was shameful to keep on giving publicity "to every disorderly strike, to every declaration of Communists, and of radical people."

He declared newspapers don't realize the situation; "they are sleeping, they are dreaming."

He made the remarks in the course of a dinner address to the annual conference of Canadian Retailers.

He said:

"I think —the time has arrived to speak plainly and fully. It may not be the talk of a politician, but it is the talk of a Canadian who loves his country.

"I think that the retailers, wholesalers and everyone in business should use their power to make newspapers understand that the time has arrived for the newspaper to stop being, wittingly or unwittingly, the propagandists of disorder, of Communism and sabotage.

The stand taken daily, wittingly, by newspapers acting as megaphones for the friends of disorder, for subversive ideas, is dangerous and appalling, he said.

"There is confusion in certain minds between liberty, real liberty and between licence.

Road Traffic In Idaho And Wyoming Almost Halted by New Storm

Chicago, Feb. 15 (AP)—Fresh blizzards put a virtual halt to road travel over storm-battered southern Wyoming and southern Idaho today and flood dangers mounted higher in the blizzard-stricken areas of Nebraska.

Winds diminished and temperatures moderated over the northern plains states, giving new hope to relief workers that digging operations will not be further hampered.

In Washington state, fresh falls of snow blocked Snoqualmie and Blewett passes in the Cascade Mountains and cross-state motor travel was halted. The state's major east-west highway had been open only two days when a new blizzard blocked it yesterday.

Idaho got more snow and new falls were forecast for northwestern Utah late today. Dust storms and dust drifts were reported at Scottsbluff, Nebr., across the Wyoming line. Visibility at times was reduced to a few yards.

Nebraska, which has been fighting snow storms for more than six weeks, had flood worries. New falls of snow in the southeast section of the state increased flood dangers.

The survey said that in the Missouri basin as a whole, only a gradual change from winter to spring could avert serious flood in the areas covered with mountainous snow drifts.

The United States Agriculture Department reported 178,000 sheep and cattle died in the blizzards in four western states up to Feb. 1. Additional losses are expected in the four states—Colorado, Wyoming, South Dakota and Nebraska—as storms have continued into February.

Strong winds continued to blow snows over highways and rail lines in snow-covered Idaho. Blizzards in the Rawlins, Wyo., section, centre of the blizzard area, were worse yesterday than during last week's wind storms. The Union Pacific Railroad's double line of tracks again were blocked.

The main line of the Great Northern Railroad in Washington State's Cascade Mountains, blocked by a 300-foot snow slide, was cleared last night. A section hand believed caught in the fall was reported missing.

Emphasis on Sale Of More to Canada Than Buying Less

Ottawa, Feb. 14 (CP)—Emphasis, in Canadian-United Kingdom trade, should be on selling more to Canada rather than buying less from Canada, says the annual report of the Bank of Canada.

It states further that countries of western Europe will need to make greater and more effective efforts to produce, and to export to dollar markets, than have yet been contemplated.

The report, submitted by Graham F. Towers, governor, to Finance Minister Abbott, says:

"There was an encouraging increase in shipments to Canada from the United Kingdom and other sterling area countries...

However:

"Although shipments from the United Kingdom to Canada set a new record in value in 1948 they were little greater in physical volume than before the war.

"They also constituted a smaller proportion of total United Kingdom exports, and a much smaller proportion of total Canadian imoprts, than pre-war."

Twenty Four Head Of Livestock Lost in Fire

Twenty four head of livestock, including nineteen cattle, three calves and two horses, were lost in a fire which yesterday destroyed the barn of Keith Pearsall, of Yerexville. Pearsall is a Picton cattle buyer, the barn being owned by Isaiah VanMeer and had been rented to Pearsall.

A heavy fog hung over the district at the time of the fire and the blaze was not discovered until the entire structure was a raging mass of flames.

Pearsall was using the barn to house the livestock prior to shipping. His loss also includes 1,000 bushels of grain and a quantity of hay.

The nearby house, workshops and pig pen were saved by the Bloomfield Fire Department, assisted by district volunteers.

RECORDED VOTE MAY RESULT FROM DREW'S REQUEST

Claims Provinces Should Be Consulted on Union

Ottawa, Feb. 15 (CP)—Should the provinces be consulted about Newfoundland's union with Canada?

That debate-provoking constitutional question may be answered in the Commons today in a recorded vote.

It was injected into the simmering union debate yesterday by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, through a motion urging the Dominion to consult "at once" with the provinces and not take the union issue a step further until those consultations have been brought to a satisfactory conclusion."

Mr. Drew said he had nothing against union with Newfoundland. But he did want to protect the provinces against constitutional changes being made without their consent.

The question produced a rising debate and battle-lines were quickly drawn.

Front-rank government speakers said there was no basis for the argument that the provinces first had to be consulted on national issues. The fathers of confederation never intended that the provinces should have the right to veto expansion of Canada.

The C.C.F. party threw its support behind the government and the Social Creditors said they would vote with the Progressive Conservative party.

Rivers Swollen Near Flood Levels, Are Still Rising

Springlike Temperature And Rain Create Early Hazards

Toronto, Feb. 15 (CP)— Unseasonable weather and last night's rain throughout Ontario brought most creeks and rivers to their spring flood level today. Most rural communities stood by to fight possible recurrences of the disastrous spring floods of last year.

With the public weather bureau forecast of clearing with lower temperatures, most areas could look forward tonight and to tomorrow to less precipitation. Freezing temperatures will bring further icy roads and streets to add to the already severe traffic hazard.

Low for Toronto tonight was predicted at 27 degrees, with lower temperatures expected in surrounding areas.

From all sections of the province the water-rising report was the same.

Suburban Long Branch was threatened with high water of flood intensity by a large ice jam reported on the Etobicoke River near Brampton.

At St. Thomas the water was reported already within 18 inches of its highest recorded point and was rising at the rate of one inch an hour. Some 4 1-2 feet of water was pouring over their dam

Many Families Threatened

At Highland Creek, on Toronto's eastern outskirts, some 46-60 families were threatened as creek waters boiled three feet over the Valley Road Bridge of No. 2 Highway.

Only telephone connection with the village and the valley was through an outside payphone and no one was answering it today.

Fog and icy streets and roadways accompanied last night's rain making motoring difficult. In Toronto the slippery roadway accounted for 27 traffic accidents in which seven persons were injured—one of them seriously.

Kingston reported icy streets today but listed no overnight accidents.

In suburban Long Branch the one street was reported under 2 feet of water as a small creek, which flows into the Etobicoke River, swelled its banks.

New Channel Cut

The river, cause of the township's previous flood disaster, was under control today, roaring out to the lake through a new channel cut by engineers as a flood control measure.

Suburban New Toronto police operated a squad car ferry service across a flooding 300 feet of roadway. Pedestrians en route to work were carried through the 1 1-2 feet of water in the police car.

Further fresh water damage was anticipated at Port Stanley where there is an ice jam in the harbor.

One northern Ontario point, Sudbury, reported no flood danger. Three days of snowfall were followed last night by rain. The temperature dipped below zero for the 31st successive night.

STORE WINDOWS, ELECTRIC SIGNS CAN BE LIGHTED

Restrictions on Water Heaters and Space Heaters Still Remain

Toronto, Feb. 15 (CP)— Lighting returns tonight to store windows, theatre marquees and canopies and the big electric signs in southern and southwestern Ontario.

Hydro chairman Robert Saunders Monday night announced lifting of the outdoor and commercial lighting restrictions on week nights from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. and both day and night throughout weekends.

Otherwise, the restrictions, imposed to meet the power shortage which developed last fall, will continue during daytime. There will be no easing of regulations limiting use of electric water-heaters and space heaters.

Mr. Saunders said easing of the restrictions was made possible by continued improvement in the power situation during the last few weeks.

Power saving blackouts in Southern Ontario communities were relaxed in December and last Feb. 1, the quota system to the municipalities was discontinued.

Had Record Day

The commission had a record day last Thursday when generated and purchased power total-

Tsingtao Is City of Uncertainty In Chinese War Says Writer

(Editor's note: Tsingtao, on the North China coast, is the anchorage for the United States western Pacific fleet. Tsingtao and Taiyuan, an inland provincial capital, are the last major cities in North China remaining in Nationalist hands. Here's an AP photographer's report on the hectic situation at Tsingtao.)

By CHARLES GORRY

Shanghai, Feb. 15 (AP)—Tsingtao is a city of uncertainty.

Two months ago the people of Tsingtao cheered the sight of an American jeep. Today they throw stones at it. They blocked my way, refusing to let my jeep pass. Some shook their fists at me.

Their attitude seems to depend on the latest rumor as to whether the United States navy is leaving or not. It varies from cheerful friendship toward Americans to open hostility.

Tsingtao, meanwhile, is all set to go Communist.

The mayor and police chief have departed, leaving subordinates whom they think will be acceptable to the Reds.

The Chinese navy is pulling out with naval academy equipment.

Chinese Nationalist troops remaining in the city lack discipline. They often stand around, idly firing rifles into the air, or into the harbor if they happen to be on a dock.

The Reds need not battle to take the city. As it travelled about in Tsingtao, the people all had the same comment: "When the Communists come nobody will be poor. Everybody will have plenty to eat."

Of about 600 United States marines still at Tsingtao, all are on the navy transport Chilton, except about 50 who form a shore patrol to protect American property against looting.

Besides the 78 Americans, Tsingtao has an estimated 1,600 foreigners, many of whom are stateless.

Since the withdrawal of 1,600 United States marines a week ago, many shops and bars operated by foreigners have closed.

Despite Freezing Rain Accidents At a Minimum

Despite a freezing rain which around midnight last night covered sidewalks and roadways with a coating of slippery and greasy ice, there were no motor accidents of any serious nature in Belleville or district, it was reported this morning by police.

Pedestrians out late also were able to negotiate slippery walking conditions with no admissions being reported at the hospital as the result of falls on the sidewalk.

But despite this, motorists in many instances had difficulty in getting their steeds underway from where they had parked at the curb and until the city sanding equipment went into operation several of the steeper grades were giving the heavier trucks difficulty.

By morning, however, milder temperatures had served to melt much of the ice and roadways appeared bare after having the ice chopped into slush by passing wheels.

Telephone poles and the branches and limbs of trees still gave evidence of the freezing rain and were covered with a liberal coating of clinging ice.

SHANNONVILLE

Meteorological Instrument Found by Boys

Shannonville — Several days ago, two school boys, who are in grade eight at S. S. No. 4, Tyendinaga, Gary Sine and Ernest Crespe, found a weather instrument belonging to the United States Government, on a farm belonging to Mr. W. E. Hicks, north of the village of Shannonville.

This weather instrument which is called a radiosonde was in a white weather-proof carton and was about the size of a small radio. Attached to it was a red silk parachute and a large rubber balloon, as well as flashlight bulb and two batteries. Under a waterproof covering were attached two tags explaining that the weather instrument belonged to the U.S.A. and that it had been released by the weather bureau at Buffalo, New York, on December 5th.

The teacher of S. S. No. 4. Mrs. Helen T. Shetler filled out the tags and sent them to the weather office in Buffalo and this past week received a reply from this office, thanking her and the pupils for the information about the location of the radiosonde and requesting that the found radiosonde be forwarded to the Radiosonde Reconditioning Centre at Joliet, Illinois.

Production Not Sufficient To Meet Export and Domestic Demand Hog Producers Told

The importance of Canadian farmers maintaining hog production at a level sufficient to take care of domestic requirements and the amount of the contract with the British government was stressed to members of the Hastings County Hog Growers' Association at their annual meeting held at Stirling on Monday.

Speaking at the above meeting, Mr. Clayton Fry of Sarnia, and director of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association, told farmers that only by stabilizing production so as to take care of the export market requirements, could they be assured of future markets overseas.

"We can have a stabilizing hog industry in Canada," he stated, "but we can have this only if we accept the challenge of stabilized production."

Farmer Has Responsibility

The speaker pointed out that the Canadian farmer also has a responsibility of maintaining a high quality product if he hoped to retain future overseas markets. He said that much had been done in building up the quality of Canadian hogs but noted that within the past year the percentage of first grade hogs had fallen off slightly.

This, he felt, might be a feeding problem, but considered it a possibility that Canadian farmers, guaranteed as they are of a minimum price, were getting careless in their feeding.

Speaking of volume hog production Mr. Fry stated that during the war production had been greatly through the feeding of Western grain and felt that Ontario farmers could benefit greatly by again increasing production through use of grain from Western Canada.

Two things must be assured if hog production were to be expanded. These were to assure the Western farmer of a continued market for his grain and assurance of continued markets.

Must Maintain Production

Mr. Fry spoke of the present British contract for Canada to supply 160 million pounds of pork for overseas this year and noted that unless Canadian farmers do a better job in maintaining production they may lose their overseas market. He doubted if the contract could be filled with present production.

The speaker dealt at some length with hog breeding and feeding problems pointing out the importance of getting pigs off to a thrifty start. He felt that assistance was needed in combatting hog diseases and thought the suggestion a good one that the money previously used for payment of the provincial bonus be used for doing research in combatting hog diseases.

There was a considerable discussion relative to hog feeding surveys and the proper weight for shipping hogs.

Hold Hogs Too Long Claim

Mr. W. E. Tummon, secretary of the Ontario Hog Producers, thought there was a tendency for farmers to hold their hogs until they were too heavy. "There were more first grade hogs in hogs dressing 135 to 140 pounds," he said.

One farmer wondered if there was sufficient premium on first grade hogs to encourage farmers shipping at the proper weight. He suggested that the man shipping heavier hogs might still be making the most money. In reply Mr. Fry stated the only way to increase the differential between first grade and B-1 hogs would be by increased government subsidy.

Another matter which had an adverse effect on increased hog production was stated to be the flood of conflicting reports regarding future prices. It was pointed out that the official news organ of the Ontario cooperative recently had indicated the price of pork would drop in the next few months, while Mr. Tummon quoted a packer as suggesting the price would increase.

90,000 Carcasses Needed Weekly

Mr. Tummon went on to explain that the British contract calling for 160 million pounds of pork at a minimum price of $36 per cwt. for Wilshire sides had a stabilizing effect on the price and the extent of price increase over this figure would depend on the domestic demand.

Here Mr. Tummon stated that demand for pork products in Canada had increased from 40,000 to 50,000 hog carcasses per week until now approximately 90,000 carcasses were needed each week. He doubted that the British contract of 160 million pounds could be filled this year if domestic demands were met.

Consensus among the farmers present was that the income tax and the possibility of increased grain prices were factors in deterring increased hog production.

Stabilizing Factor

In introducing the guest speaker Mr. Tummon noted that the British contract of 160 million pounds of pork at $38 per cwt. for Wilshire sides was a stabilizing factor for the industry. "This would continue to the end of 1949," he said.

Wilfred Spencer, Rawdon township, was re-elected president of the county organization with David Hollinger being named vice president and A. O Dalrymple, secretary treasurer.

Directors: Sidney, Leslie Finkle; Thurlow, Wesley Grey; Tyendinaga, Wm. McMechan; Rawdon, Don Heath; Huntingdon, Arthur Wood; Hungerford, Bernard Hunt; Marmora, Irvine McCoy; Madoc and Elzevir, Cecil Wood; North Hastings, Joe E. Davis. Auditors are Barton Haggerty and Gordon Bailey.

Delegates to the annual convention in Toronto are W. E. Tummon, Arthur Wood, Wm. McMechan, Bernard Hunt, Don Heath, Wesley Grey, Wilfred Spencer, David Hollinger and Leslie Finkle.

EXPENDITURES INCREASED

Toronto Feb. 15 (CP)— A total increase of $884,561 in salary expenditures for employees of the Toronto Board of Education was recommended yesterday by the Board's finance committee. The new schedule calls for salaries totalling $11,541,586 for both teachers and non-teachers on the staffs of public and continuation schools in the city.

$377,841 Fire Loss in City In Past Year

Fire losses in the city last year totalled $377,841, the highest for many years, it is stated by Fire Chief Gerald Vance in his annual report to city council.

Of the above total $170,050 was for loss to buildings while the loss to building contents was estimated at $207,791.

Total number of fire alarms answered by the department was 348 and of this number 111 calls were to residences. There were 28 calls to places of business, 21 calls to factories and 28 calls out of the city.

Overheated pipes and chimney fires were the most frequent cause of fires, with rubbish fires totalling 26 being next in line. There were 18 short circuits in autos which caused fires and 11 oil burners. Defective wiring in homes caused 11 fires, while there was the same number of false alarms.

Value of property threatened by fire during the year was $886,-738 with loss at $170,050. Insurance carried was $613,900.

Four Large Fires

There were four large fires during the year these being at the former Chamber of Commerce building, the Old People's Home, the East Robertson Block and Trudeau's Garage on Station St.

Use of the iron lung and the inhalator was responsible for saving four lives during the year according to Fire Chief Vance. This equipment was used on 11 different occasions, the Iron Lung being used six times, and was responsible for saving two from drowning. In cases where lives were lost the persons were beyond help before the arrival of equipment.

Members of the fire department were given 43 lessons in first aid; 18 lessons on the use of the Iron Lung and ten classes on the use of the inhalator. Twenty ladder drills were given.

Wants New Car

In conclusion the fire chief recommended the purchase of a new car for the use of the fire chief and also recommended that plans be completed for the proposed fire hall in the east side of the city.

The purchase of a combination pumper and ladder truck with three 45 foot ladders was recommended. This truck to be used in the residential sections of the city, leaving the aerial truck on order by the department, for ready use in the business section of the city.

1,000 Volunteers Wanted to Give Blood to Red Cross Blood Service

One thousand volunteer blood donors are being sought by the Belleville Branch, Hastings and Prince Edward Counties, of the Canadian Red Cross. This is the beginning of the free blood service in co-operation with the hospitals of the country. As blood is the most precious thing, meaning life, to give blood is therefore a gift than which no greater can be given by one human being to others. Those who enrol do so on the understanding that they may be on the average called upon only twice a year for donations.

The Red Cross makes all the arrangements with doctors and nurses and local arrangements are being made to transport volunteers to the mobile clinic.

All donations of blood will be used wherever most needed for the Red Cross will be in complete charge of distribution by road, rail, sea and air.

The service which administration of blood means was never more clearly manifested than in the saving of lives during the war by blood transfusions. In peacetime the lives of many will depend upon the banks of blood which will be established.

This new civilian service is set up to provide whole blood and plasma, free of charge to every patient in Canada in need of a transfusion. The Red Cross collects the blood and the hospitals administer it.

This is a great opportunity and a privilege to save human life.

The need is well known to all In many cases of accidents the transfusion of blood saves lives. Over 21 per cent of all maternal deaths in one year were due to hemorrhage. Of these it is estimated that fully three-quarters of these lives might have been saved. There are cases of transfusion to make operations possible to save life. "Inoperable conditions can be made safe for surgery and several diseases of infancy, once incurable, can be successfully treated."

The field is open to adults between the ages of eighteen and sixty-five. The donor gives the life-giving blood without discomfort and without danger to health or efficiency. The mobile clinic is manned by specially trained doctors and nurses.

The appeal therefore has now gone out to 1,000 to join in this contribution of blood for the sake of those who have great need of for their health's sake.

$100,000 Blaze Destroys Clarkson Dance Pavilion

Toronto, Feb. 15 — (CP) — A $100,000 blaze early today completely destroyed the Plaza Lodge, 50-room dance pavilion at Clarkson, about 20 miles west of here on the shore of Lake Ontario.

While fire companies from five Toronto suburbs battled the flames 25 families evacuated cabins at the rear of the lodge as flames and flying embers threatened their dwellings.

A heavy rain did more to save the cabins than the firemen, who were hampered by inadequate water pressure. The 25 families were able to move back into the cabins after the fire.

The brick and wooden lodge, formerly the Chicory Inn, had recently been offered for sale, with its furnishings, for $100,000. Cause of the fire has not been established although it is believed it started from a lighted cigaret.

A strong breeze from the lake fanned the flames which raced through most of the two - storey building before the first of the firemen arrived.

The fire's glow could be seen miles away, reflected on low - hanging clouds. Hundreds of spectators lined the Lakeshore Highway and police rerouted all motor traffic to the Queen Elizabeth Way.

Filchock Signed With Alouettes

Montreal, Feb. 15 (CP)—Flinging Frankie Filchock, ace of last year's Hamilton Tigers, has signed to play quarterback for Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four, it was made known today.

Filchock will come to the Als on a two-year contract.

The story given to one Montreal newspaper (Star) exclusively in time foir first editions, said the deal for Filchock was closed in Toronto last Saturday.

(In Toronto —coach Lew Hayman of the Alouettes protected the story but did mention there that "a big yarn" about the team was due to be made public in Montreal. The Filchock story was that yarn.)

In the story appearing here there was no mention of money or on what terms Filchock, generally sought after through the Big Four football league, agreed to come to Montreal.

It said merely he had signed a two year contract.

Eskimo Boy, 14, May Provide Answer To Mystery Plague In Arctic Hamlet

Edmonton, Feb. 15. (CP)—A 14-year-old Eskimo boy who may provide the answer to the "mystery plague" at the Arctic hamlet of Cresswell Bay arrived in Edmonton today aboard an RCAF Dakota.

One of the eight survivors of the outpost 1,000 airmiles north of Churchill, Man., the boy, Kamiuk, lost both feet from gangrene. Another of the plague-striken Eskimos, Kavavow, also was aboard the plane but his condition is not serious.

The two were picked up yesterday by the RCAF at Fort Ross, south of Cresswell Bay, where all eight Eskimos were taken for evacuation.

Both were taken to hospital as soon as they landed. Doctors with the party said Kamiuk has a good chance to live if there are no complications.

They could not say immediately what the disease was from which nine of the Cresswell Bay Eskimos died.

Two doctors who landed at Fort Ross yesterday said probably food poisoning was responsible for the illness.

The remainder of the Cresswell Bay survivors also are believed to be suffering from gangrene although this was not confirmed here. An RCAF spokesman said a landing would not be attempted at Fort Ross "for quite some time".

This was taken as an indication that their condition was not serious and medical supplies landed there yesterday will be enough to treat them.

Mercury Near 80 Brings Horse Flies, Plants Bloom

Baltimore, Feb. 15 (AP)—A grasshopper hopped into a downtown building. Horse flies buzzed into weather bureau offices. Forsythias, rose bushes, and other plants put on green shoots in North Baltimore.

And why not? The mercury had reached 70 shortly after 10 a.m. today. The weatherman predicted something close to 80 by mid-afternoon. Highest recorded temperature for a Feb. 15 in Baltimore was 69, in 1909.

This was a break for three black bears at Baltimore's municipal zoo. Director A. R. Watson, reported they had shed their coats ahead of schedule, and without new ones now are "quite naked."

The rest of the zoo population moved to outdoor cages. Except three tropical monkeys, for whom no February in Baltimore can be tropical enough.

State of Israel Parliament Holds First Session

Jerusalem Feb. 15 (AP)— The young State of Israel, first Jewish homeland in 2,000 years, came under Democratic parliamentatry government in solemn ceremonies Monday.

Born of the Palestine war, Israel extends the "hand of peace" to her Arab neighbors, said provisional president Chaim Weizmann in an address which convened the recently-elected parliament. Israel offers "friendship to all peace loving people," he said.

Speaking at the swearing-in rites, Dr. Weizmann, elder statesman of world Jewry, apparently gave voice to his people's claim Jerusalem Holy City of the Christian, Jewish and Moslem faiths.

"With a deep sense of this Holy moment, I am opening the first Israeli parliament in the eternal capital of Jerusalem," he said.

The choice of the Holy City as the scene of the ceremony was in itself a significant gesture, since Tel Aviv is the provisional Israeli capital. The United Nations Assembly has ordered steps taken to make Jerusalem an international city controlled by no individual country.

Members Take Office

The 120 members of parliament took office nine months to the day after proclamation of the Jewish state. They will write the country's constitution, organize its first regularly constituted government and serve as the legislative body.

Dr. Weizmann, who as provisional president piloted the infant state through the war, is expected to be its first regularly-designated president.

The city was in holiday mood. The blue-and-white national colors fluttered in the warm sunshine from roofs and balconies.

The people thronged the streets in thousands and crowded to watch visitors arrive at the parliamentary hall. Foreign dignitaries, Christians, Moslems and Jewish leaders attended.

Neither British nor United States diplomats were present however. In London the foreign office said C.H.A. Marriott, the British representative "politely declined" to attend lest his presence prejudice Britain's stands against the Israeli claims to Jerusalem. The British informant said he understood the United States diplomatic representative declined for the same reason.

Non-Resident Plumbers Will Have $250 Licence Fee to Pay To Take Contracts in City

Non-resident plumbing and heating contractors doing work in the city in the future will be called upon to pay a $250 yearly licence fee, it was decided by members of city council at their regular meeting Monday evening.

Council recommended that the city solicitor proceed to draft the plumbing and heating licencing by-law. Resident contractors will be charged an annual $100 licence fee.

The question of whether plumbers living in the city but operating their shops outside the city, would be eligible for the $100 licence fee was discussed. Consensus was that in order to be eligible for the resident fee a contractor would have to operate his business in the city.

The city engineer was authorized to draft plans for new sidewalk construction planned for this year, following which tenders will be called for construction of the walks. Alderman Lummiss, as chairman of Public Works, pointed out that although tenders would be called for the work, these would be compared with the cost of doing the work through the works department. In any event patching would be done by city employees.

To Oil Streets

The engineer was also directed to draw plans for street oiling to be done this year. Cost of this is estimated in the neighborhood of $40,000 and will be charged under local improvements. A previous recommendation directing that cost of street oiling be paid out of the general rate was ordered rescinded.

The new city building by-law was adopted, while new parts were ordered for the street sweeper and a request of the regional planning board for a grant of $2,000 was referred to the finance committee. Last year the city granted $1,000 to this board with neighboring townships of Sidney and Thurlow making up $500.

The executive committee was authorized to provide a replacement for Miss Lumb in the city treasurer's department and directed that Miss Ashton be transferred from the city clerk's office as of March 31st.

This brought a remonstrance from Alderman Tice who indicated that all present help was needed in the city clerk's office.

To this Alderman Duffy replied that Gordon Lummiss had been appointed as deputy clerk and should be expected to take over some of the duties of that department. "The total salary paid in the clerk's department should take care of the work in that office," stated the Alderman. "If the city clerk later says the work in his department is not being taken care of then council will have to make other arrangements." Ald. Tice again stated that Mr. Lummiss and others had all they could do as the help in the clerk's office was used by the city engineer.

Alderman Thomas noted that it was general policy in many offices today to "pool" stenographic help instead of one office or department having always the same stenographers.

Property is Sold

Avon Jewellery was recommended sold 120 foot frontage on Dundas Street, East, south of the highway on the former county home property. Price of the property was set at five cents per square foot, the total amounting to approximately $4,700. The chairman of finance and the chairman of the Industrial Commission, were given authority to sign the sale agreement.

Blasting by the MacFarland Construction Company for installation of water mains on McAnnany Street, has resulted in damage to the furnace boiler supplying heat to the public washrooms, according to Alderman Lloyd. The blasting resulted in the boiler being cracked, necessitating repairs.

In connection with this the city solicitor was authorized to take the necessary action against the Public Utilities Commission to collect the cost of the repairs amounting to $312.

New School Site Purchased

The Board of Education was given authority to spend approximately $10,000 for the purchase of a new school site east of MacDonald Ave., and council passed the necessary by-law to borrow the required funds.

A petition of Coleman Street residents asking that the horse stable owned by the Lee Grills Dairy (formerly Citizens' Dairy) be moved to a less congested part of the city was referred to the city solicitor and to the Board of Health for action. George Whitman, sanitary inspector, reported there was nothing objectionable in the stables, while Alderman Wilbur assured the owner of the business would see that the stables were kept in a sanitary condition. He contended the owner was 100 per cent within his rights in asking that he be permitted to retain the stable in its present location.

Motion Defeated

Alderman Duffy submitted a recommendation which was later defeated, asking that $2,000 from the Industrial Commission be turned over to the administrative committee to provide for funds for the proposed family court.

"If you want to cut the Industrial Commission, it is all right with me," returned Alderman Allin, chairman of the commission, but cities the same size as Belleville are spending up to $75,000 for the same work." It is ridiculous that such a recommendation be brought in because of personal feelings."

Alderman Duffy replied that the amount of work accomplished by the Industrial Commission was judged by the number of industries brought to the city, "Alderman Allin," he said, "had been one of the greatest criticizers when the previous commission spent money."

"In order to stay within the 25 mill limit the city fire department had to cut to bare essentials he said and he could not see why $4,000 (the amount of the commission budget) should be spent for non-essentials.

Doing Good Job

"This whole discussion is out of order," interrupted Alderman Lattimer. "I am one of the first supporters of the family court, but the Industrial Commission is doing a good job. If you want to cut the commission $2,000 you might as well cut it out altogether."

Alderman Lloyd also disagreed, stating the recommendation was merely a personal grudge on the part of Alderman Duffy. Alderman Lummis felt that the Industrial Commission was definitely needed and suggested that as chairman of public works he might be able to "squeeze" out some money to assist with the financing of the family court.

After considerable discussion on the matter the offer of the Mayer Construction Company for the purchase of 52 lots in the County Home property was accepted. The 52 lots will be sold to the company at $300 each.

Also the offer of the Tatham Construction Company to purchase 60 lots in the same subdivision at a cost of $250 each was accepted.

Must Have Solution

The matter came up for discussion when Alderman Armstrong as chairman of the housing committee reported that the Tatham Construction Company would not meet the price of $300 set by the city for the lots. He said that it was necessary that council arrive at some solution in order that the engineers could be given orders to proceed with sewer and other layouts.

It was pointed out that as result of advertisements in the local press offering lots in the subdivision for sale to the public only seven applications had been received.

"That changes my mind completely," stated Alderman Allin. "I thought that more people would be interested and that the public should be given the first chance to purchase the lots."

Conditions Responsible Claim

Alderman Lloyd felt that present business conditions were responsible for the small demand for the lots from the public and expressed the opinion that when business picked up there would be greater demand for the lots.

He said he was in favor of selling lots to the construction companies "but at $300 per lot, which at that price was a steal." He felt there should be no discrimination as to price.

Alderman Tice wanted to know what type of houses would be constructed and he was informed they would be similar to those built on Parkwood Heights. Alderman Armstrong noted there would be only a very limited demand for houses costing ten or twelve thousand dollars.

Alderman Lummis did not think the class of homes intended to be built would be a deterrent towards better class of homes being built in the district by individual builders.

Cost Lessened

In asking for a decision on the matter Alderman Armstrong noted that something would have to be done quick as it was imperative that services be made available to home owners who had built homes on the north side of Bridge Street. He said that if sewers were routed through the new sub-division the cost could be considerably lessened.

Alderman Duffy pointed out that it was but a dollars and cents proposition. "If the houses are built this year we will get $10,000 in taxes," he said. "If they are not built, we get nothing."

Following the discussion council recommended to adopt plan A-4 tentatively approved some weeks ago and to authorize the Ontario Land Surveyor to prepare plans for registration through the Department of Planning and Development.

Would Reduce Loan

Continuing the discussion on the sale of lots to the contracting firms Alderman Clarke noted that it was evident from the response received thus far that the city was not going to sell the lots by private sale. Sale of lots to the contracting firms would go to reduce the bank loan, he said.

Alderman Lloyd again pointed out that although the city would lose $3,000 by accepting $250 per lot from Tatham's, if it did not accept an amount of $10,000 would be lost in taxes.

"I am not in favor of holding up the houses," pointed out Alderman Lloyd, "but if the lots are worth $300 to Mayer they are worth the same to Tatham's." He asked for a recorded vote on the recommendation to sell to Tatham.

Favoring the sale were Aldermen H. A. Allen, J. Allin, Armstrong, Clarke, Duffy, Hyde, Lattimer, Liddle, Lummiss and Tice. Opposed were Aldermen Lloyd and Thomas.

To Divert Sewer

The engineering firm of Gore and Storrie was authorized to proceed with the diversion of the sewer from East Bridge Street through the new sub-division, thus providing more economical sewer services for approximately 45 home owners who have purchased or built houses north of Bridge Street.

The special property committee was authorized to accept offers for the remaining lots in the County Home property north of the highway.

Alderman Liddle inquired regarding the scrolls to be sent out to veterans, reminding that the city had spent considerable money to supply these scrolls. Alderman Tice replied the staff of the city clerk's office had not the time to address the scrolls and asked for power to retain sufficient help to do the work.

Admits Letter Received

Alderman Allin asked whether it was true the housing committee had received word from Wartime Housing that they were not prepared to build additional rental housing units in the city.

Alderman Armstrong admitted this was correct, the above organization having intimated sufficient applications had not been received to warrant construction of the 100 additional houses which had been asked by the city. He said that two applications for each house were required before construction would be proceeded with.

Alderman Allin also asked if a veteran was required to be earning a certain sum monthly before he would be permitted to rent one of the Wartime Houses. This was admitted to be true by Alderman Liddle, who said that a veteran must be earning $165 monthly. Otherwise the houses were rented on a point basis.

Others Need Accommodation

Alderman Thomas wanted to know if there was not some organization which would provide rental housing for non-veterans. "They also need accommodation" he said.

Alderman Allin felt that $37.50 per month was a much higher rental than could be afforded by many veterans and thought low rental apartments might be the answer. Alderman Tice also felt there were not too many veterans in the city earning $165 per month which would entitle them to rent one of the homes.

The suburban planning board submitted its proposed program for the current year. This included the provision of an official master plan of the city showing proposed industrial, commercial, residential and recreational uses; a plan covering major traffic routes; basic maps and factual data on which to have continued study and a plan regarding parks and recreational facilities.

The board was prepared to make a study of any major project which the councils of the municipalities included in the planning area may have under consideration.

"It is the duty of every business man and of every one of us to make the newspapers understand that they have a responsibility, that it is shameful on their part, dangerous on their part, to keep on giving publicity to every disorderly strike, to every declaration of Communist, or radical people, to give them publicity that they don't give even to honest people.

"I understand that they don't realize situation. They are sleeping, they are dreaming. They don't realize that they are breathing a flame—that they are only kindling a fire whose power in the not-too-distant future will consume everything that is dear to us.

"Then why not file reports of Communists in three lines?"

Most of Mr. Duplessis' speech was an attack on Communism. He said the province of Quebec believes in free enterprise: That citizenship is a privilege which, however, implies duties in addition to rights; that citizenship seeks not only to meet dangers but to prevent them.

Quebec is alert, he said, "we have opened our eyes."

The New Metropolitan of Ontario

People of the parish of St. Thomas' in Belleville take more than usual interest in the elevation of His Lordship Bishop John Lyons to be Metropolitan of the Ecclesiastical Province of Ontario and to the office of Archbishop. As vicar of the local parish the new Metropolitan was a beloved pastor of his flock. Then after serving as parish priest at Prescott he was elected to the bishopric of Ontario diocese in which office he has joined happily the qualities which made him so successful in his parochial work and those which go with the office of bishop. As an administrator he has given service of the highest kind.

News of his election to the Metropolitan office has come with much satisfaction and the new archbishop will receive the congratulations of not only members of his own communion but of other communions. To parishioners who knew him as their priest in the parishes he held, all of them in Ontario, and to others who knew him personally or by reputation, the election comes with a deep sense of pleasure as a reward of the devoted service he has rendered the church and those whose welfare has been under his care.

His Grace Archbishop Lyons stands in the religious world of today as a noble representative of the great Anglican communion which has had so noble a record in the Motherland and in Canada.

More Road Fatalities to Elderly Persons

January was a mild month in a mild winter but it was a month with many casualties on the roads and highways. At least fifty persons were fatally injured as a result of traffic accidents.

The most striking fact is that at least 17 of those who were victims of traffic or car accidents were over 65 years of age while all but four of these ill-fated seventeen were pedestrians.

The Highways Department is well advised to stress these facts, the increased danger to pedestrians and persons over the age of sixty-five years.

There is room for meditation on these facts. They are warnings which should be taken to heart by those who walk and have occasion to cross roadways. With motors coming from several directions and with older pedestrians not so alert to the dangers or so observant as they once were they run greater hazards when they make their way over or along the road.

January 1948 showed much better in this regard than January 1949. The increase in the number of elderly persons killed is one of the startling features of the first monthly returns for this year.

Last year's total accidents of a fatal character now stand at 740, this number including several persons injured in 1948 who have succumbed this month to their injuries. This represents a rise of a slight amount above the 1947 figures while the death rate in relation to the mileage was slightly down.

For some good reason there was an encouraging reduction when the victims of fatal accidents to children were three instead of six for the previous year.

The facts above show the need for unfailing care. Technically there should be no accidents but with people as they are, accidents do result. The campaign for careful driving and for care on the part of persons walking the highways or crossing them or city streets must never let up and no let-up must be permitted by anyone in using care whether as driver or walker.

Any achievement in the reduction of fatalities and accidents without fatalities is to be welcomed but some improvement is not enough for everyone must see that his or her actions are all directed to the prevention of mishaps.

Visit Over the Border

Prime Minister St. Laurent has just paid a visit to President Truman at Washington.

Every American and Canadian can understand the spirit of such a meeting of men representing two peace-loving peoples.

There have been many of these happy events across the border by the leaders of the United States and Canada and there will be more of them as time goes by.

The friendship of the two peoples, like the friendship of the President and the Prime Minister, is a reflection of good will in America.

Know not why our loved ones die.
Never know and never will
Why we have or haven't skill,
Wondering all our lifetime through
Can it be God's will we do?

Ask the growing boy what he

He must wait, as we, to

He is still too young to see
What may be his destiny.

This is all God lets us know:
Each is needed, high or low.
Whatsoever seems man's fate,
Service humble, service great,

THE BOOK YOU BUY

The cost of books keeps soaring. It is this that makes us more conscious of a book than ever before. But a good book has always been a wonderful creation. Now here are some of the steps to its final appearance in the bookshop.

First there must be the idea for the kind of book. Then it must be written — often a process of years. Then comes the search for a publisher. And what an adventure this often proves to be! Accepted, then these are the many steps: It must be set into type; or if illustrated, plates must be made after an artist has been selected and paid. It must be carefully proofread. Paper must be ordered. A dust wrapper must be designed and printed. Stereotyped plates must be made. It must then be printed. Then it must be bound. Finally the book must be advertised and distributed to dealdrs. And this is all in the price that you pay. No wonder book prices keep climbing!

A publisher's books are his "babies" — but they often turn out to be his headaches. He never knows how his public is to react to his selections. Many an author's book has had to wait until its creator has been long in his grave—for either sale or appreciation. On the other hand there are books that have taken to the heights in sales, only later to drop with a thud, and be eternally forgotten. Try and name five "best sellers" of five years ago.

A book, like an individual, must have character to live. And such books do live, or we would not have libraries. Rarity alone has little to do with the permanence in value of a book. It must have worth.

The publisher of Shakespeare's "First Folio" first offered it to the public for an English pound or less than $5.50 in American money. For about a hundred years following, copies could be bought for even less than this amount. In 1787 a copy brought about $45.00. In 1929, A. Edward Newton of Philadelphia paid $65,000 for his copy! Reading copies of Shakespeare, however, have been sold by the million.

My father once gave me a book to read which he said was worth its weight in gold. At that time I would rather have had the gold, but today I look upon books differently. Many are worth far more than their weight in gold. We readers are lucky. Would we do all the author did for the five dollars that we pay for his book?

Sanford, Me. — (AP) — The grosbeak, the bird books say, has a formidable beak. Frederick Weyhe's cat learned that — to his sorrow.

The cat, Weyhe said, caught a grosbeak recently and settled down on the porch for a leisurely meal. But the bird has other ideas. It seized the cat by one ear and hung on until the animal released its hold.

Las Vegas, Nev. — (AP)—Such terms as "boxcars," "seven come eleven," and "baby needs a new pair of shoes" will reverberate through the swank halls of Europe's Monte Carlo Casino next fall.

The director of the famed Mediterranean gambling palace, Louis Ceresol, arrived here yesterday. He announced that the popular American game of "craps" will be installed at Monte Carlo this autumn for the first time in history.

"I am here to be taught the new dignity of modern gambling," Ceresol declared, adding, "After two wars, craps has become international."

Lincoln, England — (Reuters)— Two men placed first and second in a girls' beauty contest here because the organizers had fixed it as a hoax which fooled the spectators.

Wearing black silk and ice-blue satin dresses, the "winners," female impersonators from a stage show, raised a gasp when they took off their wigs after the judging and stood revealed as men.

Betty Woodhead, 19-year-old hairdresser who placed third, was given the $20 first prize.

"If this is someone's idea of a joke, I think it is an extremely poor one," she said.

Mackenzie's Column:

Senate Putting Atlantic Pact Under Microscope

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The United States Senate, as was generally anticipated, is putting the proposed North Atlantic Security Alliance under the microscope.

The critical examination thus far has produced statements indicating that the Senate isn't likely to approve any treaty binding the United States automatically to go to war under all circumstances.

The pact has been under discussion by the United States, Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg. The three Scandinavian countries — Norway, Sweden and Denmark — also have been invited to consider participation in what they regard as a highly delicate proposition.

Offers Assurance

Two top - ranking foreign policy leaders in the Senate, Senators Vandenburg and Conally, do not approve of signing any alliance which would commit the country prior to the emergency. However, Vandenberg told the Senate that the proposed alliance offers "infinite assurance" against a third world war.

The statements by the two senators reflect a policy pursued by the United States government since its inception. This has been to avoid foreign pacts which would commit the country to war in advance of the event. In this connection, George Washington said in his farewell address to the American public on his approaching retirement:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."

Conditions Changed

Of course conditions have changed vastly since Washington made that address. The United States is no longer physically isolated from Europe as she was in 1796. However, his warning against foreign entanglements still is reflected in the discussion of the proposed alliance.

However, many observers express the belief that it wouldn't be necessary to commit the United States in advance in order to make the alliance a great deterrent to aggression.

Move to Expand Lending Powers Under Assault

Ottawa, Feb. 15— A move to expand the lending powers of the government's Industrial Development Bank, an institution designed to help small industries, came under assault from both sides of the Senate Monday night.

As explained by Senator Gray Turgeon (L-British Columbia), a government bill would raise from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000 the total sum the bank can lend to individual applicants for loans exceeding $200,000.

Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, said the bank got only "the leftovers" who could not get loans from chartered banks and who would collapse when times tightened up. He didn't approve of backing such people with public funds and he thought it transgressed on private enterprise.

Senator J. J. Kinley (L-Nova Scotia) said any loans exceeding $200,000 were not small but big business and the applicants should be able to stand on their own feet.

Senator Norman Lambert (L-Ontario) said the essence of the original act was to aid small industries that had done excellent work in the war and who needed something beyond the loans available from the chartered banks.

The bill was given approval in principle and sent to committee for detailed study.

Senator Turgeon attributed the proposed change to the increased costs of capital investment construction. The total aggregate of $15,000,000 for loans beyond $200,000 was "fast being reached" under current conditions. Another $75,000,000 was set aside for smaller loans.

568 Applications

The bank in four years had granted 568 applications, refused 519 and another 500 had been withdrawn. Total loans now amounted to $30,000,000. The bank was not a competitor of chartered banks.

Senator Haig thought the chartered banks would approve the bill. It would foist "the beginners, the leftovers on the government. . anyone who is a good asset can get money from the chartered banks."

The demand for more government money came from the high taxes which were drying up private investment capital. Manitoba, as well as other provinces, had learned its lesson in invading the field of private loans.

Senator Lambert said the original concept of the act had been to support justifiable industries which had done a good war job and could not get the capital help they needed on regular bank terms. The bank was not serving big business and it was misrepresentation to say so.

Old Country Letter:

Britain's Wine Cellars Gather Dust and Cobwebs Due to Taxes

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Feb. 15 — (CP) — Empty wine cellars in Britain's stately homes are gathering dust and cobwebs. A slug of gin before dinner is becoming the usual alcoholic accompaniment to meals.

These are the findings of British wine merchants whose sales have dropped heavily since high taxation has more than doubled the cost of imported wine.

Britons as a whole have never had a reputation as wine drinkers though in the last century more prosperous citizens did not stop at one bottle of claret with dinner or even one bottle of port afterwards.

Claret Popular

Even before the last war French claret enjoyed wide popularity in middle - class as well as in aristocratic homes. Those were the days when you could get a bottle for 2s 6d (50 cents). . .Now the same quality is 8s. or more and 18s in a restaurant.

The result, say wine merchants, is that big buyers simply are not replenishing their cellars. Middle-class buyers may get a bottle occasionally for a treat but they are more likely to get cider or beer.

Restaurants still report fairly heavy sales of wine with meals but they say that it is ordered by people who are out to make an evening of it any hang the expense.

French Complain

Wine merchants aren't the only ones to complain about the trend. French exporters have been moaning about the tax which has risen from the pre-war 8d. A bottle of claret to 4s. 2d.

But recently there have been indications that the French may be encouraged to find a wider market here.

Ceilings Lifted

Recently fixed prices were removed from wines and many stores began knocking off several shillings to clear stocks.

Now British and French wine merchants are hoping that Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will give some tax relief in the spring budget.

Urging similar action, the Times pointed out that wines were among the most important contributions France could make to balancing trade with Britain.

"Consumption was five imperial pints a head of population after Gladstone had acted and it now is to be measured like cough mixture, by the teaspoonful. Is such austerity sound economics?"

MANKIND WANTS ONLY QUICK ASSETS

After four years of repeated injection and cutting, I submitted to operation for internal piles (writes J. L. D.) and then it occurred to me to write for your pamphlet.

The pamphlet is available to any one who asks for it by name, in writing, and provides self addressed envelope. It is Stupid to Suffer from Piles.

We need not give the details of J. L. D.'s troubles following the atrocity—that's what I call the nineteenth century procedure known as hemorrhoidectomy surgical removal of hemorrhoids (piles). Just one other operation of nineteenth century vintage but still prepetrated on thousands of children and adolescents by eager operators compares with hemorrhoidectomy in crudity, in my opinion. That is tonsillectomy. J. L. D. winds up with a sage remark: It would be a real asset to mankind to know how to prevent piles in the first place.

Mankind, I have found, does not care to learn in 1949 how to prevent piles in 1969.

You yourself, J. D., sent for the pamphlet after you had been maltreated for four years and finally subjected to the clamp and cautery operation (save the mark.)

From time to time some ignorant reader (keep your shirt on till you look up the meaning of the word in Webster) gives me what he can ill afford to give—a piece of his mind—for my cheek calling my betters stupid. Whether they be my superiors, equals or inferiors, a lot of 'em are as stupid and ignorant about this common ailment as I am about the mechanics of an automobile, for instance. It is ignorance and stupidity that keeps so many poor geeks suffering with hemorrhoids, internal or external or both when, if they had just a little enlightenment about it they could get complete relief painlessly and without interruption of their regular work, play or occupation.

The modern ambulant or injection treatment is given in the doctor's office without pain at time of treatment or afterward, at intervals of three to seven days. It takes only a few minutes. Between treatments the patient goes about his or her usual activities.

How many such treatments may be necessary depends on how many hemorrhoids (piles) may require obliteration. Four or five in most instances.

Neither the injection treatment nor any operation your nineteenth century "surgeon" or 'specialist" may impose upon you will assure against further trouble from piles. Although hemorrhoid or hemorrhoids obliterated by injection or excised by surgery are gone forever, other hemorrhoids may develop at any time in the future if the original causes remain uncorrected.

In the 8-page pamphlet mentioned above—remember you can get it by asking for it in writing and inclosing stamped self addressed envelope—I devote about 6 pages of describing the causes of piles and advising the hygienic measures that will prevent them.

Injection treatment is not applicable to external piles, but physicians skilled in ambulant (office) methods obtain highly satisfactory results by electro-coagulating such piles and troublesome tags under local anesthesia.

I warn all pile sufferers to beware of charlatans who promise to cure piles without operation and especially the shady "specialists" who appeal for public patronage on the claim that they use methods recommended by Dr. William Brady. If you mess around with such humbugs don't comlain to me about your sad experience.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Brain Food

Are there so-called brain foods? I try to cook for my small family so that vitamins will be saved as much as possible. Husband attends college and much of the time feels tired and cannot study. (Mrs. H. M.)

Answer—No. But vitamin rich diet will maintain vite and keep every member of the family less subject to fatigue or tired feeling than food from which most of the vitamins —have been removed by refinement or lost in cooking. Tests in New York schools indicated that students study and learn better and get better marks in examinations if their ordinary diet is supplemented with a good daily ration of vitamin B.

Cramps

Some time ago you published something about leg cramps at night. Mother, 66, suffers such cramps in legs and arms. (Mrs. C. R. W.)

Answer—Send stamped self addressed envelope for pamphlet. Adult Tetany and Growing Pains.

The Packsack of Gregory Clark

After the dishes had been swished clean in the sandy water and the frying pan swabbed dry with bunched grass, the Indian sat down on the far side of the fire, drew his knees up, rested his arms on them and began quietly to sing.

In the dusk, it was a curious sound. It was more like monotonous humming: but I could detect words. The Indian's eyes were gazing absently at the ground.

"What is that?" I asked him.

"I am singing my every day song," the Indian replied.

"Every day?"

"Yes," said the Indian, "I am praying."

Because we had become friends that day and caught not many, but very large trout; and because I had listened respectfully to him for a long time while he told me about his son who had died of polio (instead of interrupting him to tell him to get on with his paddle) the Indian smiled, turned his head to look at the ground again, sang a little louder; and translated his song into English.

"I wake," he intoned, "and the mist is on the water. I open the tent and see Shongwesh—that is mink—in the sport's fish basket. I clap my hands and he runs to the water. I look at the sport. He is awake and winks his eye. I walk down to the water. To wash my hands and face. The water is cold. I splash water into the long grass and Shongwesh runs out. He was hiding. When I stand up, the sport is sitting up in his bed lighting a cigarette. I walk to him and say, two eggs and some ham; or trout? . . ."

In a murmuring sing-song voice, the Indian recounted every single, solitary moment of the day that was ending — the fishing, the paddling, the stories told, the points rounded, the beaches landed on. It took nearly an hour.

It is the Indian's prayer: and a marvellous way to thank God for a day.

STRENGTH for The Day

Dr. Earl L. Douglass

HARD TO FACE — BUT REAL

Few moderns like to admit that the wrath of God is a reality which every human being has to face and take into account. It seems at variance with the oft-repeated Biblical declaration that God is love. Many people reason that God cannot be loving at one time and angry at another.

Yet the Bible certainly teaches that with infinite severity God punishes evil and that, when his patience is exhausted with the sinner's perversity and impenitence, his heavy hand descends to smite. The divine wrath is manifested in many ways. Sometimes a punishment which seems especially designed for a particular offender comes down upon him and his folly. More often, however, the punishment grows ou of the mounting calamities of evil enterprise itself. God ordained that evil brings suffe ing, and as the evil increases, t punishment increases in like pr portion.

If we think about it for a m ment, we see that this is not all inconsistent w'th the aboun ing love of God. This love is fered to all men. Those who fuse it not only do themselv infinite harm; they corrupt environment in which othe must live. Sin unpunished unrebuked would soon destroy goodness from off the face of earth. In God's perfect natu love, justice, and wrath are p fectly balanced, and his wr against evil is as much a par his divine nature as are jus and love.

KEAYS ADMITS

Reporter Took Notes

He was asked if Greenaway took notes and Keays answered in the affirmative stating he took his name and address and then Robb wanted to know if Keays wanted the "stuff" in the paper and Keays replied "No." The witness also stated that he was in touch with the president of The Canadian Press for a couple of hours and that several cases were discussed at that time. Mr. Robb then asked the witness if in April of 1948 he did sign an oath and the witness replied in the affirmative.

"Was it after you saw the Star?"

"Yes," said the constable.

"Did you breach that oath?"

"Yes, but I did it for my family," said the witness.

"Does it bother you to break an oath?" was the next question.

"No, because I placed what I thought was duty ahead of ethics."

Mr. Robb took up a previous statement of Mr. Keay that the Crown Attorney had been drunk on various occasions. Keays stated that he had not testified that Dr. J. Russell Scott was intoxicated when he came to the police station with Donnan.

Keays stated he did not wish to infer that the physician was intoxicated and if that was the inference, when he was presenting his brief he was sorry.

Turning to the part that the Crown Attorney is alleged to have taken in this case Mr. Robb asked the witness "if he was suggesting that Donnan "tipped off" Carefoot that he was being investigated. "That is correct," said the witness, "but I am not making any charges."

"Are you holding anything back in the case?" asked counsel and Keays repried "that will come later." Mr. Keays admitted that he had had no harsh words with the Crown Attorney until March of 1946 and in answer to a question about holding Carefoot, the witness stated that he only wanted to hold Carefoot until the investigation was completed that was due a police officer.

"Did you tell Con. Armstrong to hold Carefoot incommunicado?" and Keays stated "that is only a term used by officers." Asked if he was content to release the man, the witness stated that he was not. "You know," said Mr. Robb," that I was going to issue a habeaus corpus injunction against you and if it had been issued, would you have disobeyed that injunction?"

Would Have Disobeyed

"Under the circumstances, yes, I would," stated the witness. Asked if he got excited when preparing a case the witness said, "this is my biggest case and I can assure you that I am quite calm." This brought a snicker from the packed courtroom and order was immediately called by the officers of the court. The witness was asked if he thought that he deceived the Carefoot jury and Mr. Keays said "definitely not."

"Do you think an inspector would want a constable who was not fair to the judge and jury and be justified in not wanting the constable in his command?" "That is true," said the witness, "but should he not have taken it up with the Commissioner in the proper way instead of broadcasting it to the public?" Turning to the Miki case Mr. Keays was asked if he knew Detective Stoneman and he replied "very well."

Remark Never Said Claim

"Did Stringer say to Stoneman at the Miki shooting, 'Who is that man there', meaning Keays, and that Stoneman replied 'He is a perjurer in court and a liar out of court.' "

"Certainly not, that was never said in my presence," said the witness.

The credibility of the witness was further tested in the Badgley case at Frankford and again the counsel and the witness had many brushes. Mr. Robb asked the witness if Keays wrote as the heading for his report of the Badgley case on December 3rd, 1948, "The Murder of Jean Badgley" and the witness admitted that was the heading and immediately Mr. Robb requested to know why that heading was used, when the investigation had not been completed by Keays or any other officer. Keays stated he was present at the post mortem performed by Dr. Waite and after the thorax had been removed Dr. Waite is reported to have said that the girl was choked and strangled.

Mr. Robb wanted to know how many days elapsed before another report was submitted and the witness stated, "it was about five days later."

"Who was the suspect in the Badgley case if there was a suspect?"

Had No Suspect in Case

"I had no suspect," said the witness.

"Whom did you bring down to the office and in the dead of night?" asked Mr. Robb.

"Her boy friend," said Mr. Keays.

"Did you get finger prints?"

"Yes, and he had twin loops on the thumb, which was not unusual but Miss Badgley did not have twin loops."

"How did you secure the prints?" asked counsel.

"I raised them," said Mr. Keays.

"That is not a very satisfactory way, I am told" said Mr. Robb. "I also am informed that way is not generally accepted in police circles and that where you sought information on these prints you were refused a report."

"That is correct," said the witness.

"Did you go to Toronto and whom did you see?"

"I saw Inspector Ward and also Borland and Guthrie of the Toronto police".

Letter Introduced

"Did they tell you they could not identify the prints?"

"No," said the witness.

At this point Mr. Robb introduced a letter written by Borland stating that the prints could not be identified.

Mr. Robb asked "what was the verdict in the Badgley case?" and Mr. Keays stated the verdict was "that Miss Badgley came to her death by her own hand." The witness was also asked if he took the rifle in the Badgley case from the office of the Crown Attorney and he stated he carried it into the courtroom on the instruction of Mr. Donnan.

Questioning was switched from the Badgley case and witness was taken over the ground of an investigation made by Keays into a jailbreak at Bancroft. Keays was asked if he disapproved of "interference" by Cpl. Ervine, when a statement was being taken from Ayrhart. He was asked if Ayrhart was warned and Keays stated "he did not think so."

Harsh Words Spoken

Mr. Keays also admitted there were harsh words spoken between the officers after the accused was locked up. Before the closing of the afternoon session the facts regarding the Woods case were again entered into and Keays stated he did not inform Purdy that he went back to the scene of the accident after he and Purdy had made the arrest and that he never did tell him. The question of paint on the posts was a point given considerable attention but Keays claimed that it was irrelevant because he had evidence that the posts were broken down previous to the Wood's accident. Court was then adjourned.

led 35,160,800 kilowatt hours, Mr. Saunders said.

The improvement was due in large measure to improved water conditions as a result of the mild weather and co-operation by consumers.

But Mr. Saunders added that it is still necessary to keep some of the power saving rules in effect.

"We regret that we are unable to remove all restrictions at present, but it should be understood that our present position makes it necessary for us to make provision for certain unforeseeable emergencies," he said. "The restrictions now in effect will be removed as soon as sufficient power becomes available."

RECORDED VOTE

Many Speakers Heard

Speakers in the debate included Prime Minister St. Laurent, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, Solon Low, Social Credit leader, Defence Minister Claxton, Justice Minister Garson, John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre), A. L. Church (PC-Toronto Broadview) J. F. Pouliot (Ind. L-Temiscouata), Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg Centre) and Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC-MacLeod).

The debate stemmed from a government motion for an address asking the United Kingdom Parliament to amend the British North America Act to give the union full force.

Mr. St. Laurent introduced the motion and said the government was following a precedent established in 1931 when the national resources of Alberta and Saskatchewan were returned to the provinces by the Dominion through an amendment to the B.N.A. Act passed by the British parliament.

Then Mr. Drew threw the debate wide open, attaching his call for provincial consultation to the main motion as an amendment and warning the provinces that if the constitution was amended now by a mere majority decision of parliament it could be amended "in any other case in the same way."

"This," he said, "is no time to take short cuts which would have the effect of lessening respect for the constitution."

Consultation with the provinces on constitutional changes was their only guarantee that their rights would be safeguarded.

Union Procedure Sound

Mr. Garson, arguing that the Union procedure was sound, said the sections of the B.N.A. Act providing for Newfoundland's entry into Confederation made no mention of consultation with the provinces.

While Newfoundland had no legislature which could send an address to the United Kingdom asking for approval of the confederation terms, the people of the island colony already had expressed their approval of union.

R. Low, supporting the Progressive Conservative move, said the issue of union should be referred to the provinces for their approval. If two-thirds of them found union favorable, then it could be brought about.

Mr. Coldwell suggested that "chaos" would be brought into the constitution if the provinces were consulted on constitutional questions which did not affect them except as component parts of the country as a whole. The proposal was purely and simply one of national responsibility.

Mr. Claxton, who helped negotiate the terms of union, termed Mr. Drew's amendment a challenge to the very concept of confederation and a challenge to the right of parliament to deal with matters affecting all Canadians.

Mr. Diefenbaker charged that the government had found itself in the position where "convenience dictated departure from the terms of Confederation". This meant that whenever sections of the B.N.A. Act were found to be "inconvenient", all parliament had to do was have a majority vote and then ask for amendment to the constitution.

Urged to Move Cautiously

Mr. Pouliot urged the Chamber to move cautiously in its consideration of the legislation. "There is no reason," he said, "why we should try to swallow Newfoundland in one gulp."

Mr. Blackmore said the Social Credit group supported the principle of union with Newfoundland, but agreed with the Progressive Conservative party in its objection to the government's method of obtaining constitutional amendment.

Mr. Smith said the C.C.F. party was supporting the government because "their whole philosophy is centralization in government." He agreed that the constitution should be re-vamped, but disagreed with those who claimed it could be changed by a simple majority vote in parliament.

Mr. Knowles recalled that the Progressive Conservative party had used a similar method of amending the constitution in 1943 and charged that their policy was dictated by the same result.

Mr. Church said the act never should be changed without first obtaining provincial consent.

Mr. Hansell said the government was making a case of centralization at Ottawa while, in a few months, its members would be going about the country in an election campaign preaching decentralization, free enterprise and provincial autonomy.

Sweater Girl Popular Lass Say Designers

Montreal, Feb. 15. (CP) — Drug-store cowboys and knit goods manufacturers agree, the sweater girl is a popular lass. An eye-opener for the boys on the corner, she has provided an unprecedented fillip for the knitting industry.

Since its first appearance on the fashion scene some 10 years ago, the "modern" sweater has become a vitally-important item in the domain of women's apparel, R. B. Cohen, past president of the National Association Women's Wear Bureau, told the monthly meeting of the Montreal Fashion industries.

No fashion development, said Mr. Cohen, more emphatically illustrates the unpredictability of style trends than the emergence of the knitted sweater from the "Cinderella" category to a leading place in the feminine wardrobe. For years a sweater was just one of those prosaic things that a woman could take or leave as she saw fit.

Then, along came Hollywood with its magic touch and the college campus with its flair for novelty and presto, the whole continent was sweater-conscious.

All women quickly discovered that milady's sweater could be an adornment as well as a comfort. Glamor had an ally.

Today, the well-dressed woman has at least ten sweaters in her wardrobe. The average woman has about five sweaters.

Turning to the part which sweaters play in the fashion ensemble, Mr. Cohen said that the sweater shared the every-day glamor of the blouse. Both are always in the spotlight. Both are versatile. Both are worn with tailored suits and skirts. These advantages give women greater scope in combining attractive outfits.

Mr. Cohen explained that the manufacturers have been keeping up with the demand for variety and adaptability. Diversified fabrics are used in an attractive range of colors. Included among the fabrics in use are combed-cotton, wool, unshrinkable wool and nylon.

NABISCO SHREDDED WHEAT

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Farewell to platinum blondes

Changing the color of the hair has been a diversion of the frail sex for centuries on end. When a woman makes up her mind to dye or bleach her hair there is no stopping her. It is a great adventure, one that may bring her joy or sorrow, according to the manner in which it is accomplished.

Old-timers remember when the henna frenzy raged. Red heads were everywhere. Not so long ago the platinum mania seized the minds of the light-headed sisters. It played out, and for good reason.

Now and then you will see a girl with the white-gold halo. In the course of time she will wish with all her heart that she hadn't monkeyed with her tresses. Few beauty specialists are willing to give these treatments because of the danger of over-bleaching that dries the delicate, silky shafts, causing them to take on a jute-like quality, to break at the touch of comb or brush.

Blonde hair should carry the golden shimmer. It is only when it has lustre that it is truly beautiful. The continued use of peroxide, with ammonia added, creates a dull, lifeless surface that is anything but attractive.

We're not saying that when golden locks darken they cannot be bleached successfully. It is being done all the time. But the conscientious operator knows the danger of over-treatment.

There would be no trouble with dyes and bleaches if Nature would co-operate. But Nature doesn't. She pushes out new shafts to the extent of four to six inches a year. This new growth must be touched up frequently, and this calls for the utmost care, as one application must not overlap another. When that happens the locks are streaked.

The time may come when the lady who has been too chummy with the peroxide bottle decides that just isn't worth the expense and the trouble. What can she do during the period of transition while the bleached shafts are growing out? She can grin and bear it, suffer the critical looks that come her way. She can have her head shaved and resort to demountable hair in the form of a bobbed wig. The best course is to have a three-inch cut and a cold wave.

Any woman who is flirting with the idea of a color change should know precisely what she is in for. If she can find an expert in dyeing and bleaching, all well and good. He or she will not only see that the coloring process is correct and successful, but also that the hair is kept conditioned. To attempt the job oneself may be a matter of pouring troubles on one's head.

The woman contemplating hair dye should know what she is doing

No More Harsh Laxatives!

Famous cereal brings lasting relief from constipation

Are harsh laxatives causing you distress and unhappiness? Then read this unsolicited letter:

"About 8 months ago, I decided to start eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. After a few days, I realised that regular use of this breakfast cereal was making my system work naturally. Constipation doesn't trouble me any more. Believe me, it's a great relief!" P. Laveille, 4465 Rinard Street, Montreal.

Yes, if you suffer from constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet, you may never have to take another harsh laxative again. Simply eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily and drink plenty of water. ALL-BRAN is not a purgative, but a wholesome cereal. Eat an ounce as a cereal or in muffins for constipation relief. If after using one package you are not completely satisfied, get double your money back as guaranteed on the package. Get delicious ALL-BRAN from your grocer. Made by Kellogg's of London, Ontario.

Youthful Looking Chin Line

After creaming neck and face, Screen Star Martha Hyer recommends this exercise: Relax, drop head forward revolve right, left, forward, back

By HELEN FOLLETT

IF YOU are inclined to take on weight—or even if you aren't—keep a weather eye on your chin. You may have a nice, neat one now, an interesting part of a pleasing profile, but you can't tell! Give it proper attention when creaming your sacred complexion and it will never go tandem.

Place the palm of each hand on the centre of the jaw bone. Knead the flesh, pushing it upward, exactly as you would knead bread. The finger tips should be close to the ears. Follow along with strokes from chin tip to ear lobes. Throw the head back, sweep the finger tips from collar bones upward.

A Warning

If there are cross lines below the chin you can be pretty sure that something is going on there. It is a warning. In that case follow the massage treatment with a laving with witch hazel, patting it into the flesh. If you have a chin strap, use it to hold a cold compress and let it remain on overnight.

There are exercises that are helpful in keeping chin and throat in normal condition. Sit in a straight back chair, body erect, chest lifted, face forward. Turn the chin parallel with the right shoulder and stretch upward. Drop the chin low, turn to the left shoulder and repeat. This movement builds up the muscles, tones tissues."

Every time you do beautifying work on your face, remember that you have a neck. Washing with soap and water, applying a little powder is generally the only attention the neck receives. So it is not at all uncommon to see a neck with skin that is greyish or yellow. The skin there needs lubrication and the stimulation of massage the same as the cutaneous covering of the face.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Important . . . a Charming Attitude

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please settle this discussion between my married sister and me? She says that when a woman decides it is time to leave to go home from a party, she should first sort of take her husband into her confidence that "It is time to leave" or "We must be going,' Tom", or something like that. I maintain that this is not necessary, since its the woman's prerogative to suggest the time for leaving. Who is right?

Maida C.

While you are right according to the "rule" you mention, your sister's attitude shows more charm and friendliness, a better grace between wife and husband. Obviously it is more gracious for the wife to get her husband's attention, even consult with him a bit, before she announces that they are to leave. Just to avoid that "dominating wife" impression!

Memorial Flowers and Memorial Contributions

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Will you please tell me the really correct way to send from a florist flowers for a funeral? That it, what kind of card is enclosed? What is written on the card itself? And what is written on the envelope?

2. Even if it is not announced or suggested in the obituary notice that contributions may be sent to a charity in which the deceased was particularly interested, is it correct for a relative or friend to send such a contribution, instead of funeral flowers?

G. V.

1. With the flowers enclose either your visiting-card or a plain white card supplied by the florist. (No fancy card, or a card with a printed message on it.) If you use the florist's plain white card, write your name on it, in the centre. . . for example, a wife writes Mr. and Mrs. George Grayson; but no message should be written on the card. Address the card-envelope to:

The funeral of

with the address of the house, or church, or funeral parlor or chapel.

2. Yes, this is correct.

Informal Service of Water

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it really incorrect to fill the water goblets on the dinner-table before the guests are asked to come in to dinner? My husband and I give small, informal dinner parties, and since I am the cook and waitress as well as the hostess, naturally I like to have as many details as possible taken care of beforehand. So I have filled the goblets before "summoning" the guests. But the other day at a lecture on table-service the speaker said that the water should not be poured until after the guests are seated.

Informal Hostess

I'm sure the lecturer referred to table-service of strict formality . . . then it is true that the water is not poured until the guests are seated at the dining table. But with today's informal ways of table-service, it is accepted as entirely correct and it is customary to fill the water glasses before the guests come into the dining-room. And either on the sideboard or other convenient place is a pitcher of water for refills.

SMOCKING IS the main motif of this beautiful duo of coat and gown fashioned of sheer rayon jersey in a heavenly shade of pink. Smocking is used to stimulate the rounded yoke, and on the gown it marks the wide midriff. ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

It takes two to make a successful marriage

There's nothing new in saying that it takes two to make a successful marriage. But it's a truth that's worth repeating now and then.

For no matter how faithful a wife or husband may be; however comfortable a home the wife makes, or however capable the husband may be at providing for his family, if either one of them does not have his heart in making the other happy, the marriage as such is a failure.

I have a letter, for example, from a 42-year-old wife, who has been conscientiously trying for fifteen years to make her marriage work, and to create a happy home for her two children. For twelve years out of the fifteen, she has been working at this job, not only single-handedly, without any aid from her husband except rather indifferent economic support, but working actually against obstacles which he places in her way. She put up with his drinking, and resulting abuse, when he was drunk. She took him back when he left her for another woman "because", she says, "I figured we all can make a mistake."

Since that episode she has, from time to time, found letters written him by other women, and has had the fortitude to refrain from even letting him know that she knew about his affairs. Now his philandering has become so obvious that she cannot any longer pretend to ignore it.

"I am a nervous wreck," she writes, "and I told him something had to be done. I told him we had better separate, and he said, 'Well, just let me know when you are moving.' He refuses to go ,and I can't stand it any longer. I have been asking how long he is going to keep all this up, but he only smiles. What can I do or where can I go for help?"

I see no other solution for this unhappy and mistreated woman than to get a legal separation from her husband which will allow her to be rid of his presence in the house while, at the same time, he will be obliged to support his wife and family. It seems evident that she has done all she possibly could in a most distressing situation; in fact, by keeping quiet all this time about his escapades with other women, she has done far more than most wives would. If she decides, as it seems to me she should, to take legal acton in the matter, I think she can do so with a clear conscience, knowing she had done her best to avoid it.

If she will write me again, and give me her name and an address to which I can send a personal letter, I will be glad to tell her where she can go in her community for specific information on how to take the matter to court.

Fashion Flashes

FENCED IN deep-cut necklines predominate in Spring fashions, including print frocks for general daytime wear, as well as the more suitable afternoon frock. Sometimes the fence is a flange of the fabric, and in some models it is a high-rising collar. Deep and narrow V-necklines often have tiny self revers at either side. But it is all neckline interest.

A BREAK DOWN of orders by store buyers reveals that in tailored suits it is the one-button model in gabardine that is getting the most attention. In dressmaker suits, the easy jacket, paired with the knife-pleated skirt, is starting to register in soft novelty woollens, especially in navy wool crepe.

A SURPRISE promotion that is doing well is that of wool jersey separates in delicate pastel shades. A delicate yellow blouse teams up nicely with a skirt banded in pale brown, bright yellow and pale green, while lilac, pink and gray are used for a similar twosome, the blouse in gray.

FLOWERS BLOOM gaily on Spring hats and are posed in many interesting ways. Black rio straw is used for a bonnet-type cloche massed at back with roses shaded from pink to mauve-pink nested in black point d'esprit lace.

TRIM TOUCHES lend interest to Spring handbags, and make the staples look very new and smart. Navy calf is used for a dome-shaped frame bag with a slim top handle and flared side panels. All-over scattering of tiny navy nailheads offer a neat decorative touch.

SECURELY PLACED on the color card is gray, a leader and continues through Spring and Summer, after several seasons of favors. Tightly gathered gray silk chiffon over pearly gray taffeta is the pleasant plot of a pretty afternoon frock. Short sleeves, deep-plunging neckline and wide sash of pale green taffeta are other details.

C.N.R. Diesels Establish A Scoring Record When They Swamp Kingston Aces 33-2

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

It was little short of crime for the Kingston hockey authorities to send a team like the Kingston Aces here last night to match hockey sticks with the league-leading CNR Diesels.

The game, won by the Diesels by a 33-2 score was a little short of pathetic despite the fact that the gallant Aces went all out in an effort to give the faithful present some value for their money.

But it was a scheduled game and as such was fought by both teams. To make a long story short, and we're going to cut it short, to use the vernacular, "There was nothing to it."

We're not to write anything about the game because we were too busy calculating the score.

It is doubtful perhaps that such a score has ever been calculated in Senior "B" circles in this district. It is doubtful that ever has a Belleville team beaten a Kingston squad by the same score. This should go on the record.

In any event the CNR Diesels, romped home to their seventh consecutive win here last night under wraps. The several hundred fans who saw the more or less fiasco went home hoping that Kingston will provide better opposition in the future.

The Diesels if any record is kept, fattened their batting average aplenty last night.

Big Vern Goyer, the star of the evening scored no less than nine goals and helped himself to four assists.

Semark, MacDonald, Bastedo each scored three. Don Barrett after leading the Diesels' attack got himself a badly wrenched ankle and may be out of the lineup for some time. He scored himself a brace. Speedy St. Louis, flashing a brilliant game not only bagged himself a couple of assists but also scored a goal.

Williamson and Timmy Williams helped themselves to a trio of markers.

Brown Bomber Says Savold Must Meet E. Charles

New York, Feb. 15. (AP) — Five world champions figured today in a rash of ring activity that had cauliflower ears buzzing.

These were the fast-breaking developments:

1. Heavyweight champion Joe Louis said he'd give Lee Savold just a week to agree to meet Ezzard Charles in a bout to determine a suitable challenger.

2. Lightweight champion Ike Williams and Cuba's Kid Gavilan prepared to sign for a March 18 return bout—the winner to get a shot at welter King Ray Robinson.

3. Charley Johnston, manager of Sandy Saddler, said he would go to the New York Athletic Commission with a complaint against Referee Eddie Joseph's handling of last Friday night's fight in which Saddler lost the featherweight title to Willie Pep.

4. Tony Zale, boxing's rugged steel hand who refuses to wear out, predicted he'd win back his middleweight championship from France's Marcel Cerdan this Summer. "I feel I can take this fellow the next time," he said.

Louis, who says he will come out of his unofficial retirement for one more fight, issued his ultimatum to Savold before boarding a plane yesterday for Chicago.

He indicated the Paterson, N.J., Clouter, who has just returned from England, wouldn't be considered as a possible opponent unless he took on Charles first.

The Brown Bomber is scheduled to defend his crown in Yankee Stadium in June.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Rockets Junior "B's" will be be hosts tonight to the Kingston Aces juniors in Memorial Arena when the locals will be questing for their seventh straight victory in group competition. Aces not voted the strongest team in the league sprung something of an upset the other night when they defeated the Kingston Barons, second-spot team in the group. Rockets are definitely assured of a spot in the playoffs, but they are out to keep that undefeated record intact. They are not selling the Aces short, especially after that surprise package handed to the potent Barons the other evening.

• • •

Eddie Schreider, coach of the Rockets juveniles who survived the ice battle in Brockville on Saturday night was still seeing spots before his eyes on Sunday evening. Literally that is.

This is a "believe" it or not story. It happened in the Ken McNaught domain when the McNaughts and the Schreiders were indulging in a friendly game of bridge.

The cards (a well-used deck) were shuffled and dealt according to the rules and regulations of the game. Mrs. Schreider dealt the cards.

Eddie eased his creaking bones in the chair—he had just survived a gruelling free-for-all down Brockville way. Suddenly the aches and pains departed. His eyes bulged out of his head so far that you could have hung a mail-bag on them. Then regained his composure. He looked at his hand again. He held thirteen hearts.

• • •

He smiled inwardly. "For weeks," he gloated, "the little lady has been giving me old beano playing bridge. Now is the hour. I'm going to give her the bridgework."

Eddie looked up awaiting the bid. He noticed a strange look on Mrs. Schreider's face. "There's something wrong here," she said, "I've got all clubs."

Across the table Ken, the McNaught was staring at his hand. Mrs. McNaught, a look of amazement on her face was doing likewise. Yep you guessed it. One had all diamonds and the other all spades.

The bridge game broke up there and then. Five minutes later when Eddie came to, he dashed for the telephone. He had to tell someone about it. He called a friend.

"Go to bed, Ed, you're tight," was the friend's comment as he hung up the receiver.

He called another pal.

"Oh yeah, you're not over Brockville yet, chum," said that worthy. "You're punch-drunk."

It is the first time, as far as we can gather that the perfect hand has been held in Belleville or the province, and probably in the Dominion. You see such hands as this are) rare. Frank Menke's Encyclopedia of Sports says the odds of holding a perfect bridge hand are 158,753,389,900 to one against. Don't believe it? Well, you figure it out. Personally we'll take Menke's word for it.

And speaking of cards and hands, Leuben the famous German who went insane, wagered he could turn up a shuffled pack in a certain order. He turned cards 10 hours daily for 20 years, or 4,246,028 times before he accomplished the feat. No wonder he went wacky.

• • •

Unprecedented, perhaps, in the annals of Senior "B" hockey hereabouts is that one-sided lop-sided affair here last night between the CNR Diesels and the Kingston Aces. As youse guys and gals know the score was 33-2. That is not hockey. True, the Kingston kids, knowing they were well-beaten, did not throw in the sponge, but battled the issue until the piccolos sounded "Retreat." They are a grand bunch of hockey players. They did a swell job here last night. Hopelessly beaten after 13-1 first period, they battled their way to the finish and by the fantastical score finally acknowledged defeat. We here in Belleville should take off our collective hats to a grand bunch of kids wearing the uniform of the Kingston Pattons. They appeared to us to be a hockey-fired team that did not give a darn come heck or high water. It's too bad that their home town does not give them the credit that is due them.

But on the other hand, the rampaging Diesels are still flying high, and no sickly sentiment is going to bar them from winning again. They won their sixth or is it seventh at the expense of an outside team—so why worry? But a moment.

• • •

Perhaps next Friday night may be a different thing. True the Kingston Nylons have strengthened by the acquisition of Walt Gerow, Jr. So what? The Diesels clash with the Nylon lads but as far as we are concerned no one is worrying but the Nylons. Let it go at that. Nostalgic perhaps, aren't we all?

RECORD ATTENDANCE

Kitchener, Feb. 15 (CP)— A record of 46,483 paying customers clicked the turnstiles to watch their Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen play 20 home games on the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A schedule, it was announced Monday night. It was 14,000 more than last season.

Best drawing card was Toronto Marlboros, who attracted 12,249 fans in five appearances. Hamilton Tigers drew 12,224, Owen Sound Mercurys 11,863 and the last-place Stratford Indians, 10,227.

Satchel Paige Signs Contract With Cleveland

By The Canadian Press

Leroy (Satchel) Paige, the legendary Negro pitcher, nonchalantly announced Monday at Kansas City he had signed "a pretty good contract" with Cleveland Indians for 1949.

Satch admitted he had received a little hike in pay—he wouldn't say how much—over last year when the Indians were reported to have paid him about $15,000.

Satch, somewhere in his mid-40s, joined the Indians in mid-season last year after playing for years with the Kansas City Monarchs. He won six out of seven for Cleveland and saved four as a relief hurler.

Maurice (Moe) Walsh of the Cape Breton Senior Hockey League refereeing staff Monday was convicted in court at North Sydney, N.S., on a charge of common assault and fined $5 and costs.

The charge was laid by Angus J. MacKeigan, Sydney Mines hockey fan, who claimed that Walsh assaulted him during last Wednesday night's game at North Sydney.

A second charge of assault entered against Walsh by another Sydney Mines fan was withdrawn.

Sid Smith of Pittsburgh Hornets piled up eight points last week to take over the leadership of the American Hockey League's scoring race from Carl Liscombe of Providence Reds, it was announced at New York Monday night. Smith has 81 points to the 79 compiled by Liscombe. However, Liscombe retained his goal scoring lead with 45 goals to Smith's 44.

Johny Chad with 77 points, Roger Bedard with 72 and Harvey Fraser with 74 followed the leaders to give Providence four of the first five placings. Bedard leads in assists with 53.

Coach Sammy Pollock of Montreal Canadiens of the Junior Amateur Hockey Association Monday was suspended until March 1 by League President Alphonse Therrien for withdrawing his team before the end of a game with Montreal Nationalists, Feb. 8. Pollock withdrew his players to protest major penalties to two of his players. Referee Tommy Shore awarded the game to Nationales in default.

At Coldwater, Ont., Barrie Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League Monday night downed Orillia Silver Bombers of the O.H.A. Senior B loop 12-9 in an exhibition benefit game arranged by the Coldwater Lions Club.

Coaltown ran in an inconspicuous overnight race at Miami's Hialeah track Monday and Calumet Flyer knocked 3-5ths of a second off the track record and equalled the world's record for the mile and a furlong. The marks won't go into the racing record books.

Coupled with Free America as a Calumet Farm entry, Coaltown covered the 1 1-8-mile route in 1:47 5-5—3-5ths of a second better than Hialeah's track record shared by Brevity and Stagehand and equal to the world mark set by Indian Broom in 1936 and later equalled by Shannon 2nd.

At Chicago, White Sox officials said Monday night that the club has made an offer of cash and players to Philadelphia for hurler Phil Marchildon of Penetanguishene, Ont. Details were not revealed.

At New York, four men pleaded guilty Monday to charges that they tried to "fix" a college basketball game by offering a player $1,000 to see that his team lost by at least 18 points. Pleading guilty to bribery and conspiracy charges were Joseph Aronowitz, 35, Phillip Klein, 34, and Jack Levy, 40. The fourth man, William Rivlin, 43, pleaded guilty to conspiracy.

Paris, Feb. 15 — (AP) — The three - day world figure skating championships open here tomorrow with 53 skaters from 11 countries competing.

Two new champions are sure to be crowned since the present title - holders in the women's and pairs divisions will not defend their titles. Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa, who won the women's title last year, has since turned professional.

Dick Button of Englewood, N.J., is an overwhelming favorite to retain the men's crown he won last year at Davos, Switzerland.

The contest for the women's title may be a repeat of the European championships at Milan, Italy, in January. Austria's Eva Pawlik, winner of the European crown, is favored to take the world title.

However, Czechoslovakia's Alena Vrzanova, runner-up in the European meet, is expected to give the Austrian girl strong competition.

Edi Rada of Austria and Ede Kiraly of Hungary are the stoutest contenders for Button's title. Rada won the European title and Kiraly finished second at Milan.

The pairs championship looms as a close battle between Pete and Karol Kennedy of the United States and Hungary's Ede Kiraly and Andrea Kekesy. The Kennedys hold the American senior crown and Kiraley - Kekesy the European title.

Montreal Feb. 15 (CP)— The recent sitdown strike of Dick Irvin's Montreal Canadiens in Detroit brought back memories of another famous National Hockey League sitdown to Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll.

Oldtime hockey fans will probably remember the famous incident in Boston some years ago when Tommy Gorman was the coach of the Chicago Black Hawks in the days of Boston's great defenceman Eddie Shore.

Gorman, unlike Irvin, actually ended a game with his strike.

The Hawks had a comfortable 2-0 lead with five minutes left. Then Shore fired a shot which was deflected into the net.

Art Ross, the Bruin mastermind, pulled out his goalie and put on an extra forward. This combination brought the tying goal. The alert Gorman, however, noted that one time clock in the Boston Garden was at 20 while the other was four seconds past the 20 minute mark.

Gorman's protests were unheeded, however, and referee Bill Stewart insisted on 10 minutes overtime.

After three minutes of play, Shore led a ganging attack that produced a disputed goal. Gorman blew his top completely then, and yanked his team off the ice. The official verdict gave Boston the game by default — with the score standing at 1-0.

So Dick Irvin was not the first to introduce the sitdown strike to hockey, though there was some indication that he might have revived the move, says Dink. Recently Happy Emms led his Barrie juniors off the ice in a game against Windsor Spitfires. He was persuaded to put them on again when warned he might face expulsion from the Ontario Hockey Association if he made a habit of this behavior.

90-Mile Grind For Dog Teams Starts at Ottawa

Ottawa, Feb. 15 (CP)—Nearly 100 yapping and howling dogs, from Siberian Huskies to a few unknown breed, lined up on the banks of the Rideau Canal today for start of Ottawa's first international dog derby in 18 years. A $1,000 pot of gold awaits the winning driver in the 90-mile grind, run in three 30-mile heats and spread over three days.

Starting time of the race, highlight of the week-long winter carnival sponsored by the Junior Board of Trade, is at midday and smack in the downtown area.

The derby has attracted 10 sled dog drivers—eight from the United States including attractive Mrs. Louise Lombard of Auburndale-Mass., and her husband, Dr. Roland Lombard —and two from Canada. The Canadians are Cecil McCooeye of Ottawa and Wilf Lepine of Quebec City.

Winner of the race is decided on the best total elapsed time. In addition to the $1,000 first prize and the Chateau Laurier Challenge trophy, sponsors have offered $500 as second place money, $250 for third and $150 for fourth. A $100 cash award goes to the team judged to be in the best physical condition on completion of the three heats.

A 29-point list of rules and regulations covers all phases of the race. Whips of less than three feet long may be used "only in case of fights among the dogs, and anyone caught abusing the dogs in any way will be disqualified.

No pacing of the teams will be allowed and "no stimulants may be given during the race."

Leonard Seppala, 72-year-old sourdough from Alaska who is considered one of the greatest "mushers" of all time, is chief judge of the race. He has won practically every race worthwhile in Alaska the last 30 or 40 years and looks on this derby as a "cinch" compared to the early Alaska days when he competed in 408-mile Nome-to-Candle and return races.

POWELL CONTINUES TO LEAD

Minneapolis, Feb. 15 — (AP)—Ray Powell of Kansas City continues to set the scoring pace in the United States Hockey League with 87 points, 41 of them for his leadership in netting goals.

His nearest competitor, Wes Trainor of St. Paul, is 19 points behind with 68 counters. Trainor, however, is at the top of the assist roster with 49.

Flying Dutchmen, Marlboros Win Playoff Games

(By The Canadian Press)

The two strongest teams in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" league gave indications last night that the league's playoff picture won't be far different from the situation during the regular schedule.

In their first semi-final games, Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen, who finished the schedule atop the five-team league, took a 6-3 decision from Hamilton Tigers, who ended in third place. Second-place Toronto Marlboros earned a 5-3 overtime score against Owen Sound Mercurys, who finished fourth.

Anything can happen, of course, before the best-of-seven semi-finals are finished. But barring injuries or drastic reversals in form, the Dukes will likely have the dubious honor of facing the potent Dutchmen in the loop finals.

Nothing unexpected happened in the only Junior "A" game played last night as the league-leading Windsor Spitfires turned on a six-goal scoring display in the third period at Stratford to trounce the third-place Kroehlers, 8-4.

Although Kitchener led all the way against Hamilton, the doughty Tigers made them fight all the way before the Dutchmen were able to hang up their 15th straight triumph. The defeat broke Hamilton's seven-game victory streak. The game, rough throughout, was capped with a mix-up in the final period, with Harvey Jacklin of Kitchener and Bobby Laurent of Tigers drawing major penalties.

Led Two Periods

Marksmen for the Flying Dutchmen were Billy Flick, Bill Curick, Dick Behling, Ted Grasser, Don Bauer and Mike Dzuira while Hamilton's goals were scored by Johnny Conick, Clare Shillington and Hal Cooper.

Owen Sound led Marlboros for two periods before the Dukes scored two unanswered goals in the third period to send the game into 3-3 overtime. Two more goals were scored by Johnny McLellan and Bill Johnson in the overtime period.

Johnny McCormack, Scotty Mair and Ray Hannigan tallied Toronto's other goals, with Al Forslund, Tommy Burlington and Mike Shabaga netting the owen Sound markers.

In the junior game, Stratford held a one-goal lead going into the second period against Windsor, held Spitfires to a 2-2 tie at the stanza's end, and faded as the visitors outscored them 6-2 in the final period.

Bert Geisebrecht and Bob Rawlyk tallied two goals each for Windsor and Marcel Pronovost, Bruce Giesebrecht, Jim Maxwell and Gerry Lavergne added the rest. Stratford goals were by Bibber O'Hearn, Billy Mitchell, Dinny Flanagan and Danny Lewicki.

Two Junior "A" games are listed for tonight, Galt travelling to Toronto to play Marlboros and Guelph visiting St. Catharines.

In the semi-final, Ronnie Muir of Toronto won a split decision over Gil Slater of Niagara Falls, Ont., in five rounds of a 112-pound match. At 100 pounds Richard Bouisson, Toronto A.C., won a three-round decision over Herman Zander, Toronto.

Kitchener Sees Hockey Title For Dutchmen

Toronto, Feb. 15 — (CP)—It's 31 years since a Kitchener club has won the Canadian senior hockey title. And hometown fans are pinning their hopes for an Allan Cup on their upsurging Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen in the Ontario Hockey Association.

The Dutchmen pulled as upset during their regular schedule by finishing first in the five - team loop, four points ahead of Toronto Marlboros. Kitchener ended the season with 56 points consisting of 27 wins and 11 losses.

Last night the Dutchmen, won the first game of the best - of - seven semi - final games against the veteran Hamilton Tigers, 6-3. And if everything goes according to form they can thank their dark wavy - haired netminder Marcel Pelletier and their unprecedented player - cash deal in mid-December.

Pelletier finished off the regular schedule last Friday by taking the Turofsky Trophy for the best goal tending average. He had an average of 2.70 goals a game while the Marlboros' pudgy Howie Harvey came second with an average of 2.74. Harvey played a big part in Marlboros' 5-3 victory over Owen Sound in the first game of their semi-final series.

The Dutchmen picked up real power when they shelled out four players and $5,000 cash to Stratford Indians in return for high-scoring Mickey Roth and Billy Flick. To date both have proved they may be worth every cent of it. Roth finished sixth in the individual scoring parade and Flick has done almost as well.

Conick Top Scorer

Although Tigers may not get past the Dutchmen, they at least have the individual scoring ace. Johnny Conick finished in top with a total of 33 goals and 39 assists for a total of 72 points.

In the junior 'A' division, Windsor Spitfires appear to have everything well in hand. The Spitfires are currently leading the second - place Barrie Flyers by 11 points with only a week left in the regular schedule.

In third place are Stratford Kroehlers who enjoy a one-point margin over the fourth - place Oshawa Generals with 52. St. Catharines Teepees are in fifth-place, Guelph Biltmores in sixth and Toronto Marlboros in seventh. Toronto St. Michael's College Majors and Galt Rockets draw up seventh and last place respectively.

Big Bert Giesebrecht still has a slim margin over brother Bruce in the individual scoring race. Bert has 84 points — consisting of 40 goals and 44 assists while Bruce has 81 points — made up of 37 goals and 44 assists. In third place is Red Sullivan of St. Catharines Teepees with 78 points, 45 goals and 33 assists.

Chicago Hawks Appear to Have Scoring Leader

Montreal, Feb. 15 (CP)—Chicago Black Hawks are in 5 place in the National Hockey League standing but there's every indication that one of their fleet forwards will annex the scoring title this season.

Left-wing Roy Conacher and centre Doug Bentley moved farther out in front of the pack last week to take a commanding lead over the other sharpshooters in the league.

Conacher added six points during the week to move into a tie with linemate Bentley. Each has 55 points —and that's just 13 better than any other player. Last week Bentley had a two point edge over his colleague.

Detroit's Sid Abel, while holding down third place, managed to pick up only two points to bring his count to 42, made up of 20 goals and 22 assists.

Conacher has 21 goals and 34 assists. Bentley has 19 goals and 36 assists. The third member of their potent line, right wing Bill Mosienko, is tied for eighth place with Ted Lindsay of Detroit.

Billy Reay of Montreal is in fourth place with 38 points four behind Abel. Chicago's Jim Conacher, Bud Poile of Detroit and Gus Bodnar of Chicago, with 37 points are tied for fifth while Lindsay and Mosienko have 36 apiece.

Maurice Richard, who so far has counted 33 points offensively for Canadiens, stepped up into second place in the bad man division behind Toronto's Bill Ezinicki. The Rocket has spent 98 minutes in the penalty box and Ezinicki 122.

Ross Tarlton Tries for Repeat In Royal York

Toronto, Feb. 15 (CP)— With two games apiece under their belts, the 500-odd curlers competing in the 22nd annual Ontario Bonspiel begin to sort themselves out today.

Two rounds of Royal York Trophy play and the first round of the Birks-Ellis Ryrie Trophy were completed during first day Monday. The 126 starting rinks for the principal Royal York Trophy have been cut to 32 and one more round will be played today. Further play is schedpled for the Birks and Seiberling Trophies.

Only three draws are planned for today, compared to Monday's six. The bonspiel's annual banquet will be held tonight.

Many eyes today will be on Ross Tarlton's quartet from Hamilton Thistles. Tarlton is trying for a repeat of his 1947 Royal York Trophy win. Last year's winner, C. Asmussen of Kitchener, is not on hand this year.

"Tarlton is unbeatable this season," one observer said Monday. "He has a different team this year, but that doesn't seem to make much difference."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Home from their honeymoon, the bride and groom attended their first bridge party. "Will you be my partner" asked he. "Never," she replied. And they lived happily ever after.

Bridge partners will get along happily only if they know when to raise. And when to raise again. Each increase promises another trick. Only thus do they know how high a contract to reach.

Came this deal:

NORTH
♠7 4 3
♥K Q 6 4 3
♦Q 7
♣2 7 6

WEST
♠5 2
♥A 5 2
♦10 9 6
♣Q J 9 5 4

EAST
♠K J 9
♥9 8 7
♦K J 8 5 2

SOUTH
♠A Q 10 8 6
♥J 10
♦A 4 3
♣A K 10

The bidding goes like this:

South	North
1 S	2 H
2 S	3 S
4 S	Pass

The south opening promised five tricks. His raise to four over three spades shows a sixth trick. He has that many; five high cards (aces, kings, queens) and a short in hearts.

Before heard from, responder is assumed to have two tricks. His increase of two hearts over one spade consumes a third trick. Three over two spades is a raise that shows his fourth trick.

Dost have trouble with knowing how many raises your hand will stand? Then dust off your antiquated system. Learn the foundation for your first bid. Each raise shows another trick.

Not always will a contract make easily. The number of expected tricks may not come in soon enough. Or some unusual division may be a stumbling block. But the tricks are there somewhere.

On many occasions a very careful line of play must be mapped out. As here when west started out with an opening lead of the club queen. With so many seeming losers, take what you need.

A player tries to read a plan that may succeed.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 15 (AP)—Jimmy Durante and Buster Keaton are talking the possibility of a screen re-teaming.

The two comics were paired in M.G.M. films in the early days of talkies. Jimmy hasn't done a picture in a year and is eager to work again.

The Keaton-Durante combination is just a dream at present, but it's something for M.G.M. to consider. The public seems to be hot for comedy these days. Bob Hope tells me that "The Paleface" is drawing 50 per cent more business than "Road to Rio" in some places. That's big coin.

Peoples and Things

William Holden is goiny to be busy again this year. Finishing "Dear Wife", he goes right to Columbia for "Miss Grant Takes Richmond" with Lucille Ball. Then back to Paramount for a western, "Beyond the Sunset."

Paul Henreid returned to his own company for "The Runaway" after "Rope of Sand." Paul will be in the picture, too.

Frank Loesser, who had two simultaneous hits with "Slow Boat to China" and "My Darling", wrote the songs for 'Red, Hot and Blue" and also plays a gangster. The script calls for him to be slugged by both Betty Hutton and Vic Mature. That could be the stars' revenge.

Pictures and Plays

Paulette Goddard says she can't afford to make any more pictures this year because of taxes. But it looks as though she'll have to. She must make 12 pictures in the next five years for Paramount.

Yvonne De Carlo tried out in New York for the musical version of "The Little Foxes" and wants to do the show.

This year's academy nominations may make the studios change their tunes. In recent years, they have piled their best pictures into the local theatres at Christmas, so academy members will have the films fresh in their minds when voting comes.

Little Benny's Note Book

I been practicing walking around on my new rubber sneekers like a invisible man without making any sund, and I snuck up in back of Sid Hunt and Glasses Magee while they were walking along, thinking, Oh boy, I'll hear everything they're talking about and they wont have any idea I'm anywheres around.

And I got rite up in back of them on my sneekers, and Sid Hunt said, Hay Glasses, have you seen anything of Benny Potts lately?

No I haven't and the sooner I see him the less I'll injy it, Glasses said, and Sid said, That's the same way I feel. Believe me if that guy dissapeared forever, he still wouldn't be too far away to suit me, he said.

Me thinking, Heck, they're just pertending. They knew I was in back of them all a time, I thawt, and Sid Hunt said, That darn guy Benny Potts sneeks around snooping into everybody's bizzness.

Sure, that's all he does, just sneeks and snoops like a Russian spy behind a iron curtain, he's a pane in the neck and I wouldn't care if he heard me say so, Glasses said.

Me thinking. Heck, I'm not even going to give them the sad-disfaction of letting on I heard a thing they been saying. And I said, High, fellows, I just got here. What's you been talking about? I said.

Who us? Sid said. We haven't been talking, we been practicing deff and dumb with our fingers, he said.

Which they stearted to pretend to do, wgeling their fingers at each other and pointing at me and laffing like anything as if they were talking in deff and dumb about me.

Making me feel werse instead of better ann proving the important part about a trick is who's playing it on who.

ANCIENT COLONY TO BE CANADA'S TENTH PROVINCE

Since Discovery by John Cabot Newfoundland's History Has Been Story of Sea

By DAVE McINTOSH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

St. John's, Nfld., Feb. 15 (CP)—The history of Newfoundland, Britain's senior colony and soon to become Canada's junior province, is for the most part a story of the sea. Early voyagers from Europe four centuries ago reported on the island's "multitude of fish" and Newfoundland still makes its living mostly from salt cod.

John Cabot appears to have made the first landfall in Newfoundland in 1497, though Cape Bretoners still dispute this. By the middle of the 16th century there were as many as 400 English, French and Spanish vessels fishing her banks.

Sir Humphrey Gilbert, carrying the letters patent that seemed to be part of an explorer's standard equipment in those days, claimen the island for Queen Elizabeth in 1583. But it was not until well into the next century that James I distributed a brochure "for the encouragement of adventures unto plantation there."

By 1650, there were about 2,000 persons living in some 15 settlements along the Newfoundland east coast. There was also a floating population of several thousand that lurched across the Atlantic in their tiny ships to fish during the summer.

The fish caught were salted and dried on shore and when winter came on the fishermen re-embarked for England carrying the fish with them. There, fish merchants knew when they had a good thing and enlisted the government to prohibit settlement within six miles of the shore. In this way the shipowners and merchants kept exclusive use of coves and harbors and set up a fishing monopoly that would have broken every clause in present-day anti-trust laws.

Thus Newfoundland came to be ruled by what were known as the "fishing admirals."

Thinges went along like this for more than a century and the wars between the French and English didn't improve matters. The French harassed the few settlements for decades until the Treaty of Utrecht in 1713 helped to put a stop to it.

First Governer

In 1728 Capt. Henry Osborne was appointed first governor and by 1763 the population had increased to 8,000 hardy souls who clung to the land and exchanged swipes with the fishing admirals. In 1763 the Labrador—Newfoundlanders still refer to their dependency as "the Labrador"—was attached to Newfoundland.

Things looked up considerably after the French Revolution and in 1832 Newfoundland was granted representative government. She got responsible government in 1855.

There was almost interminable wrangling between the French and English over fishing rights in Newfoundland. Newfoundlanders built a number of factories in an area where the French were supposed to have exclusive rights. In 1890 the British foreign office, acting under a statute passed in the time of George III, ordered that these factories should be destroyed.

After the British navy carried this out, with a great and understandable hue and cry from Newfoundlanders, it was found that the statute had expired in 1832. A James Baird sued a British naval officer for $5,000 for this oversight and collected.

The "French store" question was finally settled in 1904 by a bit of horse-trading. The French quit Newfoundland for good and in return got some cash, a portion of the Sahara Desert near Lake Chad and a couple of islands here and there.

Newfoundland and the United States then began haggling over fishing rights. It took the Hague Tribunal to settle that matter in 1910.

During this period there had been off-and-on talk about confederation with Canada. It came up as early as 1869, but a government that took union as its platform got nowhere.

Drafted at Quebec

Terms for entry of Newfoundland into the proposed union were drafted in 1864 at Quebec. Like Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland was not represented at Westminster in 1866 when the British North America Act, creating the Dominion of Canada, was drawn up. The B.N.A. Act, however, provided for the admission of the island should it later decide to enter confederation.

Faced by a rapidly approaching financial crisis, Newfoundland sent a delegation to Ottawa in 1895. The conference came to abrupt and bitter end when Canada said flatly it would not assume the island's $16,000,000 debt.

The "boom and collapse" trend after the First World War hit Newfoundland like every other country. By 1932 Newfoundland found it could not cope with the situation any longer and asked Britain for a royal commission.

The commission recommended that Britain assume financial responsibility for Newfoundland under a commission form of government until it could pay its own way again.

Government by seven-man commission took over in 1934 as hunger and unemployment riots swept the country. It ran into deficits, too, —until 1941 —when the war boom sent the financial tide ebbing out of the red columns into the black.

Newfoundland became—and still is—of strategic importance. The United States, Britain and Canada poured millions of dollars into bases there.

With her finances again in order, Newfoundland elected a national convention in 1946 to make recommendations regarding the island's future form of government. The convention, dissolved Jan. 31, 1948, recommended the electorate be given a choice between a return to responsible government or continued commission government. Later the United Kingdom decided to include confederation with Canada on the ballot.

In the referendum held June 3, 1948, commission government was turned down by the voters, but neither confederation with Canada nor responsible government won a clear majority. In a second referendum held July 22 to decide the issue 78,408 votes were polled for confederation with Canada against 71,464 for responsible government. It was the most momentous decision in Newfoundland's history.

Michigan Restores Colored Margarine

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 15 (AP)—After a ban of 48 years, the sale of colored oleomargarine is going to be legal again in Michigan.

The validation will be the first act initiated by the people in Michigan's 112 years of statehood.

By a 21-7 vote the state senate Monday night approved repeal of the old law.

The validation becomes effective 90 days after the current legislature adjourns.

HIGH PRICE FOR DEBENTURE

Brantford, Feb. 15 (CP)— The highest price ever received by the city of Brantford for a debenture issue will be paid by Harrison and Company Ltd., of Toronto.

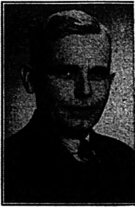
The city council Monday night accepted their tender of $100.527 per $100 for $293,400 worth of 20-year instalment debentures at three percent interest. Of this amount $233,400 will be allocated for the construction of two new schools and $60,000 for the rehabilitation of the baseball enclosure in Agricultural Park.

The two schools are now under construction in the Lansdowne section and in Eagle Place.

Lomas Appointed Vice-Pres. CNR Central Region

Montreal, Feb. 15 — The appointment of A. J. Lomas as vice-president of the Canadian National Railways' Central Region, with headquarters at Toronto, was announced here today by N. B. Walton, C.B.E., executive vice-president of the System. Formerly general manager of the Central Region, Mr. Lomas succeeds the late J. F. Pringle whose death occurred recently.

Born at Spondon, England, in 1888, Alfred Jackson Lomas is another of the officers of the Canadian National who has risen through the ranks to his present office. He started his railway career at Lake Joseph, Ont., as a baggageman with the Canadian Northern, now part of the Canadian National System, and subsequently worked in various capacities at Sudbury, Toronto and Key Harbor until September, 1914, when he was made chief clerk in the Transportation Department at Trenton, Ont.



A.J. LOMAS

From that time, he served at Rosedale, Capreol, Key Harbor and Gravenhurst as chief clerk, yard agent, pitmaster, agent, yardmaster and fuel supervisor until September 11, 1930, when he was appointed assistant superintendent at Hornepayne. He held a similar position at Capreol in 1937.

In January, 1940, he became superintendent of the Capreol Division and two years later moved to Toronto as superintendent of terminals. Montreal became his headquarters on July 1, 1944; when he took over the position of general superintendent of the Montreal District and from there he returned to Toronto as general manager of the Central Region.

Young Toronto Pianist Praised In New York

New York Feb. 15 (CP)—Critics from the New York Times and Herald Tribune today praised the work of Joan Rowland, 18-year-old Toronto pianist, who made her New York Debut at Times Hall last night.

Miss Rowland who made her first major concert appearance when she played with the Toronto Symphony at the age of 11, chose for her program the entire 24 preludes of Chopin's Opus 28, a selection of Bach, Prokofieff's Sonata in D minor and Liszt's No. 10 rhapsodie.

The Times critic said the youthful pianist "proved to have a definite flair for the keyboard and her unaffected manner charmed the audience." However, "her musicianship is still quite a long way behind her digital dexterity."

Three Men Escape, Car Drops 20 Feet

Amherstburg, Ont., Feb. 15 —(CP)— Three Harrow, Ont., men narrowly escaped injury today when the automobile in which they were riding on No. 18 Highway dropped 20 feet to the bank of the Detroit River.

C.E. Shaver, 27, driver of the car, said he was driving in the fog about one-half mile south of Amherstburg when his right front wheel went off the pavement onto the soft shoulder.

The car travelled for some distance in the soft mud, then plunged 20 feet to the water's edge.

PC Government Twice Supported In Division

Toronto, Feb. 15 (CP)— The Ontario legislature resumes the Throne Speech debate today after a lively sitting yesterday in which the Progressive Conservative government was twice supported in a division.

Premier Kennedy and C.C.F. leader E.B. Jolliffe leader of the opposition, today will speak in the Throne Speech debate.

The Speech, read last Thursday at opening ceremonies, was one of the shortest in years and forecast a government fiscal policy of consolidation and retrenchment in the face of the danger of "over-expansion."

A reply to the Throne Speech was moved Friday by Maj. J.W. Foote (PC-Durham) and seconded by Allister Johnston (PC-Parry Sound).

The House voted 60 to 22 yesterday to support a ruling by speaker Rev. M.C. Davies of Walkerville.

W. J. Grummett (CCF-Cochrane South) appealed a ruling of the speaker that Premier Kennedy was in order in giving precedence to a government resolution to refer charges of irregularity in the election last June of Education Minister Porter to a select committee on privileges and elections. Mr. Grummett had a similar resolution on the order paper and sought to have it considered first. The C.C.F. were supported by the two Labor-Progressive members.

Moved Amendment

Mr. Grummett then moved an amendment to the Premier's motion to give the committee authority to examine under oath certain persons concerned with the St. George by-election but not responsible under the Elections Act. He declined to accept assurances of Attorney General Blackwell that the committee already had such authority under legislature rules.

In the second division of the day, the amendment was defeated 53 to 32. Ten Liberal and two L.P.P. members supported the C.C.F. Three Liberal Members—H. W. Walker (Welland), G.T. Gordon (Brantford), and E. B. McMillan (Kent East) — voted with the government in opposing the amendment. The original motion was carried without division.

The C.C.F. has stated there is reason to believe some 1,400 votes were improperly added to Mr. Porter's total. He defeated C.C.F. candidate Frank T. Frier by 4,764 votes.

Both the C.C.F. and the government had given notice of a motion to refer the alleged irregularities last June to the committee

William Dennison (C.C.F.-St. David) speaking to the amendment, charged a "crime" had been committed by the person who allegedly altered the figures purporting to be the St. George election returns.

Mr. Blackwell charged the C.C.F. member was abusing his privilege as a member of the legislature in making statements, which if made outside the legislature, and if the person accused libel. He described Mr. Dennison's remarks as a "cowardly attack." Mr. Blackwell declined to withdraw the remark.

True Bill is Returned In Manslaughter Case

Peterborough, Feb. 15 (CP) — Harley L. Overholt of Omemee will stand trial on a charge of manslaughter at the current sitting of the supreme court. A true bill was returned against him by a grand jury Monday on charges arising from the death of a 26-year-old trucker, Edwin Morrow of Peterborough, on Christmas Eve. Morrow was killed in a collision between his truck and Overholt's car.

Bank of Canada Report Reviews Prosperous Year

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Director

Ottawa, Feb. 14 (CP)— Canada had much less money for debt retirement in 1948 than in 1947, it is stated in the annual report of the Bank of Canada.

This was mostly because her trade and foreign exchange situation was in better shape and she had to tie up more money in these.

Budgetary surplusses were big in both calendar years, $751,000,000 in 1947 and $640,000,000 in 1948.

In 1947, however, what are called non-budgetary items increased the over-all surplus available for domestic debt retirement to $963,000,000 while in 1948 they decreased it to $205,000,000.

Non-budgetary items consist of post-war loans to foreign governments, loans to the Foreign Exchange Control Board, and some other items.

Foreign Exchange

In 1947 for instance, the Exchange Board was running out of foreign exchange money so fast that it didn't need so many Canadian dollars to cover its holdings, and so was able to pay the government back on its loans. In 1948 its foreign exchange money built up and so it had to borrow more from the government.

It's somewhat like taking money from one pocket and putting it into another, but it ties it up from being used for other purposes.

Here are the 1948 figures:

Budgetary items: Ordinary revenue $2,585,000,000; special revenue $183,000,000; budgetary expenditure $2,128,000,000; leaving budgetary surplus of $640,000,000.

Non-budgetary items: Post-war loans to foreign governments $132,000,000; loans to foreign exchange control board, $370,000,000; both subtracting from the money available for other purposes; while further items produced an addition of $67,000,000.

Surplus for Year

When Finance Minister Abbott brings down his budget speech he will report on the surplus for the fiscal year ending March 31. His last fiscal year surplus was $673,000,000 but government circles doubt that the next one will be above $500,000,000.

The report submitted by Graham F. Towers, governor, to Finance Minister Abbott, and released today is in the main a review of the prosperous year 1948 in Canadian Trade and Finance, and of conditions in the United States, Britain and Europe.

The Bank's own profit and loss account shows a profit for the year, after making provisions for contingencies and reserves, of $19,332,147, most of which is transferred to the country's Consolidated Revenue Fund.

It notes that the rate at which chartered banks have been increasing their loans and non-government investments slowed down in 1948, increasing by $257,000,000 against an increase of $777,000,000 in 1947 about $35,000,000 of the 1948 loans was to finance larger grain stocks.

Legal Storage of Game Birds Ends March 31

Ottawa.—The attention of Canadian sportsmen who were successful in obtaining ducks or geese by legal hunting last Fall is drawn to the requirements of Section 10 of the Migratory Bird Regulations. This Section, headed 'Possession in Close Season", governs the time limit for keeping legally-killed birds after the end of the open season. The time limit varies in different parts of the country.

In Ontario, it is illegal to have migratory game birds in one's possession (whether in one's own home, in a cold storage locker, or elsewhere) after March 31.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who are charged with enforcement of the Migratory Bird Regulation, are empowered to examine cold storage lockers in which they suspect that migratory birds are unlawfully kept and to seize migratory game birds found in these lockers after the expiration of the time limit for possession. Owners of such birds are liable to prosecution. During 1948 a number of locker-owners throughout Canada were prosecuted for illegal possession of migratory game birds, the birds were confiscated, and substantial fines were imposed.

Many Forget

In many of these cases the owners of the birds claimed that they had forgotten that they still had some of their bag of ducks and geese in cold storage. The realization that they had broken the law appeared to come as an unpleasant surprise to nearly all of the locker-owners prosecuted.

Sportsmen who put any of their waterfowl into cold storage last Fall will therefore be well advised to check up on the contents of their lockers, and to make sure that before the closing date for possession any wild ducks or geese have fulfilled their destiny by way of the oven and the table.

Fellowship Conference Will be Held Feb. 17

Under the auspices of the United Church of Canada a Fellowship Conference is to be held in Tabernacle United Church February 17th., afternoon and evening.

DR. R. C. CHALMERS

The fellowship conference while of particular interest to United Church members will no doubt be of general interest to scores of persons who belong to other communions, who will be most cordially welcomed if they care to attend. Dr. R. C. Chalmers of Toronto, Associate Secretary of Social Service and Evangelism, will give an address at each session which will be followed by a period of discussion.

BOYS GET LARGE PIKE

Kirkland Lake, Feb. 15 (CP)—Thirteen-year-old Bill Clifford had to have help to land the 17-pound pike he caught while fishing through the ice at a nearby lake. Three other boys helped him haul out the big fish which succumbed to smelt dangled on a 29-cent line.

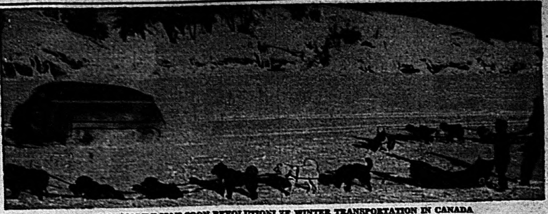
RECUERS SEARCH WRECKAGE OF PLANE WHICH CRASHED NEAR GOGAMA, ONT.

His feet smashed in a plane crash, Bob Milligan, bush pilot, built a toboggan from wreckage, loaded it with supplies and pulled it to shore after lying unconscious for hours in 18 below zero weather on Peter Long Lake near Gogama, Ont. Then he walked half a mile through bush and deep snow to a rescue plane. Two Indian trappers, passengers, were killed. This photo shows rescuers searching the wreckage. Jack Fair, chief engineer for Sudbury Airways, who piloted the rescue plane said it was miraculous that anyone survived.—Central Press Canadian.



SNOWMOBILE MAY SOON REVOLUTIONI ZE WINTER TRANSPORTATION IN CANADA

A brand new type of snowmobile, "half auto, half tractor, with a blood transfusion from a dog team," may soon revolutionize winter transportation throughout Canada and the Arctic. Designed by a Canadian concern for hunters, trappers and other northern dwellers, the "mobarder," as it is called, threatens to put the dog team into the "horse and buggy" stage. Shown in northern Manitoba passing a couple of trappers as if they were standing still, the "bombardier" can go anywhere on snow or ice at a mile a minute clip and can plow through any snow drift. It is powered by a regular automobile motor in the rear, its six rubber tires run on a highly flexible tractor-track, and the steering is done through two skis in front.—Central Press Canadian.

Whisper In The Night

BY MARIE BLIZARD

"But, Angela, when Cecil is in the diplomatic service, wherever you are, you'll be important socially and meet the right continental people." Heaven only knew, Rosalie thought with considerable amusement, where she's ever pick up that knowledge.

Angela regarded her with respect. "Rosalie! That's an idea!"

Then swiftly her hope fled from her face. "Cecil is saving money for his course but he makes so little. He'll never get it. In two years, mother'll break me down. I can't stand this present situation. Anything would be better. And, you see, Tubby is always around. We came here because he's here mostly. Mother pretends she adores Bermuda . . . all because Tubby adores fishing here."

"Just a moment, Angela. Suppose Cecil had his . . . his four hundred pounds in a lump sum right now? And could get right off to the diplomatic school?"

Angela reached for Rosalie's hand. "Has he?"

Rosalie nodded. It wasn't quite true. But it would be.

Angela's face broge up for an instant. "Oh, Rosalie, how marvelous! When did he tell you?"

Rosalie passed that up. She said, "Now, I think before we work on mother, we'd better dispose of Tubby. Mother may not be impressed as yet by the diplomatic service."

"I don't expect she will be."

"But, Angela, if she were no longer impressed with Tubby, she might look with more favor on Cecil."

"Tubby's the darling of her eye at the moment."

Rosalie made a most expressive face. She said, "Angela, managing a hard-shelled old judge used to be my job before I won a sweepstake ticket and I hanker for excitement. If I set out to put on a little dramatic show, will you help me? Can you act?"

Angela got up, crossed the room and turned the key in the lock. "Try me," she said, "I'll do anything."

"Then, listen. This is my idea . . ."

Mrs. Rutherford turned the pages of a magazine idly, meanwhile regarding her daughter speculatively. Her glance returned to the page and she sighed. If only Angela would realize that she was a handsome girl, an heiress, and as such should listen to her mother's advice.

Angela drank her orange juice. She tucked Rosalie's note further under the lace cover of her breakfast tray.

Rosalie had written: — "The time is ripe to start." That was all. But to Angela, it had a wealth of meaning.

She had strolled away casually from Acacia House each day, to hurry as she neared her meeting with Rosalie. And once together, they had put their two heads together. It had been exciting to work with Rosalie — as if they were writing a play together. Angela coaching Rosalie in her lines, the things to say to Tubby. Rosalie telling Angela how to act and what to say to her mother.

And Cecil knowing nothing about it at all. Cecil, unable to control his happiness. It had been hard to get him to accept Rosalie's offer of the loan of the necessary four hundred pounds. But, between them, they had prevailed.

Angela said, "Mummy...?"

"Yes, darling."

"I'm wondering about Cecil."

Her mother's mouth set in a familiar way. Angela looked out the window. "You know, it doesn't seem quite fair to him. If . . . if he can't have me . . . and if he's fallen in love with Rosalie . . ."

Her gaze was still fixed on the window, but she was aware of the quick, pleased lifted gesture of her mother's head. Of a quickened interest. "What do you mean, Angela?"

"I mean about Rosalie and Tubby."

Sharply Mrs. Rutherford said, "Rosalie and Tubby! How ridiculous! It's as plain as can be that Rosalie is interested in Cecil. And, while I don't want to hurt you, Angela, it is equally plain that Cecil has more than a friendly interest in Rosalie."

"Rosalie was playing tennis at Tubby's yesterday. The day before she was fishing with him. And the day before that, Rosalie and Tubby were lunching together. Also, in case you hadn't noticed, the day before that, Tubby danced almost every dance with Rosalie at the Sunset Grill."

Mrs. Rutherford put her magazine down with some force. "How do you know?" she demanded.

Angela chewed a piece of bacon to give herself time to think of the right answer.

"When a girl is interested in a man, she has a way of knowing those things. I've been suspicious since the night of my party. I saw Tubby that night with her on the dock."

"Nonsense! It doesn't mean anything. You're jealous, darling."

Angela said, "Rosalie is a very attractive girl."

"Just a little nobody, actually."

"Why, mummy! You've treated her like a daughter. You told me, right before Cecil, that you thought she was a sweet child." Angela's acting was nicely done.

Mrs. Rutherford started to speak, closed her mouth and drew a breath before she answered — "She is, but I mean that Tubby wouldn't be interested in any one like that. She's never been anywhere. Heaven only knows what her background is. A man, my dear, when he marries, marries the kind of girl he can take into his own society."

Angela couldn't resist a taunt, "Like a plumber's daughter, mother?"

Mrs. Rutherford fixed a baleful glance on her daughter. "Angela Rutherford, your father was an inventor. And my father was a professor. Where you get your common streak . . ."

"Grandfather was a school teacher, darling, and what you call my common streak is my streak of honesty. Now if Cecil were to marry Rosalie, as you've been hoping . . ."

"It might be a good idea. Rosalie apparently has a great deal of money."

Angela's voice took on a speculative note. "But if we make very good friends with Rosalie, and Rosalie marries Tubby . . ."

"I must have a little talk with Rosalie," her mother said, more to herself than to Angela.

"I've asked her to dinner. You might send Raffray over with a little note asking her to come early. Then you two could have your little talk in privacy."

"I believe I'll do that."

"Okay, darling." Angela said, unable to keep some of the exhilaration out of her voice. So far, so good!

• • •

Tubby's bar was a thing of beauty. It was all chromium and shining glass. There was gold and silver fish swimming beneath its surface and bowls of bright flowers at either end.

Rosalie, in her white swim suit, perched on one of the tall blue leather stools watching her host shake cocktails. He was the only unbeautiful thing in the room. In a bathing suit, his soft figure emphasized the vacuity of his face. Rosalie smiled into it.

She said, "Tubby, you do everything beautifully, don't you?"

Tubby said he always tried to.

"And you decorated this whole house yourself?"

"You ought to see my apartment in New York."

"I hope to," she said, looking at him over the rim of her cocktail glass from which she intended to take no more than a sip. This one would go the way of the others—out the window when Tubby's back was turned. That gesture, she reflected, was like some she'd seen in the movies. In fact, her whole performance during the last five days had been creditably theatrical. Keeping Tubby at army's length while pretending to find him the most fascinating man she'd ever met had been a triumph in tactics.

Flattery was the keynote and Rosalie had given it to him by large doses.

He leaned across the bar now and took her free hand. "You're going to see it — and lots more of me, baby," he promised.

"I'm not so sure," she said. This was the moment to introduce the Hollywood idea that Angela had suggested. She hesitated. There was something much more important she wanted to prove today. If this was the night that she was going to have her little talk with Mrs. Rutherford, this was her last chance to get what Angela called "the dope."

"There's something I'll never understand," she said, shaking her head in a gesture of complete puzzlement.

"Ask Tubby."

"Why then get married. I mean attractive men like you who have everything they want and need. This beautiful house, and lots of girls anxious for dates with you, and . . . well, servants and all that."

Tubby had had several cocktails. He said, "I told you I was married once, didn't I?"

Sgt. J.A. Stringer Relates Incidents In Shooting Case to Royal Commission

One of the central figures in the double slaying at Navan, Ont., in June, 1940, when Constable H. Dent and a transient were killed, Sgt. J. A. Stringer, Ottawa, was called to the stand at the morning session to testify at the Royal Commission investigation inquiry into charges by J. E. Keays.

Sgt. Stringer was the first witness called by Constable Keays in an effort to substantiate charges of perjury, obstruction and maladministration of justice on the part of officers of the provincial police and by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan.

Through cross-examination Keays will attempt to break down Sgt. Stringer's story at the time of the shooting that he had killed John Miki in "an exchange of shots." Keays had alleged that their had been but one shot fired.

Stands by Story

But Sgt. Stringer stood by his original story that there had been an "exchange of shots" and he said he was prepared to swear on his oath as to the truth of his statement.

Asked to recount incidents leading up to, and concerned with, the shooting, Sgt. Stringer stated he had been visiting at Navan during his holiday in June, 1940, when he had learned there had been a shooting at the railway station.

"I went to the station and there found Constable Harold Dent—a very close friend of mine — lying fatally wounded on the floor."

At this point Commissioner Mr. Justice Mackay adjourned the hearing for lunch.

Canadian Team To Play Out Series—Dudley

Toronto, Feb. 16 (CP)— Max Silverman, manager of Sudbury Wolves, Canada's entry in the world hockey tournament at Stockholm, today was quoted in a telephone interview as threatening to withdraw his team from the tournament because of "poor refereeing."

"We won't go on, unless Mr. (George) Dudley, business manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, orders us to," said Silverman in a conversation with the Toronto Star.

(At Midland, Ont., Dudley said "I'll certainly tell Max to keep his team in there and finish the tournament. I can readily understand why they are having trouble with the referees. Their conception of hockey rules is far different from ours ... Max and his boys will have to make the best of it.")

"They robbed us, that's all," Silverman was quoted as saying. "With good Canadian refereeing we'd have won the game from Czechoslovakia hands down."

Canada lost the game last night 3-2 and protested over a disputed goal. The International Ice Hockey directorate, boss of the tournament, ruled today that the result of the game in the round-robin series for the world amateur championship shall stand.

Russian Mission In U.S. Zone Asked to Leave

Frankfurt, Feb. 16. (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay has requested the official Russian repatriation mission in the United States zone of Germany to leave American-occupied territory, it was announced today.

The "request" virtually amounted to an order, it was said. Army authorities said Clay, United States military governor in Germany, had asked the Russians to leave, but they had contended the mission was "indispensable".

Following this, the army announced:

"Because the voluntary repatriation of displaced persons who are Soviet citizens has virtually ceased, the Russian repatriation mission in the U.S. zone will not operate after March 1."

COMMONS SWEEPS ASIDE 2 MOTIONS BY OPPOSITION

Provinces Will Not Be Consulted on Union

Ottawa, Feb. 16 (CP)— The Commons last night swept aside two motions which might have delayed the long-awaited union of Canada and Newfoundland.

By a vote of 137 to 66, the chamber ditched a thrust by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, which would have required the government to consult with the provinces before asking the United Kingdom to amend the British North America Act and give full force to the projected alliance.

By another whacking vote of 191 to 12, it rejected a second move by a private member — Wilfred Lacroix (L-Quebec-Montmorency)— which would have gone a step further and specified that the provinces must "consent" to the union.

The amendments developed in two days of rough-and-tumble debate over the ticklish constitutional question of whether the provinces should be given a say on charges that the Dominion proposes to seek in the B.N.A. Act.

The Progressive Conservatives contended that in this case the provinces should be consulted the Liberals maintained that provincial consultation was not necessary because provincial rights and prerogatives were not involved.

King Adjourns Debate

As the votes were recorded, Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King the former Prime Minister who handled the early union negotiations said he could not allow the issue to end without saying "a few words on this all-important question of the union of Newfoundland and Canada." He adjourned the debate until tomorrow.

In a swift strategical move the Liberals forced the Progressive Conservatives—who for two days had urged provincial consultation— into voting against Mr. Lacroix' amendment specifying that provincial consent must be obtained as well.

When the amendment was called Prime Minister St. Laurent and his supporters indicated their wish for a recorded count. In the ensuing vote, the Progressive Conservatives sided with the Liberal and C.C.F. members in defeating the amendment, which won support from the Social Cre-

U.S. Scientists Working on "Space Ship" to Fly 10,000 Miles an Hour

Washington, Feb. 16 — (AP)— United States government scientists are working on a "space ship" which would flash through the stratosphere at nearly 10,000 miles an hour.

While bare hints of such an "earth satellite vehicle program" have appeared before, the first scant details have just been disclosed in a chart issued by the Curtiss Wright Corporation, longtime builder of military planes and engines.

The chart shows that secret government research is being conducted on both the 10,000-m.p.h. satellite and a 3,000-4,000-m.p.h. rocket plane. Also under the secret classification is a guider ram-jet missile able to speed above 2,000 miles an hour.

Scientists have speculated on shooting a rocket beyond the pull of the earth's gravity, where it could circle like a miniature moon.

All three armed services are working on the research problems.

Some scientists believe that the country which first creates an outer space platform for guiding or launching atomic rockets will dominate the earth.

Such an outpost on the frontier of interplanetary space would have both military and non-military uses.

As a military direction post, it would control long-range rockets, dropping them anywhere on earth. It also could be used in peacetime for navigation, as a "reflector" for radio television and radar waves.

The satellite probably would be automatic and crewless — at least at the beginning. Later, it might be possible to send crews back and forth from the earth to the space ship.

Looking toward the day of rockets which might travel 3,000 miles, the armed forces are asking Congress for a $200,000,000 proving ground. They expect to have missiles with a 500-mile range ready for testing this year.

How these missiles would be controlled was not made public, although various systems have been proposed, beam riding being the favorite idea.

Persecutions in Bulgaria Began Year Ago, Report Tells of Many Arrests

A report which purports to tell circumstances leading to the arrest of 15 Bulgarian pastors on charges of treason was delivered to the Associated Press today.

A traveller from Europe, who delivered it, said it was given to him by associates abroad who stipulated that its source could not be disclosed because of possible relation to "friends" in Bulgaria.

This traveller, a responsible official, said he had no knowledge of his own that the report is correct, but adds: "I am certain that the source is reliable. I think it is as documentary as it can be because anyone who tries to get full documentation across the border is asking for trouble."

New York, Feb. 16 (AP) — A report which said "outright persecution" of Bulgarian Protestants began in January, 1948, on secret orders from communist central headquarters in Sofia was given the Associated Press by a traveller returning from Europe.

The traveller stipulated that neither his name nor his connections nor the source of his report could be disclosed.

The report, which said that between 30 and 40 pastors of the United Evangelical Church were jailed during 1948, was prompted by the Bulgarian communist-dominated goverment's recent announcement of the imprisonment of 15 church leaders.

They were charged with acting as spies for the United States and Britain, treason and violating the foreign currency law.

(Represented in the United Evangelical Church are Congressist, Methodist, Baptist and Pentacostal faiths.)

The report said the campaign against the church got under way in January of last year when the communist central headquarters in Sofia sent a directive for the "local agitators of the fatherland front (the communist party)"

Charged with Undermining

This directive, the report said, accused Evangelical pastors of indulging "in a policy of undermining the foundations of the people's power . . .

"These pastors intend to demobilize the people and to divert them from their only path to salvation, the path of democracy and socialism," the report quoted the directive as saying. It continued:

"If we analyze carefully the sermons of these pastors, we shall see that in spite of their outward innocence and virtue, behind their words wrapped in mysticism and religious secrecy, are hidden anti-national reactionary tendencies."

"Local Agitators" go to Meetings

The directive then ordered "the local agitators" to go to "their meetings in churches, and to ask them the following questions:

Mass Audience of 33 Nations' Diplomats United In Regret Over Treatment of Cardinal

Vatican City, Feb. 16 (AP)— Diplomats of 33 countries today expressed to Pope Pius their condolences on the sentencing of Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary to life imprisonment.

The Pontiff, in an address of gratitude termed the mass audience unique in the history of the Holy See's diplomatic relationships. Speaking in French, he said he awaits the "hour when all nations put forth friendly hands to collaborate for the restoration of humanity at present torn by hatreds and discords."

Of the diplomats accredited to the Vatican who were in Rome today only the Yugoslav charge d'affaires, Petar Benzon, failed to attend. He pleaded illness. Two years ago, Yugoslavia sentenced for 16 years another high Roman Catholic, Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac, on charges of collaborating with the Germans.

Minister Arthur Maixner of Czechoslovakia, the only other Eastern European country maintaining a diplomat at the Vatican, was not in Rome.

The diplomats were in full dress decorations.

The audience was held in Consistorial Hall of the Apostolic Palace where two days ago the Pope poured out his grief over the Mindszenty case at an extraordinary consistory of 16 Cardinals.

Strict Secrecy Marks Opening Of 'Spy Trials'

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

Munich, Feb. 16. (AP)— Strict secrecy surrounded the opening today of the first of five "Czech spy trials" before an eight-man United States Military Commission.

The chairman of the military commission, which is empowered to impose the death penalty, has ruled that revelation of trial testimony or even of the identity of the accused would endanger the security of the United States.

The chairman, Brig.-Gen. John L. McKee, said the court would not make public its verdict. The charge is sale of important secret information to the Communist-dominated Czech government.

The series of trials have been known in Germany as the "Czech spy trials." When the United States army reported the arrest of about 29 alleged agents last Fall they were identified as members of a Czech intelligence ring, although most of them were not of Czech nationality.

McKee said at a press conference yesterday that the secrecy, which is believed to have no precedent in United States military trials, was recommended by army intelligence. A review board might later decide to disclose the names of the accused and the verdicts.

The second case, to begin next Monday, involves three Germans and two Poles, McKee said. The Zirlik woman's case will be the third tried. Eight persons whose nationalities have not been disclosed will be defendants in the fourth trial. All details of the fifth have been kept secret.

Report Russians Increase Forces In Germany

Berlin, Feb. 16 AP) — New reports that the Russians were increasing their occupation forces in Germany came today from a German source.

The British-Licensed German News Service said that German railway crews engaged in running reparations trains to Russia had reported meeting transports of new troops coming to Germany from the east.

The same crews claimed to have seen no transports going east recently, so the conclusion was drawn the new arrivals were additions rather than replacements

The Russians were estimated by Allied sources last year to have some 330,000 troops in Germany.

Trans-Canada Highway Unlikely 'Before 1950'

Calgary, Feb. 16 (CP)—MacDonald Millar, chairman of the Tourist and Roads Committee of the Calgary Board of Trade, said yesterday it was "unlikely that construction of the Trans-Canada highway will be made before 1950."

Mr. Millar was commenting on a statement at Ottawa yesterday by Resources Minister MacKinnon who said he hoped to see work start on the new highway this year.

Mr. Millar said the provincial legislatures would have made their disbursements for 1949 by the time the mechanism of the scheme is worked out. However, he said construction "will definitely be started in 1950."

WIDOW OF SLAIN MAN TESTIFIES AT SECOND TRIAL

Seth Linton is Charged With Husband's Murder

Simcoe, Ont., Feb. 16 — (CP)— Mrs. Edith Stewart, central figure in Norfolk country's first double slaying, today resumed the stand at the second trial of the man accused of murdering her husband and her brother.

She was cross-examined by G. Arthur Martin, defence counsel for Seth Linton, 41year-old well digger, on apparent discrepancies in her testimony at this trial and Linton's first trial last November.

Mrs. Stewart said nervousness accounted for any differences in the two court appearances. At the first trial Linton was sentenced to be hanged Feb. 6 for the murder of Lew Stewart, 44, but the appeal court ordered a new hearing on grounds the jury had been misconducted.

Linton is also charged with the murder of John Kipp here last June 6.

Today Mrs. Stewart admitted she liked an occasional drink but said she drank only two glasses of beer the night before the tragedy.

Mr. Martin said Stewart was known as a violent man when he was drinking. Under questioning, Mrs. Stewart said she could not remember having heard Linton call to a neighbor to get the police in order to remove the three from his property.

She said she wanted to remove her belongings and get her 14-year-old daughter Joanne from Linton's house, where she lived as Linton's housekeeper for several years. Yesterday Joanne told the court of a bloody pre-dawn fight in which her uncle and father were killed.

Only Two or Three Minutes Elapsed

Mrs. Stewart today admitted that only two or three minutes elapsed from the time the first shot was fired until she saw Linton striking her husband on the head with the butt of his rifle. Yesterday, in direct examination, she put the time at 10 minutes.

Leonard Maylin, a nearby neighbor of Linton's, told the court the accused came to his house early June 6 and said he had been in a fight with Kipp. Linton's face was bloody and he asked that police be called if Kipp came back.

Later that morning, Maylin said he saw Kipp outside Linton's window. He heard Kipp say "if it costs $500, I'll get Joanne out of that house." He described the movements of Kipp and Mrs. Stewart outside the house prior to the shooting of Stewart. He said he heard Linton shout to him to get the police.

Bail is Set For Men Charged With Extortion

Cornwall, Feb. 16 — (CP) — Cash bail of $1,000 each or $2,000 dollars property was set today for three Kingston and district men charged with extortion and robbery. The accused are George Smyth, 23, and Russell Parker, both of Kingston; and John Graham, 21, Barriefield.

Charges arose out of an alleged incident at a Montreal hotel last January 5, in which Smyth's estranged wife was said to be involved. Bernard Hart of Dickinson's Landing said the men demanded $2,000 from him to keep his name out of divorce proceedings between Smyth and his wife.

Hungarian Boy, Born in Bomb Shelter, Flies to U.S. to Start Life Anew

Niagara Falls, Feb. 16. (CP) —A little Hungarian boy—born in a Budapest bomb shelter and orphaned by the war—is starting a new life with a new name, "Petey".

Georges Jules Roman, 4 1-2 years old, ended a lonely flight of more than 3,500 miles from his homeland last night at Buffalo airport.

Waiting to accept him as their own were the family of John Kulperger, Niagara Falls hydro welder, and other relatives.

"Oh, Petey, we waited so long!" cried Mrs. Kulperger and Mrs. Stephen Serkozy of Niagara Falls, both sisters of the boy's mother.

Also at the airport were three young cousins for "Petey" to play with here; his grandfather, Andrew Previdsa of Brantford, Ont., and two uncles.

Mrs. Kulperger said the Hungarian government refused to give Mrs. Alex Kiss of Budapest, the boy's great-aunt, a passport to accompany him.

Mrs. Louise Martin of Brooklyn, a cousin of the boy, met him in New York last night and put him on another plane for Buffalo.

Five Men Arrested After Wild Chases Through Toronto

Police Cruiser Twice Forced Into Ditch During Pursuit

Toronto, Feb. 16 (CP)— Five men were arrested at gunpoint early today following two furious chases through downtown Toronto streets and nearby Scarboro township. All were charged with automobile theft.

Edward Gallagher, 20, Allen Guilbert, 20, and Joseph Grabe, 18, all of Toronto were arrested after a 10-mile, 80-mile-an-hour chase during which four warning shots were fired and a police cruiser was twice forced into a ditch. The trio jumped from the car, reported stolen last week from Frank Hewitt of Toronto, but surrender a half-mile away. Gallagher was also charged with dangerous driving.

An hour later, police arrested Louis Quesnelle, 25, and Norman Lenz, 28, for theft of a car from London, Ont. The arrest climaxed a wild 60-mile-an-hour chase through downtown Toronto which ended when police forced their car to the side of a bridge.

Russia, Ukraine, Byelo-Russia Leave W.H.O.

Geneva, Feb. 16 — (Reuters)— Russia, the Ukraine and Byelo-Russia have resigned from the World Health Organization, one of the 11 specialized agencies set up by the United Nations.

Dr. Brock Chisholm, director of of the organization, in making the announcement today said the three Soviet countries were not satisfied with the work done by the W.H.O.

Dr. Chisholm of Oakville, is former Canadian Deputy Minister of Health.

Dr. Chisholm said that the three governments announced their resignations in similarly worded telegrams.

They complained that "the tasks connected with international measures for the prevention and control of diseases and with the spread of medical science achievements are not being accomplished satisfactorily by the organization."

The withdrawal leaves 54 members in the organization formed in 1945. W.H.O. acts as a co-ordinating authority in international health work towards its objective of "the attainment by all peoples of the highest possible level of health". Among its many activities, W.H.O. has carried out anti-malarial campaigns in Greece and Italy and educational programs in China India and Ethiopia.

A cable from the Soviet Deputy Minister of Public Health, Sergei Vinagradov, to W.H.O. said the health ministry of the Soviet Union was "not satisfied with the work of the World Health Organization".

Vinogradov said "the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics no longer considers itself a member of this organization."

W.H.O. was the only specialized agency of the United Nations to which Russia belonged. The Soviet also has boycotted since its inception in 1947 the "Little Assembly"—the interim committee of the U.N. General Assembly.

Dr. Frank Calderon, director of W.H.O.'s New York office, said the withdrawals came as a complete surprise to his staff.

The Russians had been "completely helpful" in W.H.O. work and had given no hint that they might leave the organization.

ATLANTIC PACT NEGOTIATIONS AT CRITICAL STAGE

U. S. Undecided What Committment to Make to Other Signers in Case of War

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)— Negotiations for a North Atlantic security treaty reached a critical stage today. The big question: What kind of commitment should the United States make to aid western European countries in case they are attacked?

Opposition appeared to be growing steadily stronger in the senate against approving any kind of pledge which would automatically involve American armed assistance to another member of the alliance.

Chairman Tom Connally (Dem. Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee proposed Tuesday night that the United States, in joining the proposed alliance with Canada and western Europe, should keep its full right to determine what it would do if and when an emergency arose.

His proposal would leave out any reference to use of military measures or other actions which could in effect be interpreted, if they were included, as an open warning that the United States would go to war under the alliance.

State Secretary Acheson said in a Jan. 26 statement that "we can best contribute to the maintenance of peace by joining with other nations in making it absolutely clear in advance that any armed attack affecting our national security would be met with overwhelming force."

Draft Still Secret

While the North Atlantic treaty draft is still secret, it is known that it has contained to date a similar statement of the principle that an attack on any one member of the alliance would be considered an attack on all of them.

What has diplomatic officials worried is the possible reaction of the Russians and the western Europeans to the debate now going on here while the draft is still tentative and secret.

The fear is that the impression may be created abroad that the United States is backing away from the kind of warning which Acheson advocated as the best means of discouraging an aggression.

Those officials who share this fear privately express anxiety that western European people may be discouraged in their search for security with American help. They think the Russians may be emboldened to feel that they can undertake some new adventure in Europe, by using a threat of force, without laying themselves open to fast and decisive American counter-measures.

Hockey Assoc. Says Score Stands

Stockholm, Feb. 16 — (CP) — The International Ice Hockey Directorate today ruled that the result of the game between Czechoslovakia and Canada last night, which Czechoslovakia won 3-2 on a disputed goal, shall stand.

Canada had lodged a protest against the decision of referee G. H. Ahlin of Sweden to allow the second Czech goal, on the grounds that it was scored with a stick in the air.

Augustin Bubink tallied the disputed counter on a pass from Zabrodsky. Bubink's stick was high above his head, observers said.

Later Zabrodsky admitted he didn't think it was a valid goal.

The Canadian team was two men short at the time.

Total Fire Loss In Past Year Was $207,791

Total fire losses in the city during 1948 were $207,791, instead of the $377,841 as reported in yesterday's edition of The Ontario Intelligencer. The error in the total was made as result of an incorrect interpretation when the annual report of Fire Chief Gerald Vance was read in council.

As was stated in the previous story the fire loss to buildings was $170,050, but the loss to contents was but $37,741 instead of the $207,791 as reported yesterday.

Also in his report the fire chief expressed his appreciation to the members of the Belleville Police Department for the assistance and co-operation received during fires.

In a brief address of appreciation, Dr. Amoss expressed his thanks for the gift "and your kindness in giving us this perpetual memory of the school. We will cherish your memory and that of the picturesque location here at Belleville."

Mrs. Amoss also spoke briefly in appreciation.

The guests of honor were formally welcomed by Mr. Harold Vaughan. Refreshments were served by Miss Eileen Leverance and her committee.

Millbrook Office Robbed of Cash

Millbrook, Ont., Feb. 16. (CP) —Millbrook post-office was robbed for the third time in six years early today by safecrackers who looted the vault in the building of a large sum in cash, stamps and money orders. The exact amount stolen has not yet been determined.

Police are considering the possibility that the safecrackers may be the gang which failed in an attempt to cut open vaults in an Orono bank.

Railway tools stolen from a Canadian National Railways shed here were used to smash the big safe.

It is believed the thieves stole the post-office rubber stamp used to certify money orders and police have spread a warning throughout the province against cashing any money orders stamped by the Millbrook stamp.

Confidence Game Costs $14,500

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 16 (CP)—A confidence game that touched a retired farmer from Ewart, Man. for $14,500 in life savings was disclosed yesterday to police.

Joseph Lentsch, 64, said the whole thing included a trip to Toronto and started when he met a stranger while getting off the boat here Jan. 24.

The stranger produced a second friend after touring the city with him several days, Lentsch said. The second man said he was an employee of a racing association and he could make big money for both.

Lentsch said he and his friend made "fabulous" paper sums but that a phone call said trouble had developed and he put up $14,500 to cover the winnings. That was lost in betting, he was informed. His friend said he had eastern securities and that the three should meet in Toronto.

A telegram saying "Everything is okay. Go home and wait till you hear further," awaited him there, he said.

He came back to Victoria and hasn't heard a word since.

Acquitted of Charge

Guelph, Feb. 16 — (CP)—Frederick W. Huck, 22, of Guelph was acquitted of a rape charge Tuesday night. The trial before Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly, occupied a full day's sitting of the court.

As the verdict was announced, the complainant, an 18-year-old girl, pitched forward from her seat onto the floor of the courtroom.

Huck before being released was subjected to a scathing denunciation for his "reprehensible conduct," by the judge. Judge Kelly advised the jury that while he couldn't say he disagreed with the finding, he thought they might easily have arrived at another verdict.

FALLS INTO TUB OF HOT WATER

Masaryk Estate Totals $37,804

London, Feb. 16. (AP)—Jan Masaryk, who plunged to his death from a window of his Prague residence last March 10, left an estate in England of £9,451 ($37,804).

Masaryk's death, officially reported as suicide, occurred soon after the Communists took over the Czechoslovakian government. He was taken Minister of Foreign Affairs.

One clause in his will, dated Sept. 19, 1940, and probated today, directed that $5,000 be paid to Dr. Jan Papanek "to be used by him to carry on the political work for which this money was intended."

Dr. Papanek, a Czech member of two United Nations Commissions, repudiated the Communist government. The United Nations voted to continue him on the commissions anyway, despite strong protests from the Communist bloc.

Masaryk's will described the fund' as "the balance of an amount placed in my care and discretion by an anonymous person for political purposes."

Premier Sun Fo Offers to Resign

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

Canton Feb. 16 (AP)— The breach between acting president Li Tsung-Jen and Premier Sun Fo widened today with a denial by Sun that he had offered to resign.

The premier rejected anew demands that he and his cabinet resign or return to Nanking.

Emerging from his third Canton cabinet meeting, Sun made his denial that he had offered his resignation. He had been reported by Nanking sources to have asked permission to take a rest.

Sun was reported attempting to enlist support of South China members of the legislature Yuan in bringing the legislature here for its next meeting. Li and North China government officials want the Yuan to meet in Nanking, the capital, which was abandoned late last month by the cabinet and most of the government ministries.

The Kuomintang right-wing leader, Chen Li-Fu has been conferring with members of the Sun cabinet.

Chen arrived in Canton yesterday. He was reported on a mission to try to weld together more solidly the right-wing elements of the government in opposition to the Li faction.

Political observers believe Chen will try to persuade Sun to retain the premiership as long as possible. Control of the cabinet has been a trump card for the political group dominated by retired president Chiang Kai-Shek, foreign minister Wu Te-Chen and other members of the government who strongly oppose the Communists.

FOXBORO FARM FORUM

Foxboro—The Foxboro Farm Forum met on Monday evening at the home of Mr. Herb Watt. The topic for discussion was "Food Takes a Ride". Mr. Murney Reynolds was discussion leader.

The group felt that farmers could improve their storage facilities by forming a co-operative cold storage in their areas and so take advantage of government subsidies on this project. Also they should see that more care is taken in handling of their products during transit.

If Canada had a greater population there would be a larger volume of freight and this would lower rates. At present the railroads could serve 30 million people and there are only about twelve million supporting it.

The group listened to the Forum prgram over CJBQ. Mrs. V. Harry led the recreation. Miss Watt assisted by Mrs. V. Harry served delicious refreshments.

The next Forum meeting will be at Mr. E. Prindle's home on Feb. 21st.

SGT. J.A. STRINGER

Wanted Documents Produced

As the morning session opened Crown Attorney Donnan in his cross-examination of Constable Keays sought to have all documents relating to him be now produced as exhibits.

In reply Keays said he did not know what Mr. Donnan's evidence would be and asked the right to produce later documents relative to the evidence.

Mr. Donnan challenged Keays' testimony that while a member of the R.C.M.P. he was in charge of the narcotics squad in Montreal.

He produced a telegram from Commissioner Woods of the R.C.M.P., which indicated that during November 1923, he had been detailed on special duty with the Customs and Preventive Service Patrol in Gaspe peninsula.

Also the telegram stated Keays had never been a member of the drug squad but had assisted when a number of men had been required.

"That is incorrect", replied Keays. "The Commissioner would not be in a position to know the details of my duties".

Mistaken Identity

Mr. Donnan referred to a department car that had been damaged while in possession of Keays and indicated a Col. Phillips could be called to substantiate this fact.

"I deny that and defy you to call Col. Phillips to substantiate that," said Keays.

After consultation with Malcolm Robb, Mr. Donnan apologized and stated Keays had been mistaken for another officer.

At this the people in the courtroom broke into laughter which drew admonition from Mr. Justice Mackay.

"I must protest against any demonstrations of levity on the part of persons in the court," said the Commissioner, "and must insist that persons leave the court if proper decorum cannot be maintained. I do not want the witness disturbed by these demonstrations."

Was Instructed

Dealing with the LeRoy Woods' accident Mr. Donnan suggested that Constable G. R. Purdy had been unduly influenced by the witness in laying charges of drunk driving and dangerous driving and that Purdy later wished to withdraw the charges.

"Not only wished to, but was instructed to do so," said Keays.

Mr. Donnan suggested that Cpl. Ervine and Constable Purdy had visited the scene of the accident and had failed to find certain parts of the Woods' car later produced by Keays at the trial. He reminded the witness that it was the right of the crown attorney to decide which officer was to be believed.

He said he did not know of the absence of the exhibits at the time the charges against Woods were instituted.

Denies Making Statement

Referring to the death of Miss Jean Badgley at Frankford, Mr. Donnan suggested that Keays on his arrival at the Badgley home had termed the shooting as murder and that "he would take charge."

Keays denied making the statement but admitted he had asked the coroner to have the body taken to Belleville for an autopsy.

Keays also denied that following the autopsy he had told the Crown Attorney the shooting was definitely murder and requested that the girl's boy friend be charged with murder.

"Did you say the girl's hyoid bone had been broken by strangulation and that Miss Badgley had been shot after her death?"

"Yes," was the reply, "from information received from the autopsy."

Stocking Not Stained

Keays denied that after finding a finger print on the gun he had come to the conclusion that it belonged to the girl's boy friend, or that the fact the print did resemble that of Hagerman suggested murder.

Because blood marks had been discovered on the girl's legs and not on her stockings Mr. Donnan said Keays had theorized the stockings must have been put on following the girl's death.

"What you did not know was that this had a simple explanation in the fact that nylon stockings would not take a blood stain", suggested Mr. Donnan.

This fact had been substantiated by Miss Verda Vincent, expert in the Attorney General's Department.

Had Changed Report

Keays denied Miss Vincent had made the above reference to nylon when she testified at the inquest.

Mr. Donnan pointed out that Dr. Waite, Peterborough pathologist, who had performed the autopsy later had changed his report indicating the "thyroid cartilege" had been broken, not the "hyoid" bone and that possibly death was due to the gunshot wound.

Referring to the Carefoot investigation Mr. Donnan suggested that, when several cheques payable to Donnan and Butler had been found at the Carefoot residence Keays had remarked: "We have got him now."

Keays emphatically denied making the alleged statement.

Mr. Donnan said that as solicitor for Mr. Carefoot the total amount received had been $300.00 worth of Aqua Vitae shares.

"Selected "Analysis Reports

Mr. Donnan also accused Keays of introducing "selected" analysis reports regarding the mineral value of Aqua Vitae. He charged only adverse reports had been introduced when there were several other favorable reports seized at the Carefoot home.

Keays replied he had introduced the report of the Dominion analyst which he considered would be most reliable.

Mr. Donnan here concluded cross-examination of Keays and Commission Counsel C. P. Hope indicated he had no questions to ask the witness. Mr. Hope said that Keays' witnesses should be called at this time.

Keays indicated he had no reply to make to cross-examination by Mr. Robb, but asked if it was intended by Mr. Robb to identify certain cards from the Ford Hotel in Toronto and suggested as bearing Keay's signature.

Mr. Robb replied there would be no attempt at identification as it had been established the cards in question had been signed by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Keays of St. Catharines and not by the witness.

It had been the original purpose of counsel to seek to prove Keays had been at the hotel on the dates in question.

Here Mr. Hope rose to his feet to point out that there were no "defence counsel" in the court. Commissioner Mackay indicated that as the Royal Commission investigation was not a trial, counsel should be referred to as being "counsel appearing for certain parties".

Claimed Entry an Omission

..Following the morning adjournment Keays took up considerable time calling for documents to be produced which he claimed were relevant in attempts by counsel to attack his credibility as a witness.

Referring to allegations by counsel that Keays had made false entries in his diary, Keays admitted a false entry in April 1948, but claimed this was an omission.

"This was but an omission on my part and I submit if the proper entry had been made it would have been all to my credit," stated Keays.

He admitted that, "in good police work the proper entry should have been made."

Press Did Not Get Information

Referring to charges that he had gone to the press in order to have his allegations against police officers published thereby breaking his secrecy oath, Keays said no information had reached the press until the story was broken by the Attorney General.

He made it plain that he had not been the only officer of the force who was called upon to sign the secrecy oath during the summer of 1948 but claimed all members of the department had done so.

"Practically every officer of the Provincial Police has at one time or other broken his oath of secrecy," pointed out witness. He indicated the secrecy oath was broken every time an officer gave details of traffic accidents to the press.

Will Call Keays' Witnesses

Mr. Hope pointed out that it was the intention of Commission Counsel to make all of Keays' witnesses, also witnesses for the commission so as to give Keays opportunity of cross-examination.

"I do not wish to tie Keays' hands in any way," said Mr. Hope.

Sgt. J. A. Stringer was the first witness called by Keays and stated he was a provincial police officer with 22 years experience.

Asked if he had made a written statement to police regarding the Dent incident at Navan, the officer could not recall giving a signed statement but admitted making an unsigned report.

Admissions of inaccuracies in his direct evidence given last week, were made by Constable J. E. Keays under cross-examination at the Royal Commission hearing on Tuesday afternoon.

For the full day Keays withstood a constant battery of questions from defence counsel Malcolm Robb, appearing for several police officers, and from Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, who is conducting his own defence.

During the day Keays admitted that he had deliberately made false entries in his diary; that he had testified incorrectly at the Carefoot narcotic trial; and that he could not recall any instance where Mr. Donnan had withdrawn a drunk driving charge. He also admitted making out a five-page report against a fellow officer with respect to a $1 grease job on a department car.

The Royal Commission investigation before Mr. Justice Mackay, was ordered by the Attorney General's Department to inquire into charges by Keays of obstruction on the part of Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, and of perjury, falsification of records, and maladministration of justice on the part of fellow police officers.

Named in the allegations were Police Commissioner W. H. Stringer; Inspector T. W. Cousans of Perth and Inspector W. A. Page of Belleville; Sgt. J. A. Stringer of Ottawa; Cpl. Sam Ervine, and Constables G. R. Purdy and J. B. Driscoll, all of Belleville.

Public interest in the Royal Commission hearing continued at a high pitch Tuesday, as the court room was again crowded to its fullest capacity and an overflow audience peered through corridor doors.

Still on the witness stand under cross-examination by Malcolm Robb, Constable Keays was questioned with events relative to the Carefoot case.

Reference was made by Mr. Robb to a certain letter which during the Summer had gone to Farquhar Oliver, provincial Liberal leader, with respect to alleged police irregularities.

Keays denied any knowledge of the letter except that it had been sent. Asked if he knew who had written the letter Keays replied he did but declined when asked to name the party.

"Had you any consultation with the party who wrote the letter?" asked Mr. Robb.

"No", was the reply.

To a question by Mr. Robb as to who had told him the letter had been forwarded Keays replied he believed it was Constable Siple.

Keays denied he had said that Assistant Crown Attorney Gordon Robertson had keep evidence of similar acts from the Carefoot trial.

"I put all the ramifications of the Carefoot matter, including the Aqua Vitae before Mr. Davis, actiong crown attorney and he presented the case as he saw fit," was the reply.

Cross-examined by Crown Attorney

Mr. Robb here concluded his cross-examination of Constable Keays and Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, acting as his own counsel, commenced cross-examination of the witness.

At the outset of his cross-examination Mr. Donnan obtained an admission from Keays that he (Mr. Donnan) had commended Keays for his work during an investigation assisting Belleville city police.

Keays would not agree, however that he (Keays) had ever commended Mr. Donnan for his work as crown attorney.

Mr. Donnan referred to the speeding charge against E. B. Jolliffe, C. C. F. leader and stated that as crown attorney he assumed responsibility in the matter.

"You have personal knowledge of the matter, of course," said Mr. Donnan.

"I have personal knowledge of the conversation in the police station," replied Keays.

Plain Accident

Mr. Donnan referred to a plane accident on a Thurlow Township farm where a man named Stewart had been killed while spraying peas.

"You know of course that the whole matter was referred to the Department of Transport?" asked Mr. Donnan.

"I know nothing of that," was the reply.

"You knew it at the inquest," replied Mr. Donnan, as he showed the witness a letter from the department.

"And you called it obstruction when I decided to leave the matter to the Department of Transport," commented Mr. Donnan.

Reference was made to the Fred Martin case, who stood trial on an arson charge when according to Keays there was sufficient evidence to charge the accused with attempted murder. Keays had charged Mr. Donnan with obstruction, claiming Martin was his personal friend.

"What you did not know of course", suggested Mr. Donnan, "was that I did not know Martin and that I had never seen his wife".

Keays had pointed out in his complaint that Martin had given a statement to police admitting that he attempted to destroy his daughter, mother-in-law and the hired man.

"That was included in your report?" asked Mr. Donnan.

"It certainly was," was the reply. Mr. Donnan here produced the Martin statement and Keays read the part where Martin had admitted his attempt to burn the hired man.

Entered as Exhibit

On the request of Keays the statement was placed as an exhibit.

Mr. Donnan said that Dr. Billings, psychiatrist, had advised that Martin be placed under observation.

"Not the letter I saw," Keays said.

In his direct evidence Keays had said Mr. Donnan had not conducted the preliminary hearing in the case of Rex vs Ralph Turner.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Robb, Keays revised his statement and said that either Mr. Donnan or Mr. Robertson, assistant crown attorney, had conducted the preliminary but neither had charge of both the preliminary and the jury trial.

Mr. Donnan produced several informations respecting the case showing he had conducted the hearings. Keays claimed however that his diary indicated Mr. Robertson had acted.

To Produce Transcript

"We can, and will, produce a transcript of the evidence," said Mr. Donnan. "That would be rather damaging to your diary, would it not?"

"It might be," was the reply.

By special permission of the court Mr. Donnan conducted his cross-examination from a sitting position. This privilege was granted in consideration of war wounds suffered by Mr. Donnan.

On question by Commissioner Mr. Justice Mackay as to the importance of whether Mr. Robertson conducted the Turner hearing, Mr. Donnan replied it was solely with regard to the credibility of the witness.

Continuing Mr. Donnan pointed out that there were 12 indictments during the court session at which the Turner cases were heard and remarked "It was quite an ambitious program for a drunken crown attorney".

"Not for Mr. Donnan who conducts his court in ten minute relays and then goes out for a rest," returned Keays.

Reference to Blood Sample

The case of one John Pritchard, stated by Keays to have been convicted on a driving charge, was mentioned. Keays said a charge of dangerous driving had been dismissed because a blood sample of the accused had not been produced in court. He said Cpl. Sam Ervine had destroyed the blood sample.

"You say the drunk charge was dismissed?" asked Commissioner Mr. Justice Mackay. "The evidence of the officer who saw the accused was drunk was given and the charge was still dismissed. How does that reflect on the Crown Attorney?"

Keays charged obstruction on the part of Mr. Donnan who he claimed had instructed the blood sample be destroyed.

Referring to the LeRoy Woods case Mr. Donnan pointed out he had always refused to interfere in a drunk driving charge and challenged Keays to cite one instance of interference in drunk driving. He pointed out the charge against Woods of drunk driving had been dismissed by the court.

Keays could not recall where Mr. Donnan had withdrawn a drunk driving charge.

Still referring to the Woods' case Mr. Donnan stated it had been agreed by defence counsel that evidence in the dangerous driving charge should be accepted in the drunk driving charge. Also he pointed out that it was the right of the Crown to decide when there was sufficient evidence.

"You have no quarrel then with the Crown that you were not recalled from Niagara Falls to testify at the Woods' trial, so why don't you admit you were merely peeved at not getting the opportunity to retaliate against Cpl. Ervine?

The witness protested to the Commissioner that the inference on the part of Mr. Donnan was unfair.

HERE'S MINERAL WHICH PRODUCES URANIUM

This pitchblende ore from the 212E foot depth of the International Uranium mine was assayed by the Ontario government at 13.5 per cent uranium. When completely broken down this 21 pound sample of pitchblende will give approximately 3 pounds of uranium U308. Mary Malcolm, pictured with the pitchblende sample above, had to turn down the count of the Geiger on this one. Responding to the presence of radio-activity, the Geiger click became almost a roar. Pitchblende is the material from which uranium is derived.—Central Press Canadian.

Red Cross Appeal for Blood Donors

A large part of Ontario is now included in the establishment of the first blood donor clinics and depots of the Canadian Red Cross Free Blood Transfusion Service. The area which is being opened up runs north from Lake Ontario and Belleville on the east to North Bay and from Oakville to Tiverton on Lake Huron on the west. Additional clinics and sub-depots will be opened as soon as possible in other parts of the Province. Mobile units will go into the various districts to collect the donations of blood and additional clinics and sub-depots are to be set up. The number of provinces participating in the free national blood transfusion service of the Canadian Red Cross for all Canadians requiring it has risen to seven.

So has been launched one of the greatest of services, which will be the means of saving many lives. In these latter days everyone has heard of and knows a great deal about blood transfusions and their benefit. In this local part of Ontario, under the Belleville Branch, Hastings and Prince Edward Counties, the appeal has been made for one thousand persons to volunteer as blood donors between the ages of 18 and 65.

The appeal of the free blood transfusion service as one of the most important contributions the Canadian Red Cross has undertaken is apparent to all. It is one worthy of every person's support and is a worthy undertaking of a great organization which has served nobly and faithfully in wartime and in days of peace. That there will be a hearty response by volunteer donors is expected. During the war the people of this district made a noble contribution in blood donations to the cause of Canada and the United Nations.

The Red Cross is associated with many great humanitarian efforts and the free Blood Transfusion Service so soon to cover the Dominion will rank among the greatest of those rendered by this body. Thus this society has added and will continue to add to its record of achievements and services for the sake of mankind.

Snow Sun

There are many persons who are observant of the weather, among them those who live on the farm, who are brought face to face with the changes of nature every day throughout the year and who during certain seasons look with concern on the outlook for weather that will aid the work of the agriculturist.

A writer in the New York Times has recently had an article on Snow Sun which will be interesting to many.

"The average countryman does not pretend to be a scientific meteorologist, although there are occasions when his prognostications do not suffer in comparison with those he reads in the paper or hears over the wireless. A man knows that when his hens stand around arguing instead of scratching in the oat straw a change of weather is due within thirty-six hours. If a lone crow perches for an afternoon on a meadow elm a thaw is on the way.

"There may be exceptions to these rules; hens and crows are individualists and are entitled to the same general idiosyncrasies and unpredictable reactions as homo sapiens claims for his rights. But there is never any question about the weather when a snow sun takes an arc across the winter sky. The day may begin with brilliant light; pastures, hills and walls are peculiarly distinct. By midforenoon clouds unravel across the sky; silence grips the landscape. The waiting period begins.

"The snow sun hangs on the clouds like a tarnished pewter platter. One can look at it steadily and long. The edge of the sun is starkly limned: around the immediate circumference is a band of glowing silver. Beyond this bright circle is a fuzzy halo of grayish-yellow, diminuendoing into the gray banks of thickening nimbus clouds. There is one interesting point about a snow sun that is rarely mentioned. If observation be correct, the width of the halo is an indication of the length of the oncoming storm. When one sees a snow sun with a wide crown he will be wise to prepare for a long storm. Usually a snow sun means snow; occasionally the Weatherman cantankerously drops rain. But the unpredictability of the weather is one reason why so many people are interested in it."

JUST FOLKS

MAN AT HIS WORST

In the ballroom he is gracious; at the table he's polite,
Wouldn't grab the salt and pepper from the lady at his right,
He wouldn't jostle women when in front of him they are,
But he's altogether different when he's driving in his car.

At a ticket-window line-up he will always patient be.
To the stranger who approaches none more courteous is than he.
And the pleasure of a party with loud speech he'd never mar,
But he's quite a different person when he's driving in his car.

It's a curious change that follows when he sits behind the wheel.
His voice becomes as raucous as the brake bands when they squeal.
And he screams a bit of language never taught in English class
At the driver, man or woman, who attempts his car to pass.

He risks his life, and others, by the way he cuts and swerves.
The friends he takes out riding end the trip with jangled nerves.
He's a very pleasant fellow when at home or when afar,
But he loses all his manners when he starts to drive his car.
